NEW RAIL PAY CRISIS OVER U. S. AWARD

RESOLUTE FAR AHEAD AS RACE IS CALLED OFF

Wind Fails; Lipton Crew Criticized.

SUMMARY OF UNFINISHED RACE.

	Start.	First mark.	Second mark.
Resolute	1:46:28	4:33:32	7:01:20
Shamrock IV.	1:46:37	5:09:15	7:35:51

ELAPSED TIME.

	First leg.	Second leg.
Resolute	2:47:14	2:27:47
Shamrock IV.	3:25:28	2:25:46

Wind southeast, sea smooth; wind no time more than five miles velocity, with frequent soft spots. Triangular course, 30 nautical miles. Compass bearing of legs: Southeast, west by south, northeast by east.

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Leading Shamrock IV. by four miles. Resolute was unable because of lack of wind to finish in the second race of the series for the America's cup today, the contest being ended with expiration of time limit of six hours allowed.

The challenger now has one win to its credit as a sop for what might have happened to it had the Herreshoff sloop been favored with a livelier breeze as the clock ticked off toward the setting sun.

Contrary, indeed, was the showing made by Shamrock, and a rumor persisted that Sir Thomas Lipton and his intimate friends are not wholly satisfied with the manner in which the challenger was handled. Also, a mild rebellion has broken out in the green boat's white jacketed crew, if report is to be credited. The sailors would like to have a change in skippers, a panacea for the species of sleeping sickness that seemingly has keelhauled their pet.

Shamrock Crew Ask for New Skipper.

Important yacht matches always provoke criticism of one sort or another, and the series now in progress is no exception. Although W. P. Burton, amateur, is nominally in charge of Shamrock IV., members of the crew grumble and ask that Capt. Diaper of 23-meter Shamrock, brought here as trial horse, be given charge as better able to bring out the sloop's speed. Be it remembered, however, that the crew is composed of professionals, and Capt. Diaper, as well, is reckoned as professional.

Things happened today that caused yachtsmen to ask if the challenger was being handled as well as Resolute, and the consensus was in favor of the defender. Not once did Capt. Charles Francis Adams make a move that did not improve his chances of victory. On the contrary, the challenger groped and fumbled, experimented with sails, hunted for wind and got into irons. Resolute went about its business with sails asleep, while Shamrock IV. das just the contrary. Its jib topsail shook most of the time, its mainsail luff writhed and the staysail billowed.

Outjockeyed From the Start.

At the start of the race Shamrock IV. was outjockeyed, Capt. Adams playing with his rival at will. Resolute had the better position and worked out an increasing lead handsomely. Half way to the windward mark the defender was a mile in the lead and so far to weather that its rival's admirers became crestfallen. Capt. Burton then began to shift jib topsails. With each shift the challenger lost valuable time for no other reason than the snail-like movement of the crew. Each shift spelled minutes for the defender that kept about its business, eating its way close to the wind's eye. When the defender had occasion to shift jib topsails in previous races the sail melted and was smothered and sent below expeditiously. The sail to replace it was hoisted and broken out with no perceptible delay. Unfortunately for the challenger its crew may have stopped to light a pipe or shift a quid in the midst of sail shifting; certainly it looked like that on three or four occasions today.

Experimented With Tack Splitting.

Capt. Burton experimented with tack splitting when it might have been better for him to have held on—further evidence, if you will, that unfamiliarity with the sloop prodded him into accepting desperate chances. The breeze at no time attained velocity of more than five miles an hour, a circumstance contributing to Shamrock IV.'s sluggish behavior. The sloop is known to be at its best in stiff winds and

MAYOR DECREES QUAKES 'SLIGHT' IN LOS ANGELES

Warns Visitors Not to Exaggerate.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 17.—Warning to visitors here not to send to "the folks back in your native haunts ridiculously exaggerated accounts of earthquakes here" was contained in a statement issued today by Mayor M. P. Snyder.

"Don't let your imagination make you the object of ridicule," the statement says. "Don't wire or write to the folks back in your native haunts ridiculously exaggerated accounts of earthquakes here. When you send out such stuff, you are certain to hurt your own reputation for veracity and you work a serious harm to the welfare of this city which so hospitably receives you.

Remember Calm Observers.

"Remember that thousands of calm observers here have carefully studied the facts connected with the settling of the earth's crust and the slight shocks felt here. These observers know that the damage done by earthquakes here is very slight, indeed, compared to the high winds that sometimes strike your home towns.

"Some people who think there is no harm in inventing a big quake story to send out for other communities forget that they are working a harm to Los Angeles and injuring the business interests of thousands of persons here whose welfare affects all other business interests everywhere.

"Remember that while truth is not always exciting, it best stands the test of time and is of priceless value nowadays."

Some Marks of Quake.

The physical marks left by the four earthquake shocks of yesterday, while many, were relatively slight. Some chimneys were shaken down; much plaster was jarred loose; dishes and ornaments were broken; a few earth slides occurred, one where it interfered with traffic, and there were other annoyances, such as shortened chimneys and twisted water mains, that interfered with the preparation of meals in some parts of the city.

No list of those injured by the quake itself is available, but many persons suffered injuries from falling objects jarred down on the heads of pedestrians.

DENIES QUAKE WAS SERIOUS.

The Tribune last night received the following message:

"Los Angeles, Cal., July 17.—Telegrams quoting the eastern press show their reports of the earthquake grossly exaggerated. No property was damaged, nor were any people injured. There were merely slight tremors.

"Maynard McFie,

"President Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce."

FRENCH PROTEST SECOND BERLIN INSULT TO FLAG

BERLIN, July 17.—[Special.]—France made official protest today to the foreign office against the manner in which the company of German reichswehr acted yesterday when it appeared before the French embassy to salute the French flag in reparation for the removal of the flag by a German students on Bastille day.

"Serious incorrectness" of the salute is the reason assigned by the French for their protest.

The German troops appeared in dirty uniforms, instead of full dress, wore fatigue caps, and after the salute goosestepped away singing "Deutschland, Deutschland Ueber Alles." Crowds of civilians joined in the song and later jeered at French officers on the streets.

SINN FEINERS HURL TROOPS' FOOD IN RIVER

LONDONDERRY, July 17.—[Special.]—The Sinn Fein has ordered a food blockade against the city in the hope of starving out the British troops. A food train was stopped at Crolly and twenty armed men threw the supplies into the river.

At Donaghmore 100 armed men stopped the Londonderry-Belfast mail train, searched the mail sacks, and took away all official letters.

There are rumors that the Sinn Fein is to collect taxes on the manufacture of "poteen," a moonshine product, using the funds so collected to help the cause.

LAKE FORESTERS ROBBED OF AUTO, FORCED TO WALK

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Coombs of Lake Forest, and two guests, all summer residents of the Parkway hotel, entering Lincoln park in their motor early yesterday morning, were accosted by holdup men. The robbers seized the car, made Mr. Coombs drive them west, and there ejected and robbed them. They took $500 in money and jewels, and the automobile.

Because there were no cross town cars running and no taxis in sight, Mr. and Mrs. Coombs and their guests had to walk back to the Parkway hotel. The car was recovered.

WIFE, 7 CHILDREN, BURN TO DEATH; HUSBAND IS HELD

Bonners Ferry, Idaho, July 17.—Mrs. John Roesch and seven children were burned to death early today when their home at Copeland, twenty miles north of here, was destroyed by fire.

Her husband is being held pending investigation.

According to Roesch's story to the sheriff he was awakened by flames and ran from the house with a pail to get water. He said he had to go some distance to obtain water and when he returned the house was ablaze. He said he was burned in trying to enter the house.

Roesch telephoned to Copeland an hour after the fire, according to the sheriff.

Bergdoll Arrest Rumor Is Proved to Be Untrue

Philadelphia, Pa., July 17.—A report was telephoned to Philadelphia from Atlantic City tonight saying that department of justice officials there had captured Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, notorious draft evader. The message, which came from the man claiming to be the captor, said Erwin Bergdoll, brother of Grover, escaped. Inquiry at Atlantic City proved the report untrue.

Sponge Squad Absorbs 800 Gallons of Booze, 12 Bars

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 17.—The "flying squadron" of twenty-five federal prohibition agents raided twelve saloons here late today and confiscated 800 gallons of whisky. It was the first extensive raid conducted here since the prohibition law went into effect. The "flying squadron" arrived here yesterday, headed by National Prohibition Commissioner Kramer.

SUES TO COMPEL PROCLAMATION OF PEACE BY U. S.

Mecartney Asks Vote if Plea Is Denied.

Suit to compel Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby to promulgate immediately the joint resolution of congress declaring the state of war with Germany at an end was filed in the District Supreme court in Washington, D. C., yesterday, by Harry S. Mecartney, a Chicago lawyer with offices at 137 South La Salle street. The suit was based on the ground that the president has no veto power over a joint resolution.

Asked Action by Bar.

Recently Mecartney mailed a printed pamphlet to the members of the executive committee of the American Bar association suggesting that the committee tender to the country at large its services in making up a "case stated" for the justices of the Supreme court asking an advisory opinion on these questions:

> Was not the peace resolution adopted by congress in May a valid exercise of power and would not its acceptance by Germany legally consummate peace?
> Have not the people at large, in their sovereign capacity, the right to consummate peace by a vote upon such issue?
> Has congress legal power to bind the nation to accept the league of nations or can only the electorate of the people legally adopt the same?

He announced he immediately would institute mandamus proceedings and yield direction of the issue to the higher professional authority of the Bar association should it desire.

Wants Peace Referendum.

He hoped to get action on his proposals in time to have congress called into a short session in September for the purpose of issuing the call to the people to vote upon the issue at the coming November election, providing the opinion of the justices should be against the validity of the congressional peace resolution, yet in favor of the power of the people to control the matter.

At his offices here yesterday it was said Mr. Mecartney was in Washington. An associate declared the petition was filed in Mr. Mecartney's own behalf and he was bearing the entire expense attached thereto; that the wet and dry issue had no connection with the petition, and that Mr. Mecartney was against the league of nations and interested only in the bringing about of peace from a humanitarian standpoint.

Veteran of the Bar.

Mr. Mecartney is a veteran of the Chicago bar and is well known among his legal associates because of his success in other litigation similar to that in which he is now engaged. He has brought several suits to sustain legal principles and has generally been victorious. He has also engaged in litigation over the collection of big fees and in this, too, he has been successful.

GOV. COX WINS PARTY CHIEFS AT WASHINGTON

Nominee Gives His League Views.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, Democratic presidential nominee, came to town today to talk over with President Wilson his plans for the "solemn referendum" which Mr. Wilson desires to be held on the league of nations in the national campaign. The conference will be held tomorrow. Franklin D. Roosevelt, vice-presidential candidate, will join in it.

Mr. Cox was greeted at the station by a crowd of several thousand persons who cheered him enthusiastically. Then he went to the home of his old friend, Judge T. T. Ansberry, took a seat on the broad green la[illegible]d in a series of conferences qui[illegible]monstrated his qualities as a harmonizer.

League View of Cox.

Gov. Cox paved the way tonight for an understanding with the president on the league of nations issue.

The Democratic nominee, who, his friends have asserted, favors strong Americanization reservations to the league covenant, announced upon his arrival in Washington that he was standing upon the two reservations which he outlined in a statement last May, and which were construed at the time as being merely interpretative in character. The reservations follow:

"1. In giving its assent to this treaty the senate has in mind the fact that the league of nations, which it embodies, was devised for the sole purpose of maintaining peace and comity among the nations of the earth and preventing the recurrence of such destructive conflicts as that through which the world has just passed. The coöperation of the United States with the league and its continuance as a member thereof will naturally depend upon the adherence of the league to that fundamental purpose.

Harmony with Constitution.

"2. It will, of course, be understood that in carrying out the purpose of the league the government of the United States must at all times act in strict harmony with the terms and intent of the United States constitution, which cannot in any way be altered by the treaty making power."

In the newspaper article Gov. Cox said that the first of the suggested reservations, he thought, would make it possible for the United States to withdraw from the league at any time the United States believed the league was becoming an "alliance." The second reservation he proposed as a substitute for the article X. reservations proposed in the senate.

Satisfies All Sides.

Before Mr. Cox had been in this city three hours he had satisfied the most extreme pro-leaguers that he was on their side, although he has announced himself in favor of reservations. In the same brief time he had obtained the approval of some of the most ardent "drys," although he has been considered a "wet" nominee in some quarters.

If there is any smell of liquor about his candidacy, he must have used cloves lavishly when Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, "dry" author of the eighteenth amendment, called to discuss the prohibition question.

"Gov. Cox's attitude is satisfactory in every way," Senator Sheppard said, after the conference. "I expect to take the stump in his behalf at an early date. Texas, you know, is a doubtful state—it's doubtful whether it will give Cox 200,000 or 250,000 majority."

Meeting with Hitchcock.

After Senator Sheppard had gone, the governor sat down on a rustic bench with Senator Hitchcock, who led President Wilson's fight for unreserved ratification of the peace treaty in the senate, and talked over the league issue. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the vice presidential nominee, joined in the conference.

More rapid headway would have been made but for the frequent interruptions by 3 year old Peter Ansberry, the host's son, who wanted the governor to stop talking about such things as the league of nations and build him a house. He offered the governor a hammer and saw and some lumber, but the governor felt constrained to keep up the effort of constructing a way out of the treaty difficulty.

Senator Hitchcock left the conference much encouraged.

Peace Nears in Car Strike; Confer Today

Officials of the Chicago surface lines and representatives of the striking electrical workers and shop men held a series of conferences yesterday; and though they failed to reach agreements on all the points at issue they argued peaceably, and at 10:30 o'clock last night agreed to adjourn until 10 o'clock this morning.

Meantime the street cars are running on schedule. Williston Fish, general manager of the traction company, believes the cars will run as usual today, and that the rush hour service tomorrow may be normal. It is hoped, he said, that a fair agreement will be made today.

Closed Shop Issue.

The principal point of debate, it seemed, was the unionizing of the shops at Seventy-seventh street. Until yesterday Boyle had repeatedly taken the stand that these shops must be unionized before he would consent to a conference on the other issues.

"Umbrella Mike" Boyle, leader of the strikers, signed the armistice, agreeing to treat with the company at 11 o'clock, and, accompanied by nine of his strike lieutenants, he appeared at the company's offices in the Borland block, asking a conference with Mr. Fish.

Following Boyle's appearance, General Manager Fish summoned Electrical Engineer John Z. Murphy, Chief Engineer Harry B. Fleming, and Superintendent of Shops Harry H. Adams. This quartet, representing every branch of the company's interests affected by the walkout, then met with Boyle and his adherents.

Take Up Wage Scales.

At 1 o'clock the conference recessed until the evening.

The early part of the meeting, it is said was taken up in discussing various wage scales and potential increases which might be offered by the company.

The blacksmiths, represented in the conference by Steve Watson, business agent of their union, had demanded an increase of from $6.56 a day to $8.80. The company's compromise offer was $8.16 a day. It was rumored that this figure was accepted by Watson after half an hour's argument.

The linemen's demand for $10 a day was met with a counter offer of $9 a day. This was accepted. The only other dispute with this organization is the question of the foreman, now a nonunion man.

Compromise Offered.

Substation men, who have been demanding increases from $150 and $160 a month to $210 and $225 were offered increases to $190 to $200. It is believed that this offer also will be accepted.

Trackmen and shopmen were also made compromise offers by the company.

In the conference the linemen were represented by "Bosco" Knott, the machinists by George C. Buick, the trackmen by Sam Luzzo, and the metal workers by John Schlitz.

In addition, four representatives of the south side shops were present. They are P. J. Budil, Thomas Sattler, John Fritz, and H. Lindell. "Umbrella Mike," of course, headed the entire delegation.

Meantime car service continued to improve, 1,611 cars being in operation at noon, against 1,564 running last night.

Street cars in Fifty-first street piled up east and west of State street for a short time last night because of temporary lack of power.

Chief of Police Garrity withdrew the detail of policemen who have been handling the crowds at loop elevated stations yesterday, asserting that the improvement in street car service makes the details no longer necessary.

Burleson Really Appears Without His Umbrella

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—Postmaster General Burleson abandoned his umbrella for one day at least. It was the subject of comment at San Francisco that he followed his Washington habit of carrying an umbrella, even though the sun shone brightly. Today he was seen within two blocks of the White House, headed toward the executive mansion, without his umbrella. It was so unusual that it was the cause of comment by passersby.

UNIONS READY TO VOTE DOWN SCANTY RAISE

2,000 Gather for Verdict Here.

Nearly two thousand officials of railway unions, carrying authority to call an immediate strike of all men in railway employ, will assemble in Oriental Consistory tomorrow.

They will be in session to receive and act upon the long forecast wage increase award of the federal railway labor board, to be announced on Tuesday.

According to information reaching The Tribune last night, this council, if it finds the award insufficient, will call an immediate general walkout on all branches of railway service—involving some 2,000,000 men.

Plans Made Month Ago.

Plans for this walkout, said to have been started at a meeting of brotherhood chiefs in Chicago a month ago, are now declared to be complete, awaiting only the telegraphed word to send the railway workers into idleness.

Rumors of unrest in railway circles have swept from east to west during the last five months, until virtually every unit of the five great brotherhoods has signified its willingness to force the issue, it is said.

This spirit was manifested first by the series of outlaw strikes which for a time crippled steam transportation. The great majority of the workers were at that time kept in check by strenuous action of the brotherhood chiefs, who expelled more than 60,000 members of their organization who had walked out in violation of the unions' agreements.

Call Council Meeting.

Following the appointment of the railway wage board and the beginning of its deliberations, the brotherhood chiefs, then meeting in Chicago, obtained the announcement of July 20 as the date for the return of the award. A call for a grand council meeting on that date followed.

The purpose of the gathering, as stated in the call, is "to consider and pass finally upon the award made by the board, and official notice will be issued accordingly." The general chairmen have been empowered by the rank and file to accept or reject the award.

The men asked a total annual increase of $1,100,000,000. As forecast in The Tribune last month, the increases granted will average a little over 22 per cent. The lowest increase will be a flat 20 per cent raise in the wages of the higher paid groups of labor. The lower paid groups will get more, the maximum being about 27 per cent. The increases asked ranged from 25.3 per cent for shopmen to 66.4 per cent for maintenance of way workers. Enginemen and trainmen asked for a 41.2 per cent advance.

Board Draws Up Scale.

The board completed a rough draft of the award yesterday. The board will meet tomorrow to read proof and the award will be sent to the printers in time for public announcement and issuance on Tuesday morning. The decision in the new scales was not unanimous, it is said, but at least two of the labor members approved it. Two or possibly three members held back, it was rumored, but their names could not be learned. The award probably will merely state that the decision was arrived at in compliance with the law under which the board was created, the votes or opinions of individual members not being given.

Among union leaders who will be here to hear the result of the eighteen months' struggle for wage boosts will be W. C. Lee, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; B. M. Jewell of the shopmen, S. E. Heberling of the switchmen, and President Shepherd of the conductors.

Protest Award Figures.

The Tribune's forecast of the award was wired by brotherhood chiefs a month ago to the various district organization chiefs. They were instructed, it is said, to discover, if possible, the general sentiment of the men toward such a percentage of increase.

At meetings of local units following this action a wave of protest immediately went up. Among the organizations particularly bitter toward such a curtailment of their demands as the forecast denoted were the engineers, firemen, and switchmen.

It was pointed out that the average [illegible] the steam lines was making less than the common laborer of the cities. The same held true of both firemen and switchmen.

In addition, the road men were forced to pay their expenses while out of town—an item which bulked high in the monthly total.

Large salaries were drawn by many engineers, firemen and brakemen, it was shown, during the month, but these were the result of longer runs, many times the legal limit of sixteen hours a day.

Local leaders, it is declared, freely reported to their superior lodge officers that the temper of the men was not such as would submit to but a small increase. The question assumed such import in organization councils that delegates to the grand council are now said to carry full authority to order an immediate walkout.

Lee Predicts Walkout.

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, strongest arm of the "big four," freely predicted a walkout at the time of THE TRIBUNE's forecast.

"If the men are not given a higher percentage of their demands, a strike will follow," he said. "We have been the buffer long enough. We cannot hold them any longer. Over eighteen months of delays and bickerings have ensued since we first presented our demands. Since that time the cost of living has risen higher and higher. The men, content during the war to speed up transportation to the greatest efficiency ever seen in any nation, now are at the limit of their patience. They cannot be fooled with any longer."

Strike Rumors Fly.

This sentiment was seconded by S. E. Heberling and other union chiefs.

And tomorrow they come to Chicago to meet in the greatest conclave of brotherhood leaders ever held for a similar purpose.

In Chicago it has been rumored for two weeks that a strike would be called Tuesday. Of more than a score of railroad men interviewed by THE TRIBUNE last night, not one was found but prophesied a walkout by the middle of the week.

"The whole question revolves around the wage award," a prominent engineer on the Pere Marquette said. "If THE TRIBUNE forecast is correct, there will be trouble. The workers are like a powder mine. It will need only the spark of an insufficient award to set them off."

EXPRESS HEARING SET

The demands of 70,000 employés of the American Railway Express company for an increase in wages will be heard next Thursday morning, it was announced yesterday by the United States railway labor board.

Those making the demands are railway workers not included in the list whose wages will be announced Tuesday. Those not working on trains have asked a raise of 20 cents an hour and the others demand increases corresponding with those to be awarded railway trainmen.

Reports that the interstate commerce commission is considering an advance in passenger rates from 3 cents a mile to 3¼ or 3½ cents were denied yesterday at the office of the railway labor board.

HAMILTON CLUB OFF WEDNESDAY TO HARDING HOME

The Hamilton club's delegation, which will act as escort for the committee to notify Senator Harding of his nomination for president, at Marion, Ohio, next Thursday, will leave Chicago over the Chicago & Erie railroad at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night. The return trip will begin late Thursday night. Three special cars will carry the delegation.

Notification of the Hamilton club's designation as the official escort of Senator Lodge, chairman of the committee, came in a letter from T. Coleman DuPont.

As part of the notification proceedings, Senator Harding will be presented with an honorary membership in the Hamilton club by President Robert W. Dunn. These memberships have been conferred on Republican nominees since the club's organization.

A letter received by William G. Edens, chairman of the political action committee of the club, from George B. Christian, secretary of Senator Harding, stated that time had been set aside for the membership presentation.

4 U. S. Planes Leave Erie for Nome Today

Erie, Pa., July 17.—The four government airplanes blazing an air mail trail to Alaska will leave here at 10 o'clock Sunday morning for Grand Rapids, Mich., second stop on the nine thousand mile journey. Three of the planes which arrived here Thursday were joined this afternoon by Capt. St. Clair Street, commander of the flight, who had been detained at Elmhurst, Pa., by a broken axle.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[United Press.]—American Federation of Labor officials will take "the stump" in the congressional campaign in an effort to defeat candidates who refused to obey labor dictation. Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, announced today. The federation campaign of "information" to the voters is in full swing, Morrison stated.

SECRET FRIENDS WON PALMER O. K. TO BOYLE PARDON

Wilson Acted on Plea by U. S. Law Chief.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—Investigation of the circumstances surrounding the commutation of the sentence of "Umbrella Mike" Boyle of Chicago from one year to four months resulted today in disclosing the fact that his original petition was denied on Jan. 26, 1920. That action was on the recommendation of the federal district attorney at Chicago and the special counsel who prosecuted Boyle. The case was taken up again in April and handled personally by Attorney General Palmer, in accordance with whose recommendation commutation was granted by President Wilson.

Palmer Felt Satisfied.

"In April," it was explained by Pardon Attorney Finch, "after Cleary, codefendant with Boyle, had served his time and Boyle had served four months, he not being eligible to parole as he would have been if his sentence had been one day longer, the attorney general thought that under all the circumstances presented to him the ends of justice had been sufficiently served and the sentence was commuted."

The names of the friends who presented the "circumstances" in Boyle's behalf to the attorney general do not appear in the department's files. Of the circumstances themselves department officials in the absence of the attorney general were unable to speak positively.

Thought Wonderful Case.

There was a disposition to regard the fact that Boyle had been imprisoned at all as something of an achievement.

"Bets were being laid among his associates," one official commented, "that Boyle never would serve a day of his sentence. Well, he did go to jail. He served time for his violation of the law. It was shown that he could no more get off with a fine than any other man might who had similarly violated the law."

In addition to the sentence of one year's imprisonment, commuted to four months, Boyle was fined $5,000. His petition, which was denied, was filed before he had served any part of his sentence. He did not file another petition, and the records of the department do not reveal how or by whom the case was again brought to the attention of the attorney general.

HOUSE OF DE JONG, HUSKY OF SPIRIT AND ARM, ARRIVES

Holland Family, 10 Strong, Picks Chicago for Home

The House of De Jong—the most buxom and sturdy that ever passed the inspectors at Ellis Island—piled off of a New York train last night and set ten pairs of Delft blue eyes stolidly on the future. They have come to Chicago "to work and help build up America." And those who saw Jacob C. De Jong last night, his wife, Johanna, and their eight sons and daughters, envied their ruddy cheeks, marveled at their husky frames, and predicted that "if America needs building up, the De Jongs are the boys and girls to do the job."

Within an hour after their arrival and reception by the Rev. J. Von Lonkhuizen, the new arrivals, who have come all the way from Holland to seek their fortune near Chicago, had been deployed up and down Ashland boulevard for the night. Mr. Von Lunkhuizen was a willing host, but his home at 1018 South Ashland boulevard has architectural limitations unsuited for the numerical strength of a healthy Netherlands family.

Prospers in Butter and Cheese.

De Jong was a butter, cheese and egg dealer in Holland. That he prospered was evidenced when he laid $5,000 in United States currency on the inspector's desk at Ellis island and his wife produced more than that amount in British currency and checks.

He decided to come to America and become a farmer after hearing the Rev. Mr. Von Lonkhuizen deliver a lecture during a recent visit to Holland. He subscribed to a religious paper of which the pastor is editor and other publications issued by the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and other organizations.

He was not deterred by the size of his family. All his children have worked, and there is something for every one to do on the farm. The labor question will not worry Farmer De Jong.

Here's the Roster.

The oldest daughter, Martha, who is 20, is a trained nurse. Gertrude, 18, is a stenographer. John, 17, who smokes miniature Dutch cigars, has helped his father in the butter and egg business. Johanna, 15; Nellie, 14; Cornelia, 12; Peter, 9, and Martin, 8, all have their appointed duties in the household.

"In the Netherlands no one is idle," said De Jong. "That is why we are a strong, healthy people. I shall stay probably a month in Chicago. Some of the children may find work and want to stay here. But I want to get a farm near here and produce my own butter, cheese and eggs."

The Rev. Mr. Von Lonkhuizen, who is pastor of the First Christian Reformed church in Fourteenth street, near Loomis, found temporary quarters for some of them at 308 and 507 South Ashland avenue. The older boys went to the West Side Y. M. C. A.

"Have they found an apartment?" the pastor was asked.

"No," he replied, "they would need too many. They need a big house on a wide street."

COX DIPLOMACY WINS LEAGUERS AT WASHINGTON

together right now," said Senator Hitchcock. "His attitude is entirely satisfactory. There isn't any chance of as split between the president and the governor over the league issue."

The senator said it should be understood that Gov. Cox was the leader now and that the president's capacity in the campaign would be purely advisory. He was of the opinion that when the Republican senators saw the result of the November election they would reverse their position and promptly consent to a compromise that would bring about ratification of the treaty with the president's consent.

Gov. Cox expressed equal optimism over the prospect of harmony with the administration forces. He came to Washington, he told newspaper men, largely to get Mr. Wilson's advice about the league issue.

Looks Up to Wilson

"President Wilson knows more about international affairs than any one else in the country," he said, "and I want to counsel with him. Our relations have been very cordial in the past and I expect a very pleasant visit."

Gov. Cox declared the Democratic campaign is going to start "at once." He and Mr. Roosevelt are going to meet with the Democratic national committee in Columbus on Tuesday and make plans for carrying the battle into every state in the union. He may even go into the solid south. He expects to pay equal attention to the Pacific coast and to the New England states.

"There is no disposition," he said, "to regard any section of the country as 'Republican territory'."

The governor's only engagement for tomorrow is the conference at the White House in which he and President Wilson and Mr. Roosevelt will be the only participants.

The conference will take place at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. It probably will last several hours. After it is all over the governor is going to tell the newspaper men all about it and then leave at 4:40 o'clock for Columbus. He will be accompanied by Mr. Roosevelt.

Gov. Cox felt very much at home in Washington. He served two terms in congress before he became governor and he has many friends in the capital. Scores of them were on hand to greet him.

The reception of the governor at the railroad station was considerably enhanced in size and enthusiasm by the fact that the various government departments had just closed to give the employés a Saturday half holiday.

Gov. Cox "Movied."

Mr. Cox was cheered lustily, but when he reached the station exit he was brought to an abrupt halt by a battery of movie cameras. While he was being "movied" he spied an old friend in the crowd and waved to him. The man, J. H. Albright, leaped into the picture and embraced the governor with the vigor of a grizzly bear.

Through the crowd big Tom Heflin, senator elect from Alabama, and bigger Cy Cummings, Maryland politician, shouldered their way to the governor.

"Hello, Tom! Hello, Cy!" said the governor, and this was the general style of greeting followed by the nominee. Even dignified Senator Hitchcock had to submit to "Hello, Hitch!" from the new boss. Most of the Democrats, however, seemed to like the governor's free and easy slaps on the shoulder after seven years of Wilsonian austerity.

Progressives Back Democrats.

After running through an accumulation of more than 2,500 congratulatory letters and telegrams, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic vice presidential nominee, announced today that more than a third of them were from progressive Republicans pledging their support to the Democratic presidential ticket.

"I have not counted in that one-third any messages received from personal acquaintances," Mr. Roosevelt said. "They came from persons unknown to me and spread throughout the country. All stated that as progressive Republicans they preferred to vote the Democratic ticket."

ROBBED BY LONE BANDIT.

Francis Nernan, 3852 Grenshaw street, a driver for Mandel Bros., was held up by a lone bandit and robbed of $125 yesterday while delivering goods in an alley between Adams street, Jackson boulevard, and St. Louis and Central Park avenues.

LLOYD GEORGE IMPRESSED WITH GERMANS AT SPA

Expects Big Things from Conference.

SPA, Belgium, July 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—The conference here between the allied chiefs and the representatives of Germany is the beginning of big things, Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain declared today in summing up the result of the last fortnight's sharp fencing with the Germans.

"We will do our best to carry out the agreements entered into here," Dr. Walter Simons, the German foreign minister, said.

Premier Lloyd George was greatly impressed by the leaders of the German delegation and indicated that he had a high opinion of both Constantin Fehrenbach, the German chancellor, and Dr. Simons. The British prime minister expressed the belief they undoubtedly regard the Versailles treaty as very harsh and that they are not sure they can carry it out, but are honestly determined to do the best they can.

Premier Wants Americans.

Mr. Lloyd George said it would have been an immense advantage if Americans had participated in the conference, because, he added, they would have brought to it a viewpoint free from European rivalries.

He said he hoped they would soon come to these conferences.

"Might not the European statesmen find the Americans embarrassing if they took an active part in the settlement of all questions?" Mr. Lloyd George was asked.

He replied he did not think so. The Americans, he continued, would be embarrassing to any country when they were opposed to something that country wanted, but the power of America, her disinterestedness, and her spirit of fair play would be of tremendous value to Europe.

Want the Food First.

Dr. Simons declared he was apprehensive of disturbances in the Ruhr mining region.

"Trouble is likely to come next week," he said, "unless we can take measures to feed the miners better at the same time that we ask them to work harder. I know the mentality of the miners. It is not enough to say 'work harder this week and you will be better fed next week.'

"They want their good food now. Then they will work. For the first night during the conference I did not sleep last night. I telegraphed Hermes, the food minister, to send all available foodstuffs to the Ruhr immediately. I have written to the food ministers of France, Belgium, Great Britain and Italy, urging them to do all it is possible to get more food into the Ruhr within two weeks."

TREATY REVISION BEGUN

[By Special Cable.]

SPA, July 17.—The revision of the Versailles treaty has begun.

On all three points discussed at the Spa conference material changes were made in the Versailles document and important alterations formulated on the fourth point for action when the mixed commission of financial and economic experts meets at Geneva in August to pass upon reparations.

The smallest concession changing the treaty is accorded by the allies in the demobilization and disarmament clauses. Under the protocol signed by the Germans under the occupation menace, the allies permit a slightly larger reichswehr than the treaty provides, but the supreme council contented itself with disarming the citizens' police instead of disbanding the organizations.

The disarmament terms are rigidly adhered to, the Germans being forced to promise to surrender or destroy all war materials in excess of the treaty allowance.

France Doubts Germany.

That the French are skeptical regarding Germany's willingness and ability to hand over all material is evidenced by Foch's desire to occupy the Ruhr. However, as the French military seizure of the Essen district would comprise the destruction of all machinery for fabrication of war munitions, beside the capture of all material found there, occupation of the Ruhr is unnecessary.

Regarding war criminals, the supreme council has stamped its approval on the ambassadors' council decision renouncing the allies' determination to try culprits themselves, leaving the trials to the Leipzig court judges.

The treaty stipulations on coal deliveries are reduced 35 per cent by the protocol requiring Germany to hand over 2,000,000 tons monthly instead of 3,250,000 the Versailles pact demands. Payment provisions also demand a substantial bonus for Germany in financial reparations.

Reparations experts who ignored the Spa conference will attempt to settle the total figure with the Germans, which marks the fourth alteration in the treaty. Diplomats regard the Geneva conference as time wasted, as Germany will fight desperately to reduce reparations below 50,000,000,000 marks after accepting the allied dictation at Spa, and it is believed whatever accord is reached by the experts will be overthrown when the premiers meet again.

NEIGHBORHOOD RULE A SUCCESS IN CINCINNATI

New York, July 17.—Results achieved in the first three years' experiment in neighborhood government, conducted by the National Social Unit Organization in Cincinnati, O., were summarized in a statement made public here today by Wilbur C. Phillips, executive of the organization. The experiment embraced two principles, the statement explained, creation of a neighborhood council of representatives elected by residents of blocks of 100 families each, and creation of an advisory board of represeentatives elected by members of occupational groups.

YIELD IN 10 DAYS OR QUIT EUROPE, ALLIES TO TURKS

Reply Cites Murder of 800,000.

VERSAILLES, July 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—A threat to drive the Turks from Europe "once and for all" was contained in the allied reply to the Turkish objections to the peace treaty delivered to the Turkish peace delegation here at four o'clock this afternoon. Such action might follow Turkey's refusal to sign the treaty or its failure to give it effect, the reply states. The Turks must reply within ten days.

If by midnight on July 27, they were told, they had not signified their willingness to sign the peace treaty, "the allied powers will take such action as they may consider necessary in the circumstances."

Treaty Is Modified.

The allies made some minor modifications in the treaty after the Turks had presented their protests, but it is understood that these modifications do not materially affect the original draft.

The allied reply is couched in the bluntest language and says: "If the Turkish government refuses to sign the peace; still more, if it finds itself unable to reëstablish its authority in Anatolia or give effect to the treaty, the allies, in accordance with the terms of the treaty, may be driven to reconsider this arrangement by ejecting the Turks from Europe once and for all."

Time To Act.

"The allies are clear that the time has come when it is necessary to put an end to the empire of the Turks over other nations."

The reply says the Turkish government would appear to think its responsibility in war is less than that of its allies and that Turkey, therefore, is entitled to lenient treatment, but the allies cannot accept that plea. Continuing, the note says:

"The history of the relations between the porte and the great powers for a long period before the war was one long story of repeated, unavailing attempt to put an end to atrocities in Bulgaria, Macedonia, Armenia and elsewhere—atrocities which startled and shocked the conscience of mankind.

Blamed for Massacres.

"During the last twenty years the Armenians have been massacred under conditions of unexampled barbarity, and during the war the record of the Turkish government in massacres, in deportations and in the maltreatment of prisoners of war immeasurably exceeded even its own previous record. It is estimated that since 1914 the Turkish government has massacred on the mendacious pretext of alleged revolt 800,000 Armenians, including women and children, and expelled or deported more than 200,000 Greeks and 200,000 Armenians from their homes."

The allies state they are "resolved to emancipate all areas inhabited by a non-Turkish majority from Turkish rule." The allies decline to make any modification in the clauses of the treaty which detach Thrace and Smyrna from the Turkish rule, since in both areas the Turks are in the minority. The same considerations apply to the frontiers between Syria and Turkey.

Insist on Free Armenia.

The allies also decline to change the provisions which provide for the creation of a free Armenia "within boundaries which the president of the United States will determine as fair and just." The general terms of the treaty with regard to administration of the straits must stand as set forth in the treaty, but the allies will permit the Turks, the same as Bulgaria, to have a representative on the commission for the straits.

Among the modifications of the treaty is the withdrawal of the condition by which Turkey was to cede to the allies all Turkish steamships of 1,600 tons gross and upward. The amended clause says the Turk must surrender to the allied reparation commisison all German ships transferred to the Turkish flag since April 1, 1914.

WOULD BOYCOTT BRITAIN.

New York, July 17.—Drastic action to force the Turks out of Europe will be followed by the refusal of the Buddist and Moslem peoples of India to coöperate with Great Britain in the government of that country, according to word received by the Indian information bureau here today. Refusal to pay taxes, withdrawal of natives from military services, resignation from all legislative councils and relinquishments of all honors and titles conferred by Britain, it is said, would be the way Hindus and Moslems would protest.

Franklin D. Roosevelt is given a rousing reception by his neighbors at his home in Hyde Park, N. Y., a few miles from Poughkeepsie, on his return July 12 from his triumph in San Francisco, where he was nominated for vice president by the Democrats.

WORKSHOP FOR SHUT-INS OPENED BY CLUBWOMEN

The "shut-in"—the man or woman who cannot leave home to work because of disabilities resulting from sickness, accident or the war—may now become self-supporting.

A workshop has been opened at 60 West Washington street by the Vocational Committee for Shut-ins of Chicago, an organization launched a few months ago by Mrs. John R. Morgan, Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter and a number of other club women. Miss Helen McNeal has been appointed director of the work.

The organization is really a visiting industrial school. The shut-in is visited and a report is made of what he or she can do. Employers of office help, factory owners and commercial establishments are then canvassed for the sort of home work the individual can perform. The work is brought to him and the finished product taken away by the committee. One man already is earning more than $100 a month at home through the committee's efforts.

SEIZE 7, CLEAR $15,000 THEFT OF WOOLEN FABRICS

Arrest of seven men by Sergts. Knox, Brennan, Costello, and Murphy of the state's attorney's office has cleared up the theft of $15,000 worth of woolens from a wagon owned by the Arthur Dixon Transfer company and has led to the recovery of practically all the property, it was announced last night.

The men under arrest are Edward Kelso, 4219 South Washtenaw avenue, a teamster, who was driving the wagon from which the goods were stolen; Robert McGowan, 4223 South Washtenaw avenue, said to have confessed taking part in the robbery; August Krause, 4216 South Washtenaw avenue, former special deputy sheriff, who also is said to have confessed; Otto Friedman, owner of a junk store at 540 West Roosevelt road, said by the police to be the "brains" of the gang; William Dumpke, 2922 Normal avenue; Charles Schroeder, 2704 Lowe avenue, and Edward Welensky, 1110 South Halsted street.

Spanish Millers Up in Arms Over Wheat Prices

MADRID, July 17. — Resentment toward the government is being shown by millers, who are said to believe the cabinet is responsible for the rise in the cost of wheat and are threatening to close their mills and turn them over to the government for operation, according to El Mundo. The question is complicated by the pending increases in railway rates, and the fear that sufficient cars to transport the harvest will not be available. The matter will be discussed by the ministerial council on Tuesday.

WASHINGTON NEWS — IN BRIEF —

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[Washington Bureau of The Tribune.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 17.

GOV. JAMES M. COX, Democratic presidential nominee, arrived in Washington today for his conference tomorrow with President Wilson. He was greeted at the station by several thousand persons and cheered lustily. Senator Sheppard, "dry" leader in the senate, conferred with the nominee, and pronounced his attitude on the liquor question "entirely satisfactory." Senator Hitchcock talked with him and predicted his views on the league of nations would harmonize with those of President Wilson.

PRIORITY orders designed to insure an adequate supply of coal for states at the head of the great lakes probably will be issued by the interstate commerce commission next week.

RECORDS of the department of justice in the case of "Umbrella Mike" Boyle, Chicago labor union agent whose sentence of imprisonment was commuted by President Wilson, fail to disclose the names of any persons interceding in his behalf.

ATTORNEY GENERAL BURLESON issued an order directing bureau chiefs to transmit to him applications of superannuate employés who desire to retain their positions.

CAMP ROOSEVELT BOYS COME HOME; MORE GO TODAY

Muskegon, Mich., July 17.—[Special.]—The first period closed at Camp Roosevelt today and seventy-five boys left for home. Capt. Lockett, Lieut. Overfelt, and Dr. Moher were in charge of the returning contingent. They will return with the 200 new recruits on a special steamer tomorrow.

Most of the boys spent the day in Muskegon or at swimming. Chicago visitors started to arrive today and a crowd of parents are expected here tomorrow to visit the camp and their sons.

More than seventy-five boys were awarded medals for general good conduct and superiority in drills.

19,000 PICTURE BRIDES FROM JAPAN IN U. S.

Angel Island, San Francisco, Cal., July 17.—[United Press.]—More than 19,000 picture brides have entered the United States, the congressional committee on immigration learned here today while examining passports.

Pretty Kayashima Tana, 17 years old, was examined. She told the committee she had seen her husband only once when he was in Japan and never since their marriage.

On her passport there was a notation: "Picture bride marriage, 19,318."

Nine other picture brides were questioned. Five said they had never seen their husbands and that they knew little, if anything, about them.

NEGRO MURDERED TORPEDO EXPERT, JURY'S VERDICT

Richmond, Va., July 17.—[Special.]—"Guilty of first degree murder" was the verdict returned today against William H. Turner, a Negro, accused of the killing of Thomas Morgan Moore, torpedo expert for the United States government. The verdict carries the death penalty.

The state's chief witness was Miss Pearl Clark, 2328 West Superior street, Chicago, secretary to Representative Fred A. Britten of that city. Mr. Moore was Miss Clark's fiancé and they were in an auto early on the morning of May 24. When on the road between Alexandria, Va., and Washington, D. C., they were stopped by Turner.

Miss Clark said the Negro demanded money and after talking a few minutes fired, killing Moore. Turner was brought here soon afterwards to avoid violence.

YANKEE TYPHUS FIGHTER TAKEN BY BOLSHEVIKI

WARSAW, July 16.—Sergt. William Cook of Fay, Okla., attached to the American typhus expedition to Poland, is reported missing since the battle between the Poles and the Russian bolsheviki in the vicinity of Minsk.

The disinfecting train with which Cook was working was captured by the soviet forces, according to the last carload of refugees which left Minsk. Cook refused to leave, telling the refugees he would remain with the train in the hope of getting it out in safety. The bolsheviki arrived a little later.

Capt. Trevor Swett of Boston, Mass., assistant military attaché at the American legation here, was fired on by a squad of bolshevik cavalry near Vilna this week, but escaped without injury.

CIVIL WAR RAGES AMONG CHINESE, JAPS ASSISTING

Tokio Troops Shield Anfu Forces.

PEKING, July 16.—[By Wireless to Tien Tsin.] — [By the Associated Press.]—Fighting between troops of the rival factions occurred today at Kwanhun, thirty miles south of Peking.

Numbers of wounded are arriving here. The city itself is quiet, but wire and rail communication with Tien Tsin has been interrupted.

The mediators sent to reconcile the contending parties have returned to Peking, to report failure.

Japs Make Chinese Retreat.

The train with an investigating party left this afternoon with American, British, Japanese and French military detachments. At Peisang the commander of the Chihli forces said he had been forced to retreat by the insistence of the Japanese troops posted at Yangtsun that he remove his troops and guns to a distance of two miles either side of the railway. This created a gap of four miles in his front and he obeyed to avoid a Chino-Japanese incident.

The train proceeded to Yangtsun, where the Anfu troops and the Japanese detachment were found. The Japanese commander, it is stated, admitted giving the order described by the Chihli commander.

Nipponese Officer Explains.

The Japanese officer said the proximity of the Chihli troops endangered his post. He did not appear to consider the presence of the Anfu forces in the same light.

The Chihli forces from Paotingfu, it is announced in reports received today, attacked the Anfu troops in that region and drove them back ten miles with heavy casualties.

An active recruiting movement on the part of the students is in progress here.

Strictly Neutral.—Tokio.

TOKIO, July 16.—[By the Associated Press.]—The foreign office today issued a communique denying that Japan was taking any part in the present troubles in China.

Japan, it was stated, would maintain strict neutrality and follow a policy of non-interference and impartiality toward the internal feuds in China.

MALAGA, Spain, July 16. — Lieut. Enrique Morena, who last year caused the death of Private Nevsa by firing a cartridge filled with table salt into his body, has been sentenced by a court martial to twelve years' imprisonment. Corporal Hilario H. Fuertes, who loaded the rifle under the direction of Lieut. Morena, was released.

LE MANS, France, July 17.—The monument here to Wilbur Wright, commemorating his first public flight at Le Mans, and the pioneer work of him and his brother, Orville, their predecessors and contemporaries, was dedicated by prominent French and Americans today while airplanes flew over-head.

Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, naval attaché to the American embassy in Paris, who represented Hugh C. Wallace, the American ambassador; Col. J. G. Thompson of the Aero club of America; Myron T. Herrick, former American ambassador to France, and Commodore Louis D. Beaumont, were the American speakers. Senator D'Estournelles de Constant, who presided and also represented the French government, was the chief French speaker.

The monument, the gift of Commodore Beaumont, is erected on a foundation presented through French subscriptions.

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Croker were passengers on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria when it sailed today.

"We are going to Ireland—to Glen Cairn," said the former Tammany chief, "and we'll be back in the fall to spend another winter at Palm Beach."

"Politics?" he said. "Well, I think Cox is the best and strongest candidate the Democrats could have selected. The only question is whether the country wants a Democratic national administration."

HARDING'S HOME TOWN PUTS ON ITS GALA GAR

Marion Is Ready to Greet Notification Crowd.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Marion, O., July 17.—[Special.]—Flags and pennants are blossoming all over Marion as the biggest day in its history approaches. The downtown district is bright with colors and welcome signs, and the triumphal arch along the court of honor in Mount Vernon avenue, in front of the home of Senator Warren G. Harding, is being erected. Nearly every home contains a picture of the Republican nominee.

The citizens have organized, raised a fund, and are determined to play the host in magnificent style to thousands expected on notification day next Thursday. It is no small task, as this city of 30,000 will be called upon to entertain at least 50,000 guests for the day.

Special trains, automobile parties, marching clubs, and delegations of all kinds are expected from all parts of Ohio and the middle west. Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, and other cities will send thousands.

Circus Man to Feed Crowd.

Cincinnati decorators have been called in to make the city gay, and an old circus man, who fed crowds at Canton during the McKinley campaign, will be on hand on Thursday to see that every one gets a sandwich and coffee at least.

Bakers, butchers, restaurant men, lodges, churches, and housewives have been called on in the emergency. The bakers have given assurance that they can bake 50,000 loaves of bread a day, with an unlimited supply of buns and doughnuts. A circus tent will be erected on the field of Garfield park, where the notification ceremonies will be held. This about two miles from the town. The crowds will be fed here and in a system of smaller stands downtown there will be "hot dog" sandwiches in abundance, for the town has a wienerwurst factory with a capacity of from five to ten tons a day. Every housewife will roast a ham and bake extra bread and a pot of coffee.

Lists Private Rooms.

More than a thousand rooms in private houses have been listed by the local committee of arrangements of which D. R. Crisinger is chairman. Most of the visitors are expected to leave the evening of the notification. The railroads are planning to put on a large number of extra passenger cars and the local committee will be prepared to park 10,000 automobiles.

The Republican national committee and members of the committee of notification will arrive by special train from Columbus and will stop off at White Oaks farm near the edge of the city for lunch before proceeding to the park in private automobiles. The addresses of notification and acceptance will be delivered in a covered pavilion in the center of the park. All the 2,000 seats inside will be reserved. Two thousand more will be ranged around the open sides and the rest of the crowd will have to stand.

Decorators Are Busy.

Carpenters and decorators are busy at the park. A small room in the rear of the stage will be fitted up for the reception of the nominee and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who will deliver the address of notification. Another room will be reserved for Mrs. Harding and her guests. The platform will hold 150 and arrangements are being made for 100 newspaper men. Special wires are being run into the pavilion.

Senator Harding has about completed his address and is ready to begin to receive delegations again this week. Former Congressman Fowler of New Jersey, former head of the banking and currency committee of the house, conferred with Mr. Harding today.

Washington, July 17.—Immediate regrets were officially made in connection with the trampling upon a United States flag by British sailors on July 4 at Bermuda, the state department was advised today by the American consul there. The guilty sailors have been imprisoned, heavily fined, and are undergoing naval punishment, while the British magistrate who judged the case severely reprimanded the culprits, the consular advices stated.

WILSON STAYS DISMISSAL OF P. O. EMPLOYES

200 in Chicago May Retain Positions.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—No superannuated employés are to be dismissed from the government service until President Wilson has had an opportunity to give further consideration to the law under which all employés who have reached the retirement age are subject to dismissal on and after Wednesday, July 21.

The president today sent word to the interior department and postoffice department directing that all dismissal cases be held in abeyance until after the cabinet meeting on Tuesday, after which it is believed the president will issue an executive order defining the action to be taken by all government departments.

Saves Superannuates.

The action of the president has served, temporarily, at least, to save from summary dismissal employés who have reached retirement age but are still able and willing to render efficient service.

Following the receipt of the president's message, Postmaster General Burleson issued an order directing "each bureau chief, superintendent of division and heads of independent offices of the postal establishment" to prepare and submit to him "not later than 4:30 p. m. July 19, all applications of superannuates for continuance in office, "with such recommendations thereon as they may see fit to make."

200 in Chicago Service.

This modification of the "blanket order" hitherto issued by Mr. Burleson under which every superannuated clerk in the postal service would automatically be separated from the service, will affect 200 clerks in the Chicago office, and hundreds of others throughout the country.

The president is believed to favor a more humanitarian interpretation of the law than that under which the postmaster general has hitherto acted. The committee which called at the White House this morning to present resolutions of protest against the drastic application of the law alike to the fit and the unfit employés was informed by Secretary Tumulty that the president already had taken the necessary steps to forestall summary dismissals.

CHICAGO MEN PLEASED.

Chicago postal employés now facing quick retirement under the new civil service law hailed with delight the announcement yesterday that President Wilson had decided to delay the action.

John M. Hubbard, assistant postmaster, expressed relief when he heard of the order.

"I am glad to know," he said, "that the Washington officials are taking an interest in the matter. I have felt all along that the law should be applied uniformly, and I believe that is the only way it can be popularized. If men in one department are retired while others the same age in other departments are retained it is bound to cause dissatisfaction with the law."

Only one-half of 1 per cent alcohol may be used in the manufacture of liquor foods, such as soups or in frozen liquids such as ice cream, or in preserving or flavoring fruits.

Permits are necessary to enable food manufacturers to use liquor and no more than a 90 days' supply will be allowed them at one time.

U. S. EMPLOYES OPEN DRIVE FOR A SQUARE DEAL

Demand Reforms and $3 Minimum Wage.

Working on the principle that no employé can do efficient work unless he receives a living wage, officials of the National Federation of Federal Employés yesterday opened a nationwide drive for a reclassification of the entire civil service and a minimum wage of $3 a day. To bring concerted pressure upon congress this fall, an attempt will be made to organize every federal employé and increase the membership to 100,000.

Charles F. Nagl, custodian of the federal building and vice president of the federation, has been placed in charge of organizing the central west. In his territory there are already twenty-five local unions of federal employés affiliated with tht national federation.

Council Lays Its Plans.

Mr. Nagl returned yesterday from Washington, where he attended a meeting of the executive council, at which plans for a campaign to secure better employment conditions for all federal employés was mapped out.

"What we want," said Mr. Nagl, "is a square deal. We have not had it. More than one-half of the men and women I employ receive less than $3 a day. They have to do outside work to make a living.

"I want a reclassification in the whole civil service with a minimum high enough that an employé can have his dinner pail full. We want to get the benefits of the retirement act for all employés, so that they will have a little to live on when they can work no more.

Platforms Favor Reform

"As a result of the efforts of the national federation the Republican and Democratic parties have endorsed provisions to remedy inequalities and injustices in the civil service pay scale.

"We want to see the Nolan minimum wage bill pass congress. We want to see the men rated according to skill, training and responsibility, on a merit system administered by a central agency on which employés have representation.

"For these principles we have the backing of the American Federation of Labor, with which we are affiliated. Other large organizations have also gone on record in favor of our principles."

The National Federation of Federal Employés is one of five trade unions composed exclusively of government employés. Its membership comprises 192 locals.

SWEDISH PAGEANT SHOWS SCOPE OF EPWORTH LEAGUE

Desplaines Camp Meeting Sees New Feature.

The feature of the program that attracted 1,500 persons to the Desplaines camp grounds yesterday was a pageant given by the Swedish branch of the Epworth league. It was staged under the direction of Miss Hulda M. Mossberg and Miss Elanda Nielson.

Five scenes, each representing an episode in the crusade to help children, were played. In the first a group of "young alley rats" were shown playing craps. A member of the Methodist Epworth league appeared and taught the boys to play baseball.

Another scene showed the league's work in India and in another a group of Pennsylvania workmen were preparing for an evening's entertainment at the "corner saloon" when the worker appeared and showed them a more healthful amusement.

There was a general shuffling of feet and considerable coughing behind handkerchiefs among the wearers of the cloth who attended the ministers' conference at the camp meeting following the brief speech of L. F. W. Leseman. Mr. Leseman is president of the Chicago Methodist Training school.

"This conference has been a great waste of time," said Mr. Leseman. "We have certainly enjoyed ourselves, but we have accomplished nothing.

"I am going to tell you what I believe we need," the speaker continued. "Methodism needs fewer churches. We have too many now and those we have are insufficiently equipped. Give us fewer but better equipped churches."

At the afternoon session Bishop Homer Stuntz made an appeal for missionary workers.

Removal of Methodist headquarters from New York to the new twenty story building at Clark and Washington streets was one of the subjects considered at the ministers' conference.

SETS 906 FREE IN 2 WEEKS AS DIVORCE JUDGE

Johnston Makes New Mark with 453 Decrees.

What is believed to be a record in the granting of divorce decrees was established yesterday by Judge Frank Johnston, Jr., of the circuit court. After being "divorce judge for two weeks he signed his four hundred and fifty-third decree.

JUDGE FRANK JOHNSTON JR.

Two weeks ago, finding the divorce calendar clogged and the summer vacation about to begin, Chief Justice Torrison assigned Judge Johnston to "clean up the calendar."

After twelve years of separation, Mrs. Rose Allegretti won a divorce from Benedetto Allegretti, candy manufacturer, Judge Denis E. Sullivan in the Superior court, after hearing her story of cruelty and infidelity on the part of her husband, indicated that he will grant her a decree which will provide for $2,000 alimony, paid in a lump sum.

MRS. ROSE ALLEGRETTI.

On the basis of Allegretti's alleged cruelty and misconduct with a Marie McLean his wife obtained separate maintenance in 1908 and the custody of their daughter, Alvera, then 6 years old. Questioned by her attorney, Charles M. Haft, she repeated the story yesterday.

One of the reasons given by Mrs. Allegretti for seeking a divorce was that her husband refused to join with her in conveying to her crippled brother a piece of property which she had received through the will of her mother. By the terms of the decree Allegretti no longer has an interest in the property and Mrs. Allegretti can make the conveyance.

97 ARE QUIZZED FOR GEARY JURY; ONLY ONE TAKEN

Ninety-seven veniremen—from china decorator and carpenter to secretary and painter—have passed through the jury box in Judge Sabath's court during the last week, and only one man has been tentatively accepted by both state and defense to try Gene Geary.

It is expected at least another week will be consumed before twelve men have been sworn in. The chief difficulty is to find any one who has not already made up his mind that Geary should be hanged.

"It would take me just exactly one minute to find him guilty," was the reply of one venireman.

A special venire of 100 has been summoned for Monday.

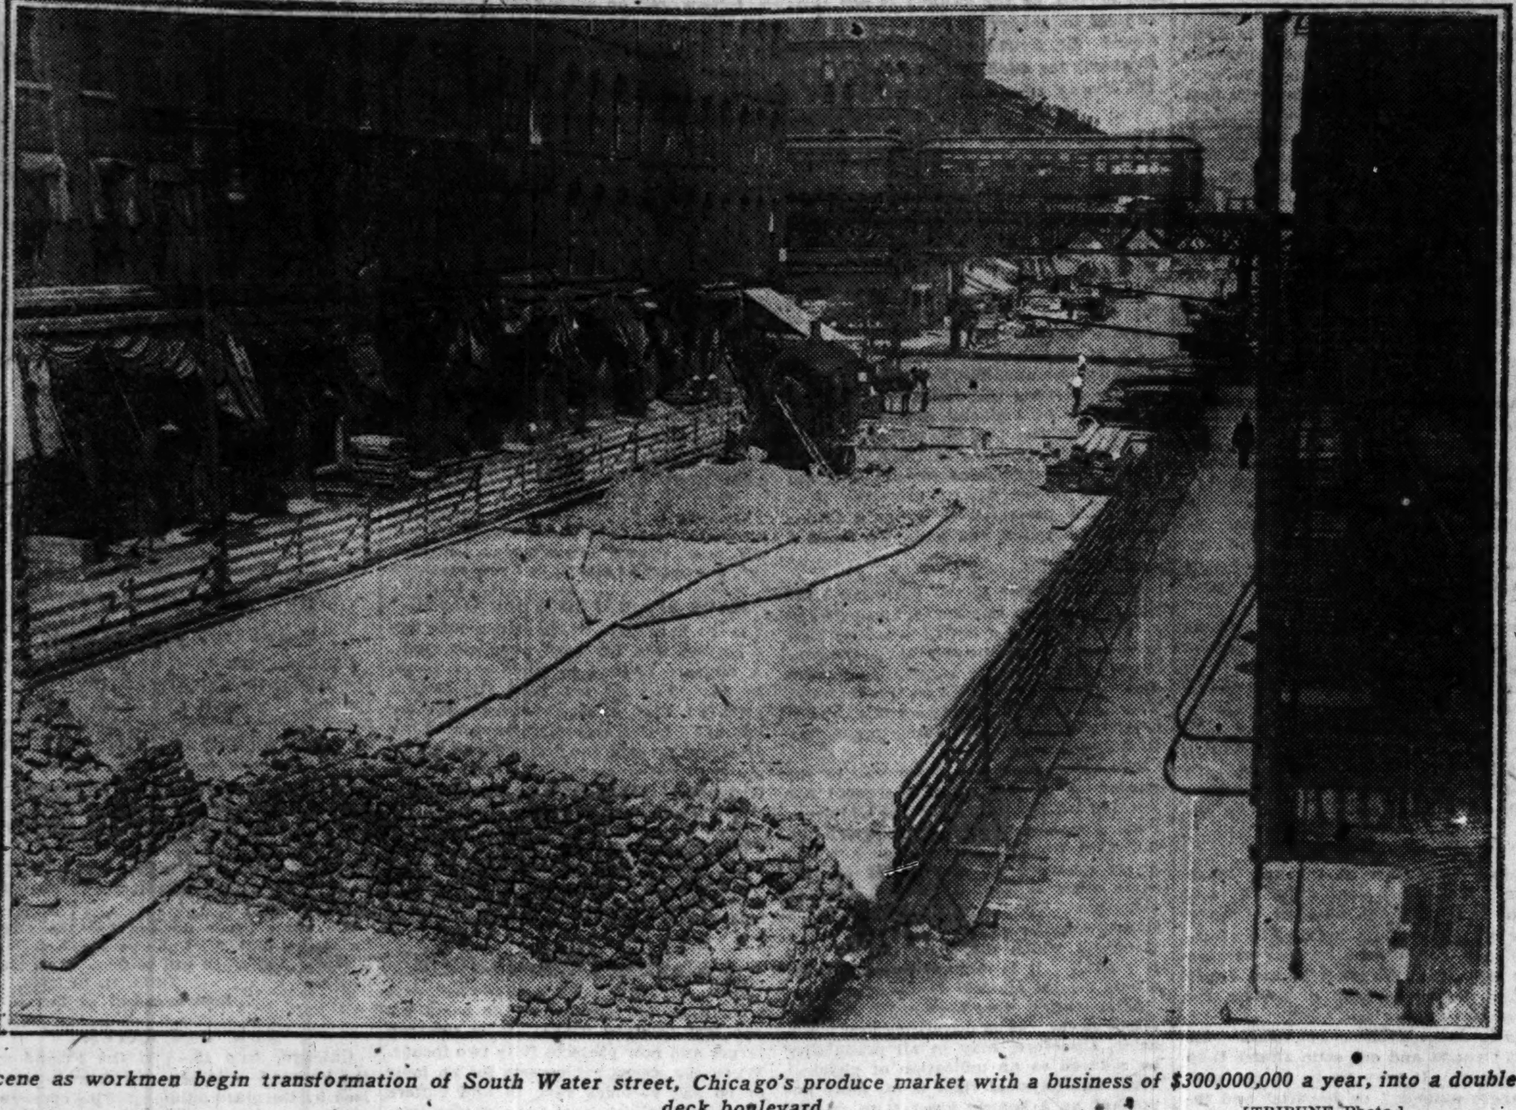
Another Chicago Dream Starts Toward Reality



Scene as workmen begin transformation of South Water street, Chicago's produce market with a business of $300,000,000 a year, into a double deck boulevard.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Merchants Protest

MICHAEL J. FAHERTY, president of the board of public improvements, took possession of West South Water street yesterday and one of the world's greatest and most unusual market places began passing into history.

South Water street is going to be a double decked boulevard, and the commission men must go elsewhere.

The street for 257 feet east and west of Franklin street, is to be lowered to go under the new Orleans street bridge. When the work is done the commission houses on the south side of the street will be left perched high up on the curb for the most part.

Some stores may be able to use the alley—but the stores on the north side of the street have only the Chicago river for an alley. The street in front of them already is being torn up.

There were loud and indignant protests when the army of pickmen came into the territory yesterday and began digging themselves in.

"Where shall we go?" the inhabitants cried. "This means ruin. We have been doing a $300,000,000 business here annually in poultry, eggs, and butter. We've been feeding most of Chicago. Who's going to feed the city now?"

But the men with the picks paid no attention. They were busy.

Sugar Beet Crop Wasted; No Help to Harvest It

Appleton, Wis., July 17.—Inability to obtain sufficient help has blasted hopes for the biggest sugar beet crop in the history of Outagamie county. More than 100 acres of beets have been plowed up rather than permit the fields to go to weeds. A. W. Laabs, one of the most extensive beet growers in this section of the state, plowed up 25 acres a few days ago.

MEXICO WILLING TO ATONE TO U. S. FOR HARM DONE

Washington, D. C., July 17.—Assurances have been received by the state department from the Mexican authorities that the new government will atone for wrongs done American citizens and interests, it was learned today.

This government is known to be waiting for practical evidence of the supposed conciliatory attitude of the new Mexican government toward the United States.

American airplanes, during the fighting between government and rebel forces at Nuevo Laredo, just across the United States border from Laredo, Tex., dropped a note, warning both sides not to fire into American territory, the state department was advised today. After the warning the fighting ceased and the attacking force retired.

Official confirmation was received at the state department today of the reported arrest and imprisonment at Nuevo Laredo yesterday of Gen. Pablo Gonzalez, on the charge of implication with his chief of staff, Gen. Carlos Garcia, in revolts in the northern states of Mexico.

Meyer was found dead seated in a pew of the church by members of the congregation. He had been janitor for a number of years

New Baby of Si Mayer Holds Up Police Report

Si Mayer, secretary of the police department, let police affairs go hang yesterday for far more important matters. Late in the afternoon Chief Garrity, missing his weekly crime report, sent out a hurry up call for Si.

A half hour later the missing secretary called on the telephone.

"We have a little girl in our family now and she weighs eight pounds, and say, chief, she has blue eyes, just like yours," said Mr. Mayer.

15 MURDERERS DIE ON GALLOWS ON OCT. 14 AND 15

Harry Andrae Added to List by Judge Pam.

When Harry Andrae was sentenced yesterday by Judge Hugo Pam to be hanged on Oct. 15 he made the seventh man scheduled to die on the gallows in the Cook county jail on that day. Eight other murderers will meet similar fates on the preceding day, Oct. 14.

HARRY ANDRAE.

Andrea recently was convicted of the murder of Thomas O'Donnell, aged watchman of the Western Shade, Cloth Company, 2100 South Jefferson street, during an attempt to blow a safe which was supposed to contain a $25,000 pay roll.

A companion in the crime, Richard Wilson, is also under sentence of death, though it was admitted in court that Andrae shot the watchman while Wilson was on another floor in the plant of the shade company.

Leo Rychell, an employe of the firm, had furnished the information that there would be $25,000 in the safe. Six men participated in the attempted robbery. Three have been arrested. Information reached the state's attorney's office as to the identity of the murderers through a woman. Rychell told a friend. He told his wife. When they quarreled she told the state's attorney.

Unless the Supreme Court or the governor intervenes Oct. 14 and 15 will be days long remembered in Cook county for the examples of stern justice and the desire of the community to rid the city of murderers.

SALESMAN FEARS BLINDNESS; KILLS SELF WITH GAS

Diary and Poem Tell His Reason.

The night was shutting in on Carl Becker, and the night was full of terrors for him; so he turned on the gas and closed his failing eyes forever.

Becker, 35 years old, grocery salesman, was found dead yesterday in the rooming house of Mrs. Martha Kalbhen, 1535 North La Salle street. He had opened a gas jet, affixed a rubber hose to it, and put the hose in his mouth.

Fears Going Blind.

They found his diary and a note directing that his landlady and the undertaker be paid from his account in a north side bank. The diary, began last September, is full of somber phrases and sentences: "My eyes are getting weaker," "I'm going blind." "How much we suffer"—"and all the little boys and girls, the birds and flowers—forgive me sweetheart, good-by." "And when you smell the flowers I love, let your heart beat fast for me, and I'll not be dead." "Please let Daisy come to my grave."

Also Leaves Poem.

There also was a poem bewailing the fact that others enjoyed the sunshine and the sunsets, and the flowers, portraits, works of art, gorgeous spectacles, and the faces of loved ones, while he saw only the darkness.

He also sent parting wishes to friends—"it seems so hard to part from them—good-by."

CHILD LABOR LAW IS NULLIFIED BY MISSOURI COURT

Jefferson City, Mo., July 17.—The section of the Missouri child labor law prohibiting the employment of children under 16 years of age, around machinery, was declared unconstitutional today by the state Supreme court.

The court held that the title of the section, which is "schools-compulsory attendance of children," did not correspond with provisions of the act which regulates the employment of children.

The decision was in the case of Benjamin R. Berry, fifteen years old, whose right hand was crushed in a machine at the plant of the Majestic Milling company, Aurora, where the boy was employed. A decision granting the boy $5,000, obtained in the Circuit court of Lawrence county, was reversed.

COX ALONE IN THE COSMOS.

Mr. Cox has not been silent since he was nominated, but we cannot find that he has said anything. He says Mr. Harding is a reactionary on the league of nations, but he does not say what Mr. Cox is. We think we know where Mr. Harding stands and if Mr. Cox will tell us where Mr. Cox stands the whole matter will be clear.

Mr. Cox says: "My campaign will be dedicated to the task of bringing peace with honor, of readjusting the affairs of civilization, and of creating a new day out of what will make the best of the lessons of the past."

A record of this campaign will read like a new version of Genesis, even if the Ohio governor takes more than six days to accomplish his purpose, but where in his readjustment of civilization does he intend to put the United States and what lessons of the past does he intend to apply here?

Mr. Cox is covering even more territory than Mr. Wilson, who was the most inclusive president the world ever had. He leads us to fear that callers at the White House, if he were elected, would be told: "The president is out. He ran over to Tibet for the day." "There is a bit of civilization to be reconstructed in Armenia. The president will be back Tuesday." "The president is on a tour of inspection in Patagonia. Home Sunday."

If Mr. Cox will come down to earth for a few minutes he might have time to answer some questions which interest Americans. Does he believe that if Poland, as the result of a willful war of its own choosing, has to be defended, American troops should be sent to the Russian frontier to defend it? How does he intend to get these troops? By conscription? Or does he intend to send our regular army on police work the world over? Will he tell the people of the west, as they are getting in their crops, that he is for an international arrangement which might require the loading of their sons on transports rather than their grain on cars?

Will he tell them that he is for an arrangement in which a man he appointed to the council of the league of nations would have the decision as to whether their sons went to war or not, and that he did not intend their representatives in congress should have anything to say about it?

Will he tell them that he intends to allow the council of the league to decide questions involving American honor without the United States having any voice in the matter? Will he tell them that if a question relating to the Monroe doctrine comes up he will submit it to the league and have the United States remain silent in the voting and bound by the decision?

Will he tell them that he consents to the British empire voting six votes and the United States voting one in the assembly of the league? If he is his party's candidate he will say these things. They are consequences provided for in the Wilson covenant to which the party is bound.

If he will not say them will he repudiate his party? We implore Mr. Cox to leave civilization unreconstructed for a long enough time to tell Americans what he thinks and what he intends to do in matters affecting them.

Then civilization may have him and the campaign of reconstruction may go ahead.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF MINORITIES.

Minor parties spring from the refusal to accept compromises and agreements. The refusal may have any number of egotistic aspects and result in any number of egotistic actions, because it is the assertion of an individual's judgment against any scheme which harmonizes a great many individuals.

No great number of people can be joined in opinions which thoroughly satisfy each person to the agreement. What joins them is the willingness of each individual to compromise and to accept. If each individual Republican or Democrat undertook to write the party platform there would be something changed, added, or taken away. Republicans and Democrats can in their parties find common ground on which they can stand, and, except where allegiance is by tradition or prejudice, each Republican or Democrat probably concedes something in adhering to a party.

It is the genius for compromise and putting self in second place which makes democratic government possible. Otherwise each presidential election would be followed by a revolution. Within two months Republicans will be convinced that the success of the Democrats means the ruin of the country, and the Democrats will be convinced that the success of the Republicans means the same thing. They will not attempt to save the country except by voting.

The spirit of minor parties is the spirit of no compromise. This not only animates the minor party against the major parties but it frequently animates each member of the minor party against all other members. The only irreducible minimum in a minor party is the individual. A minor party may be resolved into as many independent units as it contains individuals—and frequently is.

If an individual is right he is right, and he becomes wrong only if he compromises. Political expediency may suggest combinations, but the inherent quality of small minorities is a natural obstacle. Coalition demands compromises and compromises are repugnant. They are exactly what hold the major parties and the nation together, and they are exactly the reason for the existence of small organized minorities.

Minor parties are sometimes useful as correctives. They do the major parties a great deal of good at times, and often they are useful as vents for opinions that need expression, but the genuine, uncompromising minority always will be a party of one man.

"POPULAR" REVOLT IN INDIA AND EGYPT.

A great deal of inexpensive sympathy is going to be expended upon the alleged popular movements in India and Egypt. To sentimentalists in countries like the United States who know nothing of actual conditions, these revolts, inflamed by bolshevik fanatics or shrewd agents of the enemies of British imperial power, are imagined in terms of western civilization and take on the glowing colors of our own memories of Yorktown or the fall of the Bastille.

Radicals will refuse to correct these sentiments by reference to facts, but the rest of us would do well to consider them. If British colonial rule were thrown off in India or Egypt, what would take its place? Something glorious called Freedom, Independence, Equality, the Rule of the People? By no means. Neither the masses of India nor those of Egypt are ready for self-government. As little as the masses of Russian people or if possible less. To estimate what would actually happen, common sense will revert to the period before the British administrator came to India and Egypt. In place of him will be native rulers, ruling as native rulers ruled in the old day; without check because the swarming millions have had no experience in self-government and through countless ages have shown no capacity for evolving institutions of self-rule. Whatever sentimentalists may assert about British exploitation of India and Egypt, and much of it doubtless is true, the British brought higher ideals of responsibility, of humanity, of order, of law, of public health, than the native ruler conceived.

The régime of the native princes was a régime of personal whim and caprice, when it chose to be, of personal will and personal justice rather than of law. What oppression that a British government, restrained by home opinion, could possibly contrive or dare to impose could compare with the exploitation and paralyzing tyranny of the native autocrats?

It may be argued that a people have a right to choose their own form of tyranny; that a people prefer to be misruled by their own tyrants rather than to be misruled or even to be benevolently ruled by aliens. But whatever our theories of absolute right, let us at least try to see the concrete facts as they are and will be.

As for these revolts being a free impulse of the people to cast off the yoke of an alien rule, how much of that theory will bear examination? We confess we do not know, but we suspect that neither the Indian nor Egyptian masses are provided with the knowledge necessary to guide them to a free choice. Their intellectuals may know what they are doing. Some of these doubtless are high minded altruists, filled with hopes of native progress and inspired by western political and social principles. But others, we are pretty certain, are actuated by the primal appetite for power and if they succeed in throwing off British restraint will make short work of the altruists as always.

What will happen in India and Egypt if British rule is expelled will be worse than what happened in Russia and the recent state of Mexico will be Elysium in comparison. Prophecy is hazardous in this life, but we think a sane survey of present conditions in the perspective of the past will dispose of the ardent expectations of theoretical sympathizers with Asiatic revolutions. British power may be weakened and restricted, but the actual life of the masses of India and Egypt, returned to the sanitary, economic, social, and political conditions which their native ruling classes will restore, does not fill us with enthusiasm for the change.

The world under the influence of radical ferment seems to us to need a large dose of common sense. Its present temperature is not healthy. And the irony of the whole situation is that the "masses," for whose welfare the whole rumpus is supposed to be raised, will suffer more through the reformers than any one else. At best, it is a violent case of "Save us from our alleged friends."

BRITISH DIVORCE LAWS.

The divorce laws of Great Britain have been a medieval cruelty to women, but because parliament is about to pass a liberalizing law the Archbishop of Canterbury, head of the Church of England, will resign.

The sanctity of the family has not been preserved by the cruel divorce laws and conceptions of morality have not been sustained by them. A notorious latitude is granted in English society for irregularity, and sanction is conceded which could not be obtained in the United States. Public opinion is lax, and the individual has a license unbelievable to an American.

The American divorce laws may be lax, but public opinion is severe and unrelenting. British divorce laws are severe and public opinion is indifferent. The cruel British laws leave a woman hardly any escape from a man who may be destroying her life. The man has plenty of leeway, but the woman, in law, is bound. About her only escape is that she is not now compelled by law to live with a man she hates. He used to have that right over her.

What English society needs is a liberalization of divorce laws, a tightening up of community conscience, and a new Archbishop of Canterbury.

FARMERS FROM ABROAD.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Evidently the fame of America's thousands of idle acres of rich soil is spreading abroad. An influx of Spanish farmers is predicted by a Barcelona business man who is in New York with 189 Spaniards, who have come to the United States to engage in agriculture.

The Barcelonan explains that thousands of Spanish farmers, who deserted agriculture to enter industry because of high wages paid mechanics during the war, find shop opportunities decreasing since the armistice and are anxious to return to the soil. In Spain chances to engage in farming on a large scale are limited, much of the soil is poorer than America's, and a considerable number believe that fortunes await them in our vast agricultural regions.

The arrival of agriculturists from this new quarter should serve as a lesson for this country. Agriculture is the biggest business in America. Prices of farm products are higher than they have ever been before. Men seeking a chance to serve the country and to assure a profitable future for themselves can find such an opportunity in almost any part of the United States.

Farming offers Americans just as good opportunities as it offers Spaniards.

MEIGHEN, CANADA'S PREMIER, WELL EQUIPPED FOR JOB

BY JAMES ALEX AIKIN.

Ottawa, Ont., July 17.—[Special.]—The formal assumption of office by Premier Arthur Meighen signals the end of the war and readjustment period in Canada. This is the second cabinet under the thirteenth parliament, elected Dec. 17, 1917. Under the constitution this parliament may continue until the first half of 1923, which would mean three more sessions.

According to the best parliamentary practice, a parliament returned on a clear issue, should be dissolved when that issue has been decided, and the duty performed which was implied in the issue. It is beleived the new prime minister will want to meet this parliament in session; due to the good understanding and confidence of the members in the premier elect. That confidence may lead to more than one session. Elected on the issue of war, it is in order for the thirteenth parliament to be dissolved any time.

Premier Meighen is a young man, under 45, and is industrious, studious, and thorough. Like many men of that type he has not given special attention to the social side of life, yet has not neglected it entirely. There is a touch of the dour Presbyterian about Meighen, but he is quite approachable and entirely democratic. He is of the old Conservative party; takes up the mantle of Borden, and will do what he can to make the National Liberal and Conservative party worthy of the name. The personnel indicates his purpose. And Meighen is the type of man who keeps faith with his comrades and political partners.

Since the Borden ministry took office in 1911, whenever there was a tough job to be tackled in parliament, it was always "let Arthur do it." He it was that fought the military service act (selective draft) through parliament; and later the wartime elections act and the military voters act, both aimed at limitation of the franchise for aliens and extending it to soldiers and their relatives and dependents. He was not the author or originator of all that series, but he put them through the house and got credit for all of them.

When the Winnipeg riots were at the ugly stage where soldiers and police were on duty, it was Meighen who went west with the minister of labor and put the brake on for the slow down. The situation was soon in hand. Last year he took the big brother's part on the Grand Trunk bill, and again this year performed the same kind of service for another minister on the budget and tariff.

Premier Meighen is distinctively a Canadian. He knows more about Canada and domestic affairs than any man in parliament. It may be he is not possessed of the "larger outlook" on imperial and international affairs on which some men have prided themselves, but Meighen is clear cut in speech and ideas, and uses such words as "imperial" and "national" in their right place and with due emphasis. He is not a Tory, but a progressive Canadian.

In a real way the new organization has a right to the name "National." Sir Robert Borden and his ministry stood firmly at Paris and London for national status internationally, and equal partnership of Canada within the Britannic commonwealth. They have clinched that policy by arrangement for a Canadian minister at Washington, who will by request act as British ambassador in the absence of that official, but the favor will not be reciprocal.

The governing party is representative of eight out of the nine provinces of Canada. It is likely to continue in that position, for Quebec gives no indication of becoming reconciled. But Premier Meighen will be just, perhaps generous, to that province. There has been no threat at any time against the constitutional or special privileges of Quebec. The dual language system which "exists" in the parliament of Canada is an anomaly only possible in a country of generous traditions. It may be the rising tide of Canadian nationalism will sweep it aside; but neither the premier nor any member of this parliament has said one word which might be interpreted as meaning interference with French Canada.

There is a logical demand for amendment of the constitution of Canada, the British North America act, so that the constitution may be amended without reference to the paliament of the United Kingdom. Quebec is not friendly to the plan, and French Canadian influence in Saskatchewan has given indication of power to block the wheel of progress. But the young, virile giant of Canada will give time for reasonable objections and fair criticisms; then will insist on the national right of control of the constitution within the country, requiring only the assent of the crown, which must act on the advice of the Canadian ministry. An amendment is to be put through soon, under which extra-territorial power will be extended to all legislative enactments of the parliament of Canada, will be binding on Canadian subjects outside as well as in Canada. The same authority belongs to any sovereign state over its own nationals.

There is no doubt as to what the British parliament will do with the proposed amendment. They will pass it without question. But there is not the same certainty about the other test of Canadian legal autonomy involved in the Russell appeal to the imperial privy council. This man, R. B. Russell, was convicted in the criminal courts of Canada, at Winnipeg, for sedition. He was given a fair trial, and, while it may be politically expedient to be magnanimous with those men, the right and authority of the courts must be vindicated. If the privy council refuses the right to appeal, thereby upholding the authority and right of the parliament and courts of Canada, there will be an end to the question of the challenge to the sovereign power and authority of the parliament to pass and enforce law.

This new cabinet of fifteen members represents the conservative traditions and political policy of Canada. It stands for the unity of the British empire as a commonwealth of free nations; for extension of Canadian trade, the development of agriculture, and the boundless resources of Canada; for good relations with the United States, and for fraternal relations with all peoples through the league of nations, of which Canada is an active member in good standing.

ROUMANIA GAINS RAPIDLY

BY CONGER REYNOLDS.

[By Special Cable.]
[Copyright: 1920: By the Tribune Company.]

PARIS, July 17.—The United States minister at Bucharest, Charles J. Vopicka of Chicago, arriving in Paris en route home on a two months' leave, gave an optimistic report on conditions in Roumania.

"Conditions in Roumania are improving because, in the first place, the last election gave the nation a stable government, and, secondly, the prospects for crops are very good. The people are confident of the future, knowing the country to be self-sustaining and rich. They are just about to withdraw from circulation the kroner and German money issued by the Germans during the occupation, which are being replaced with new bank notes ordered in America. They will have one kind of money. I'm sure it is going to have a great effect upon the people of the different provinces recently added to Roumania.

"Roumania is trying to protect the people on the farms, to whom property is apportioned, and small investors against great corporations.

"The new prime minister, Gen. Averesco, assures foreign capital he will treat it as liberally as before, and, if that is done, I am sure many new wells will spring up in the petroleum field and Roumania will produce much more oil, to the benefit of Europe.

"Roumania needs a great deal of material, farming machinery, and cotton, which our country could well furnish. If necessary we could accept Roumanian treasury notes in payment, which after a short time will be as good as before the war.

"Bolshevism didn't take hold of the people of Roumania, due to wise legislation, giving the people general suffrage, giving liberty of suffrage to the Jews, dividing large estates and parceling them out to farmers. The Roumanians would like to do business with America, because they feel they are obliged to our country for the victory during the war, and they are willing to pay the debt they owe our country."

Vopicka was accompanied by William Stevenson Jr. of Chicago, his son-in-law. They are sailing on the Olympic on July 31.

REWRITING "NATURAL SELECTION."

BEAUTY is the sign and the expression of the potentiality of the individual; not what he has done or is doing but what he is capable of doing; not what he is capable of doing for his own interests but what he is capable of doing for the species.

Put in the plainest of terms, the most beautiful woman, the handsomest man, are the persons we would choose to be co-parents of our children, if we considered nothing but the highest mental and physical welfare of these children.

This is not the expressed opinion of my colleague of the Beauty Column. It is that of a professor in Johns Hopkins university and is the main theme of a beauty book.

A recent writer in the Saturday Evening Post made this distinction between a high brow and a low brow: The high brow argues from the abstract to the concrete. The low brow states the concrete and occasionally argues on the abstract. The Johns Hopkins professor fills the bill of a high brow by proceeding to concrete illustration.

The baldheaded man never will be regarded as an Adonis by a woman nor selected as the father of her children. Such a man may as well recognize the fact that when he is taken as husband he is regarded as a remnant or, for some other reason, a bargain counter attraction. The bald headed man cannot stand muscular exertion or the nervous strain of which the hairy headed man is capable. It is difficult to conceive of a bald headed musical genius or artist.

After stating other arguments, the professor says: "The quantitive hair character, therefore, may in all probability be reduced to an indication of physical vigor and physical vigor is far more important as a beauty asset than mental ability."

In some way the female of the species unconsciously senses the relation of hair, physical vigor, and potential parenthood.

The male is no less prejudiced against the scanty haired of the opposite sex.

The accepted beauty standards for the mouth and nose are based on a well grounded genetic basis, though we need a professor to tell us so and to point out the why of it.

In a discussion of the size of the feet he says: "The demand for a small foot has compelled women to wear shoes which by raising the heel several inches make the ground base of the shoe about two-thirds the real length of the foot. The shortening of the skirt exposes the artifice. One desirable effect of the permanent adoption of sensible clothing by women will be allowing the foot to retain its natural form."

Short skirts likewise make it impossible for a woman to hide bowlegs and knock knees. Bowlegs and knock knees are due to rickets in childhood. Rickets in childhood are due to bad hygiene. Shortening of skirts will make parents more anxious to bring up their girl babies in the midst of good hygienic surroundings, for bad hygiene means rickets, rickets mean bowlegs, and the male with his long nose for genetics will pass by the female whose legs bow in or out.

Is it muscle tone? Lack of muscle tone is shown in wrinkles. What male or female will marry wrinkles, except at a bargain.

TEETH MAY BE TO BLAME.

C. S. writes: "About eighteen or twenty years ago, some months following several weeks of strenuous work and worry, I had what the local doctors called an acute attack of Bright's disease, which left me with a rather severe pain in the lower region of my back. I finally had an examination by a Chicago specialist, who said I had lumbago and advised me to quit worrying and follow my regular work, observing such rules of eating and general health as any normal person should do. Needless to say that I returned home feeling much better and have been reasonably well ever since, with the exception of the fact that my lumbago still persists, more troublesome at times than others. What causes lumbago? Can it be caused by bad teeth? I have several crowned teeth and it seems to me that it might be quite possible for trouble there and I not know of it."

REPLY.

Lumbago is rheumatism of the muscles of the back. In cases of lumbago the teeth, tonsils, nasal sinuses, pelvic organs, gall bladder, and appendix should be under suspicion.

HAVE SPECIALIST TELL CAUSE.

D. F. F. writes: "About a month ago I noticed that my eyes were not right. A dimness seemed to come over them. In fact, I could not read the largest print ten feet away from me with my left eye. I had a specialist examine my eyes and he said the trouble was not in my eyes, but was caused by some organic trouble. What could cause this? Do you think it is serious?"

REPLY.

Blindness can be caused by certain poisons such as lead and tobacco. It can result from Bright's disease. Blindness is serious. Have your physician, now that he has told you what is not responsible, go one step further and tell you what is.

OPERATION SEEMS BEST.

M. O. N. writes: "My wife is suffering from a double rupture of the navel for the last thirteen years. It is growing larger and now projects fully two inches. When she wears her corsets for an hour or so she becomes very ill and suffers great pain, which lasts for a day or two. She is now 51 years old, rather stout, and a little nervous. Would an operation be advisable?"

REPLY.

The indications are that the pressure pinches or otherwise irritates the loop of intestine in the rupture. Operation will lessen her discomfort and inconvenience and spare her some risk of strangulation.

PROBABLY OVERNERVOUS.

T. L. writes: "1. What is the meaning of the word hyperthroidism? 2. At times I get such an annoying feeling as if my heart were knocking hard. Can this be a heart affection? 3. Can that be the cause of heavy feeling at the top and back of my head? 4. I also get spells that make my hands and feet powerless. I can hear, but have not the power to speak. This lasts about five to ten minutes."

REPLY.

1. Too much thyroid. The word means almost the same as does the word goiter.
2. This could be due to goiter, hyperthyroidism or nerves.

3-4. These symptoms suggest that you are neurasthenic. People with weights and bands of the head generally are neurasthenic.

LAMB NOT VENGEFUL.

M. E. L. writes: "I have a very quick, sharp pain shoot through my big toe joint. I have eaten lamb constantly. Now I read that lamb makes uric acid. The bone has enlarged somewhat. Also have a very slight snap when I bend a certain finger. The joint has very slightly enlarged. I am 59 years old and my general health is good. The toe joint is very tender.

"1. Can you tell me what food or medicine, or both, will help?

"2. What can I do for my joint to harden it so I can wear my usual shoe?"

REPLY.

1. You appear to be having gout. Lamb is as apt to promote gout as any other meat, but not more so. Eat potatoes and other vegetables freely, but no meat. 2. Use any salve or liniment you wish.

FRIEND OF THE SOLDIER

AMERICAN LEGION.

HEALTH IS IMPAIRED.

Chicago, July 13.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—When I entered the army I was apparently in very good physical condition. Upon discharge they said I had tuberculosis and sent me to a sanitarium, where I was for several months. Then I left there supposedly cured. I should like to know if the government would pay for me to have an examination for this. I may not have the disease, but I know I am not in the best of health; and, inasmuch as my physical condition was impaired in the service, I feel I am entitled to some consideration from the government. Do you think I would be paid compensation? S. E. Q.

Lose no time in reporting to the U. S. Public Health Service, located in the Leiter building, Chicago. This government organization makes examination of all ex-service men who were disabled while in the service.

If you are in need of medical attention or hospital treatment, arrangements will be made for it, and you will receive it at the expense of the government. Whether or not you will be paid compensation will depend on the extent of your disability, as decided by the board.

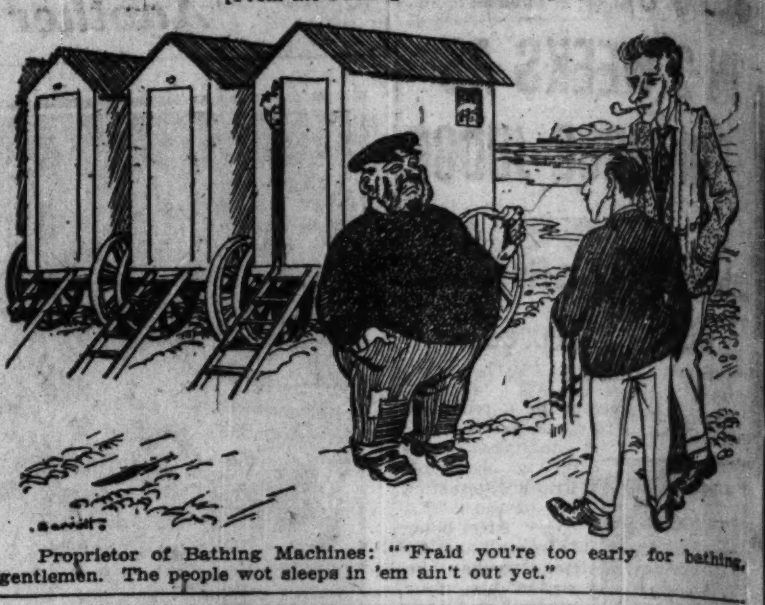
THE HOUSING PROBLEM

[From the Passing Show, London.]



Proprietor of Bathing Machines: "'Fraid you're too early for bathing, gentlemen. The people wot sleeps in 'em ain't out yet."

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters for this department must be signed with names and addresses of the writers.

REPAIRS ORDERED.

Chicago, July 15.—[To the Friend of the People.]—During the latter part of the last summer it was found necessary to make a sewer repair on Orchard street at the junction of Arlington place. The street pavement was torn up and a temporary replacement made until a permanent repair could be made by the city. The hole in the pavement is now more than six inches below the level of the street and is the bane of every automobilist using either of the above streets. P. J. K.

The street repair division has the order for the restoration of the pavement at this location. The work will be done as soon as possible. THOS. H. BYRNE,
Superintendent of Streets.

NEW GAS RATES.

Chicago, July 15.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The new gas rates authorized by the state public utilities commission became effective with gas meters read on June 16 and after, covering gas consumed during the month preceding above dates. WILLIAM H. REID, Commissioner of Public Service.

GUARD GARDENS.

Chicago, July 15.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Some time ago I wrote you regarding the shutting up of some chickens belonging to Mr. Andrew Hoekstra, 10337 Wallace street. These chickens are still at large and are spoiling the gardens in the neighborhood. E. A. B.

Regarding complaint of premises 10337 South Wallace street, I wish to state that there has been no response to our notice of June 19 nor a board hearing notice of June 24 sent to the owner of the above premises. An inspection July 2 showed about two dozen young chickens at large. The owner of the premises was not at home at the time and therefore could not be interviewed. We are again writing Mr. Hoekstra to comply with the notice at once or legal action will be taken. JOHN DILL ROBERTSON,
Commissioner of Health.

SOVIET SOLVENCY.

Chicago, July 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—In September, 1919, a vice president of a bank went to Russia with a view of taking over money from the people of this country, and paying over to relatives over there. I am holding a receipt for the amount of $140 which I gave him, and he promised to pay them 1,000 rubles. He has since returned to this country, and having failed to pay the 1,000 rubles instead of returning to me the $140 he wants to return 1,000 rubles of foreign currency, which I refuse to accept. Can he make me accept the 1,000 rubles, or am I entitled to the $140 in American money? A. K.

It seems probable that you may be entitled to the $140, but we cannot advise to advantage without knowing the facts in more detail. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BEQUESTS WOULD STAND.

Chicago, July 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Suppose a woman dies without issue, bequeathing amounts to several of the blood relatives. The husband becomes dissatisfied and renounces the will, claiming his half. Would these bequests stand or the entire estate be settled as though no will had been made? F. D. H.

The bequests would stand as to the balance of the estate.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FILE OBJECTION.

Chicago, July 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Our taxes on a vacant lot were increased about 40 per cent this year. We wish to have the error adjusted by the board of review. Will you state when and where the sessions will be held? M. J. S.

File objection with board of review in county building now. You will be notified when to appear.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE MOVIE IS SILENT.

Chicago, July 14.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Talk about profiteering—some of Chicago's large movie houses sure do take the hand painted washcloth. A picture that one can see a few weeks later for far lower prices (of course, the interior of the show may not be as nice, but it's the same picture) they have the nerve and audacity to charge 50 cents plus 5 cents war tax. How do they get that way?

Another thing, how is it that very few houses have reduced the price of admission while the musicians are on strike? What are they going to do with the $500 or $600 not paid to them?
ROY S. ANDERSON.

BUT THE PATRONS ARE NOT.

Chicago, July 14.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—We heard recently that New York movie musicians received an increase of 50 per cent last week, while we in Chicago, if we wish to attend a movie, have to sit in silence or listen to our neighbors' chatter. Is the Chicago public less musical than New York's? The Chicago managers say their patrons prefer not to pay the 3 cent raise of admission, but would rather do without music. These same managers must be speaking for a few, but certainly not for the majority, as there are many Chicagoans who enjoy good music and still haven't the price of a seat to the symphony orchestra.

Besides, if 75 per cent increase means only a 3 cent raise in admission, it is just a matter of arithmetic that the present admission fee allows only 4 cents for music. We cease to wonder how they are able to build million dollar houses in the loop. Why, then, should they be so fearful that the musicians' increase will eat up all their profits?
M. M.

EASY FOR THE AUTOIST.

Chicago, July 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have read in THE TRIBUNE during the last few days Coroner Hoffman's account of auto killings; Chief Garrity's "stamp out vice or face trial"; "H. B. R.'s" letter regarding wholesale ordinance violations; and, this morning, "four cars wrecked, policeman punched, but——" Mr. Schuttler quietly walked out of the police station. It is to laugh, tweet, tweet! There is not a police officer in the loop and on the park systems but could each make from 100 to 500 arrests a day if they apprehended every violator. Stand by any traffic officer and note the number of cutouts that go by within three feet of him; note the number of trucks with license plates covered with mud or so placed as to be covered by the load or no plates at all; at night try to read nineteen out of any twenty rear license numbers at half the law-prescribed readable distance. Thirty-nine cars passed a certain corner of Sheridan road within one hour with only one front light. Crossing Austin avenue at Clark street recently patrol wagon (license No. 35,110) turned west into Austin avenue close to the left hand curb and passed behind six or eight people standing in the middle of the street waiting for west bound vehicular traffic to pass and allow them to cross. Had any one stepped backward he would have been struck.

Can you blame us autoists for disregarding ordinances when the police are not forced to arrest all violators of all regulations?

This morning I witnessed an accident which drew two policemen, two motor cops, and a plain clothes man. A passing car stopped and the owner got out to view the wreck, leaving his motor running. I called an officer's attention to it, and he merely replied (noticing a certain emblem on the radiator), "O, he's got a lawyer to help him out."

Recently I had a Lincoln park officer stop a car driver who had indulged in reckless driving and against whom I wanted to make complaint. The officer replied, "Well, this happened downtown, didn't it?" I replied, "No, it was right along the drive." "Well," he said, "it will compel you to go over to the station if I do," etc.—trying to get out of doing his duty even when appealed to.

If you want us car owners to respect any ordinance then let Chief Garrity put out 1,000 special officers some Sunday night for only an hour or two and tell them "arrest every violator or face trial," and then we drivers will begin to observe a few of them. But at present it's 1,000 to 1 we can get by with any ordinance. CAR OWNER.

WHEN THE MUSIC STOPS.

Chicago, July 8.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I know it would be greatly appreciated by a good many people if your paper would say something about audible conversation and comments on pictures while the performance is going on.

The other day I went into a moving picture theater with the intention of spending an enjoyable evening. As soon as I sat down two girls on the left hand side of me started in talking loudly enough to be heard several rows away, making fun of the picture that was being shown. When they finally arose to go several people turned and looked after them with relief. When they were gone a young woman and man sat down on my right hand side. They were even worse than the girls. I'm quite positive that people sitting five rows in front could easily hear their remarks, which, though they may have been meant to be witty or humorous, were insulting not only to the picture itself but to the audience who were seeing the picture.

If such people had a grain of respect for other people's feelings they'd either leave the theater or else reserve their comment until they got outside.
ELIZABETH TAUBEL.

JOBS FOR SOLDIERS.

Chicago, July 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Your editorial of the 12th inst. condemning the Thompson machine for not naming soldiers on their tickets is a good one and has a real patriotic ring, but when it comes down to facts, what has Brundage or Deneen ever done for them? What appointments of this kind have they made or recommended? I wish you would relate one instance of their respect for the soldier. I fail to find one case in state, county, or park boards under their control. Just recently the Lincoln park board, acting according to the opinion of their attorney, turned down the soldiers' preference law passed at the last session of the legislature, although all city, state, and park institutions favor and are working under this law. M. T. LAVIN.

SAVINGS BANK INTEREST.

Chicago, July 10.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Regarding announcement in this morning's TRIBUNE, "First National Stock Increase Approved by U. S." In view of the fact of enormous earnings made by all Chicago banks the past few years and these earnings made possible largely by savings accounts and the high rates of interest now charged borrowers, why should it not be in line with the trend of the times for banks to increase interest rates paid savings depositors from that now paid, viz.: 3 per cent to 4, or even 5 per cent? Passing through Youngstown, O., recently I noticed the banks all advertising 5 per cent on savings deposits. D. F. DORSETT.

TABLOID BOOK REVIEW

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Last week's best sellers in a leading Chicago book store were:

FICTION.

- "Mrs. Warren's Daughter" [Macmillan], by Sir Harry Johnston.
- "This Side of Paradise" [Scribners], by F. Scott Fitzgerald.
- "Pink Gods and Blue Demons" [Doran], by Cynthia Stockley.
- "Daisy Ashford: Her Book" [Doran], by Daisy Ashford.
- "The Third Window" [Houghton Mifflin], by Anne Douglas Sedgwick.
- "Open the Door" [Harcourt Brace & Howe], by Catherine Carswell.

NONFICTION.

- "White Shadows in the South Seas" [Century], by Frederick O'Brien.
- "Poems by a Little Girl" [Stokes], by Hilda Conkling.
- "Tramping Through Changing Germany" [Harpers], by Harry A. Franck.

Last week's six best circulators in the public library were:

- "This Side of Paradise," by F. Scott Fitzgerald.
- "White Shadows in the South Seas," by Frederick O'Brien.
- "The Inside Story of the Peace Conference," by Dr. Dillon.
- "Woman Triumphant," by Blasco Ibanez.
- "Now It Can Be Told," by Philip Gibbs.
- "Affinities," by Mary Roberts Rinehart.

"TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY POUND PRIZE NOVEL" is the caption blazoned on the jacket of "Open the Door," by Catherine Carswell. Prize novels are notoriously disappointments. We've had our mental fingers burned too often in the fire of publicity that surrounds them. They are usually a breed of book by themselves—like prize hogs—not much use in everyday life, and the progenitors of other "prizes." The Melrose prize in England is given for the best first novel of the year. This time it is really a solid, fine piece of work. "Open the Door" is one of the most complete, thorough records of a woman's adjustment to her fate that I have read. There are obvious raw edges—a couple of blatant lapses of memory on the part of the author, and some bad proofreading, but they are the inevitable result of the book's "firstness."

As an understanding, sympathetic, but never maudlin nor sentimental, mental and spiritual clinic of a woman's psychology, it is a real accomplishment. It leaves the reader with a completely satisfied sense of having read the truth. Few books do that. Many novels are vastly entertaining just because they aren't true, and the reader knows it. Once in a long, long while a novel comes which is true, sometimes sweetly, sometimes brutally, but always beautifully true, and one realizes the essential reality of the artist's creed that truth is beauty and beauty truth.

It would be unfair to call Miss Carswell's book a novel of sex, because it is the least "sexy" of any imaginable book, but it gives sex its full due in the life of a beautiful woman, naturally and simply. "Open the Door" has that same quality of vitality and reality that makes "This Side of Paradise" so important a book, though the author is obviously more en rapport with life than Mr. Fitzgerald.

"Mrs. Craddock," one of Somerset Maugham's earlier novels, has just been published in this country. It is, to me, much more important than "The Moon and Sixpence," more readable and less dour than "Of Human Bondage," Somerset Maugham at his pleasant best instead of his bitter best. It is the psychological study of a marriage between a highly emotional and expressive woman and a man who could not respond to her. The book is written skillfully. As a record of a sex clash, it is brilliant without being bitter. "The Explorer," another of Somerset Maugham's early novels just brought out in this country, is a second rate piece of work. "Mrs. Craddock" is a worthy companion to the best that he has done.

"Prize Stories 1919" is the fitting memorial for O. Henry which the Society of Arts and Sciences chose instead of a needle in Gramercy park, or a tablet on O. Henry's house in West Twenty-sixth street, or a perpetual wreath on his grave, or something else conventional. The short stories of 1919 were all considered, the best were chosen, according to the taste of the committee, and were permanently preserved in this living memorial to O. Henry's influence on the American short story. They are not stories in his style any more than they are tales after the manner of Mark Twain or Thomas Bailey Aldrich. But they all are a definite expression of some phase of American life—as O. Henry's were. They are an exceedingly representative group of American short stories, beginning with that touchingly lovely story of Margaret Prescott Montague's, "England to America," which has been made into a little book by itself. Her "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge" has been made into a companion volume to it—together they are a memorial to those who never came back from "over there."

"Constantine I. and the Greek People," by Paxton Hibben, is another of the post-war now-it-can-be-tolds. Mr. Hibben wrote this book three years ago, but it was not published because it would have been poor diplomacy. Now it appears—a passionate vindication of Constantine and a denunciation of Venizelos. The book is dedicated to the former king thus, "Sire! I do not believe in kings nor in the business of kings. But I believe in you, sir, as a man. It is therefore, not to the King of the Hellenes that I dedicate this book, but to the sincere democrat, the leader and comrade of his people, the brave and able soldier, the loyal friend, the devoted patriot, and the generous, open hearted man that I have found you."

"Ditte: Girl Alive," by Martin Anderson Nexo, author of "Pelle the Conqueror," was promised for spring publication by Henry Holt & Co., but the casualness of life in general has made it inadvisable to bring it out before fall. Likewise, by the roadside has faltered the collected poems of Walter de la Mare. But they are sure to appear in the fall.

Haven't you heard Anne Douglas Sedgwick always spoken of as an English writer? She was, as a matter of fact, born in New Jersey, and she lived in America until she was 9 years old. Then her family moved to England and, except for five years which she spent in Paris, she has lived in England all of her life. She is the wife of Basil de Selincourt, of the famous De Selincourt family. "The Third Window" is one of the few psychic novels which are worth reading because they are literature.

No lover of poetry can afford to miss the preface, "On the Nature of Poetry," which D. H. Lawrence contributes to his volume of "New Poems," just published in this country by B. W. Huebsch. It is a poetic exposition of the essential spirit of the new poetry. "It is," says Mr. Lawrence, "the soul, the mind, and body surging at once. They all speak together. There is some confusion, some discord. But the confusion and the discord only belong to the reality, and noise belongs to the plunge of water. Free verse has its own nature, it is neither star nor pearl, but instantaneouslike plasm—the utterance is like a spasm, naked contact with all influences at once. It does not want to get anywhere. It just takes place." The entire preface is remarkable.

"Harvest" was the last of Mrs. Humphry Ward's novels, so her American publishers say. At the time of her death she was not at work on a new novel. I'll wager that they find some old, forgotten manuscript and add it to her long list of best sellers. They always do.

"The Rose of Jericho," by Ruth Holt Bouccicault, is a story of a beautiful young country girl, her first and fatal love affair as an actress, her child, her pseudo-marriage with an actor, her success, and—but it's the kind of story that sounds twashy if the plot is told, and is really very enthralling for a hot—or rainy—summer afternoon if you don't know beforehand what's going to happen. It's well written, the plot is pretty good, and it's just unconventional enough to shock those who love being shocked, and fundamentally moral enough for the cynics.

John Bojer nearly wrecked the constitutions of the friends he had in New York when he was here a little while ago. He was the eagerest sightseer in America. He could scarcely wait until the luncheon check was paid before he was off for the matinée. Tea was a formality which included the youth, the beauty, and the brains of New York, but it never made him forget that dinner held new delights. An evening except under the glimmer of Broadway was no evening at all, and even in these rather quiet days in the cabarets he found joy unconfined.

Anyway, though his eagerness to see America put one of his best friends into a state of complete exhaustion, and nearly disrupted the home of another, newly married and wholly devoted to his wife, it did land him on Broadway for the fall.

He will have three plays produced, "The Power of a Lie," with Edith Taliaferro as the protagonist of his philosophy; "Eyes of Love," with Kathleen MacDonald, and a third play, which is now called "Sigurd Braa," but which is to have a less saga-ish name. "Thirst," the first new novel written since "The Great Hunger," will be published this fall.

Credit for the discovery of the truly beautiful genius of little Hilda Conkling must be given to Harriet Monroe—who has done immeasurably fine things for poetry in America. Perhaps you remember in 1916 that little group of poems by Hilda Conkling which we all talked about so much. During the next three years thirty-seven of Hilda's poems appeared in Poetry, a Magazine of Verse, and then Miss Monroe suggested to the Stokes company that they publish a volume of poems by children—including Hilda's and other children's poems which had appeared in the magazine. When the manuscript of Hilda's verses arrived, they were found to contain enough really memorable material to make a book by themselves. No words of praise are too extravagant for "Poems by a Little Girl." They are poetry of such rareness, such exquisite beauty, such vision and imagination, as to be envied by any poet and rejoiced in by any one who loves poetry.

"The Rolling Stone," by C. A. Dawson-Scott, is a man's book—the story of the "queer" Harry King, whose first aberration (according to his puritanical father) is his passion to become a professional prize fighter, and whose succeeding wanderings, through India and South Africa, his fighting in the Boer war, and his jaunt to New Zealand, only confirm the family's idea that he never will gather any moss. It is written with a man's force and from a man's point of view—strangely enough by a woman.

For those who eagerly await the latest addition to the Leonard Merrick American edition, it is good news that "When Love Flies Out o' the Window" is on the presses.

POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW.

A HOLY NATION.

By Richard Realf.

Let Liberty run onward with the years,
And circle with the seasons; let her break
The tyrant's harshness, the oppressor's spears;
Bring ripened recompenses that shall make
Supreme amends for sorrow's long arrears;
Drop holy benison on hearts that ache;
Put clearer radiance into human eyes,
And set the glad earth singing to the skies.

Clean natures coin pure statutes. Let us cleanse
The hearts that beat within us; let us mow
Clear to the roots our falseness and pretense,
Tread down our rank ambitions, overthrow
Our braggart moods of puffed self-consequence,
Plow up our hideous thistles which do grow
Faster than maize in May time, and strike dead
The base infections our low greeds have bred.

CORDELL HULL PICKED TO RUN COX'S CAMPAIGN

Tennesseean Selected in Chicago Meeting.

Congressman Cordell Hull of Tennessee—"one of the silentest statesmen we have," he has been dubbed—is slated for election as chairman of the Democratic national committee. Formal election of Mr. Hull, unless there is a sudden twist in the plans, will come Tuesday when the national committee assembles in Columbus, O.

Judge E. H. Moore, manager of the Cox pre-convention campaign, has declined to have his name connected with the national chairmanship, a place that was allotted to him following the Frisco nomination.

Leaders in Chicago.

Judge Moore was in Chicago last night. Also in Chicago were Charles F. Murphy of Tammany and Gov. Smith of New York. George E. Brennan happened to drop in at the Congress hotel.

"I am not to be chairman of the national committee," Judge Moore said. "That is definitely settled."

Shortly thereafter the feeling became prevalent that Congressman Hull of Tennessee stands much the best chance to be chosen. Inasmuch as the Tennessean has the open backing of Thomas Taggart of Indiana, it might be put down as a cinch bet that Hull is as good as elected.

Cummings Not Candidate.

It is probable National Chairman Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut will not be a candidate for reëlection Tuesday. Mr. Cummings, it is likely, will be placed on a campaign committee to be created.

An atmosphere of complete confidence as to the November result pervaded the conferences that were held between the Democratic leaders. Judge Moore, who has been reported sick in San Francisco following the convention activities, was in fine fettle.

"Cox will carry Ohio beyond a doubt," he said. "The rea[illegible]n to the nomination has been won[illegible]fully favorable throughout the we[illegible]."

Mr. Murphy and Gov. Smith brought in tidings that were reassuring to the Democratic cause. They departed for New York last night.

Sketch of Hull.

Congressman Hull, slated for the national chairmanship, is thus described:

"'Judge' Hull, as he is frequently called by reason of the fact that he resigned a judgeship in Tennessee to run for congress in 1906, was born in October, 1871, among the hills in northern Tennessee, in what is now Pickett county. He served with the Tennessee infantry during the Spanish war. Fully half the counties of his big district are practically untouched by railroads."

CHEMIST, THREE OTHERS, KILLED IN AUTO CRASHES

Four persons were killed and a number injured yesterday in auto accidents in and near Chicago.

Arthur Becker, a chemist in the Amos Bird laboratories, Chicago, a Purdue university graduate and son of ex-Ald. J. C. Becker of Hammond, was killed yesterday at Hammond while riding at high speed in a racing car driven by Alvin Schreiber. Schreiber is in a critical condition. He drove his motor into a heavily laden truck.

Mrs. Lillian Argo of Hammond, while hurrying home from work, attempted to cross in front of a car belonging to Albert Pack, president of the Hubbard Steel Foundries, and was killed.

Alexander Raliemas, 5 years old, 3310 South Halsted street, was killed when struck by a truck owned by David Levine, 4329 Michigan avenue. The police held the driver, Tony Maccas.

Mrs. Catherine O'Malley, 55 years old, of 434 West Chicago avenue, died of injuries received when she was struck by an automobile at Orleans street and Chicago avenue.

Michael Fisher of 2814 Woodard avenue had a narrow escape from injury when the wagon in which he was riding was struck and overturned by an automobile truck at Chicago avenue and Larrabee street.

Joseph and Daniel O'Connell, young sons of the late Daniel O'Connell, former state representative, were seriously injured at Joliet when struck by an automobile.

THOMPSON MEN AND DEMOCRATS LATE IN FILING

Oglesby Alone in Field for Governor.

John G. Oglesby, now lieutenant governor, was the only candidate to file his primary petition yesterday at Springfield for the republican nomination for governor. Three candidates filed for United States senator—Edward B. Shurtleff, William B. McKinley and B. M. Chiperfield.

The only Thompson-Lundin candidates for state offices to file were William H. Reid for secretary of state, Edward E. Miller of East St. Louis for state treasurer and Richard Yates and William E. Mason for renomination as congressmen at large. Len Small for governor and Frank L. Smith for United States senator were not among the early birds. Under the old primary law, now restored to the statute books by the Supreme court opinion, names of candidates for state offices rotate on the ballot, and there was no particular rush for preferred position in the filings.

Only One Democrat.

The only Democratic state candidate to file was James J. Brady for state auditor. Thirty days remain during which candidates for state, congressional, and legislative offices may file their petitions.

For clerk of the Supreme court a surprise came with the filing of a petition for Lucas I. Butts of Peoria against Charles W. Vail. Mr. Butts is a former legislator and is now the sheriff of Peoria county.

Candidates for clerks of the Appellate courts in the four districts' filed their petitions. William J. Umbach is the coalition candidate in the Chicago district against Senator Francis P. Brady, the Thompson-Lundin slate candidate.

For the Democratic nomination for Appellate court clerk in Chicago, Ald. Matt Franz is the regular organization candidate against James S. McInerney, the incumbent.

Negro Against Madden.

The first day's list of filings for the congressional nominations shows that Congressman Madden has a Negro opponent in Richard E. Parker.

Congressman Wilson has three rivals in the Englewood district, including Elliott W. Sproul and former State Senator P. G. Baldwin, both listed as city hall men.

Former Ald. M. A. Michaelson, now a member of the constitutional convention, is the city hall candidate against Congressman Juul in the Seventh district.

Edgar J. Cooke, who was the Hiram Johnson delegate in the late national convention, is filed for congress in the tenth district against Congressman Chindblom.

On the Democratic side, Ald. Stanley H. Kunz becomes a candidate against Congressman Thomas Gallagher in the Eighth district and Ald. John Haderlein files as a candidate in the Tenth district.

GARRITY STARTS ACTION AGAINST THREE CABARETS

Chief of Police Garrity filed complaints against three cabaret proprietors yesterday with City Prosecutor Harry B. Miller for violation of the 1 o'clock closing ordinance.

"I will give these cases my special attention," said Mr. Miller. "On Monday I will ask that summonses issue and I will ask for immediate trials."

Already the chief's order enforcing the wartime ordinance closing amusements at 1 a. m. has caused a number of aldermen to object. There is a probability that these "kicks" may get Mayor Thompson's personal attention on his return from New York tomorrow.

Those hit by the chief's complaints to the city prosecutor are: Charles Ritty, manager of Ike Bloom's Midnight Frolic, 20 East Twenty-second street; Tom Chamales, Green Mill Gardens, 4800 Broadway, and Fred Mann, Rainbo Garden, 4814 North Clark street.

Arthur Burrage Farwell, president of the Chicago Law and Order league, called on the chief to renew his request that something be done to stop the mingling of whites and blacks in Second ward cafés.

FOUR INJURED AS AUTOS COLLIDE; CARS WRECKED

Four persons were injured yesterday afternoon when an automobile driven by Warren Mackin of 4744 Grace street collided with the car of Peter K. Kazan, 1432 North Ashland avenue, at Robey and Division streets.

Mackin, suffering from internal injuries, and three other occupants of his machine were taken to the county hospital.

They are: Joseph Gleason, 2207 West Thirteenth street, cuts about the face and body; John Brown, 4641 Warwick street, right arm fractured; Earl Klinger, 4744 Grace street, right ankle broken. Both machines were demolished. Kazan escaped with a few bruises.

50-50 SPLIT FOR TOP PLACE GIVEN G. O. P. FACTIONS

City Hall and Allies Get 4 First Filings Each.

The Republican allies and the city hall split fifty-fifty in first place positions for the September primaries when the petitions were filed yesterday for county offices with County Clerk Sweitzer. Of the eight county offices for which nominations will be made, the mayor's candidates secured four first places and the Brundage-Deneen combination that opposes the hall won four. The three top places on the sanitary district ticket went to the allies.

The city hall filed a petition for Frank S. Righeimer for county judge, although no election has been called by Gov. Lowden for the Scully vacancy. The city hall also filed a petition for Francis P. Brady for clerk of the appellate court. Matt Franz, the regular organization candidate of the Democrats for this place, also filed his petition with the county clerk. In the complicated legal situation caused by the supreme court's knockout of the 1919 primary law, candidates for this clerkship filed both in Chicago and with the secretary of state at Springfield.

Two Democrats Oppose State.

The first day's filings showed but two candidates in opposition to the regular organization's slate on the Democratic side.

Thomas J. Lynch filed his petition as an independent candidate against State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne, who stands at the head of the Democratic ticket. Ald. William R. O'Toole filed as a candidate for trustee of the sanitary district against the three slate candidates.

List of the Candidates.

The list of candidates filed yesterday follows. On the Democratic side "R" indicates candidate of the regular organization and "I" indicates independent. On the Republican side "T" indicates the city hall slate candidate and "A" indicates the candidates of the allied forces that oppose Mayor Thompson's slate.

The usual rush and excitement attending first day of filing in the past was noticeably absent yesterday. The petitions that arrived in the regular mail had precedence. The office of the county clerk closed at noon after 121 petitions had been filed, most of them for senatorial district committeemen. Prospective primary candidates have until Aug. 6 to file petitions and Aug. 11 is the last day for withdrawals.

Robert E. Burke will file his petition as a Democratic candidate for United States senator next Tuesday.

Charles Boeschenstein Not to Run Cox Office Here

Edwardsville, Ill., July 17.—Charles Boeschenstein, Democratic national committeeman for Illinois, declared before his departure for Dayton, O., today, where he will attend a conference tomorrow with Gov. James M. Cox, that he would not accept the management of the Democratic headquarters to be maintained at Chicago during the presidential campaign.

Doctor Finds Purse Gone After Woman Leaves Car

"Pardon me, but you are blocking my way," exclaimed a flashily dressed young woman yesterday as she bumped against Dr. J. B. Caldwell of Morton Grove as he was boarding a car at Wabash avenue and Twelfth street. The woman left the car, and Dr. Caldwell, who has an office at 127 North Wells street, soon discovered his purse missing. It contained $36.

HARRISON GIVES SIGNS HE WILL BE CANDIDATE

Indications were increasingly strong last night that Carter H. Harrison will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Illinois. It is understood that his definite statement is to be given to the regular organization leaders not later than Wednesday.

One of the former mayor's closest personal friends last night said that the chances are better than even that Mr. Harrison will become an announced candidate when his decision is given.

Pending Mr. Harrison's determination, no state slate is to be made by the Democratic regulars. The general belief is that former Senator James Hamilton Lewis will be the slate candidate in the event that Mr. Harrison elects to stay out of the race. Mr. Lewis holds to the position that he will not permit the use of his name so long as there is possibility of Mr. Harrison's candidacy.

There is a possibility, it is known, that the name of former Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton will be suggested for the governorship, in the event that Mr. Harrison is not a candidate.

DESERTED WIFE AND BABY FOUND STARVING IN PARK

Woman Tells Samaritan Pitiful Story.

She was a bit of a woman. A night's long vigil on a bench in Washington park with a four weeks old baby girl, as yet unchristened, had made her seem old. Emaciated, hungry, and pitifully weak, the baby was scarcely able to cry.

The mother had a dime, a bag of stale buns and a bottle of sour milk. The collar of a faded blue coat was pulled tightly around her shoulders.

Thomas E. Hurley, stock broker at 7229 Cottage Grove avenue, found them several hours after morning had come. He took them to his home and there they will stay until mother and child are well and some other home is opened to them.

Sends Her to Chicago.

Three days ago the mother—her name is Elizabeth Coy—was living in Lyons, Ia., with a man whom two years ago she married in Michigan City. Wednesday he bought a ticket for Chicago, gave her 45 cents, and put her aboard a train for this city.

"I'm tired of you," he said, "and I have another wife. And believe me I'm not going to have a squawking kid around my home."

Determined that her baby should live despite her husband, the little woman came to Chicago. She knew no one here. Buying the baby some milk and munching a bun she set out to find work. She says she appealed to a number of charity organizations and to the police.

All Give Her Advice.

"All they gave me was advice. And everywhere I asked for a job folks said they couldn't have the baby around. I want to work; anything will do, but I can't leave my baby."

So she found her way to the park, and there with the baby spent the night. "I don't know what I would have done if these good people had not helped me. Guess the river would have been the only way out," she says.

Mr. Hurley says the two can stay with them until the mother finds work. "But we are going to leave the city soon, and we're hoping to see them located before we leave. Surely there is some one who will help her."

Mrs. Hurley recommends Mrs. Coy as a capable cook. She is willing, however, to take any sort of work that will provide a home for the baby.

$40,000 FOE OF LEN SMALL IS BELIEVED CRAZY

Kankakee, Ill., July 17.—Byron Caudell, who was said to have confessed to sending a threatening letter to Len Small, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, will be removed to the state hospital from the county jail for treatment for mental disorders, according to Sheriff W. J. Riley.

The letter demanded $40,000 and threatened death to Mr. Small and his family unless the money was paid.

The sheriff said Caudell was in a serious condition and needed immediate treatment.

HUSBAND WOUNDS WIFE HE LEFT, THEN KILLS SELF

George Polacek, 45 years old, of 1623 Augusta street, shot and killed him- Augusta street, shot and killed himself yesterday after stabbing his wife Dorothea six times with a bread knife.

A son, John, 19 years old, was questioned by Lieut. Willard Malone of the West Chicago avenue station.

The Polaceks had been separated for three years until recently. They have four other children besides John.

After her husband cut her Mrs. Polacek ran screaming into the yard. She was observed by a passing autoist, Joseph Moilari, of 824 Austin avenue. He took her into his car and rushed her to Dr. George Valgano's offices at 1201 Grand avenue, and from there she was taken to the county hospital.

O'BRIEN WEDDING SMASHES U. S. BACHELORS' CLUB

Clyne, Mager, and Clare Take Action.

Members of the "Blissful Bachelors' club" at the federal building held an indignation meeting yesterday and unanimously ousted Thomas J. O'Brien, chief field deputy collector of internal revenue, from the organization. They learned that he had committed, for them, the unpardonable sin. He married Miss Nettie Kaufer, 210 North Paulina street, a childhood sweetheart, last Wednesday. The news of the wedding leaked out yesterday.

The chief deputy surrounded his departure from single blessedness with the greatest mystery. Even his closest friends were barred from his confidence and not even the matchless spy system employed by the club learned of the wedding until it was an open secret in the deputy's office.

Rumors that "the boss" was married circulated early yesterday when a feminine member of the office staff in the internal revenue department heard the chief tell some one over the telephone that their secret was still safe.

Girls Dig Up Secret.

That was enough for the girls. Five minutes later they were all chattering about O'Brien's queer actions in the last three days. One girl remarked how he had blushed crimson when the office force had presented him with a bouquet of flowers last Thursday, and how relieved he was when he read the card explaining that the flowers were in recognition of his efforts to get increased pay for the employés.

Clyne Takes Action.

District Attorney Clyne, president of the club, was informed.

"I can't believe it," he said. Then he called the other two members to his office, where the following set of resolutions were approved and ordered sent to O'Brien:

"Whereas, there has existed in the federal building at Chicago a group of four blissful bachelors, sworn to resist the blandishments of the fair sex and the irksome bonds of matrimony, and to keep sacred forever their allegiance to each other; and,

"Whereas, This alliance consisted of Charles F. Clyne, William H. Clare, collector of customs; Thomas J. O'Brien, chief field deputy, and Harry W. Mager, collector of internal revenue; and,

"Whereas, Mr. O'Brien has secretly and maliciously violated the pact by getting married; therefore be it

"Resolved, That said Mr. O'Brien be and is hereby not only vigorously denounced, but permanently expelled from the club."

Everybodys Friend at Kids' Camp

One hundred and seventy Chicago kids are having the picnic of their young lives at Camp Reinberg, the county's "poor kid" vacation grounds in the forest preserve.

They are there to play, ten days of the most cheerful back to nature play they have ever known. Most of their mothers have been left behind.

They only have two formations, one for the flag raising in the morning and another when the colors are lowered at sunset. The rest of the time they swim, catch turtle, ride the camp donkey, take long hikes in the woods, fish, climb trees, stalk (without evil intention) the deer, shoot "bo' an' arrows," and tell stories around the camp fire.

The camp will continue throughout the summer.

RACE REPORTED BY WIRES FROM LAND, SEA, AIR

New York, July 17.—With the America's cup races of 1920 has come an innovation in newspaper reporting.

Whereas, seventeen years ago, when the last international yachting classic was held, the Associated Press covered the event from ship and shore, this year it is reporting the races from land, sea and air, by wireless, telephone and land wire.

Using the Rockaway naval air station as a base, the Associated Press assigned two men to the seaplane it had chartered. One flew over the course, viewed preparations for the start, and returned to telephone a descriptive story to the New York office. The other meanwhile stepped into the plane and covered the start, telephoning his story from Rockaway while his companion was up in the air again, viewing the finish.

WILL CHALLENGE AGAIN IF BEATEN, SIR THOMAS SAYS

Highlands, N. J., July 17.—[Special.]—Sir Thomas Lipton, aboard his challenger here today, was asked this question:

"If you should not succeed in lifting the America's cup, will you challenge again?"

"Why shouldn't I challenge again?" said the Shamrock's owner, with a broad smile. "I have always received fair treatment from the splendid sportsmen here, and I see no reason why I should not attempt to continue the challenge in case it becomes necessary."

HAIL HITS NEBRASKA CROPS.

Norfolk, Neb., July 17.—Considerable damage was done to crops by the wind, hail, and rain storm that struck northern and western Nebraska last night, according to reports received here today. No estimate of the amount of the loss, however, is available.

2 OF DEFENDER'S CREW SCIONS OF U. S. PRESIDENTS

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—The Resolute's skipper and one of the crew are great-grandsons of President John Quincy Adams, the former being Charles Francis Adams II. and the latter his brother Arthur. They are nephews of the now famous Henry Adams and Brooks Adams. Their great-grandfather was the second president of the U. S. A.—John Adams.

Charles Francis II. has been sailing every kind of boat that floats for the last fifteen or twenty years around Boston, Marblehead, Gloucester, and other ports, and there isn't anything about a sailing craft that he doesn't understand. He knows, too, every change of wind and weather and its effect on the craft.

He was born at the old ancestral home of the Adamses in Quincy. He has been interested in sailing for thirty-five years. He is a director in several Boston corporations and is a trustee of Harvard.

RESOLUTE LEADS AS LIGHT WINDS STOP YACHT RACE

Lipton Said to Be Dissatisfied with His Crew.

smooth sea. Today it bunted a long ground swell and suffered in consequence. The sea was streaked and it looked as if the oversea creation always found itself traversing the oiliest stretches between the fanlike fingers that reached down and wafted the defender on and on.

Makes One Spurt.

A surprise was sprung by the challenger two-thirds the way to the first mark, when it awoke from a lethargic spell, took on a heel, creamed the suds out from under its stubbed nose, and nearly overhauled the defender, this transpiring with no great assistance except a trifling southerly slant.

This awakening, however, was but temporary. Resolute rounded the weather mark and reached for the ten mile leg toward the Jersey shore while the Britisher sulked and balked in the doldrums out of which it was impossible for a period of many minutes to extricate her. A big jib top sail was broken out and the jib taken in, but the sloop deliberately turned on its heel and wallowed without headway. Then, getting a move, it was forced to make two hitches to round the mark thirty-eight minutes after the defender, which had gained five miles.

Challenger's Tactless Tacks.

The following figures show the duration of each tack made by both yachts in which it will be noticed that as on Thursday the challenger made many more tacks than the defender:

Resolute—75 minutes 24 seconds, starboard; 19 minutes 27 seconds port; 6 minutes 4 seconds, starboard; 2 minutes 3 seconds port; 1 minute 53 seconds, starboard; 3 minutes 16 seconds, port; 9 minutes 28 seconds, starboard; 1 minute 48 seconds, ort; 16 minutes 9 seconds, starboard [turn first mark]; 59 minutes 50 seconds, port; 9 minutes 27 seconds, starboard; 42 minutes 42 seconds, port; 30 minutes 28 seconds, starboard; 7 minutes 29 seconds [second mark]. Race called off.

Shamrock IV—75 minutes 44 seconds, starboard; 19 minutes 2 seconds, ports; 2 minutes 31 seconds, starboard; 2 minutes 51 seconds, port; 2 minutes 10 seconds, starboard; 2 minutes 7 seconds, port; 8 minutes 2 seconds, starboard; 65 minutes 56 seconds, port; 16 minutes 30 seconds, starboard; 9 minutes 8 seconds, port; 10 minutes 1 second, starboard; 5 minutes 29 seconds, port, 3 minutes 30 seconds, starboard; 2 minutes 31 seconds, port [turned first mark]; 40 minutes 54 seconds, starboard; 5 minutes 38 seconds ,port; 10 minutes 8 seconds, starboard; 6 minutes 5 seconds port; 26 minutes 24 seconds starboard; 25 minutes 12 seconds. Race called off.

Start Is Delayed.

The regatta committee waited until nearly half an hour before the time limit expired for starting the race, and then seized upon a faint southeasterly breeze to send the yachts off on a ten mile beat along the first leg of the thirty mile triangle. In the fight for place at the start Burton on Shamrock was the aggressor throughout, but in spite of his every effort to pocket Resolute he failed, and before he realized it Skipper Adams had him nicely pocketed under Resolute, and crossed the line nine seconds in the lead.

The wind was very light, but Resolute, as on Thursday, began to beat to windward, and Shamrock fell off. In half hour it was clearly seen the challenger was no match for the defender in going windward in light airs.

The first leg was very slow, with Resolute drawing away constantly until a mile from the mark. Then the wind gave Shamrock a lift so that it drew up until it was only 100 yards to leeward of the defender. For a few minutes the race became exciting. In fact, it looked as if Shamrock might go through Resolute's weather.

Then came a remarkable piece of wind chicanery. Both yachts tacked to starboard three-quarters of a mile from the mark, with Resolute 100 yards to windward. The breeze gave it such a lift that it stood for the mark, but although Shamrock was scarcely a biscuit toss away, it passed over the challenger entirely and left it practically becalmed. Resolute nearly fetched the mark on that starboard tack and wore round it with another short hitch going quite fast. A mile away Shamrock lay flapping helpless in the long swell.

Five times Burton sought to coax the green yacht up to the mark and each time it shied like a horse at a hurdle. He tried it with three jibs and two head sails, but the fickle breeze and headtide drove it back each time. In the sixth try it reached it, nearly half an hour after Resolute.

Breeze Dies Down.

The second leg was planned to be a reach, but Resolute, out ahead, found it a close fetch, and finally it turned into the second beat of the day. Resolute was the first to be headed off and soon started a long beat up to the second mark. This shift with the lightening breeze settled the event for the day so far as the race was concerned, for there was no hope of a finish.

Far astern Shamrock, with still a whiff of air from the southeast, drew up until it was two miles astern of Resolute when it, too, began tacking up the breeze.

The time limit expired at 7:45 daylight time and at 7 o'clock Resolute reached the second mark, with ten miles to go in forty-five minutes. It sailed for a few miles under balloon jib topsail and then signaled for a tow line and started for its moorings in the Sandy Hook horseshoe.

Shamrock reached the mark half an hour later and its tug immediately took it in tow.

The yachts will meet again on Tuesday over another triangular course.

When Resolute gained its big lead after turning the first mark the flotilla of pleasure craft and excursion steamers, as of one impulse, abandoned Shamrock IV. and hurried after the defender. Only Victoria, bearing Sir Thomas and guests, stood by the challenger thus abruptly forsaken.

Fruit packed in a fancy basket costs more than if dropped in a paper bag. But it doesn't change the sweetness or quality of the fruit. It only increases the price.

Common Sense is on the Job

There are thousands of us who never had anyone but Mother wait on us at home. And we never paid Mother a salary. We didn't even tip her.

But when we ate lunch or dinner downtown, we paid someone for serving us. Also we tipped them. The service was part of the operating expense and had to be added to the price of the food.

It wasn't sensible. It was a useless luxury. But we couldn't escape it because it was part of the restaurant's plan of operation. It has been so for years.

Common Sense has solved this problem at the North American Restaurant just as it solves most of life's puzzles. By asking you to wait on yourselves, the cost of this service is deducted from the bill-of-fare and you pay for nothing but the food. You don't even waste money in tipping because there is no one here to tip.

In all other respects the North American preserves its time-honored methods. It is, as it always was, headquarters for the purest home cooked food obtainable and a cool, delightful dining room for man, woman and family. You get full portions; dine on snowy clean linen table cloths; and are provided with linen napkins and glistening silverware.

Already the result of the Common Sense plan has been remarkable. We are doing a bigger business than ever before in our history. The people have welcomed the change with open arms. They know it is sane. And the money they are saving is buying other necessities.

Common Sense is on the job.

FRENCH SENATE TO BAR NUDE ON THE STAGE

Hits at the Indecency of Many Plays.

[By Special Correspondence.]
[Copyright: 1920: By the Tribune Company.]

PARIS, July 7.—Nudity on the French stage will never be permitted again. This fact was adduced in the senate when M. de Lamarzelle interpolated M. Steeg, minister of the interior, and M. Lhopiteau, guardian of the seals, on questions of public decency.

M. d Lamarzelle was supported by Senator du Morbihan and by Hugues le Roux, the personal friend of Col. House and President Wilson. They demanded that the stage be cleansed of suggestive lines and costumes, that the theatrical billposters be censored, that movie films be regulated, and that "peep shows" be inspected by the police.

Blow at French Prestige.

When M. de Lamarzelle thundered forth that French prestige suffered seriously from the pornographic displays at certain theaters and music halls, and that tourists would leave France with lowered opinion of the French people because of what they had seen in amusement places, he was greeted with rounds of applause.

"France has not been saved from disaster in the great war to be delivered up to the minority of pornography purveyors that you stigmatize," shouted Hugues le Roux, and another burst of cheers greeted that remark.

Titles Too Suggestive.

Certain French managers have been becoming more and more licentious in their productions, said M. de Lamarzelle. He called attention to suggestive titles of plays, such as "The Bedroom of the Ingénues," produced recently at the notorious Concert Mayol, and the new revue there entitled "The Convent of Caresses." "Love Gone Mad" at the Folies Bergere, and other titles were mentioned as too suggestive by the senator.

He also scored the bill posters displayed by certain theaters. Most of these posters represent scantily clad women, some of them in daring postures, and bear slangy, suggestive phrases.

Costumes Grow Scanty.

Then M. de Lamarzelle attacked some of the scenes now being presented in Paris theaters. He said that certain managers were following a systematic scheme in reducing the costumes of actresses more and more with each new production.

Finally he demanded: "Are we going to permit the nude again on the French stage?"

The senators replied with a volley of "Noes" from all sides, and effectively settled that point.

It is known that a certain manager of a notorious café-concert, who had reached the limit in lack of costumes, was preparing a new scene in which a nude woman took a prominent part, and that he had assured the police authorities that the "art" in the piece required that the actress should be entirely undraped.

Legal Machinery Useless.

Certain films portraying risque scenes were then criticized, and M. de Lamarzelle concluded by calling attention of the authorities to "peep shows" in the poorer quarters, where children could drop a sou in a bioscope and see lewd pictures.

M. Steeg replied to the interpolation by stating that the hands of the government were tied, as there was not sufficient legal machinery for preventing suggestive productions. He stated that pornography was often camouflaged as art, and that managers and producers often blamed the public for construing artistic scenes as lewd displays.

M. Lhospiteau stated that new laws and regulations were being drafted, which, when they became effective, would permit the government to take action in cases where the public morals were affected.

A resolution was then passed directing the government to take all necessary steps to protect the public morals.

Louis Klatzco.

Their fellow policemen refer to them as "the All Nations Quartet," and Capt. Dennis Malloy of the East Chicago avenue police station says they are the four most efficient police officers in the city.

"Send the flivver squad."

That is the sole command Capt. Malloy gives when a trouble call comes into the station. When the four have set out from the station the commanding officer settles back in his chair. He knows they will handle any situation that develops, he says.

"They are the four most efficient policemen in the city," said the captain last night after they had made an unusually brilliant arrest. "They have more courage, more brains, more ability than any quartet in the department.

"They average five arrests a night and the men they arrest are bad men. Their average recovery of stolen goods runs into the thousands every week. Their batting average according to the police department percentage basis is .670. They will handle anything or anybody."

They—well, they are the East Chicago avenue flying squad and their names and nationalities are: Frank Mee, Irish; Ralph Moore, Swede; Victor Eck, German, and Louis Klatzco, Jew.

All can speak the tongue of their forefathers, which aids in making arrests and solving criminal mysteries.

AS POLAND GOES, SO GOES EUROPE EAST OF RHINE

France Alone Abroad Real Friend of Beset Nation.

PARIS, July 17.—As indicated in my recent Polish series, the situation on the Polish front is the most important fact in Europe, dominating and causing a continuance of the Spa conference. Execution of the Versailles treaty demands maintenance of buffer states between Russia and Germany, preventing a union for the object of overturning existing conditions. This is most important for Poland through its inherited enmity both for Russia and Germany.

Poland's situation always has been dangerous. All Russian royalists are hostile to Poland, considering it a lost province which should be restored to the empire. The bolsheviks desire Poland's destruction because they consider it reactionary, and it blocks the road of social revolution to the Rhine.

Germans Hate Poland.

All Germans hate Poland because the Danzig and Posen territory permanently has been removed and because of the Upper Silesia, Allenstein, and Marrenwerther plebiscites. They hate it, too, for blocking German exploitation of Russia.

Border disputes have caused the Lithuanians to dislike Poland. The Poles fought last year against the Czecho-Slovaks in the Teschen plebiscite area, where they still are unable to agree to a peaceful settlement.

The old Austro-Hungarian government gave the greatest encouragement to the mutual dislike of the Galician Poles and Ukrainians. Since then a war has been fought between them. Only recently they agreed on a common offensive against the bolsheviki. Under defeat the old antagonisms are reported reviving.

Mainspring of Polish Effort.

The mainspring of all Polish politics is a desire to govern themselves. During the great war Russia, Austria and Germany all tried to take advantage of this, making various promises resulting in various Polish factions supporting each other, and believing they thus were gaining freedom. The resulting differences still are alive. When the allies recreated Poland, Paderewski, a strong believer in a Polish future with the allies, because they were the representatives of liberalism, took power. The following experience caused many Poles to believe the allies were unwilling to permit a Poland sufficiently strong to insure its self-protection against its enemies and a reasonable economic independence. The peace conference denied numerous requests for aid on the ground they were not operating in line with the desires of other peoples. Subsequently the British materially aided Kolchak, Judenitch, Denikin, all reactionaries refusing recognition of Polish independence. At the same time they refused to aid Poland.

Polish experienced with the league of nations inclined them to believe the league was only a convenient camouflage for British commercial expansion. Next they saw the British, compelled through lack of military power to protect their Asiatic possessions from bolsheviki aggression, attempt to buy this protection by negotiations.

France, while aiding in the beginning, could not send troops because, besides its interior political questions, its army is the only one capable of Rhine operations, the British and American forces being numerically insignificant.

Election in Germany.

The German elections amply demonstrated a serious weakening of the moderate political parties and a strengthening of the reactionaries and socialists, believers in communism. These extremists, representing a great majority of the German peoples, want destruction of the Versailles treaty.

The right, failing other means, is willing to see bolshevism reach the Rhine, believing the Germans would soon reject it and the subsequent reaction would bring them into power. Also they hope, once Russian communications are established, they can unite with the steadily increasing number of conservative Russians against the bolsheviks, overthrow them, and themselves become the dominating Russian influence.

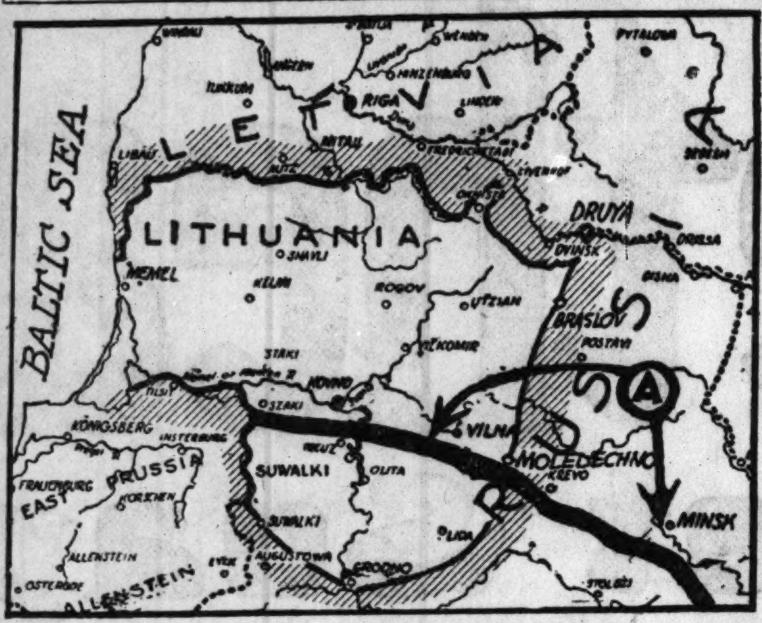
The left, including the independent socialists, really communists, while willing to play the allied game when there is no other help against the right, is more willing to unite with the Russians for the purpose of spreading communism as demonstrated by the communist plot sprung ahead of time during the Kapp outbreak.

A Paper Government.

The German Spa representatives belong to a government which does not represent the mass of the German people and therefore they are capable of an easy downfall. Many enemies at home are willing to cause their downfall, providing they do not obtain important Spa concessions. The danger of such a downfall, coupled with the continued successful bolsheviki advance, might cause a long threatened fight between the right and left, both of whom are armed. Coupled is the danger of Germany attacking the Polish rear in East Prussia and Upper Silesia.

Thus anxious questions are how much Poland and the Versailles treaty must sacrifice to prevent the bolsheviki from overthrowing Poland and uniting with the disorderly German elements.

Poles Forced Out of Vilna



1—Warsaw reports Polish detachments have been forced out of Vilna after severe street fighting. Moscow reports the red armies have gained ground all along the Vilna-Minsk line.

The Lithuanian army is evidently coöperating on the right wing of the soviet armies. A force of 30,000 Lithuanians has been reported in suburbs of Vilna, ready to move in when the Poles had left.

The Russians have signed a peace treaty with Lithuania recognizing the borders at Dvinsk, Baronovitch, Grodno, and Suwalki. They will not enter Lithuania upon capturing Minsk.

Poland has recognized Lithuania, but does not recognize its borders, as outlined in the treaty with Moscow.

REDS GAINING; POLES FORCED OUT OF VILNA

LONDON, July 17.—Gains by the bolsheviki against the Poles along the line between Vilna and Minsk is reported in Friday's official statement from Moscow, received by wireless today. The statement says:

"West of Smorgon, after fierce fighting, we occupied the village of Soly (forty miles southeast of Vilna).

"In the direction of Baranovitch we occupied a number of villages thirty-three miles southwest of Minsk."

Poles Speed from Vilna.

WARSAW, July 17.—Polish detachments, after obstinate street fighting, have been obliged to evacuate Vilna, under enemy pressure, according to an official statement issued here.

ABSTRACTERS ELECT OFFICERS.

The Illinois Abstracters 'association, in session at the Hotel Sherman, elected the following officers yesterday: Edwin Filson of Champaign, president; Casper Westermeier, Carlinville, vice president; Mrs. N. P. Danks, Clinton, treasurer; B. F. Hiltabrand of Bloomington retains the secretaryship.

FORREST FIGHTS TO KEEP OLE HANSON SILENT

Seeks to Bar Story of the Seattle Strike.

SERGT. H. J. WATSON.

Arguments of W. S. Forrest of counsel for the twenty members of the Communist Labor party on trial before Judge Oscar Hebel charged with conspiracy to advocate the overthrow of the government, were yesterday directed toward the exclusion of testimony regarding conditions in Seattle, Wash., and Winnipeg, Man.

Henry J. Wilson, a government agent, Ex-Mayor Ole Hanson, and others were brought here to show the connecting link between the western uprising and the local "Reds."

Charge Local Plot.

That the defendants planned a general strike here modeled on the Seattle fiasco and hoped to profit by the mistakes of their western comrades, is the contention of the prosecution.

Mr. Forrest replied to the charge of Prosecutors Frank Comerford, Marvin Barnhart, and Lloyd Heth that the defendants did not have the courage to stand up in court and back their convictions, but were hiding behind the smoke screen of objections.

Forrest Tells Position.

FRANK COMERFORD

"I want to make my position clear," he said. "I am an American and do not believe in Socialism or bolshevism. I stand for the Stars and Stripes, right or wrong. William Bross Lloyd asked me to defend him on the grounds that he had not violated the laws of his country. It is my duty to object to testimony which I believe illegal. When these defendants say revolution they mean a revolution of the 'system,' not of the government. They are against the system."

A motion was made to quash the indictments against "Big Bill" Haywood and twenty-six other I. W. W. leaders was made before Judge Hugo Pam. It was continued until July 29.

ROCKYFORD HAS A FLOOD.

Rockyford, Colo., July 17.—Heavy rains in the Arkansas valley, with a cloudburst between here and Manzanola last night, did much damage in Rockyford and vicinity. The walls of the Elk hotel collapsed, but no one was injured.

LONDON WELCOMES U. S. BOY SCOUTS GOING TO ANTWERP

LONDON, July 17.—Three hundred and fifty American boy scouts and leaders, representing practically every part of the United States, started camp life today as guests of the British boy scouts, tenting on a lawn fronting the Y. M. C. A. hall a Mild May park, ten minutes from the heart of London. The youths arrived in London at 2 a. m. from Southampton, where the Pocahontas docked last evening. The Chicago contingent, in charge of Arthur Baker, numbered three—Robert Landon, who made 99.75 per cent in examinations; Walter O'Brien, and Ralph Taylor.

Oak Park, Ill., sends Everett Callahan, Theodore Riddiford, and Corliss Anderson. Commander Col. L. R. Gignilliat, of the military academy at Culver, Ind., led the march from Waterloo station to the hall.

The scouts will move July 25 to Richmond camp, training until July 29.

SOVIET GRANTS RACIAL CLAIMS OF LITHUANIA

Washington, D. C., July 17.—Details of the treaty between soviet Russia and Lithuania, signed on July 15, fixing the boundary line between the two countries were received today at the Lithuanian legation in an official cablegram from Kovno.

The new line starts on the east at Druya and runs south through Braslave and Moledechno, on the River Niomen, and thence west to the river Svislech.

The territory gained by Lithuania under the new treaty, it was said at the legation, represents all that it sought on racial grounds. Natural boundary lines are effected by putting the line along the rivers.

Only about twenty miles of boundary on the Polish frontier remain to be settled, it was said, before all the limits of Lithuania are fixed.

CHURCH PLANS FOR PERMANENT TRAINING SCHOOL

Episcopalians Take Steps to Use Racine College.

BY THE REV. F. L. GRATIOT.

Plans for the permanent establishment of a training school for church workers of the Episcopal church at the old Racine college were discussed yesterday at the closing session of the Racine conference of the province of the midwest. A pageant, written and rehearsed during the ten day conference by the Rev. Morton G. Stone of Chicago was presented on the lawn of one of the colleges. "The Life of St. Paul" was depicted.

When the suggestion to keep Racine for the purpose of a training school was made at the final meeting several members of the conference pledged $1,000 each, and numerous others smaller sums to make the plan possible. A committee consisting of the Rev. George Long and Mrs. Robert B. Gregory was appointed to present to the synod of the midwest a detailed plan at its annual meeting next October.

The Rev. Charles H. Young, dean of the faculty, reported that more than three hundred persons, mostly of the laity, had enrolled for courses this year, breaking the record of previous years.

Bela Kun Escapes from Train Headed for Russia

SEATTLE, OWNING CARS, FINDS FARE BOOST IS NEEDED

Pays 10c, or 4 Tickets for 25c, Tomorrow.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

Seattle begins tomorrow morning paying a 10 cent cash fare and a ticket fare of four for 25 cents. This is on a municipally owned and operated street railway system purchased by Ole Hanson, then mayor, who became nationally known for his stand against radicals.

This information is of interest in Illinois, and especially in Chicago, because later much probably will be represented and misrepresented regarding this system in connection with the consideration of Mayor Thompson's plan for public ownership and a 5 cent street car fare.

Private utility corporations are attempting to hold up Seattle as "a horrible example," while municipal ownership advocates are singing its merits. In the space between, the facts are difficult to identify, but there is some information about whch there is little controversy. An attempt will be made to give that alone.

Pay $15,000,000 for Line.

Municipal operation started in Seattle at 11 p. m. March 31, 1919. The city bought the property for $15,000,000, and since then there has been controversy as to whether tnis valuation was too high. Payment is to be made in utility bonds at 5 per cent. Mayor Hanson appointed Thomas F. Murphine as superintendent, describing him as "energetic, honest, courageous, and as a close student."

Murphine has said the immediate cause for the municipal purchase was that the private company gave inadequate service, wished to increase fares 1 or 2 cents and to be relieved from franchise obligations, and was not paying its employés a living wage.

Finds 5 Cent Fare Won't Go.

After the superintendent had been on the job several months he wrote:

"It is now generally admitted that it is impossible to pay out of a 5 cent fare all of the things which have been paid out of it in previous years. About four standard methods have been tried or urged upon the street railways to meet the change in conditions.

"These are (1) increase in fare; (2) relief from franchise obligations; (3) economies in operation; (4) public ownership. Not one of them alone will suffice. There must be a combination of at least three of them. The fourth method taken alone—municipal ownership—is not sufficient. It must be accompanied by two and three (relief from franchise obligations and economies in operation).

"Relief from franchise obligations is imperative and under public ownership there can be no just reason advanced why any portion of the nickel should be taken to pay other than legitimate railway expenses."

He referred to paving and repaving of right of way and like items. He has been succeeded by another, as Ole Hanson was succeeded by his corporation counsel, Hugh M. Caldwell.

The city relieved itself of some of the contract obligations required of the private company, but despite this the question of increasing the fare came prominently to the front this summer. The city council passed a 7 cent fare. The mayor at first opposed this. He advocated a 6 cent fare, with 1 cent transfer charge, to be paid by general taxation. Later he changed his position and favored the 7 cent fare, all to be paid by the car rider and none of it by general taxation.

Mayor Objects to Tax.

On this point the mayor said:

"Next year the tax rate will be 80 and 85 mills, without including any provision for a street railway deficit. The assessed valuation of the street railway has been $5,640,000. The 1920 assessment will sustain this as a loss. The amount so lost in taxes is about $400,000. The argument that the street railway is a benefit to the entire city and therefore a part of the burden should be borne by the taxpayers is offset by the fact that we lose $400,000 in taxes, which will have to be spread on the general tax rolls."

In a letter the mayor declined to permit general taxation to become responsible for the $15,000,000 debt and interest. This said in part:

"Under the ordinance consummating the purchase the city obligated itself to charge a sufficient rate to pay principal and interest. Beyond this, however, its obligation does not extend. Consequently if, ten years from now, to use an arbitrary date for purposes of illustration, the present mode of travel is so obsolete people are unwilling to use it, it may be necessary to continue to increase the rates in an effort to obtain enough money to make the payments, until ultimately the rate charged would further deter the use of this mode of transportation. We could then no longer operate the lines."

In such a contingency he said the bondholders could not force collection and he would not transfer the obligation to the general tax fund, "making it a gilt edge security" and "probably enhancing the value of the obligation $1,000,000 or more."

Agree on 10 Cent Rate.

To avoid making the taxpayers generally responsible for the street car deficit, the Seattle city council last month passed an ordinance which was approved by the mayor, making the cash fare 10 cents and the ticket fare four for 25 cents. D. W. Henderson, superintendent, has estimated the new fare schedule will pay all operating expense and meet the principal and interest obligation to the bondholders.

Ole Hanson has some views on municipal ownership. He is in Chicago. If the local transportation committee of the Chicago city council were interested in getting some first hand information which might later be of value, an invitation might be extended to the former Seattle mayor. In other cities people have been paying real cash to hear his views on Reds and bolsheviks.

river's Skull Fractured When Horse Runs Away

Charles Lee, 21 years old, 251 Sigel street, suffered probably fatal injuries yesterday when he fell from the seat of a wagon after the horse he was driving became frightened at a street car at Van Buren and Canal streets. He was jolted from the wagon seat and his head struck the pavement, fracturing his skull.

KIDS SENT TO ALGONQUIN PAY DIVIDEND OF JOY

"Grand and Glorious Feelin'" Is Reward.

Ain't it a grand an' glorious feelin' when, after you have been confined to a hot and dirty asphalt pavement for a playground—

And have burned your bare feet, which haven't been inside a shoe since school closed—

And have been taking care of five younger sisters and brothers while your mother slaved over a washboard during the earlier part of the summer—

And have had to sleep in a stuffy room, as hot as a bake oven, with all the other members of your family—

Some nice person came along and took you, your poor, tired mother, and the rest of the kids to Algonquin, THE TRIBUNE'S free hospital and camp, for just such as you, to spend a two weeks' vacation without cost——

O, boy! Ain't it a grand an' glorious feelin'?

When Fellers Have a Friend.

That is what lots of "fellers" who "needed a friend" have said this summer. Some of the "fellers" were girls and many of them were work worn mothers. They appreciated the new lease on life given them at Algonquin.

There are many more who would appreciate it, and it all depends on you whether they are fortunate enough to be sent to this wonderland provided by THE TRIBUNE and supported by its readers.

If you wish to do your share, send in your contribution at once.

THE TRIBUNE Free Ice Fund was the beneficiary of a play given by a group of Austin children Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Lamonte E. Manor at 5826 Race avenue. Making other children happy was the motive of the play, which was called "The Future of the Neighborhood."

The little actresses were Madelyn Bentley, Helen Calcutt, Elva Brown, Carolyn Manor, Ethel Murdock, Constance Hastings, and Jane Calcutt.

Vacation Days and a Life Income -In Florida

What Collier's Weekly of July 17, 1920, Says About the Big Volume Organization in Agriculture

The machine in industry has made the great city, and the mill, factory, and furnace town. Is not its logical course in agriculture the large farm unit? Will not the co-operative association succeed to a considerable degree the individual in growing food or fiber? One foresees the great farm of the future in the United States. A million acres! The costly and intricate machines which the single owner may not possess will be good investments for the co-operative or corporate body. The work will be systematized as is the conduct of a railroad or the operation of a steel mill. The best brains in the country may manage it. The Burbanks may be the advisers, and the Schwabs the superintendents. Youth may then have its way. The group will be large, and entertainment and man-to-man contact easy. Does it seem unlikely or even fantastic? Who, thirty years ago, would have thought of Gary, Ind.? Who, twenty years ago, of six millions in one city? These two creations of the times, with the imminent shortage and increasing cost of food, prophesy the huge and scientific farm. It will come or we'll starve. And we will eat.

We Give You the Chance to Have a Home in Florida and Provide You with the Means to Build and Maintain It

More and more each year, the people of Chicago are realizing that there is coming a time when in each of their lives the right thing to do would be to ease up on work and take some well earned rest away from the grind, the noise, the industrial and commercial bedlam of this greatest of all cities. Some go west and some go south for a few weeks each year; but they cannot spare the time to take the proper rest or else cannot afford the expense of hotels and travel.

Florida, the Nation's Playground

Just two days' travel from Chicago or New York and less than that from the other large cities of the Middle West and Middle East is "The Land of Perpetual Youth." Its semi-tropical climate, its easy access, its wealth of rivers, bays, ocean beaches and inland lakes, the hospitality of its people, and the number of congenial friends one finds there—all have induced middle-western migration to this state during the inclement winter months. Added to these features is that additional one of "LOW COST," for the land of Florida produces its gold and they have not yet begun to levy excessive tribute from the winter tourist as a means of livelihood.

The Town of Waterbury

Here, in this land of rich returns in money and health, we are building a town surrounded by one of the greatest horticultural developments in the United States. We are creating an opportunity for both a home and an investment, and in doing so are offering to the public something more profitable, more desirable, than any ordinary investment no matter how alluring from the viewpoint of returns.

The man who acquires wealth is the man who has organization working for him. Organization has given to the rich man what he has, while the poor man must be satisfied with what little "organization" has seen it proper to pay him. An investment in order to be safe and productive must rest on organisation's unyielding bedrock of Big Volume Production and Big Volume Marketing. Such an investment should not employ the investor, but should be in the employ of the investor.

How We Built This Investment —For You

In creating this investment we selected land as the basis, for land is the most valuable and productive of all investments, permanent in nature and susceptible of big increases in value as the years go on. We selected land with a peculiar characteristic that makes it more valuable than other agricultural lands when put into production; then we built on this land a Big Volume Organization to clear, to plant it to grapefruit, thus giving it a high earning power, and we are now about to build a marketing organization that will be the largest grapefruit marketing organization in the world.

You Can Share in These Profits

You can share in the profits that this Big Volume Organization will obtain on the most common sense plan in the world. Our immense 10,000 acre project has been separated into 1,000 ten acre grapefruit groves. You buy only the land itself from us and get a warranty deed for it. After this you pay us the expense of clearing and planting this land to 780 grapefruit trees, which will come into bearing in a very few years. Our charges for the work of clearing and planting are based on actual cost—not what it will cost you as an individual, but what it will cost us as a Big Volume Organization, operating a 10,000 acre grove instead of a 10 acre grove. As long as you desire us to do so, we care for this land, harvest your crop, market the fruit and remit you the proceeds, less a reasonable overhead for our work.

You Can Live in Florida Near Your Grove

A beautiful townsite is being located in the center of this property and lots are sold at a very reasonable figure. Here there will be built this year a comfortable clubhouse, surrounded by beautiful grounds, where golf, tennis, and other outdoor sports will be provided. This town is known as "Waterbury." It is but a few miles from the Manatee River and from Sarasota Bay. A short automobile ride will take you to the Gulf of Mexico—to the various beaches on the Gulf and on the Bay, to the towns of Bradentown and Sarasota—thus giving to the lover of motoring and to the tourist a fine opportunity for touring, bathing, and other healthful recreation.

A Few Thousand Dollars Will Fix You Comfortably for Life

It doesn't cost much to give you both an income earning grapefruit grove and a home in a beautiful southern town away from the inclement weather of the northern portions of the United States. Those who have been to Florida know what profits there are in the raising of grapefruit, even on a small scale. When, however, you put back of your grove a high power organization that can get the top market price, when your groves are being cared for scientifically by an organization employing expert horticulturists, when you are certain of having your trees developed to the very best advantage, your ground properly fertilized, your spraying done intelligently, then you are sure of better fruit and more profits. Those who will study the grapefruit industry in Florida know that big organizations there are making the big money, and that by applying the same principles that are in force in the factory, the mill and the warehouse to the growing of grapefruit one can get an investment that is a great, machine-like money maker in the employ of the investor day and night, putting him on even terms with even the wealthiest.

We Can Build You a Comfortable Income for Your Later Years

The average man finds it hard to save up more than a few thousand dollars in his lifetime; and this, invested in ordinary securities at 6% or 7% will hardly bring him in enough to pay even a low rent on a home or an apartment. We are giving such a man an opportunity to make a yearly income as great as would be the income on many thousands of dollars invested in average well rated securities. No better or more feasible plan of participating profits has, in our opinion, been worked out for the man of average income, and we invite an examination and a thorough discussion of it by all investors.

Get Our Beautiful Fifty-Six Page Booklet

We have prepared a 56-page booklet on this investment which we will distribute to those who are interested in the Waterbury project. As we do not wish to sell this investment to the man who cannot carry it, we urge only those who are financially able to consider this investment to send for the booklet. OUR BOOKLET, "AN INVESTMENT IN THE JAMES L. WATERBURY BIG VOLUME ORGANIZATION," WILL TELL YOU A LOT OF THINGS THAT WILL MAKE YOU WANT TO INVESTIGATE FURTHER. SEND FOR IT TODAY.

Another friendly word of warning—

EVERY manufacturer—every dealer—every salesman, is conscious today of an unprecedented situation that is rapidly developing in the motor car industry.

A striking change in the public demand for motor cars has taken place.

Nothing equal to it has ever been encountered before.

Last winter, those individuals who quickly sense the public pulse anticipated the terrific demand for motor cars of all types which later developed.

This demand has not yet been satisfied. It will not be satisfied until fundamental conditions of production and transportation radically change.

Now, in the midst of the mass of production obstacles, there has developed a demand for enclosed cars and roadsters far beyond the capacity of the industry to supply.

More than this, a spirit of economy has taken hold of the public mind. People to whom wealth is not new are setting the example to all by choosing motor cars in which economy is combined with reliability and distinction.

Therefore, it seems proper to give another friendly word of warning to those thousands of people who have logically reached the conclusion to buy a lighter, more economical closed car; or to replace a bulky car with a roadster for personal use before the fall demand makes delivery extremely uncertain.

Prices Not Going Down

People, who have never known the real basis of motor car demand (which is utility and convenience in individual transportation) have no idea how ridiculous it is, under present conditions, to talk about a saturation point; a falling off in demand for good cars; or lower prices for fairly priced standard makes.

There are about eight million automobiles in America, and possibly eight hundred thousand in all the world beside.

A few hundred thousand of these are enclosed cars, mostly of the heavier type.

The production of enclosed bodies last year was about one hundred and sixty thousand.

The daily production right now is greatly handicapped by a shortage of expert labor, glass, hardware, sheet metal and by difficulties of transportation.

The world wide demand indicates the ready sale of at least one million closed cars if the manufacturers can ever get them out.

Time was when people who possess old money were alone in the enjoyment of a high-grade, enclosed car. They bought heavy cars believing that only in that way could they obtain distinction and reliability.

Time was when the annual production of five hundred closed cars by any one factory was a big output.

Time was when the annual production of five hundred roadsters was considered large.

The Day of Economy is Dawning

The hour of the light-weight, high-grade, good-looking, well-balanced, economical, handy, convenient, comfortable, sensible, automobile is here.

Manufacturers who have the gift of foresight, have been struggling for months to increase the closed car production to the point where it may at least equal the open car output.

But, they cannot possibly attain this result for many months to come.

This, therefore, is a friendly warning to the public—to those who expect to get delivery of an enclosed car or a roadster before winter comes.

Four years ago the Jordan Company anticipated this inevitable change.

We knew that the man who once thought it necessary to choose a heavy car to obtain reliability would eventually prefer a car in which reliability is combined with economy and distinction.

We produced the Jordan Silhouette and from that day the factory has been thousands of orders behind.

We knew that the man who once thought it wise to choose a cheaper car thinking to realize economy would eventually prefer a car in which the original price is practically the last payment for service rendered.

We put quality into every detail of the Jordan, knowing that reliability is the last word in service regardless of price.

Ten thousand owners today testify to the reliability and economy of the Jordan.

Color, comfort, good-taste and atmosphere have made it beautiful.

Keep Your Car

Today, we recommend that you buy a Jordan and keep your car.

You know, of course, in the last analysis that the second-hand value of a motor car is the final test of survival for the manufacturer—success for the dealer—and satisfaction to the owner.

The Jordan is superbly balanced—weighing twenty-eight hundred pounds—fourteen hundred forward and fourteen hundred astern.

It springs forward lightly to the throttle—dispatches the day's work with alacrity—finds its place at the curb quickly—responds instantly to the touch of a woman's hand, and brings you home at night gratified with a day of comfort and convenience.

One year ago Jordan announced the famous Playboy.

Snappy, individual—unfailing to inspire—the Jordan Playboy is the forerunner of the roadster of the future—the car which many busy men and women will make their preference.

Scarcely did we realize the country wide demand for a roadster of this distinctive character, convenience and style.

Never, have we been able to approach the point where we could supply this demand.

Four years ago, we built our first five passenger Brougham, with all aluminum body, exquisitely finished—charming in style.

The Demand for Closed Cars

The demand for this car indicates beyond question that it is the ultimate enclosed type.

The production conditions in the leading factories will not quickly change. The prices of good cars that have been fairly priced can not soon go down.

An acute delivery situation in enclosed cars and roadsters will develop before September first.

Those who expect delivery should buy today.

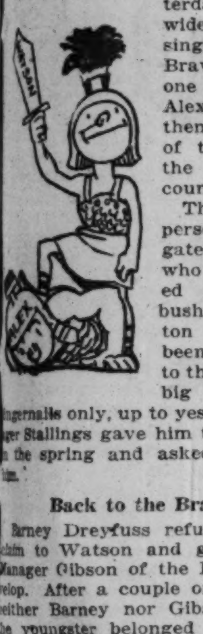
BY I. E. SANBORN.



Jack Watson, the world's greatest waiver pitcher, shut out the Cubs yesterday with three widely scattered singles, and the Braves scratched one run off Sergt. Alexander, giving them the second of the series by the minimum count.

This Watson person is an elongated northpaw who was extracted from the bushes by the Boston club and has been clinging on to the edges of the big tent by his fingernails only, up to yesterday. Manager Stallings gave him the twice-over in the spring and asked waivers on him.

Back to the Braves.

Barney Dreyfuss refused to waive claim to Watson and gave him to Manager Gibson of the Pirates to develop. After a couple or three trials neither Barney nor Gibson thought the youngster belonged in fast company, so sought waivers on him. Stallings said he looked better now than before and claimed Watson out of the discard last week. That game yesterday was the way Watson rewarded the Brave pilot for keeping him out of the minors. And yet they say there is no gratitude in the chest of the modern ball player.

Watson had so recently escaped the waiver plank for the second time that he wavered a bit in his delivery and passed six Cubs. He was given poor support, as four errors were made behind him. But in spite of all the chances these gifts offered the Cubs they could not collect a timely swat anywhere. Poor judgment on the bases proved costly for the Mitchells at times, and a couple of double plays helped snuff out possible rallies.

Eleven Hits Off Alexander.

The Braves made eleven hits off Alexander but would not have scored at all if a fast bounder had not eluded Herzog's grasp in the fifth inning, converting itself into a scratch hit. This break followed a two base knock by Powell and accounted for the only run of the game.

In the third spasm the Braves made three hits in succession and failed to score. One was down when Eayrs singled to center. Holke singled to right and Boeckel looped a low fly into short right for another single, on which the runners had to hold their bases until the ball fell safe for fear of an out. This filled the sacks. Maranville had two strikes and three balls called, then hung out the sign for a squeeze play, but apparently Eayrs didn't believe it. Maranville bunted to Alexander, forcing out Eayrs, then Deal stopped O'Neil's drive and forced the side out.

EVANS REGAINS OFT HELD TITLE GOLF CHAMPION

BY JOE DAVIS.

Country Club, Memphis, Tenn., July 17.—[Special.]—Chick Evans of the Edgewater club, Chicago, scored his fifth success in the western amateur golf championship by defeating Clarence Wolff, Sunset Hill club, St. Louis, 5 and 4, at the Memphis Country club today. His previous wins were at Homewood in 1909, at Denver in 1912, at Grand Rapids in 1914 and at Cleveland in 1915, which was his last appearance until this week.

It was generally conceded at the outset that either Evans or Bobby Jones would pluck the championship plum and when the Chicago player, by the aid of his lucky finish, defeated the Georgia star, 1 up, on Friday, the crown practically was on his brow.

Wolff Lacks Steadiness.

Wolff is a brilliant player but lacks the steadiness of his veteran opponent, whose golfing campaigns have been harder than those of the Missourian. It takes par golf or thereabouts to beat Evans and Wolff's only hope was to shoot at his best and have Evans go a little off his game.

This was the case with Evans in the early part of the match, but Wolff also was off. Chick was the first to strike his normal gait, as he came back in 37 in the morning and was 3 up when they adjourned for lunch.

Gallery Acts as Tonic.

Starting in the afternoon, the presence of a fairsized gallery appeared to act as a tonic to both and on the first nine they played wonderfully well. Chick reached the turn in 37, one stroke over the hard par for the course. Despite this machine-like work, Wolff held him even for eight holes, each winning one and halving six. Then on the ninth green Wolff failed to get his approach putt nearer than five feet and Chick, who missed his 3 by a couple of inches, was four up at the twenty-seventh hole and had the match well in hand. The match ended on the fourteenth green, at which Evans was even fours.

Only One Birdie Scored.

Only one birdie was scored during the match. Had Wolff been able to putt a little better, he would have made a closer match, but he had trouble all week on the Bermuda grass greens.

Evans, who was in the strong half of the draw, defeated R. S. Hickey of Atlanta, 4 and 3, and Sparks of Terre Haute, 3 and 2, in eighteen holes. At thirty-six holes he defeated James Ward of Kansas City, 5 and 4, and Bobby Jones, 1 up.

The tournament was a big success and although the weather was hot at times, there was always a breeze and at no stage did the contestants have to play through rain. The cards:

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Just how Babe Ruth could live through a ball game in which the Yankees got twenty-one base hits and not make a home run that would break the world's record is one of the comical things about the alleged ball game played today between the White Sox and Yankees.

The Yanks won, 20 to 5, or something, and after Eddie Cicotte left the fray about the middle of the game the Sox were never in the battle, because the Yanks pounded Spencer Heath and George Payne in an unspeakable manner and piled up runs until they were footsore.

Oh! What a Chance.

The peculiar thing was that Babe Ruth was out trying to break his own record of 29 homers and couldn't do it in such a ridiculous game. The chances are that one might have picked a fan at random from anywhere in the grand stand or bleachers and he could have gone out and knocked out a four base hit, but Ruth had five chances to do it and didn't succeed.

The king of swatters got three hits, two singles and a double, in five attempts, and was terribly discouraged with things because he didn't knock one over into Brooklyn. It was a soft day, the softest I have seen in seventeen years, and this Tarzan of the diamond wasn't there.

Crowd of 37,000 Out.

The game itself was so awful that in the closing innings the Sox players didn't care whether they were looking at the batter or the dozen empty seats in the bleachers, and yet this mighty of the mightiest hitters of all time couldn't knock a homer. There were about 37,000 persons out there just to see him break the world's record, too, and yet he couldn't do it.

Had the Sox been on their customary toes and played their usual defense, the game might not have been a farce. They kicked and heaved the ball around in a manner that would have made a high school team ashamed of itself. Seven errors were chalked up against them, and it required a kind heated scorer to hold it down to that number. It was errors that breezed the game away. Only five were made in the first two innings.

Heath Gets Lacing.

With perfect support, Cicotte might have gone through those two rounds and kept the Sox in the game, but with the errors it was impossible. He was rapped pretty hard and after five rounds of it gave place to a pinch hitter and let the youngsters try their hand. First came Heath and the first four fellows who faced him knocked out singles.

O'KEEFE SHADES JOHN GRIFFITHS IN 10 ROUND GO

TRIBUNE DECISIONS

Decisions of The Tribune fight representatives are:

At East Chicago—Dennis O'Keefe beat Johnny Griffiths [10]; Tony Melichar knocked out Jack Read [1]; Jimmy Hanlon beat Otto Wallace [10].

At Schenectady, N. Y.—Jabez White beat Roy Moore [10].

BY RAY PEARSON.

Dennis O'Keefe of Irondale and Johnny Griffiths of Akron, O., entertained in the feature number before the Twin Cities Athletic club of East Chicago yesterday afternoon and while the contest lacked in thrills these welterweights galloped through ten rounds of close milling and a forced decision would have favored O'Keefe by a slight shade. Many of the ringsiders believed it a draw fight.

The only damage inflicted was a cut lip sustained by Griffiths in the sixth round when O'Keefe's head collided with his mouth. The butt brought the claret in a stream from the Ohioan's mouth, but did not affect his fighting to any material extent. The Irondale scrapper appeared the stronger of the pair and forced the going for the greater part of the route, but Griffiths displayed the better ring generalship and his punches were more cleanly delivered.

O'Keefe Leads at Start.

O'Keefe started the blood from Griffiths' eating apparatus in the fourth round and did the better work in the early sessions. His main attack was aimed at Griffiths' body and he planted several hard wallops over the heart and to the stomach.

Sailor Freedman, a ringsider, challenged the winner.

The card of three ten round bouts attracted a crowd of about 3,500 fans, which made the gate worth in the neighborhood of $6,000. The other bouts brought together Tony Melichar of Chicago and Jack Read of Toledo, heavyweights, and Jimmy Hanlon of Denver and Otto Wallace of Milwaukee, lightweights.

Melichar Topples Read.

Melichar found a cinch job in Read, who showed nothing to merit the match. Tony toyed with the Toledo gent for half a minute, then upset him with a right to the chin. Read got up on an eight count, only to be flopped with another right cross. This time he was counted out.

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

Today's Question.

What is the reason for the poor showing the Cubs are making?

The Answers.

EDWARD BARTH, 2032 Aubert avenue, photographer—The weakness of the pitching staff is responsible, to my notion. They have only one good man and two nearly good ones. The rest are poor.

EMIL LARSON, 2916 West Adams street, clerk—The Cubs can't play marbles this year. Poor management is the answer.

WILLIAM TUCK, 1332 Argyle street, color artist—The Cubs need more fighting spirit. They don't seem to take much interest in what is going on. More pep is the thing they need.

JAMES H. PATRICK, 1445 Flournoy street, painter—The Cubs lack efficient management. Given that and a little more spirit, they would be a good team.

FRANK HALSEY, 3622 Ellis avenue, amateur baseball player—The Cubs are hampered with a lot of superannuated players. They need new blood.

AMERICAN TEAM WINS ITS WAY TO DAVIS CUP PLAY

WIMBLEDON, July 17.—America's great tennis players, Johnston and Tilden, today won the right to challenge Australasia for the Davis cup by their defeat of the British team, Kingscote and Parke, in the doubles of the international lawn tennis matches, 8—6, 4—6, 4—6, 6—3, 6—2.

Their victory today gave the Americans three straight matches against England, which was also the sum of their victory against France. Holland, which had previously won against South Africa and was eligible for the final contest, has withdrawn.

The Englishmen made a game struggle today and at one time were well in the lead, but the American players summoned all their reserve strength and skill and toward the end overwhelmed their opponents. So terrific was Tilden's service in the fifth set that he won one game on four served balls, not one of which his opponents were able to touch.

This virtually ends the English tour of the Americans, who sail for home July 31.

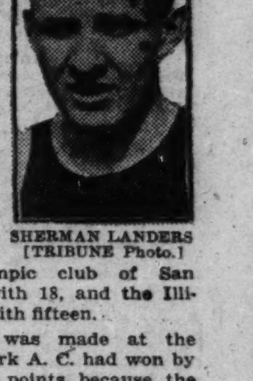
CHICAGO STARS GRAB HONORS IN OLYMPIC MEET

C. A. A. Leads Teams with 35 Points; I. A. C. 4th.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Boston, Mass., July 17.—[Special.]—In a great meet featured by three record breaking performances by western athletes and sparkling competition in the other events, athletes representing the Chicago Athletic association carried off the honors in the final Olympic track and field tryouts and National A. A. U. championships today at the Harvard stadium, with thirty-five points. The New York A. C. was second with thirty-three, Olympic club of San Francisco third with 18, and the Illinois A. C. fourth with fifteen.



SHERMAN LANDERS

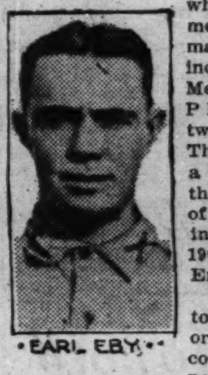
Announcement was made at the close that New York A. C. had won by two and one-half points because the scorers had been informed that the athletes who tied in the jumps had divided the points. A. A. U. rules call for a jump-off of all and this was done. The result gave the edge to the Chicago team. The 220 yard low hurdles, five mile run, and three mile walk, the other championship events, will be held when the American team returns from the Olympic games.

First Record to Butler.

The first record to go was in the running broad jump. Sol Butler, the colored athlete of Dubuque college, leaped 24 feet 8 inches, which beat the former American mark of 24 feet 7¼ inches made by Meyer Prinstein at Philadelphia twenty years ago. The performance is a trifle less than the world's record of 24 feet 11¾ inches made in 1901 by O'Connor of England.



EARL EBY

Butler came east to break the record and he accomplished his purpose, thereby making his selection for a place on the Olympic team a certainty. In this event Sherman Landers of the C. A. A. was second, while Carl Johnson, University of Michigan, did not finish in the first four.

Frank Murphy of Notre Dame university bettered his own mark of 6 feet 3 3-16 inches for the championship by leaping 6 feet 4¼ inches in the high jump. Ties were plentiful in this event, which was the main reason for the mixup inthe point column. Templeton of the Olympic club was disqualified for diving after he had won second place.

Angier Shatters Mark.

The third mark to fall was in the javelin when Milton Angier of the Illinois A. C. threw the shaft 192 feet 10¼ inches for a new American record. The former mark was 190 feet 6 inches, made by George Bronder of the New York A. C. in 1916. The tricolored club athlete won the event by more than five feet from Lincoln of the New York A. C. Bronder did not compete because of a sore arm.

The final heat of the 100 yard dash brought six of the best fliers in the country to the mark. Loren Murchison of the New York A. C. took the race in an eyelash finish from Jack Scholz, University of Missouri, while Charlie Paddock, Los Angeles A. C., was third, with Kirksey, Olympic club, fourth. Bill Hayes of Notre Dame was fifth. Paddock made up for his defeat in the century by taking the furlong in the fast time of :22 2-5.

Eby Wins Half Mile.

Earl Eby of the C. A. A. took the half mile after a great race from Scott of the Navy and Tom Campbell of Yale. Eby came from behind on the last lap and won by a comfortable margin in 1:54 1-5. Frank Loomis of the Cherry Circle club took the 440 yard three foot hurdles by five yards from Norton, Olympic club.

Joie Ray of the Illinois A. C. ran his customary sensational mile, winning with plenty to spare in 4:16 1-5. Sherman Landers of the C. A. A. won the running hop-step-and-jump and was second in the running broad jump. Individual honors went to Pat McDonald, the giant weight man of the New York A. C., who scored 10 points by taking the shot put and 56 pound weight.

The American Olympic committee was in session tonight to select the team which will represent this country in the world's games at Antwerp next month. John L. Barchard, chairman of the athletic committee of the C. A. A., who was one of the officials in today's meet, will be one of the mid-western representatives, and Avery Brundage, president of the western conference graduate committee, will be the other.

15,000 See Contests.

Today's meet was witnessed by over 15,000, including many officers of the army and navy, who occupied boxes on opposite sides of the stadium. The officials and athletes paraded around the field and the games were opened with the playing of the national anthem and the raising of an American flag by a company of marines. Summaries:

RECORD ENTRY IS MADE FOR ROQUE TOURNEY

With a record entry of twenty-six, and twenty-five more expected before the closing hour Tuesday morning, the ninth annual tournament of the American Roque league will be launched tomorrow, and continue all week in this city. For the first time in the history of the annual event, it has been found necessary to divide the three divisions into sub-groups for play, as the old system of each contestant's meeting each other man in a round robin, could not be attempted with the congested field.

The heavy field has resulted in matches being scheduled for all three of the big local parks equipped with roque courts—Washington, Lincoln and Garfield. Previously, the courts of one park always provided sufficient.

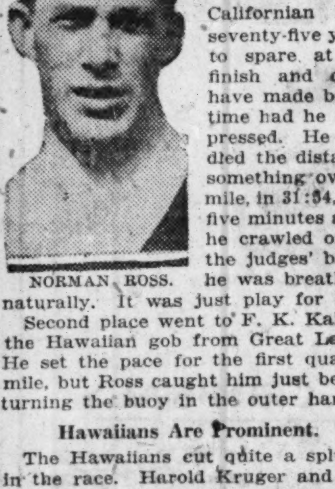
Crawling along with his powerful stroke, Norman Ross of the I. A. C. won the twelfth annual river marathon from a field of seventeen starters. The big Californian had seventy-five yards to spare at the finish and could have made better time had he been pressed. He paddled the distance, something over a mile, in 31:54, and five minutes after he crawled on to the judges' barge he was breathing naturally. It was just play for him.



NORMAN ROSS.

Second place went to F. K. Kahele, the Hawaiian gob from Great Lakes. He set the pace for the first quarter mile, but Ross caught him just before turning the buoy in the outer harbor.

Hawaiians Are Prominent.

The Hawaiians cut quite a splurge in the race. Harold Kruger and Bill Harris of the Hawaiian Swimming club were third and fourth, and A. V. Kaehu, another of the bronzed Pacific paddlers, came in fifth. Like Kahele, he is stationed at Great Lakes. This gave the island natators, who are seasoned in open water events, five of the first six places.

Ross was the first out of the flock of seventeen swimmers who plunged off the Commodore, the naval reserve training ship, into the inner harbor, and by a burst of speed he drew out of the struggling heap of swimmers. He led for 100 yards, when Kahele passed him, and then a good fight lasted until the leading pair made the turn a quarter of a mile out in the outer harbor. Ross cut around the buoy five feet ahead and then started to draw away.

Ross Takes the Lead.

As he entered the river mouth his lead was twenty-five yards over Kahele, the leader of the five Hawaiians. With Perry McGillivray, winner of the river marathon in 1910, 1913, 1914, and 1918, and Buddy Wallen, winner in 1916, 1917, and 1919, in his boat directing his course, Ross drew away from the rest of the field in easy fashion.

Spectators lined the bridges and docks along the course and cheered the swimmers. Police tugs kept the river clear of boats for the swimmers and their attending rowers and the race was completed without the slightest mishap. All but one of the seventeen starters crossed the finish line.

Separate Race for Women.

Miss Sybil Bauer won the mermaids' championship over the same course, stroking the distance in 47:08. Miss Anita Lincoln was second and Miss Marcella Miller third. Miss Jean Feinbolt and Miss Eleanor Bresnen also completed the race. The women swimmers started twenty minutes ahead of the marathon and the first of three were out of the water before Ross crossed the finish line.

DEMPSEY PICKS TRAINING CAMP IN NEW YORK

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, will do his training for his next contest at the Van Kelton stadium, big open air arena. 'Pop' Courtney, Cornell Crew Coach, Succumbs to Stroke

Auburn, N. Y., July 17.—[United Press.]—Charles E. ["Pop"] Courtney, 71 years old, veteran coach of Cornell, died at his summer home, Farley's Point, Cayuga Lake, today of apoplexy.

The fatal stroke came shortly after Mr. Courtney returned from a fishing trip. Remarking to his wife that he did not feel well he started up the stairs.

Mrs. Courtney ran out to secure aid. When she returned with a neighbor, Courtney was dead on the floor of the bathroom.

A physician declared death due to a stroke of apoplexy.

Worked from Boyhood.

Mr. Courtney was born at Union Springs, N. Y., Nov. 13, 1849. He obtained a good common and high school education. He was still a boy when his father died and he went to work as a carpenter's apprentice.

His rowing career began in 1868, when on Cayuga lake he beat two scullers who rowed in shells, while he was in a wooden boat sixteen feet long with a twenty-four inch beam. This started his career as an amateur oarsman, in which he rowed eighty-eight races and never lost one. In 1877 Courtney abandoned amateur racing and started as a professional.

Loses 7 of 46 Races.

As a professional he rowed forty-six races and lost seven, a grand total of 127 victories and seven defeats in his racing career.

Courtney was a self taught oarsman and the stroke that the Cornell crews are now rowing was used by him back on Cayuga lake in 1873. In the 80s he gave up professional rowing and twenty-eight years ago he became connected with Cornell university as rowing coach.

In the few four mile races that the Cornell varsity has rowed against Harvard and Yale since Courtney charge, Cornell has won. Since the Cornell crews have beaten Harvard eight out of nine times in two races.

RICHARDS MEETS ROBERTS FOR NET SINGLES HONORS

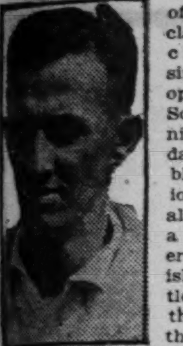
Hayes and Burdick to Play for Doubles Title.

FINALS TODAY

Singles—Roberts vs. Richards, 2:30 p. m.
Doubles—Hayes and Burdick vs. Roberts and Richards, 4 p. m.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Roland Roberts of San Francisco and Vincent Richards of New York entered the finals of the national clay court tennis championships singles as singles opponents at the South Side Tennis club yesterday; and in doubles this prodigious pair of youths also qualified as a team. This afternoon, after finishing their battle in singles, they will take the court against Walter Hayes and Ralph Burdick of this city for the doubles title.



RALPH BURDICK. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Roberts yesterday eliminated Alex Squair of Chicago in business-like style, 6—0, 6—4, 6—1, using his battering forehand service and drives to run the Chicagoan out of position and clinch the points.

Richards Eliminates Williams.

Richards put out Lucien Williams of Chicago, 6—0, 4—6, 6—2, 6—3, in a spirited match. With a repertoire of strokes at his command, Richards campaigned like a master despite his eighteen summers.

He shifted from one stroke to another as occasion demanded, and always endeavored to work his way gradually to the net, where he had chances to rake the ball down the side lines, volley sharply across court, or try for a sharp passing shot.

At such times as both players were in back court, driving, Williams had a bit the better of play, and at this style of play the Chicago boy took the second set.

Hayes and Burdick Formidable.

Hayes and Burdick played their formidable, machine-like doubles of several seasons ago in the semi-finals and eliminated Wallace Bates and Edmund Levy of Berkeley, Cal., 6—1, 1—6, 7—5. Both Chicago players were wore overhead, smashing for sensational aces, and at the net they broke the sharp shooting lawfords of the coast pair by brisk volleys.

The other doubles semi-final, in which Roberts and Richards defeated Clifton Herd and Jerry Weber of this city, was the most spectacular match of the tournament. The scores were 6—4, 6—2, 1—6, 5—7, 7—5. In the last set Herd and Weber led at 4—0, and seemed on the road to victory, but Herd refused to deviate from a smashing game, even with this safe lead, and Richards and Roberts, playing coolly, directed their shots at him, always waiting for an error, and they gradually worked their way up, first to 3—4, then to deuce at 5—5, and finally pulled the match out of the fire.

Victors Grab Opportunity.

Richards played wonderfully in this uphill fight, volleying true and hard at the net, and adding great steadiness to Roberts' lashing drives. Weber worked his team out of many holes by fine lobbing, which was the only style which availed against the net defense of Roberts and Richards, but Herd's double faults, coupled with the unavoidable errors of both, consequent from the intense nature of the play, gave Roberts and Richards a chance, and a chance was all that was needed.

A gallery of 1,800 saw the matches.

PHILS TAKE SCRAPPY GAME FROM CARDS BY COUNT OF 1 TO 0

St. Louis, Mo., July 17.—Philadelphia defeated St. Louis, 1 to 0, in a pitchers' duel between Smith and Schupp today. Stengel made the lone run in the ninth inning on a base on balls, Meusel's single and an infield out.

Lavan was put out of the game in the sixth for throwing a bat at Smith, who had hit him with a pitched ball in the fourth, and who almost hit him again in the sixth. Lavan ran toward Smith, but players separated the pair before any blows were struck.

In the same inning Fletcher was ordered from the game by Umpire Klem for disputing a ball called on Clemons, and in the ninth G. Smith also was put out by Klein when he disputed a decision. Score:

Notes

Boston again today.

That makes five straight defeats for the Cubs, who haven't copped since the game handed them by Brooklyn's excessive strategy last Tuesday.

Pick stole a clean hit from Robertson at the start of the last half, otherwise the Cubs might have started something.

Among those who witnessed the defeat were Mordecai Peter Centennial Brown and Roger Bresnahan, both former west side Cubs.

In an effort to improve the Cubs, Manager Mitchell benched the two youngsters, Friberg and Twombly, and put Herzog and Flack back into the lineup, but the improvement was not notable.

Some guy in the grand stand roasted Umpire O'Day until the arbitrator spoke to Manager Mitchell about it in the eighth and demanded the ejection of the disturber. O'Day ought to have been here earlier in the week when the day was counted lost that did not bring a scrap of some kind. He would have known yesterday's "riding" was mild by comparison with what Tyler and Herzog have been getting.

NOTES

New York, N. Y., July 17.—Carl Mays pitched for the Yanks today, but doesn't deserve any mention. In a game like that Ban Johnson or anybody could have pitched and been a winner.

The White Sox at least maintained their batting prowess today. They poled fifteen hits, which will keep many of the boys up with the leaders.

Our young collegian, Mr. Bib Falk, broke into baseball as a professional by hitting for Cicotte in the sixth. He drove a nice line fly out to Bodie for his debut.

Risberg wanted to go to the slab near the end of the game and hollered to Boss Gleason at the bench to put him in, but Gleason evidently figured it was a grand opportunity for his two rookie hurlers to gain some experience.

Any lack of pep by the Sox today might be charged to the big hotel here which boasts of 2,200 rooms and 2,200 baths. Secretary Walter Clark notified the hotel the Sox would arrive last night at 12:50 a. m. When they arrived no one behind the hotel counter had ever heard of them. Some of the boys got to bed by 3 o'clock a. m. and some later.

CLEVELAND UPSETS BOSTON HOSE TWICE; WOOD POLES HOMER

Boston, Mass., July 17.—Cleveland won both games of a double header today from Boston, taking the first, 5 to 2, and the second by the same score. Both contests were marked by the hard hitting of Speaker and his teammates.

In the seventh inning of the first game, with Speaker on first, Wood knocked the ball into the center field bleacher, a rare occurrence. Score of first game:

DECATUR BEATS LOGANS IN 11TH AFTER WRANGLE

Winners Quit Field, Then Return to Game.

Forced to take off a legitimate run scored by Mike Hechinger ,the Logan Squares lost the opening game of the two combat series with the Staley team of Decatur in eleven innings, 4 to 2.

"Iron Man" McGinnity, hero of many a major league scrap, ordered his team off the field in the seventh inning when a close decision was given against him by Umpire St. John at first base and only returned when the Logans set back their score to two runs and allowed Shortstop Halas to continue playing after he had been fired out of the game by Umpire Eckman for striking his partner.

Victory was earned by the visitors in the eleventh when Torey weakened, Wasem's triple and Pahlman's double, coupled with an error by Meinke, costing two runs and the game. Score:

AFTER Murphy's home run had put the Stewart-Warners ahead in their half of the ninth, the Pyotts came back and scored a victory on singles by Debus and Kiley and Kavanaugh's triple, after two were out. The losers grabbed the lead by hitting Benz in the first three innings, but Niesen's men tied up the count in the sixth on a double, three singles, and a hit batsman. LEO FLYNN SINKS RHYMING SPURS INTO PEGASUS

Winged Steed Rears and Plunges Under Torture.

BY RAY PEARSON.

Traveling around in this pugilistic set reveals a lot of peculiar fellows. For instance, who would ever think that Leo P. Flynn of New York, who is manager of a flock of scrappers which includes Bill Brennan, Chicago heavyweight; Kid Norfolk, colored heavyweight; Panama Joe Gans, welterweight; Eddie O'Hare, who battles at 154 pounds; Barney Adair, a 140 pound "lightweight"; Pete Hartley and Leo Johnson, lightweights; Roy Moore, Bud Dempsey, Johnny Russell, and Bobby Hansen, bantamweights, and almost the rest of the population, had a poetical strain in his makeup?

Leo Long on Conversation.

Leo Flynn is one of the characters of the game. He carries a line of conversation that knocks them off, and as he talks about fifty-nine minutes of every wakeful hour, he surely gives his listeners an earful. He can and does tell more funny incidents of the ring than any manager we know of and he spills it in his own characteristic way, which draws many a laugh. Such is the humor of Mr. Flynn, who claims to be the greatest manager of boxers in activity.

He likes to dwell on the physical giants who come to him seeking a manager and asking advice. He tells about the time that Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, came to New York looking for matches and his description of the western youth who invaded Gotham all dressed up in a rubber collar is great.

Breaks Into Poetry.

But that is not telling about the poetical Leo Flynn. Leo in his first effort—at least the first effort as far as we know—combines poetry with business, for he employs the "gift" to extol his wonderful scrappers.

Flynn's masterpiece appears in the adjoining column.

MY FIGHTERS

BY LEO P. FLYNN.

Matchmaker, dear sir, give me a bit of your time
And I'll give you a list of my fighters in rhyme.
They battle like hell and draw at the gate.
Look my list over and give us a date.

Bill Brennan, my heavyweight, they've dubbed him K. O.,
For he's right from the ould sod, the County Mayo.
He made Miske, Levinsky, and Meehan look slow,
It's now up to Dempsey to give a return go

Kid Norfolk of Panama, the black thunderbolt;
He's speedy and clever, and, boys, he can jolt.
He's only five feet, he's been burnt by the sun.
He'll fight any heavy who weighs less than a ton.

Panama Joe Gans, colored middleweight champ;
Ask topnotchers to box him, see how quickly they'll vamp.
He'll agree to box any one, regardless of size,
From the welterweights up—the limit's the skies.

Then the ex-A. A. U. champion, Eddie O'Hare,
And his stout-hearted stable mate, Barney Adair.
Get them opponents that's tough, we don't care;
For both of them come from the plains of Kildare.

Pete Hartley, my lightweight, who belts them on the lug.
His opponents will tell you, he's sure one tough mug.
If they swap punches with Pete they must be insane;
For, like old Battling Nelson, he's a durable Dane.

Leo Johnson, the colored champ, boxes with ease
The hardest of hitters; makes them look like a cheese.
He beat Welling, Dundee, Jackson, and Cline.
For a return match with Leonard should soon be in line.

Little Bud Dempsey, who always fights hard,
In the bantamweight division, is now quite a card.
Tearing Roy Moore, the fighting harp from St. Paul,
Who boxes the clever ones, sluggers and all.

New York Johnny Russell, who fights all the time.
What he done to Patsy Wallace sure was a crime.
Frankie Burns, Frankie Britt, Benny Valgar, big guys, too.
When John stood them off, they thought they were through.

Bobby Hansen of Denmark, put him on very soon,
With a Greek, or a Jew, or a Wop, or a Coon.
Wire night, noon, or morning, New York, that's the state!
Drop a line, East Fourteenth street, Number 328.

Chess Champion Regains Tournament Leadership

Atlantic City, N. J., July 17.—Frank J. Marshall, United States chess champion, regained the lead today in the eighth round of the chess masters' tournament by defeating E. S. Jackson of Philadelphia. The contests between Charles Jaffe of New York, and G. C. Neidich of Cornell, and S. T. Sharp of Philadelphia, and S. Motkowski of Los Angeles were adjourned. Jaffe has the advantage over Neidich.

WOODS AND WATERS

BY LARRY ST. JOHN.

JUST FISHING GOSSIP.

A READER wants to know if bullheads can be caught in the daytime. The answer is yes. On several occasions we have caught strings of these fish in broad daylight, and just yesterday our two little girls came in with a bullhead that they both caught. It took the hook of each and it is still a dinner table debate at our camp as to which should have credit for catching that fish.

LARRY ST. JOHN.

After sundown, however, is the traditional time to catch bullheads, for then they are feeding oftener and seem to be more active. A little fire on the shore of lake or river for good cheer, light, and to keep mosquitoes away; plenty of hooks and worms, and a good time should be had by all.

The common angleworm is the prime bullhead bait and it should be put on the hook in generous bunches, as the bullhead has an appetite like a small boy. Let the hook have a long shank, as the bullhead is notorious for his habit of "swallering" the hook, and a short shanked one is hard to get back.

Some bullhead fishermen use no hooks whatever, but simply tie a "gob" of worms to the line, let Bre'r Bullhead swallow it, and then haul him in by a steady pull instead of the customary jerk. The next best lure is a small bit of fresh meat, but such a bait is sure to attract mud turtles.

Some folks who do not know better look upon eating bullheads as a practice fit only for savages, but they are judging the fish by his appearance and not by his flavor.

Another reader incloses a clipping from the paper of May 27 which states that Judge K. M. Landis of Chicago caught twenty-eight wall eye pike in one day at his summer camp on Burt lake, near Petoskey, Mich. Our friend wants to know "how come" that a judge can catch twenty-eight fish in one day when the legal daily limit is ten.

Going over our meager evidence with judicial care, it resolves itself into two propositions, towit: Firstly, that the judge did not catch as many fish as reported; secondly, that he did catch them and threw all but ten of them back—call the next case!

The wall eye pike is a widely known fish and wherever you go he has a different name. In Lake Erie he is known as pickerel; in Canada as dory; at other places as jack, yellow pike, okow, and blowfish. The United States fisheries department calls him pike-perch, which is an excellent name, as it describes his characteristics. Salmon and jack salmon are the most absurd of all his names, as he has none of the traits of the salmonoids.

This brings up an interesting point, however. A friend tells us that many years ago his father used to fish in the Illinois river and caught a fish known as salmon that did not in any way resemble the pike-perch; other old time fishermen have told us the same thing.

In the early 80s Dr. W. A. Pratt of Elgin, Ill., hatched and planted in the Fox river some 25,000 landlocked salmon, which may have worked their way into the Illinois. That river is not suitable for salmonoid fishes, but individuals often thrive where the species will not.

Last spring a fine rainbow trout of over four pounds was caught in a net in the Mississippi river at Keokuk, Ia., the first one ever known to be taken there, and these and other salmonoid fishes are bobbing up in the most unexpected places. A nice rainbow trout was caught last winter in Black lake, near Holland, Mich. It evidently was a stray specimen that came in from Lake Michigan, where the rainbow trout is getting a good hold.

Ever and anon do we hear of a "muskellunge" of such and such a weight being caught in waters where these fish have never been taken before. We always look upon such reports with suspicion because the average fisherman is inclined to call any extra large pike—so-called "pickerel"—a muskellunge.

There are several ways to distinguish the pike from the muskellunge, such as the scales on the cheeks and gill covers, but the simplest way, and reliable enough for all practical purposes, is to keep in mind the fact that the markings of the "pick" are always bean shaped and lighter than the ground color of the fish, while the muskie's spots, if present, are round and black. If the specimen is not spotted, whatever markings it has will be darker than the ground color.

BREAKS WORLD PACING RECORD TWICE IN RACE

Springfield, Mass., July 17.—Directum J., driven by T. Page, paced the two fastest heats ever turned in over a half mile track today at the final day's card of the Short Ship Circuit meeting. Winning the free-for-all pace from Adioo Guy and Direct C. Burnett in straight heats, the black racer turned the second heat in 2:04½ and the third in 2:04¾. The time for the second heat shattered the mark of 2:05¼ for New England half mile tracks, made at Framingham by Our Colonel in 1917.

A New England record for trotting was also established in the 2:12 trot when Harry J. S. turned in 2:09¼ in the second heat of this race.

Champion Herron to Play in Exhibition Tomorrow

New York, July 17.—(Special.)—The national amateur golf champion, S. Davidson Herron, will pay his first visit of the season to the metropolitan district Monday, when he will appear in an exhibition match at the Cherry Valley club in Garden City. Herron and his former Princeton classmate, Grant A. Pencock of Cherry Valley, will pair against Frank McNamara, home professional, and Frank Belwood, pro. at the Garden City golf club. The event will be under the auspices of the William Bradford Turner Post of the American Legion.

THE HAYNES SPECIAL SPEEDSTER

The Newest Haynes Creation

ANSWERING the demand for a swift, snappy production—a truly individual car that fulfills the wishes of those who desire a creation that embodies the vibrant spirit of youth, a car that fairly breathes life and vigor and confident class—comes the new series Haynes Special Speedster.

Haynes engineers and designers are alive to the discriminating desires of those who are satisfied only with that which exemplifies the utmost distinction and exclusiveness. In the new series Haynes Special Speedster, they have given expression in a new and beautiful way to the four essential factors of car-character which the Haynes has established—beauty, strength, power and comfort.

The long, low rakish lines; the deep, leather seat for the two passengers; the individual fenders and steps; the unique windshield and top ventilator; the speedlines of the aluminum body—the low-swung chassis; the special compartments of the rear deck; the cord tires—all these give to the eye the promise which is more than realized when the car is swung into the roadway and given its head.

Production of the new series Haynes Special Speedster must perforce be limited. The importance of making an immediate reservation is emphasized.

HOLMES AIR COOLED
CHICAGO TO MILWAUKEE and RETURN
ON LOW GEAR

W. E. Butler, President of the Holmes Motor Car Co., congratulates B. W. Kellogg on accomplishment of low gear run.

A Test to Demonstrate Air Cooling

If the Holmes Improved Air-Cooled car will do work that no standard water-cooled car can do, then air-cooling is right—and if air-cooling is right, the air-cooled car is the most satisfactory for you to drive.

At noon, July 15th, a Holmes Improved Air-Cooled car left the salesroom of the Holmes Motor Car Co. of Chicago on a trip to Milwaukee and return, driving on low gear. The gear ratio was the standard ratio supplied by the factory. No oil was carried in the fuel. Every condition was a duplicate of the conditions of operation in ordinary owner service.

What This Means to You

Two quarts of oil for 195.3 miles on low gear, or 400 miles to the gallon of lubricating oil, under the hardest driving conditions that can be put on an automobile, shows the perfection of the lubricating system on the Holmes and the remarkable efficiency of Holmes air-cooling.

Nine and one-tenth miles per hour on low gear of 21 hours 17 minutes shows a continued operation at 75 per cent of the maximum efficient motor speed—a stupendous test for any motor car.

At all times during the run the motor showed instant ability to develop 100 per cent efficient power under wide open throttle—no better demonstration of the efficiency of air-cooling, or the efficiency of the Holmes Improved Air-Cooled car could be made.

We believe there is no standard stock water-cooled car that can duplicate this run of 195.3 miles on low gear without overheating.

We believe there is no standard water-cooled car that can attain even maximum low gear mileage possible before overheating, at an oil consumption anywhere near as low in its relation to the maximum oil mileage of the motor as the Holmes achievement of 400 miles to the gallon.

We believe that the ability of the Holmes Improved Air-Cooled car to operate steadily at from 75 per cent to 80 per cent of its maximum ability is the most important proof of the superior value of the Holmes that could be possibly offered to any motor car owner.

What This Means to You The Holmes Improved Air-Cooled car is built for consistent performance at a high percentage of its maximum power possibilities. This low gear run proves the superiority of air-cooling.

Add to this the road average of 39.5 miles per hour achievement of July 1st by a Holmes driven over the road from Chicago to Cincinnati and you have indisputable proof that not alone in its ability to achieve higher road averages under ordinary driving conditions than are possible with other cars, but in its ability to work under the hardest driving conditions—continuously without power loss—without overheating—that the Holmes is the most remarkable achievement yet made in automobile construction.

REFUND U. S. DEBT AND CUT TAXES, MITCHELL URGES

Outlines Tasks Facing New Administration.

The duty of refunding the entire national debt of the United States and of reducing taxation was laid upon the next administration yesterday by John J. Mitchell, Chicago financier and chairman of the boards of the Illinois-Merchants Trust banking group.

Mr. Mitchell's declaration that the war financing has proved a heavy strain on the country's banking facilities was borne out by a treasury department statement, also issued yesterday, showing the amount of government obligations the national banks are being obliged to carry, either through ownership or as collateral for loans. According to the treasury statement, the national banks on May 4 held $2,375,801,000 of government securities, a reduction of $1,656,952,000 compared with May 12, 1919.

Loans at $1,294,892,000.

The report of the federal reserve banks on July 9 showed they had outstanding loans aggregating $1,294,892,000, secured by government obligations. As their total loans were $2,938,279,000, it is apparent 44 per cent of all loans were made on government securities, thus tying up nearly half of the credit facilities of the federal reserve system.

In addition to this, huge amount of government securities held as security for loans, the federal reserve banks also held $309,400,000 of United States treasury certificates of indebtedness and $26,800,000 in government bonds. It comes as the result of such great masses of government securities being thrown upon the banks by investors who bought Liberty issues at par and have seen them decline severely in price that Mr. Mitchell and other financiers are advocating refunding on a higher interest basis.

Gives U. S. Two Big Tasks.

"Two of the first measures which should occupy the new administration to be chosen this autumn, are the refunding of our entire national debt and the reduction of the present onerous tax burdens," Mr. Mitchell said. "Bonds sufficient to take up the national debt should be issued with a maturity fifty years hence and bearing interest at 4½ per cent.

"Several advantages would accrue from this operation. The banks would be enabled to sell the large amount of war bonds they now are carrying. It would go far toward restoring the confidence of people who during the war purchased freely of Liberty bonds at par, and who now see them quoted far below that price. It would do away with the heavy sinking fund provisions, which result in placing an undue share of the burden of the cost of the war upon the present generation.

Tax Load Unnecessary.

"We are suffering from an unnecessary national tax burden. The excess profits tax in itself is largely responsible for the wave of extravagance that has swept over the country. This extravagance has affected everybody, from corporation heads to wage earners. The tax in a large degree has defeated its own purpose.

"The people are not content to continue to bear this enormous and unnecessary tax burden and the high cost of living that has resulted, partly through taxes, partly through profiteering, and partly through the abnormal conditions that have come as an aftermath of the war.

"But the high cost of living is beginning to decline. As it comes down the wages of labor will have to be readjusted to meet the lower costs, but the cost of living must come down first."

ROBBERS FORCE WOMAN TO SHED HER MINK COAT

Robberies, ranging from the theft of a fur coat to negotiable checks, were reported to the police yesterday.

While walking at Junior terrace and Clarendon avenue Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Brown, living in Sunnyside avenue near Hazel avenue, were stopped by three armed bandits in an automobile, he told the police. Mrs. Brown was forced to give them her mink coat, valued at $1,500, and her handbag, containing $9.

Harry Nelson, an automobile dealer from Hamilton, Mont., drove into Chicago to purchase motor trucks. At West Monroe and South Jefferson streets he stopped to examine a tire.

As he was bending over the tire two "bums" knocked him unconscious, took $470, and drove away with his car.

Emil Ayan, 1259 South Washtenaw avenue, a saloonkeeper, lost $225 cash and two checks for $71 to four armed automobile bandits at South Washtenaw and Washburne avenues.

Three armed automobile robbers forced William A. Martin, keeper of a Standard Oil company filling station at Marquette road and Stony Island avenue, to give them his receipts, amounting to $50.

SHOT AT WIFE'S WINDOW COSTS HUSBAND A FINE

Oscar J. Towell, an artist who fired through the window of his home at 401 East Sixty-sixth street early Friday morning when a boarder and his wife refused to let him in the house, was fined $25 and costs in the Englewood court yesterday for discharging firearms within the city limits. Charges of disorderly conduct against both him and his wife were transferred to the Court of Domestic Relations when they told conflicting stories regarding their marital difficulties.

Towell said he had employed detectives to watch his wife and the boarder. Mrs. Towell, who formerly was an artist's model and claims she became an artist's model wife, charged her husband with being unwarrantably jealous of the boarder. She accused him of having an affinity and produced a piece of a torn letter which she said bore out her contentions.

Towell admitted in court that he had kidnaped his small son Robert, but refused to tell where he was.

COL. N. W. MAC CHESNEY RECOMMENDED FOR D. S. M. FOR WAR WORK

COL. N. W. MACCHESNEY.

The report of the judge advocate general of the A. E. F., made public by the war department yesterday, recommends that Col. Nathan William MacChesney of Chicago be given a distinguished service medal for exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service. "As chief of the section of dishonorable discharge cases," the citation reads, "his breadth of view and executive ability contributed greatly to the carrying out of the policies established by the secretary of war for the maintenance of discipline and proper legal procedure in our army."

COAL SUPPLY OF NORTHWEST IS ASSURED BY U. S.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—Priority orders designed to insure an adequate supply of coal for northwestern states probably will be issued by the interstate commerce commission next week.

A proposed draft of an order will be presented to the commission Monday by committees representing the National Coal association and the railway executives. The order embodies a plan for relief of the territory dependent upon the shipment of coal by lake during the summer months, which was worked out at conferences during the last few days in New York.

The proposed order directs the railroads to give preference and priority to carloads of bituminous coal consigned to H. M. Griggs, manager of the Ore and Coal Exchange, Cleveland, Ohio, at any Lake Erie port for transshipment by water. It also places an embargo on the supply of cars for or the movement of bituminous coal to other consignees or other destinations.

U. S. After Price Boosting.

Charleston, W. Va., July 17.—Thirty-five coal companies and their chief officers, all of southern West Virginia, were named in warrants issued here today in connection with the coal price investigation conducted during the last two weeks by government authorities. The warrants were placed in the hands of the United States marshal, who will execute them early next week.

The warrants charge that the defendants "unlawfully made an unjust and unreasonable charge in handling and dealing in coal."

TO REDUCE SHIPPING ABUSES.

Flagrant profiteering in coal is to be stopped through the curtailment of the reconsignment of shipments by the Interstate Commerce commission, according to a telegram received yesterday from Washington by the state public utilities board.

The telegram was a response to the request of the utilities commission that the federal commission order the elimination of all reconsignments. It also stated that the carriers' committee, a body of railroad men, had been ordered to forward to the interstate commerce commission, new tariffs which will effect the limitation of the consignment privilege and thus check growing abuses.

STRIKES LAST YEAR NUMBERED 3,374 IN U. S.

Broke Wartime Record in Time Lost.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—Labor strikes and lockouts throughout the United States during the year 1919 totaled 3,374 and involved more than 4,000,000 persons. This is shown by figures which have just been compiled by the bureau statistics of the labor department.

Reports of the bureau showed the termination of 1,961 strikes in 1919, of which 624 were won by employers, 533 by employés, 729 were compromised, in the case of 42 of them employés returning pending arbitration, and in the remaining 33 results were not reported. Of the strikes of last year 125 were unauthorized, involving 1,053,256 strikers.

Greatest Number in Coal Dispute.

The number of persons in the nine strikes with more than 60,000 persons each involved was upward of 1,600,000. These included a strike of 65,000 employés in the Chicago stockyards; a lockout in the building trades in Chicago, involving 115,000; the steel strike, involving 367,000 persons; the coal strike with 435,000 persons involved; a strike of shipyard employés of New York City and vicinity, involving 100,000 persons; a strike of longshoremen along the Atlantic coast wherein 100,000 persons were involved; and a general strike in Tacoma and Seattle in sympathy with the metal trade strikers, involving 60,000.

Chicago Has 124.

There were 124 strikes in the city of Chicago in 1919, 100 in 1918, 123 in 1917, and 73 in 1916. Chicago thus had more strikes in 1919 than in any of the previous years. The number of strikes in New York City was somewhat less in 1919 than the previous years, the total in that year being 360, as against 484 in 1918, 484 in 1917, and 363 in 1916.

In 1919 in 2,399 strikes and 94 lockouts the numbers of persons involved was reported to be 3,950,111 and 126,096 respectively, or an average of 1,647 in strikes and 1,724 in lockouts. In 1918 in 2,080 strikes and 71 lockouts the number of persons involved was reported to be 1,196,928 and 43,061, respectively, or an average of 575 in strikes and 605 lockouts.

Duration of Strikes.

In 1919 the total duration of the strikes was 57,885 days and the lockouts 2,215 days, the average duration of the former being thirty-four days and of the latter thirty-eight days. In 1918 the total duration of strikes was 28,779 days and lockouts 1,116 days, the average for the former being eighteen days, and the latter thirty-one days.

In 1918 there were 3,232 strikes and 105 lockouts, totaling 3,337. In 1917 there were 4,324 strikes and 26 lockouts, totaling 4,450. In 1916 there were a total of 3,681 strikes and 108 lockouts, totaling 3,789. The 1919 total was greater than in 1918, but less than in 1916 and 1917.

Between April 6, 1917, the date of our entrance into the war, and Nov. 11, 1918, the signing of the armistice, there were 6,205 strikes and lockouts.

TAX VALUATIONS OF CITY'S BANKS SHOW 16% GAIN

Assessors' Books Reveal Prosperous Condition.

That prosperity has descended upon the banks of Chicago is shown by the records of the board of assessors, whose tax valuations, based on the capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits of thirty-two downtown banks, shows an actual increase of $27,629,981 over the 1919 valuation. This is more than 16 per cent.

The paper increase shown on the books of the assessors is in excess of $57,000,000, but as the board in 1919 allowed a reduction of 20 per cent the actual increase of the 1919 figures is $30,000,000 less.

Realty Value Deducted.

The actual value of the capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits of the various banks is somewhat larger than the figures here given, as the board, under the provisions of the tax law, subtracted the amount of real estate owned by the various institutions.

The value of this real estate is comparatively small, however, as banks can own real estate for banking purposes only.

GRAINS DECLINE, LED BY WHEAT; COUNTRY SELLS

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

Wheat values are rapidly adjusting themselves to the new conditions with a downward trend. Trade was heavier with 1,500,000 bu sold here for future delivery, cash houses and hedgers being the best sellers and exporters and shorts the buyers. Prices declined 9c on futures from the previous day's close and 24c under the high of Thursday, and closed at a net loss of 7c.

The Armour Grain company bought March and sold December at 4c difference here, and in the other markets at about the same spread, and appears to be working for a carrying charge. Minneapolis December dropped 13c and recovered 6c, which helped the market here late in the day. Duluth dropped 17c to $2.44. Kansas City declined 8c and closed 6½c lower and St. Louis lost 5@6c net.

Cash news was bearish, with increased offerings of new crop in the southwest, where interior bids were said to be 8@10c lower. Country offerings were larger here at 2@3c decline.

Weather in the northwest was reported hot late in the day, and while there were many claims of black rust spreading, there were also numerous reports showing no damage.

Corn Market Erratic.

Coarse grains fluctuated rapidly, with a rather wide range in corn. Trade was not large, but there was strong commission house selling on the bulges, while on the breaks shorts covered freely. At the last corn was ¼@1⅜c lower, oats ⅛@⅜c and barley 1¼c lower, while rye acted tight and gained 1⅛@3c, the latter on July.

Prices for all grains were sharply lower as compared with a week ago, with corn showing net losses of 7⅜@11⅜c, oats 3@8⅝c, rye 9½@10⅝c, and barley 8½c.

The weakness in wheat had some effect on the corn market, as did the decline of 1@2c in cash prices. Crop reports were again favorable, although hot weather would be beneficial. Sentiment was somewhat more mixed and, with the big decline of late, commission houses were inclined to advise caution in getting short on the breaks.

Oats showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure, buying being of a good clas, and breaks made in sympathy with other grains were quickly recovered, the close being firm. Premiums in the sample market were generally unchanged at 7½@8c over the July for No. 2 white.

Houses with New York connections were good buyers of rye and July showed congestion from the start, closing within ½c of the top. An early break in September was in sympathy with wheat.

Provisions Close at Top.

Buying of lard and ribs, mainly lard by the Armour interests, who took September and cash, combined with predictions of lighter arrivals of hogs for the balance of this month, featured the provision trade. Selling pressure was light and the closing trades were 45@62½c higher on lard, 10@17½c up on ribs, and 62½c higher on September pork.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Shipping sales of cash grain at Chicago Saturday were 25,000 bu corn and 56,000 bu oats. Deliveries, 45,000 bu corn.

Export demand for cash wheat at the gulf was keen. The British commission accepted all offers made over night and a small amount was also sold to the continent, but quantities were not given. Chicago handlers sold 50,000 bu to the seaboard for export. Boston reported sales abroad for last half of August shipment at $3.06.

While the trade claimed export bids at the gulf were sharply lower, the actual figures showed them to be unchanged to 2c higher as compared with those late Friday, with August $2.97@3.00; September, $2.92@2.94, and October, $2.88@2.90. Bids, track New York, were 1@5c lower, and c i f Buffalo or Georgian Bay 1@3c higher, with July $2.90 bid.

Cash wheat prices have dropped sharply, winters here being 3@5c lower, with a car of new No. 2 red from Illinois sold at $2.85. In the southwest prices were 5@10c lower, with dark hard winter at Kansas City leading. Omaha dropped 4@7c, and Minneapolis 10c.

Demand for cash corn was not urgent, and prices 1@2c lower at the inside figures of the week. Recepts, 113 cars. Cash oats unchanged to 1c lower, with fancy heavy grain selling readily. Receipts, 55 cars.

WORLD'S·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

Grain men are watching temperatures and weather conditions in the northwest, where the spring wheat crop is in a critical condition. Unfavorable weather can improve or lower wheat prospects in the next three weeks. There is black rust in many spots, but Inglis says the attack is light around Aberdeen, S. D. A Minneapolis authority says the South Dakota crop has grown worse since Wednesday. The advance spots are holding fairly. Barring extensive black rust damage, it is not believed to be more than 10 to 15 per cent in the worst spots. The disposition is to look for lower prices unless there is continued urgent export buying around the present level of values.

Sentiment in corn and oats is more mixed. One of the largest commission houses, which has been bearish all week, says the weather is too cool and wet for corn and predictions are for a continuation over Sunday. As the crop is late this is not a favorable condition and is not advocating short sales.

There has been active closing of spreads between September and December corn and there is said to be a fair sized holding of December corn by people who have been short. Prices are about 45c lower than last year, which to some makes the short side less favorable.

Trading in wheat for future delivery will start at Winnipeg Monday. The wheat crop of Canada will not be controlled during the 1920-21 season, according to present plans, although the government has the authority to do so, an enabling bill having been passed recently.

A fair business in Russian corn and wheat is expected to develop at the Pacific coast as soon as restrictions on trading with that country are removed. Argentine corn was offered at $1.40 per bu delivered at Pacific coast ports yesterday.

"Wheat very promising," wired John Inglis to Logan & Bryan from Aberdeen, S. D. "Northward most of it is just in the milk stage. Rust can be found, but it looks like a mild attack. No blight as yet. Oats, rye, and barley, heavy crops."

PRODUCE MARKETS

Trading in fruits was fair, with ample supplies and an easier market for cherries and peaches. Tomatoes to sell well must be fancy, with four basket cases bringing $1.00 to $1.40. Watermelons are $200 to $450 per car, with supplies large and the market weak.

Firmness prevailed in the butter trade, with fancy grades selling fairly. Receipts for the week were 95,692 tubs, against 77,598 the previous week and 77,080 last year. Cold storage stocks are 15,167,000 lbs, against 26,987,000 lbs last year. The four markets have 39,763,000 lbs, against 67,590,000 lbs last year.

Egg prices were unchanged, the market being firm at 41½c to 43½c for fresh firsts. Receipts for the week were 101,525 cases, against 88,862 the previous week and 101,366 last year. Cold storage stocks are 1,543,794 cases, against 1,850,871 last year.

Trading in potatoes was slow and the market easy, with 58 cars in and 92 on track. Barrel stock brought $12.50 to $13.00 and sacked $6.40 to $7.35 per 100 lbs.

Scant receipts of hogs on the closing day of the week forced prices 10@15c higher for the better grades, with the day's average at $14.85, the highest since Monday. The top at $16.10 was 15c higher than on Friday. The closing trade was generally strong, with higher prices in sight early next week.

Of the 147,200 hogs received during the week, practically 45,000 were taken by shippers, which helped trade. Sharply lower prices for provision futures in midweek were a weakening factor. The estimated average weight for the week was the heaviest in two months at 241 lbs, against 238 lbs the previous week and 242 lbs a year ago.

Cattle prices ruled higher early in the week, with the best yearlings highest of the year at $17.25. Closing prices for the less desirable grades of beef cattle were as much as 50@75c below a week ago. Sheep and lambs reacted 25@50c from high time of the week, with closing values slightly above a week ago.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 17,000 cattle, 35,000 hogs, and 16,000 sheep, against 22,165 cattle, 24,486 hogs, and 21,570 sheep the corresponding Monday a year ago.

Receipts for next week are estimated at 55,000 cattle, 135,000 hogs, and 70,000 sheep, against 70,082 cattle, 118,423 hogs, and 116,295 sheep the corresponding week a year ago.

Monday's probable hog receipts are variously estimated from 32,000 to 44,000. G. M. Nicoll marked 44,000, F. W. Waddell 42,000, J. M. Waters 38,000 F. R. Burrows 37,000, R. W. Oake 34,000, and Charles Gross 32,000.

NEWS OF THE CROPS

Crop reports received by the Bank of Montreal covering western Canadian provinces show improvement in all sections except within thirty miles of the Saskatoon district, where farmers will get little more than seed. Winnipeg district 60 per cent is headed and rain is needed.

GRAIN ELEVATORS AND MEN CLASH ON WAGE SCALE

Grain elevators and employés are unable to get together on the wage scale. The elevator operators met yesterday afternoon to consider a proposition from the union workers in which they ask $1 a day advance. The proposition was refused.

The common laborers wish $36 a week with every Saturday afternoon off. The monthly wage men desire more.

A proposition was sent back to the union offering $36 a week, with twenty-six Saturday afternoons off during the year, and other Saturdays when possible. Men who work by the month are offered $26 advance. The union asks 75 cents an hour for forty-eight hours a week for common laborers, time and a half for overtime, and double time on Sundays and holidays.

FINANCIAL NOTES

The Association of Railway Executives will recommend to all railroads that the express business continue to be handled under federal control, as was done during the war, by a single agency, the American Railway Express company. A standard contract will be submitted to the interstate commerce commission for approval. The association also has recommended that the roads endeavor to set a record in freight transportation by having each car carry thirty tons and average not less than thirty miles a day in order to relieve the present congestion.

Weekly trade reviews emphasize the improved crop outlook as affecting business in a constructive way, but say that the price situation continues to retard operations in many lines. R. G. Dun & Co. report 160 failures last week, compared with 106 in the preceding week and 88 in the corresponding week in 1919.

The Chicago federal reserve bank reports the weekly movement of credits as follows: Debits to individual deposit account reported for the week ending July 14, 1920, by 187 banks in twenty-three leading clearing house cities in the Seventh federal reserve district aggregate $1,209,122,000, compared with $1,102,927,000 a week ago. Aggregate debits to individual deposit account amounted to $1,209,122,000, compared with $1,200,863,000 for the corresponding week of last year.

It is announced that about $25,000,000 of the $30,000,000 preferred and common shares of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, which were offered publicly on the basis of two preferred and one common shares for $300, has been sold to investors.

What Is Wheat Worth?

FOR three years, the wheat trade of this country has been under government control with basic minimum prices fixed by the government. The war is over, and the guarantee having expired, prices of wheat are again being determined by the meeting of buyers and sellers in the great central markets.

AS the markets steady, growers will have the satisfaction of knowing that the price they are getting for their wheat is nearer what the consumer has to pay than has been the case during the past two years, during most of which time wheat has been selling above the government guaranteed basis and, therefore, on a basis which compelled dealers to handle it on a purely speculative basis.

DEALERS widened their margins during the period of government control because they had to assume risks which previously they had not been compelled to take and which they will not be compelled to take now that open markets are restored, for the system of trading in wheat for future delivery makes it possible for the dealer or miller to protect himself against loss through charges in market price through the system known as "hedging." Because of this system, grain is handled between producers and consumers in the United States on a smaller handling charge than is possible in any other commodity or in any other line of business.

AS a result of his experience as food administrator, Mr. Herbert C. Hoover has stated that the producers never fully appreciated the advantage to them of having the prices for their commodities determined in open market at great centers under equitable trade rule and with full publicity. He has also stated that the Chicago Board of Trade is the most economical vehicle for the handling of foodstuffs to be found anywhere in the world.

ADEQUATE transportation and open markets have been the most important factors in developing agriculture in this country, and both are essential to producer and consumer alike.

THE promotion department of the Board of Trade of Chicago is distributing a pamphlet entitled "Things You Should Know About the Board of Trade" with the idea of giving you an opportunity to become more familiar with the machinery for the distribution of surplus grain crops after they leave the hands of the producer. This pamphlet will be sent free on request. Address Promotion Dept.

IN THE HEART OF THE GREAT WEST SIDE

RESERVE BANKS GIVE EVIDENCE OF CURB ON CREDIT

Evidence of a check on credit inflation is contained in the weekly reports of the federal reserve banks. The statements of the New York and Chicago institutions show a moderate decrease in loans, a slight increase in deposits, and a rather sharp recession in note circulation. It is recognized that the reduction of loans may be only temporary and occasioned by the improving transportation service and attendant liquidation of commodities.

This deflation, although slight, may also be in part attributable to preparation for the demand for credit when crop moving begins, when it is recognized that there must be a considerable increase in loans. The increase in deposits may be attributed to the return of funds which had been withdrawn to meet the half yearly settlements and disbursements of interest and dividends on July 1.

New York Cuts Loans.

The New York Federal Reserve bank shows a fair reduction in loans to the member banks, these receding $21,397,000, but its loans to other federal reserve banks increased $4,086,000, so that the decrease in total loans was $17,311,000. Total gold reserves increased $7,583,000, total deposits advanced $28,806,000, while note circulation declined $21,144,000. Total earning assets declined $24,594,000. With respect to loans, those secured by government war paper continue to constitute about two-thirds of the total borrowings of the member banks, while borrowings of other federal reserve banks remain divided about equally between war paper and commercial bills.

As the result of these changes the reserve position was more favorable. The ratio of total reserves to deposit and note liabilities combined rose to 40.8 from 39.8 per cent in the preceding week, while the ratio of reserves to net deposits, after deducting 40 per cent gold reserves against note circulation, rose to 41.7 from 39.6 per cent in the preceding week.

Gold Reserve Drops Here.

Chicago Federal Reserve bank statement showed a less favorable reserve position, but this was due largely to the fact that its borrowings from other federal reserve banks were reduced by $14,750,000, and payment apparently was made principally through the gold settlement fund, as the bank's gold reserve declined $13,675,000. The bank's borrowings from sister institutions now amount to $16,923,500.

The loan account was interesting in that it showed considerable decrease in commercial credits, which receded $17,164,000. But loans on government securities increased $14,831,000, so that total loans declined only $3,033,305. Bills purchased receded $3,352,000. With the decline in loans the reserve account of the member banks receded about $3,000,000, while deposits increased by about the same amount. The most notable feature, however, was a decline of $10,850,000 in note circulation, which in the previous week attained a high record mark.

Reserve Ratio Falls.

The ratio of reserves to deposits and note liabilities combined fell to 38.98 from 39.84 per cent in the preceding week, while the ratio of reserves to note circulation, after setting aside 35 per cent against net deposits, fell to 40.62 from 41.84 per cent in the preceding week.

N. Y. Clearing House Banks.

The statement of the New York clearing house banks showed an increase of $19,218,330 in the excess reserve, which now stands at $29,236,130, compared with the nominal figure of $10,017,800 a week ago. The present increase is attributable to the fact that the banks swelled their reserve account at the federal reserve bank by $22,400,000. This, coupled with an increase of $42,328,000 in loans, would indicate also that the banks availed themselves more freely of the borrowing privilege at the reserve institution.

Net demand deposits increased $21,346,000, while time deposits receded slightly. Government deposits increased $20,000,000. Cash declined $8,146,000.

Status of Twelve Banks.

A considerable decrease in loans, an increase in deposits and a decline in note circulation were the features of the consolidated statement of the twelve federal reserve banks. Total loans receded $71,453,000,000, those secured by war paper declining $41,100,000, and those secured by commercial bills receding $30,353,000. Bills bought declined $8,100,000. Total deposits increased $[illegible], government deposits dropping $4,200,000. Note circulation receded $45,000,000.

Total gold reserves remained about stationary, while total reserves increased $11,000,000 through the addition of legal tender notes, silver, etc. In spite of the decrease in loans, the reserve account of the member banks increased $27,724,000. Holdings of treasury certificates of indebtedness increased $12,240,000.

The ratio of total reserves to net deposit and note liabilities combined rose to 43.9 from 43.1 per cent in the preceding week, and the ratio of gold reserves to note circulation, after setting aside 35 per cent against net deposit liabilities, rose to 48.7 from 47.5 per cent in the preceding week.

DRY GOODS MARKETS.

NEW YORK, July 17.—Cotton goods for spring are being shown more generally. Prices were either on a lower basis or the prices of the fall season were being continued, except in the case of fine yarn dyed novelties, which were generally higher than last year. Yarns were quiet and prices easy, and wool goods markets dull. Silks were steadier and burlaps were quiet.

METAL MARKETS.

NEW YORK, July 17.—There has been no change of importance in the copper market during the week, with producing interests reporting a comparatively small volume of business on the basis of 19 cents for nearby and the third quarter delivery. Iron was unchanged.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—LEAD—Stronger at $8.75. ZINC—Slab, higher at $7.90.

:CHICAGO·STOCK·TRANSACTIONS·

Trading in Chicago stocks in the weekend session yesterday were almost negligible. The price trend, if the small volume of trading could be said to carry any indication, was higher. Shaw advanced a point and fractional advances were made in all other issues that showed any changes, with the exception of Wrigley, which declined a point. The packing house issues were steady to firmer, led by National Leather, which was the only issue to reach the 1,000 share mark.

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Trading in stocks today was limited practically to retirement of short contracts in issues sold heaviest in earlier sessions of the week.

The short interest in Crucible Steel faced the unpleasant fact, from their point of view, of an unexpected stock dividend amounting to slightly more than 14 per cent, declared on Friday afternoon, and a moderate turnover brought a net gain in excess of 4 points.

There were advances of a point scattered among oil, steel, and miscellaneous manufacturing shares, with fractional gains marking most industrial and railroad stocks that appeared on the ticker. Altogether, business was decidedly light. Sterling exchange declined.

New Bonds Issued to Pay Old.

Some new investors are much distressed when they discover that the earnings of railroads or utility companies whose bonds they have bought seem to be hopelessly insufficient to pay off the bonds at maturity.

There is no reason for worry. The bonds are not intended to be paid out of earnings. The hope is that when they mature the company will be larger and stronger and can put out a new loan on more favorable terms to raise money for retiring the old one. In other words, bonded debt is supposed to be a permanent part of the capitalization of railway and utility companies. As long as the total of this debt is not allowed to become too large in proportion to the amount of stock which is junior to it the bonds are a safe and desirable investment.

If anyone wants an investment that will be paid at maturity he can turn to equipment trusts or serial industrial bonds. Serial municipal bonds that will be paid out of taxes are still more conservative.

The question whether long time bonds forming part of a permanent debt or the shorter term "self-liquidating" kind are the better investment cannot be answered. All depends on the circumstances and wishes of the investor and the merits of each particular bond.

Brief Answers.

A. G., Cedar Rapids, Ia.—Great Northern and Northern Pacific have earned their fixed charges with a moderate margin under government management. The dividends have been paid partly out of government compensation. Their underlying bonds are high grade investments.

L. R., Sabetha, Kas.—The Tennessee Power company earned $824,306 net in the twelve months ended March 31 last. Interest charges in 1919 were $649,581. The margin of safety is too narrow to give the bonds more than a medium rating.

Expectation

A right expectation may be said to be the open door for opportunity. No one really makes a sincere effort to get anything that he does not expect to attain.

Expectation is, therefore, a necessary stimulus to activity and progress—a forerunner of all accomplishment.

As the aggregate of business is made up of the affairs of the individual, the anticipation of reduced trade tends to dull ambition, and to bring about the restricted activities which all wish to avoid.

On the other hand, a sane expectancy of activity and profit stimulates individual effort, and opens the door for good business in all lines.

When the Elmwood Castings plant near Cincinnati burned on March 5, local engineers stated it was 100% destroyed. We rebuilt the plant by May 8, salvaging 85% of the total value, and saving $200,000 for our client, as well as four months' production.

Franklin Cars—all models—average 14,000 miles per set of tires and 20 miles per gallon of gasoline.

A child and a fool imagine that twenty shillings and twenty years can never be spent.
—Benjamin Franklin.

Come On and Drive a Franklin 20 Miles or More on a Gallon

THIS is our invitation to every man and woman who wants Franklin economy proved up. Eleven hundred and ninety-eight Chicago people have accepted this invitation in the last few weeks. All have driven the Franklin. All have shown better than 20 miles to the gallon.

To make this test more interesting we have a Franklin with its gas tank on the wind shield, right beside the driver. See the illustration below. There are glass gauges on this tank, so you can see how slowly the Franklin consumes gasoline.

Possibly you have seen this Franklin running around town. Every time you see it remember some man or woman is finding out the truth about Franklin economy—a truth you can not afford to overlook if you care what it costs to run a car.

Tire Economy, Too.

We would offer a handsome reward for the man who could invent a scheme to show Franklin tire economy in a few miles of driving. You really have to own a Franklin to appreciate what tire economy is.

The Franklin is such a remarkably easy car on tires that Franklin owners boast about it. They keep records—the kind of records owners of most cars prefer not to keep.

So, every year the Franklin factory asks Franklin owners about tire mileage. Thousands of owners fill out these reports. The last few thousand showed better than 14,000 miles per set of tires as an average.

This includes all body styles—roadster, touring, sedan. It covers the entire country—good roads and bad—careful drivers and thoughtless drivers. It is an average which you, as a careful driver on city pavements, could expect to beat.

Investment Value

You don't hear as much talk as you used to about the high resale value of most automobiles. The war-time scarcity is over and used cars are beginning to bring what they are worth.

Over-priced cars show severe depreciation after a few months' use. Cars of costly up-keep and running expense are not favorites with used car buyers.

But used Franklins, as always, are still scarce; still in demand; still bringing good prices. Because the Franklin is known the world over as an economical car—a car which maintains its efficiency for years and years. If you will investigate, you will find out the Franklin has the highest investment value of any car you can buy.

Fleet on the Road.

Because the Franklin is such an easily handled car for city driving, and because of its light weight, many think the Franklin a poor car for touring. If other light cars bounce off the road, why should not the Franklin do likewise?

It is quite a story. The best telling of it lies in a ride over rough roads in a Franklin. You will be amazed to feel the car going comfortably at 30, 40 and 45 miles an hour over roads which would make you flinch in any other car.

Somehow, somewhere between the end of your spine and the road, the Franklin has absorbed the shocks you expected to feel. They don't get to you. You are sure of that, and the car does not bounce at all. It seems glued to the road.

Put the Franklin to This Test

You do not have to declare your intention to buy an automobile to be welcome to the Franklin Road and Economy Test. If you are not a buyer, you will at least be a booster after one ride in a Franklin. We want to bring the Franklin to your door and invite you to drive it and test it yourself. The Age of Chivalry by Will Payne

Bick Platt, Reporter, Breaks a Lance with Death and Fixes Up a Piece for the Paper

LONG ago—as Chicago history runs—a number of persons judged that the time was opportune to bring about a violent change in the political and economic institutions of the United States. Any one who cares to look back in the newspaper files will find that it was a period of unrest, with strikes and turmoil and much talk of revolution. One lowering afternoon a company of policemen went to disperse an unauthorized meeting. Somebody threw a bomb among them, killing several. Of those who were tried and convicted as accessories to that crime some were hanged and some sent to prison.

The passión which those things provoked remained for months after the legal sentence was carried out. The town, excepting an inconsiderable minority, didn't propose that its political and economic institutions should be destroyed by any inconsiderable minority—grimly proposed, on the contrary, that whoever attempted it should feel a heavy hand. It was an ill time for revolutionists.

One man upon whom suspicion and odium fell heavily was Dr. Friedrich Metzlein. He was not charged with any criminal complicity in the bomb throwing, for there was no evidence of that. But he was known to hold anarchistic doctrines. He was on friendly terms with some of the men who were implicated. He supplied money and his own services for the defense of all of them. He was said to be an able physician and he had enjoyed a lucrative practice on the south side. The affair ruined him financially and professionally and he disappeared. It was given out that he had left the city.

About half past 4 one mild November afternoon two reporters left the old Chicago avenue police station, walking side by side at a leisurely pace, engaged in conversation. They had gone some distance when a man with a large, well filled market basket on his arm strode rapidly past them and—a few steps farther on—turned to the left into an intersecting street. Whereupon one of the reporters touched the other's arm and said, "That's Metzlein. He's shaved off his beard, but it's Metzlein. I'm sure of it."

So the reporters themselves turned up that intersecting street, keeping the figure ahead, with a market basket on its arm, under their eyes. The figure went briskly up the six steps that led to a dingy door, let itself in with a latch key, and disappeared.

Naturally, Metzlein, up in that shabby north side district, with a well filled market basket on his arm and letting himself in with a latch key, was something to think about. One of the reporters was named Nicholas Crissman, and he had plenty to think about, anyway.

For some five years he had been on the staff of the Evening Bulletin. He wanted to write and we—in the local room of the Bulletin—thought he couldn't; at least not as things should be written for a live Chicago newspaper. We knew that he occasionally contributed poems, for which he was paid nothing, to the monthly Beaux Arts, but that did not impress us much. Cleghorn, our managing editor, said the stuff was piffle. At a desk job—which meant editing what somebody else had written—he got on very well because he was dependable, accurate, and had an excellent memory. He was made assistant telegraph editor, and he might have held just about that job for the term of his natural life, but there was an unfortunate blunder and row. The telegraph editor was really more to blame, but the telegraph editor was a valuable member of the staff and Crissman really wasn't. So Cleghorn—irascible and prone to short cuts in such matters—eased his outraged feelings by discharging Crissman.

All of us, in the local room, felt the tragic import of that as we wondered how a man whose usefulness in a newspaper office was so limited could ever in the world get another newspaper job, and if he didn't get a newspaper job what sort of job he could get. We knew he couldn't support a wife and two children by contributing poems gratis to the Beaux Arts. We knew he had just managed to support them on his modest pay as assistant telegraph editor. Not that he had said so, but the frayed and shiny state of his carefully brushed clothes said it for him.

He wore a pointed reddish beard—perhaps, as Bick Platt sympathetically surmised, because he found it cheaper to trim his beard with the shears than to shave—and to most of us in the local room his 31 years seemed fairly middle aged, although Bick Platt was a veteran of 27. So in considerable depression of spirits we saw his slight, slope shouldered, genteelly threadbare figure disappear from the Bulletin office—gamely trying to smile as he looked into the door of the local room and waved good-by.

Presently we heard that Crissman was "doing space" on the Evening Transcript, which might consider itself our rival, although we did not so consider it, for we had a very low opinion of it. We knew that "doing space" on the Transcript was a kind of purgatorial state that might almost as well be the outright inferno of no job at all. It meant that a man was privileged to hang around the office and once in a while, when no regular member of the staff was available, the city editor might toss him a small assignment, or he might turn up a story on his own hook, and if it was printed he'd get paid according to the space it occupied. Meager sustenance that, for a wife and two children!

Crissman had been nosing around the Chicago avenue police station that afternoon, hoping to turn up something like a story on his own hook, although, considering his poor reportorial ability and that he had plenty of competition, the prospect was not bright. Bicknell Platt, star reporter on the Bulletin, had dropped in at the police station on a small errand as he was going to his north side lodging after his day's reporting was done. As I recall Bick Platt now, his shoulders were so square that, except for his neck being in the way, a yardstick would have lain even along them. There was an habitual little forward thrust of his neck and square chin, indicative of an aggressive temper. His forehead was low and square, too, with short, stiff black hair, standing up above it. He spent more money at the tailor's and haberdasher's than most of us—perhaps because he had more to spend—and wore a large seal ring. At the police station he ran across Crissman and the two were walking away together when they saw Metzlein.

As I said, Metzlein, under the circumstances mentioned, was something to think about. "Might be a good story in that, Criss," Bick Platt speculated aloud, looking sidewise at the slight, slope shouldered figure beside him. That figure afflicted him. He couldn't help wondering how wife and two children might have been faring, these last three weeks, on "space" at the Transcript. He noticed, for one thing, that Criss was wearing a white shirt, which was clean but neither starched nor ironed, and he rather guessed that Mrs. Criss had washed it overnight, but perhaps had no starch, or no time to use it. We all thought that Criss, in his mild, amiable, ineffectual way, was a good fellow. And a good story, even on the Transcript, meant money and money meant food.

"Let's have a look at it," anyhow," said Bick.

Grimshaw street is quite changed now, but it was then a sort of leftover. The building into which Metzlein had disappeared was a six story brick structure, excessively dingy, which might have been apartments or tenements or lodgings. A flyblown card in the window of the first floor above the basement announced furnished rooms for rent.

"Let's see what it's like inside," Bick Platt suggested promptly, and began ascending the weather worn steps, with rusty iron banisters that led up to the front door.

Crissman's mind was divided between gratitude and apprehension. He understood that Bick was going to help him get a story, if there was a story to be had, and toward Bick his heart expanded with the gratefulness of a shy, unlucky man. But his own disposition was not adventurous. This impudent business of walking up to a strange door—when no newspaper had really sent him—rather daunted him. No such sickly qualms afflicted Bick Platt, however. He gave a vigorous pull at the ancient doorbell and repeated it twice, with intervals of a minute or so between.

A large, bedraggled woman with a sour face then opened the door a few inches and looked out, with the expression of one in the habit of looking for trouble and generally finding it.

"My friend and I want a room," said Bick, cheerfully.

The landlady seemed rather to doubt it, on general principles, and she replied gloomily that she had one vacant room, with a double bed, on the top floor; it was an inside room and the rent was $5 a week in advance, and she didn't propose to climb the stairs unless they really wanted such a room at such a rental.

"Sounds all right," said Bick; "let's look at it."

The room which she showed them contained a double bed, but there was not much else to be said for it. It was an inside room, with but one window, and when the landlady ran up the shade they saw that this window looked into a well, or airshaft, about four feet square. Except a transom over the door, that was the only resource for light and air. Bick remarked that it wasn't much of a room, which irritated the landlady.

Coming up the stairs, alert eyed, he had noticed that all the doors in the several dimly lighted halls were shut tight; they had seen nobody and heard no sound. The entire dingy premises seemed locked in and uncommunicative as an oyster. Bick's idea had been to give unlucky Criss a bit of a boost by way of helping him to get a story. The uncommunicative premises rebuffed him and roused his sporting blood. He didn't propose to be bluffed out of the story, if any story was to be had. So he chaffered with the irritated landlady a few minutes, his own temper quite serene, and compromised by paying her $2 on account of the first week's room rent. Having possession of the room would give them a strategic position from which to operate.

The position looked unpromising enough, however. All the doors they had seen were shut. There was nothing in this room except a bed, a warped bureau, wash stand, with a broken nosed water pitcher and cracked bowl, one straightbacked chair and a ragged ingrain rug. With some difficulty Bick raised the window sash and looked down the airshaft, which ran through the center of the building from roof to basement. Windows opened into it, at the several stories, on either side, but they seemed to be shut, too, with the shades down. In comparison with this house an oyster was fairly loquacious. That annoyed Bick.

But the sixth story window on the other side of the airshaft, opposite the one at which he stood, was open a foot and a half. So far as he and Crissman could see, or hear, the room over there was quite empty and presumably it was a counterpart of the one in which they stood.

Now Bick Platt's sporting blood was up and his professional pride was piqued. He had proposed to show Criss how to get a story, and so far he had nothing to show. Besides, he felt the natural adventurous urge of a nervy youngster before a high blank wall, at the other side of which lies an orchard of ripe fruit.

"How can we get over there?" he speculated aloud, looking across the airshaft. The distance was about four feet. A jump was out of the question, for there was nothing on the other side to catch hold of. He looked around the room, thought of the bed, and proceeded to examine it.

Sure enough, the cheap springs were supported by two bed slats, one at the head, one at the foot. In a moment they dismantled the bed and took possession of the slats, which proved just long enough to reach across from one window ledge to the other. But even with one slat laid atop the other for greater strength, they made a ticklish sort of bridge. The drop was a good fifty feet to a cement floor at the bottom. Moreover there was some junk down there that looked like the wreck of a bureau or similar piece of furniture—jagged, and a nasty thing to fall on. By placing the bridge at the edge of the window it was so close to the north wall of the airshaft that in crossing one could steady himself by putting a hand on that north wall. One long step would almost take one over.

But the bricks in the window ledge at the other side seemed rather loose and crumbly. If the slats should bend only a little, or if a brick over there should give way, or if one slipped—well, in that case one would very likely furnish the subject for some newspaper copy instead of writing the copy. Bick Platt weighed 172 pounds.

He loathed to be stumped, so he seised the window casing on either side and lifted a foot preparatory to climbing out. Now Crissman, who had little more native spirit of adventure than a mouse, had been looking on with a fluttering heart. He swallowed and pushed ahead of his companion, saying: "Hold on, Bick. I'm 40 pounds lighter than you are. Let me go." And without looking at his companion he began climbing out of the window. He didn't care to have his companion see his frightened eyes.

Of course, Bick had been thinking of that difference in weight, which to any sensible mind ought to have been decisive. "It's perfectly easy, Criss," he said, reassuringly. "Let me climb up here on the window sill and hold your hand until you have tested it with your foot." He could hold Criss if Criss should slip, but Criss couldn't hold him.

So he sat astride of the window sill, gripping Crissman's slim hand while Crissman, steadying himself by putting the other hand against the north wall of the airshaft, tested the improvised bridge. It seemed sufficient for his weight. He disengaged his hand from Bick's grip, took a long step, and was over.

As they had surmised, the room in which he found himself was a counterpart of the one he had just left, furnished also with bed, bureau, washstand, and chair. He looked around and saw that the door opposite the window was closed, but not tightly shut, and when he listened at the crack of that door he heard sounds on the other side—somebody spoke, somebody was moving in the other room, somebody else spoke more loudly and hearer to the door at which Crissman was listening; it was so loud and near, in fact, that it exploded to Crissman's ear fairly like a fourteen inch shell and made his nerves prickle.

He wanted, in fact, to get out. But he wouldn't—no, not if he died in his tracks for it. Swallowing and trembling slightly, he looked about him. Like the room which he and Bick had rented, this one was ill provided with light. There was the window into the airshaft, and above the door which opened into the adjoining room there was a glass transom which let in a little more much needed daylight. That was the door at which Crissman had been listening. Standing on the chair, with his short stature, did not enable him to see through the transom. So he set stealthily at work edging the bureau, inch by inch, toward the door and presently had it near enough so that by standing on it, leaning over, and supporting himself by a hand against the doorcasing he could look through.

He saw another shabby bedroom, but considerably larger than this inside one, and fairly lighted by an outside window that looked across several feet of space to a blank wall. The shade was rolled to the top of this outside window so one could see quite clearly. There were four men in the room. Two of them sat over by the window and two sat on the bed. So far as Crissman could remember he had never before seen the two on the bed. They were talking together, apparently in low tones, and looking at the two by the window, as though those two, or one of them, formed the subject of their conversation.

One of the men by the window was Metzlein. He was talking to the other man and regarding him, studying him, it struck Crissman, as a physician might study a patient. The other man was not looking at the doctor at all, but kept his eyes on the work that engaged his hands. He held an engraver's tool in his right hand, applying it to a piece of metal that lay on the small table at which he sat. Some other like tools lay on the table. And a bank note lay there also. It rather looked as though the man might be engraving a counterfeit plate.

Crissman stared for a long, breathless minute. Then he climbed warily down from the bureau and tiptoed back to the window. An odd struggle and confusion was occupying his mind. He and Bick had set out to uncover a pretty good story—maybe two-thirds of a column or even a whole column over on an inside page. But he had, in fact, uncovered something that ran into far greater dimensions. It was more or less as though they had set out to find a $5 bill and he had found a gold mine. Good Bick was just helping him to find the bill. What about this bigger find? Should he tell Bick about it?

Crossing the bridge in the first place had tried his nerves. This time his nerves tingling and his blood pumping with a great excitement, he hardly thought of it. Bick was waiting for him on the other side. Crissman slid down to the floor and looked up at him.

"Metzlein's over there," he said, "and three others. They seem to be making counterfeit money . . ." He was looking up at his friend's square face—good old Bick! He laid a frail hand on his friend's thick arm and said under his breath, "Say, Bick, one of the men over there is Dorn. I'm sure of it."

Bick did not start, but his eyes showed the electric shock that gave him. Rudolph Dorn had very decidedly figured in that somber business of the anarchists and the bomb; had been one of its most violent figures, in fact. Many believed he actually threw the fatal bomb. But he had disappeared and no trace of him had been found. The police generally held that he had committed suicide, for the body of a man which some witnesses believed to be his, had, months afterward, been cast up on the lake shore. Before the bomb throwing many of those who came in contact with Dorn formed the opinion that he was "cracked"—really a lunatic at large. But there seems to be an odd reluctance to interfere with lunatics at large until they give some violent exhibition of lunacy. Nobody seriously suggested having Dorn's mental competence inquired into until it was too late. And he did have a certain mental competence; he was an engraver and very skillful at that trade.

Now Dorn put the whole enterprise in an entirely different light, for from the newspaper point of view finding Dorn was like finding a gold mine. One reporter might help another, on a rival paper, to uncover a good little "space" story. But any reporter owed Dorn to his own paper. Not merely a star reporter, but managing editor and the whole staff, should come into action to capture Dorn for the front page.

All that had been in Crissman's mind during the odd struggle and confusion. The story that was uncovered was a much greater find than had been expected—much too great a find from the point of view of Crissman's self-interest, for by all the implications of the case it was now Bick's story rather than his.

"It will make a corker for you, Bick," he said in humble but unreserved acknowledgment of the situation.

That was somewhat as though a small dog, by industrious digging, had unearthed a big, juicy bone and just then a big dog had come along and put a paw on it. Not that either of them had meant that; but it had fallen out that way. Bick hated putting a paw on that bone. Looking down at the slight, slope shouldered figure with the home trimmed beard, he thought ruefully, "Criss is certainly a hog for bad luck!" But the bone was there, and what could he do?

"Maybe we can split it," he said, with some shame for that meager ray of hope. "But I want to have a look at him myself."

Being a perfectly rational person with a strong strain of horse sense, he didn't much care about venturing his 172 pounds on that frail bridge, but since Dorn had been mentioned it was another matter, in which many risks became negligible. He climbed up to the window sill therefore and started over. The crossing was not so easy for him; the slats gave grewsomely under his weight and a loose brick at the other side gave a bit. If he hadn't been quick about it he might not have got over; but he did get over, which was all that counted.

Now Crissman's nerves were not of Bick's hardy fiber. The same electric charge set up a much greater disturbance in them. He was, in fact, fairly bursting with excitement and the bridge was easy for him. Readjusting it, therefore, he followed Bick across. By standing on a chair the taller man could peek through the transom. One good look sufficed; it was surely Dorn, and he climbed down, big with the find. But excited Crissman wanted to have a last look himself. Silently moving the chair back to the bureau, he climbed up on the latter, leaned over, and looked through the transom.

He had done that before, but some inscrutable disturbance of equilibrium took place; doubtless in his excitement he was a bit careless. At any rate as he leaned over from the edge of it, steadying himself by a hand on the door casing, the bureau rolled on its casters and Crissman fell to the floor with a great thump. Finding himself on the floor, with the noise of the fall in his ears and the idea of four dangerous men on the other side of the door in his mind, some instinct moved him to roll on under the bed.

When the first man from the other room burst in, a twinkling after the fall, he saw only Bick Platt over near the window, Bick having had hardly more than time to turn around. Three others from the outer room immediately followed, all confronting the reporter.

"I ain't swiped nut'in,'" said Bick, with a friendly grin. "I ain't saw nut'in' to swipe."

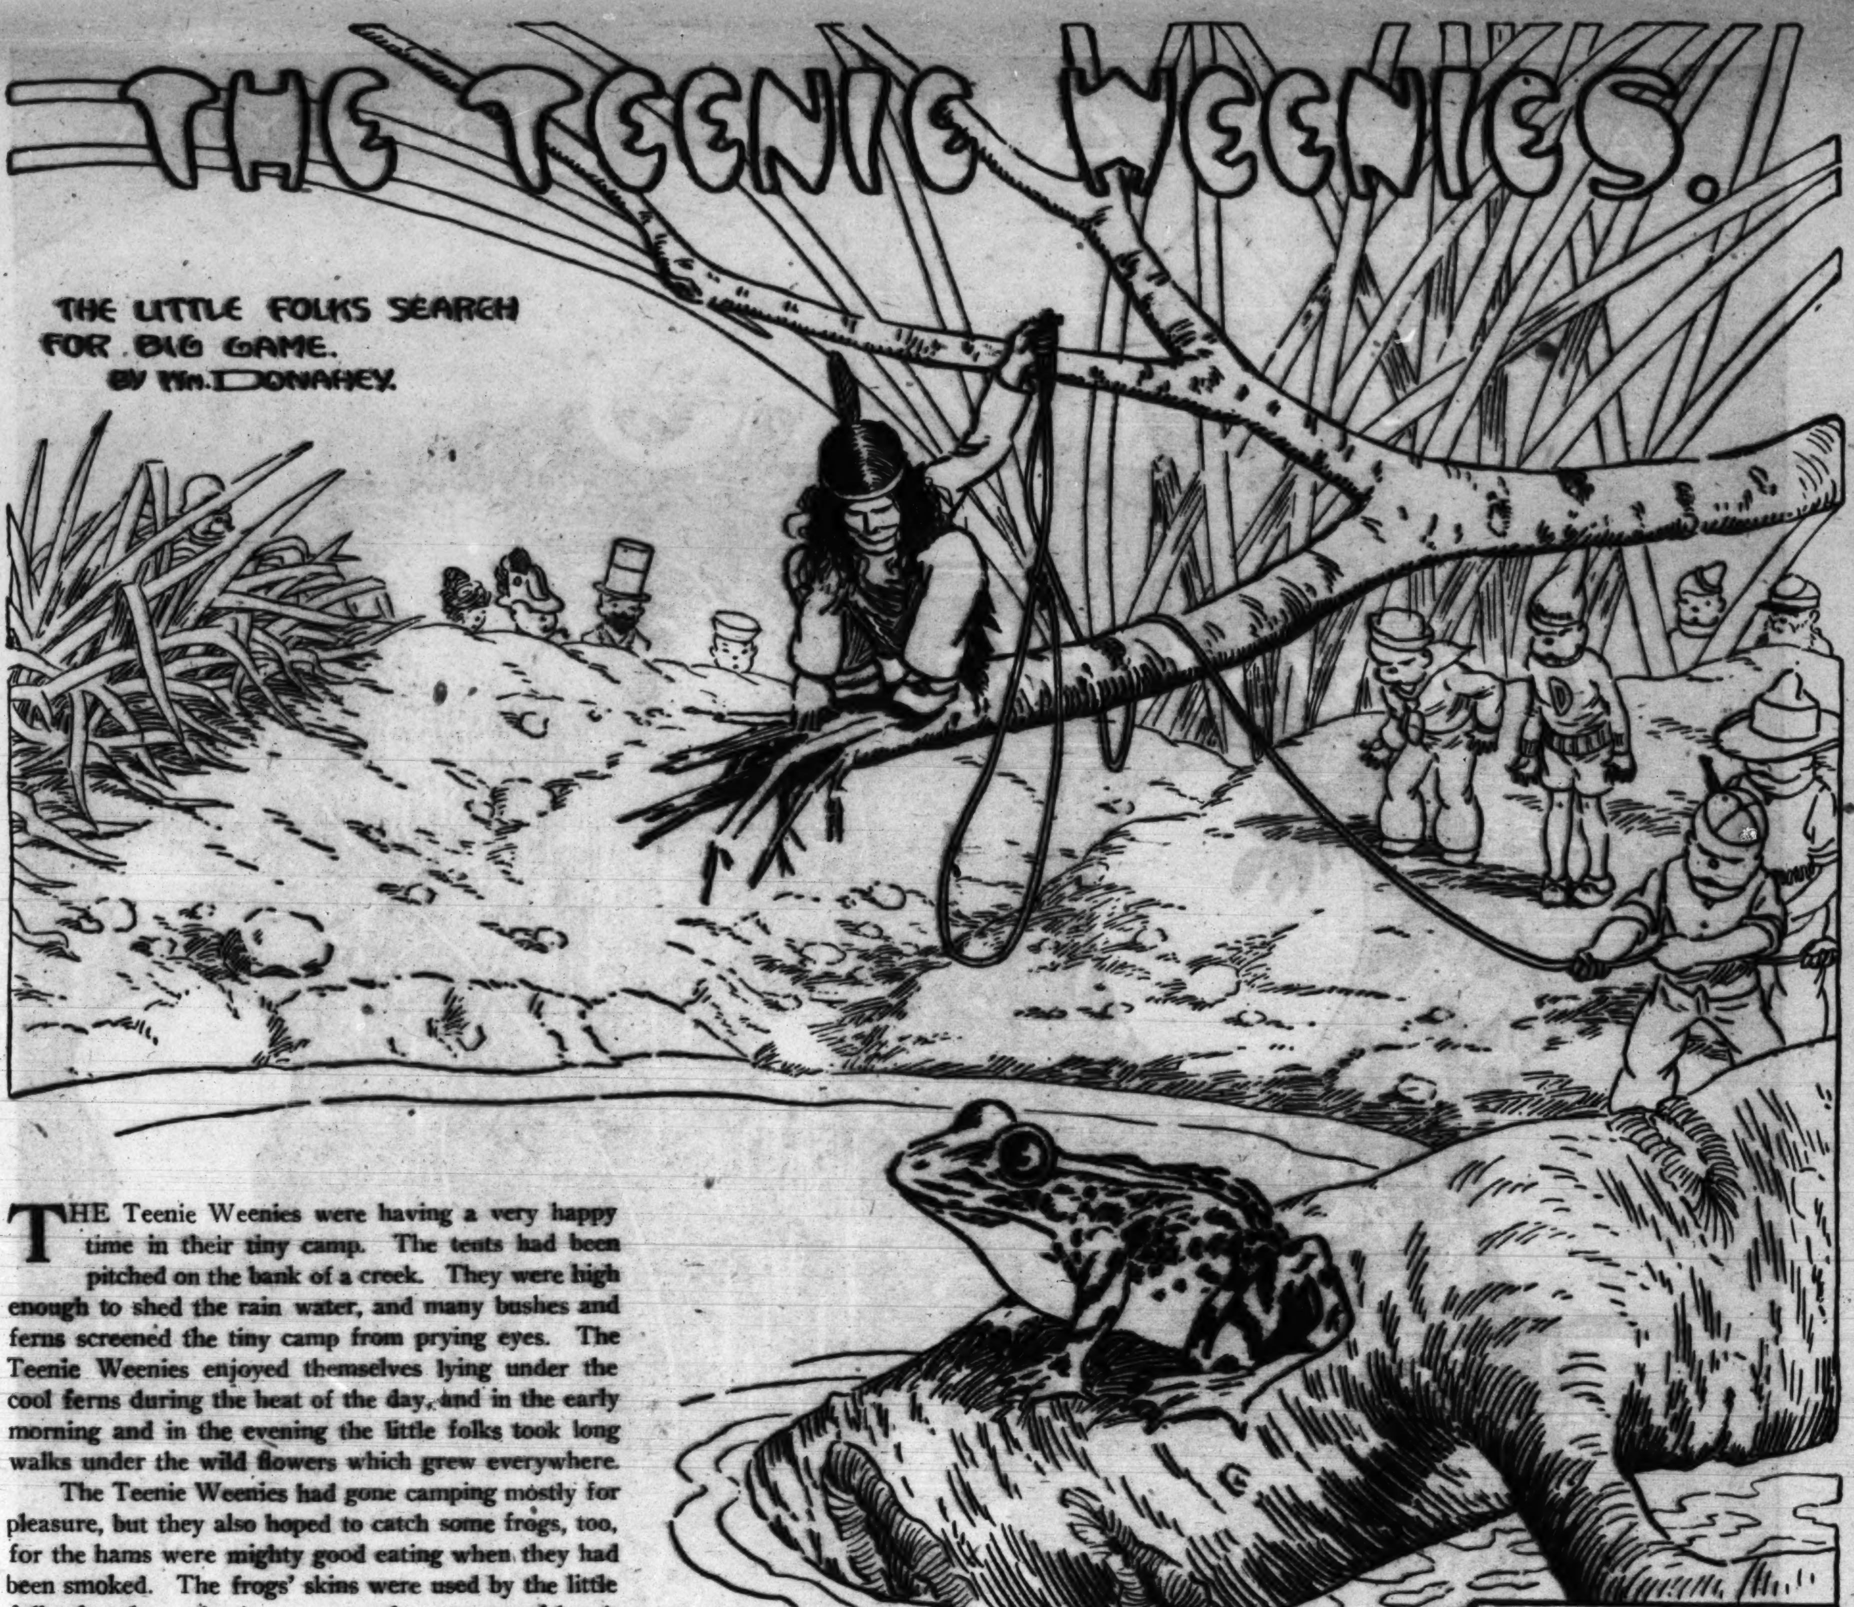
That might explain him. The glowering four seemed to be considering whether it did explain him. His expensive looking clothes certainly did not fit very well with that explanation. For a moment they only glowered.

One of the four was tall and gangling, with unusually long arms, and big, bony hands. His beardless face was more deeply seamed than it should have been at his age, as though it had been much fixed in a deep scowl. From the jutting point of the chin to the hair line of the low forehead, his profile described a quite simian angle. The flesh around his eyes was puckered up, giving the eyes a squinting or peering appearance. That man was Dorn. He stooped forward, peering hard into Bick's face, and then gave a kind of strangled cry, which was not pleasant to

THE TEENIE WEENIES.

THE LITTLE FOLKS SEARCH FOR BIG GAME.

BY WM. DONAHEY.



THE Teenie Weenies were having a very happy time in their tiny camp. The tents had been pitched on the bank of a creek. They were high enough to shed the rain water, and many bushes and ferns screened the tiny camp from prying eyes. The Teenie Weenies enjoyed themselves lying under the cool ferns during the heat of the day, and in the early morning and in the evening the little folks took long walks under the wild flowers which grew everywhere.

The Teenie Weenies had gone camping mostly for pleasure, but they also hoped to catch some frogs, too, for the hams were mighty good eating when they had been smoked. The frogs' skins were used by the little folks for shoes, for it was not only waterproof but it was very tough and lasted the little people a great while.

The camp stood quite near a pond which was full of frogs and turtles, and the Indian and the Cowboy spent much of their time hunting.

"General," grunted the Indian one morning as he squatted on the ground in front of the General's tent, "me know where big frog is. Him heap big. Most as big as ink bottle. Him sit on log and me catch him if me have many men to help."

"You can have all the men you want, Chief," answered the General.

"Well, me like to have Gogo, Turk, Paddy Pinn, and Cowboy, and we catch that heap big frog," said the Indian. "Me don't want Dunce. Him always fall down or somethin' and get everything all spoiled."

That afternoon the Indian led the Teenie Weenies to the pond, and creeping silently over the bank they saw the big frog sitting on a tree limb which lay on the shore with one end in the water. The Indian carried a long rope with a noose in one end. He gave one end of the rope to Gogo and told that little chap to tie it securely to a bush which grew on the bank.

"Now me crawl out on twig above frog and when me throw noose over frog's head you pull like everything," whispered the Indian.

Gogo quickly tied the rope to the bush while the Indian crawled quietly out on the limb which overhung the frog.

Behind every spear of grass and along the edge of the bank Teenie Weenie heads appeared with wide open eyes as the Indian balanced his rope over the frog's head.

With a quick motion the Indian dropped the noose over the frog's head and at the same time Gogo, the Turk, and Paddy Pinn gave a mighty pull and tightened the rope about the frog's throat.

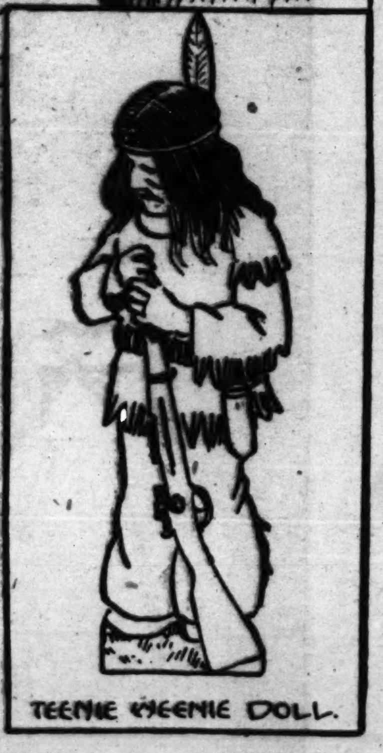
The Teenie Weenies fought for nearly half an hour before they could land the frog, but finally they dragged him ashore.

The next morning the Cowboy and the Indian skinned the frog and the Cook salted down the hams, ready for smoking.

TEENIE WEENIE GOSSIP

The Dunce had rather an unlucky day last week. He started the day by spilling a cup of cocoa over himself. Next he fell into a muddy cow track, which was full of water. About an hour later he ripped his suit on a thorn while climbing a blackberry bush. As he had only three suits with him at the camp he was forced to go to bed while the Lady of Fashion mended the damage.

The Clown fell off a young chicken's back while riding yesterday and badly strained his left leg. The Doctor rubbed the injured limb with fish worm oil and the little chap is feeling much better.



TEENIE WEENIE DOLL.

Tilly Titters, the English sparrow, flew into camp several days ago and brought a letter from Mrs. Lover, who wrote that the twins had been sick for a couple of days from overeating. The two little chaps got into the pantry while their mother was out and ate a whole lima bean.

Buddy Guff and Tess Bone spend much of their time paddling up and down the creek in a canoe which Buddy made from a pea pod.

A black beetle crawled into the Cook's wagon and carried off a raisin last Friday. The Cook gave chase, but the bug got away.

The Lady of Fashion has been presented with a beautiful bumble-bee skin by the Cowboy. The little lady is going to cover one of her winter hats with it. "S'pose she'll be buzzin' all around the neighborhood," says the Dunce.

The camp was awakened by loud yells from the Chinaman's tent one night last week and there was much excitement among the little folks. A red ant crawled into the tent and took a bite at the Chinaman's toe. Chuck is now sleeping with his shoes on.

You can color the Teenie Weenie drawing yourself this week, either with crayons or water colors.

The sky should be a light blue, the grass a light green, and the ground a light tan.

Color the tree limb a dark brown, the water light blue, and the frog's back and legs should be dark green. The frog's stomach should be colored a light yellow.

The Teenie Weenies should have pink hands and faces, except the Chinaman and Gogo. The Chinaman's face and hands are a light tan, while Gogo's complexion is a dark brown.

Color the Teenie Weenie clothes according to your own taste.

hear, at the same time stretching out a long arm.

"I know him!" he exclaimed. "I know him! His name is Platt! He's a reporter! He's one of those that swore away their lives! He's one of the bloodhounds! He drinks it!" He choked over the last words; his glare looked hardly human to Bick; a little more, it seemed, and he would foam at the mouth.

Bick had, in fact, given testimony at the trial of the anarchists, and if he had ever doubted that Dorn was really a lunatic the doubt disappeared now.

A shorter, stouter, darker man—Metzlein, in fact—was glaring also, although his was a tame performance in comparison with Dorn's. This man exclaimed, "But how did he get in here?" He saw that the window was open and to answer his own question stepped over to it. A glance showed him the answer and he cried, "Ah!" A stride took Dorn to Metzlein's side, and he saw also. Many a cracked brain is cunning enough. Dorn stood a moment at the window contemplating that frail bridge of bed slats. He looked downward at the sheer drop of 50 feet or so, with some junk below. He put his two big hands on the slats, manipulating them a moment. When he looked around at the reporter a slight grin, not unpleasant to see, lurked behind his scowl.

"All right," he said, "go back that way. Go on! Climb out."

Metzlein frowned as though the proposal didn't suit him and put a remonstrating hand on Dorn's arm and was about to speak. But Dorn struck off the remonstrating hand, glaring, and cried savagely, "Let him go back that way! Let me alone!" And Metzlein, though still frowning, seemed to give it up.

Bick opined that he wouldn't stand the ghost of a show of getting across, for if the slats didn't fall of themselves Dorn would push them. So he replied, "Go to hell," and added, for some slight further defense, "My paper knows where I am. If I don't show up in an hour my managing editor will be looking for me here."

Perhaps that impressed Metzlein, but Dorn only repeated his faint, unpleasant grin—apparently reflecting that when the managing editor inquired he would find that his reporter had somehow fallen down an airshaft and broken his neck. "Go on! Climb out!" he repeated, and Bick could only repeat, "Go to hell." There were four of them, so a fight was hopeless.

"Wait a minute," said Dorn, and strode out of the room.

Bick thought that Metzlein, at least, was reluctant, and nervous over the situation, but apparently not minded to interfere forcefully. In a brief moment Dorn reëntered the room carrying a long, bright knife in his hand. He walked right up to the reporter and stabbed him in the thigh, half an inch or so, with the point of the knife. It hurt confoundedly and Bick reacted to the hurt in the only way that seemed open to him—namely: by exclaiming, "Stop that, you ———" But he kept his hands at his sides, having a clear impression that if he struck a blow the answer would be a much more vigorous thrust of the knife.

Of course his eyes were on Dorn's face and it struck him that he was looking at a gorilla, not at a man, when Dorn said, "Climb out, or I'll cut you into shoestrings," and at the same time made ready with his knife for another and stronger lunge.

Crissman, under the bed, had been hearing enough to apprehend in a general way what was going on; and at that point those who stood in the room were aware of a sudden disturbance on the floor beside the bed. All of them saw a slight, slope-shouldered figure in shabby clothes getting to its feet with a chalky face and steadying itself by grasping the foot of the bed. Nevertheless Crissman gave them a threatening shake of the head as he cried out, "No you don't! I'm a witness."

That altered the situation—since there were two of them instead of only one. For a moment the four gaped at the apparition by the bed, then Metzlein seized Dorn's arm, pulled him to one side and began talking low and earnestly to him. Crissman thought the guttural murmur was German.

The lank anarchist seemed reluctant to yield, yet permitted himself to be persuaded. Some understanding passed swiftly among the four. Metzlein stepped over to the window, pulled the slats into the room, closed and locked the sash and drew down the shade. Then the conference adjourned to the larger room, but a burly and tow-headed young man in a baggy blue suit stood by the doorway between the two rooms where, by turning his head, he could have the two prisoners under his menacing eye.

Crissman's legs felt trembly and he sat down on the foot of the bed. In a moment Bick, too, came over and sat on the bed, holding a hand to his hurt thigh. The guard sometimes stepped further into the larger room—taking a step back at short intervals to see that the captives were both safe. Daylight was beginning to fail in those shut-in rooms and presently somebody in the larger room lighted a gas jet.

Bick could see almost nothing of the larger room—only the guard's broad back, and occasionally a moving figure. But Crissman, sitting on the foot of the bed, had a much better view. At length, taking advantage of the guard's momentary withdrawal, Bick whispered, "What they doing out there?"

It had been evident to him for some time that Crissman was fascinated by what he saw, and Criss now whispered back, "They're packing up. Guess they're going to dig out." There was a pause, and Crissman whispered again, "There's a closet out of that room—dark, tight closet. Dorn and Metzlein went over and looked at it. Dorn tried the gas jet. . . . There's a gas jet in the closet."

Bick silently deliberated on that for a minute, although it seemed not to require much deliberation. "Looks as though they meant to tie us up in the closet and turn on the gas," he remarked. Crissman's fascinated eyes never shifted from the larger room, and after a little he whispered, "Looks so."

Both of them were wondering how far Metzlein might go in the homicidal line, and whether he could stop lunatic Dorn if he wanted to. It seemed a frail sort of chance. "Any door open out there?" Bick whispered after a moment.

"Only door I can see is shut," Criss whispered back. "They've got two rooms, but I can't see into the other one."

Even this scrappy conversation was not carried on continuously, for when the guard looked back over his shoulder Crissman kept his lips still, and twice the guard stepped nearer in order to have a look at Bick, too.

"No chance to make a break?" Bick whispered presently, but as though the question carried its own answer.

"No," said Crissman.

They were silent for a while, then Bick whispered, "What's the guard doing now?"

"Helping pack," Crissman replied.

Metzlein seemed an excessively doubtful reed to lean upon. It seemed that at the end of those hurried packing-up operations something terribly unpleasant was going to happen. And the two were just sitting there helplessly, waiting for it.

"I'm going to try the window," Bick whispered.

Now the window sash was locked, fastened by an old fashioned catch at either side. They had seen Metzlein fasten it. The catches were rusty. They'd had difficulty in raising the sash of the window in the room which they rented across the air shaft. The bed slats lay on the floor. To adjust them would take a bit of time. It was a very shaky bridge for Bick's 172 pounds at best—even if he got the sash up and even if nobody at this end rushed the bridge off before he got over.

"Let me go; I'm lighter," said Crissman.

"They'd see you if you moved," Bick whispered. "Keep watch of the guard. Tell me when and then cough if he comes near the door."

In a moment the guard stepped over and glanced in so that he could see Bick, too. A little later Crissman whispered, "Now."

He felt the bed springs move under him and knew that Bick had slipped off the bed. He dared not turn his eyes. He dared not breathe. A broad back in a worn blue coat was still presented to his view. He heard a noise at the window—terribly loud, it seemed; but the guard did not hear it. In a moment he heard a fainter sound. There was a silent and breathless wait. He was still looking at that broad back; but it straightened up and the guard turned, for he had heard that last sound—a clatter from the bottom of the air shaft.

The straightening up and turning, in fact, was only the beginning of a series of movements that brought the guard to the door. There he gave a shout and ran to the open window. In answer to the shout the other three swarmed in.

The talk—excited talk—was in German, which Crissman could not understand. Dorn and Metzlein rushed out of the room. The guard was leaning out of the window trying to see the bottom of the airshaft. The other man had an eye on Crissman. What they said was unintelligible to him, but their excitement was plain enough.

Doubtless Crissman's own excitement was equally plain, although he just sat still—wondering what was at the bottom of the air shaft. Presently he had time to wonder—supposing Bick wasn't at the bottom of the air shaft—whether Dorn and Metzlein had intercepted him before he got out of the house . . . . . Plenty of time to wonder; even to think of a wife and two small children.

He heard the noise in the outer room. At once Dorn and Metzlein burst in. Their excitement had not abated since they ran out, but increased rather. It all happened with fairly incredible swiftness. Metzlein seized Dorn's arm. The lunatic flung him off violently, caught up the chair and swung it over his head. Crissman crouched against the foot of the bed and threw up a defensive arm. The iron frame of the bed may have protected him. Metzlein may have interfered with the blow. At any rate, the wreck of the chair lay on the floor when Crissman regained consciousness, with a feeling that somebody was hurting his arm and something very painful had happened to his head.

Bick Platt was bending over him, swabbing his face with a wet towel. There was a blurry figure in a blue uniform somewhere.

"He's coming around all right," said Bick. "You needn't bother. I'll take care of him."

Crissman was aware of coming around, and being sick; his left arm hurt, and his head. When, presently, he put up his hand, his head felt as strange on the outside as on the inside. There was a lump on it which he judged to be about the size of a baseball. Be he was saying feebly that he was all right and could walk very well.

When they went through the larger room, Bick's arm supporting him, he was surprised to see that it was quite empty. He was sure the police had been there, but they were gone now. It occurred to him that a long time had elapsed. They got downstairs and when they went out of doors it was pitch dark, which again gave him the idea that a long time had elapsed. After the exertion of getting downstairs his legs wanted to crumple up and a great anxiety had arisen in his mind. He leaned against the door casing and spoke to Bick Platt—or, more correctly, babbled to him:

"I must get home, Bick. My wife'll be anxious. I'm always home at dinner time. They haven't anything to eat."

Bick Platt paused—that is, his mind made a pause—and he gave a little snort as he had an impolite habit of doing when he was much disturbed. Ever since he got across the air shaft he had been—automatically—the star reporter with a great story in his hands. His mind had been running to that story like a hunting dog hot on the trail. But now his mind made a pause. He looked at the frail figure which he was still half supporting, its face chalky white. He had swabbed the face with a towel, but there was a small spatter of blood on the clean unstarched, unironed shirt. The figure evidently was thinking of wife and children with a great anxiety; they hadn't anything to eat. Bick gave a little snort; then addressed the figure briskly:

"You're kind of wabbly, Criss. I'll get a cab; take me only a minute. See? You sit right here on the steps; just sit still till I come back. Understand? Just sit still."

Crissman obeyed docilely. The minute, in fact, was five or six; and the cab took them, not to his little flat, but to Bick Platt's lodging.

"It's all right, old man," Bick assured him. "We'll send word to your wife. You rest up a bit. She'd be scared if she saw you now. I'll get you something to eat. It ain't late—only ten minutes to six. You just lie down on the bed here. Don't worry. I'll fix it."

Bick hurried out and soon returned. Shucking his coat and vest and taking off his collar, he uttered assurances: "It's all right. Just keep still and rest up a bit. We'll have some coffee and eggs in a minute. Peach of a wallop he handed you." He seemed in a great hurry. A moment later, the clatter of a typewriter filled the room, and the smell of tobacco. After a while there was a knock at the door. Bick sprang up from the typewriter, in his shirt sleeves and sweating, pipe in hand, and went to answer it. He returned with a tray. "Just some eggs and coffee—all they ever have here," he explained, as he pushed a chair beside the bed with his foot and set the tray on it. "Get outside it now: do you good."

And he returned to his assault on the typewriter, which he beat as though he meant to have its life. The food and coffee started up Crissman's almost stalled machinery again. He felt strong enough to get up and walk around, yet, having eaten, he lay back on the bed and kept still.

Bick, of course, was writing the story. Well, he mustn't interrupt the writer; the least he could do was to keep still and let the workman finish his task. So he kept still. But he could think. He'd hoped to have a story himself; not a great story like this, but one good for several dollars. He'd been disappointed in that hope. The fact that there were a wife and two children at home with nothing in particular for dinner icily gripped his heart. He was not what is called a religious man; but there was something to which, with bitter pain, he resigned himself.

Bick was still hammering away, piling up the sheets of manuscript. He had been at it a long while, and, although it had been only ten minutes of 6 when he began, Crissman's anxiety was rising. He wanted to interrupt Bick and ask how word had been sent to his wife, and whether it was sure she had received it; but he didn't like to break in on the writer's work. Presently the writer stopped, swiftly arranged the written sheets, gathered the sheaf in his hand, and came over to the bed.

"How you feeling now?" he inquired, wiping his sweaty brow with his shirt sleeve. "Feel like moving around some?"

"O, yes; I can get around all right," Crissman replied, sitting up.

"Fine!" said Bick. "Now listen, Criss. I want you to get this straight. No chance to hold this story over for tomorrow's evening papers. It's sure to break out before then. It's got to be a morning paper story. See? It's a whale of a story, too; a crackerjack. The police have got those fellows, but the police don't know yet who they are. I told 'em it was some counterfeiters. Understand? I'm sure the police don't know who they are yet. It's better than an even chance that they won't know before the first morning papers go to press. Probably all those papers will get is just a stickful or two about some counterfeiters. So this story"—he tapped the sheaf of manuscript—"is a whale; front page, double leaded lead, double column heads and all that. And the paper that gets it now can tack on five or six columns more, all about the anarchist business and so on. Get the point? You take this story over to the Clarion. Go right to Johnny Kelly himself with it. I put it that a reporter for the Clarion climbed over the airshaft and found 'em and all that. Nobody else will get that part of it even if anybody else finds out it's Dorn. It'll tickle Johnny Kelly pink. You take it right to him. Strike him for a good piece of money for it. He'll give it to you all right. And now listen, Criss. Nix on reporting. You cut that out. It ain't your forte. You strike Johnny Kelly for a good desk job while he's all worked up about this story. You'll get it all right. And you can hold that down fine. You'll get it. I'm sure of it. Understand? A good piece of money for the story and a good desk job. You're sure to get it. But you want to be quick—see?—because somebody might possibly identify Dorn and take some of the bloom off. You want to be quick. Beat it for the Clarion office fast's you know how."

So saying he thrust the sheaf of manuscript into Crissman's hand and Crissman stood up speechless. A good piece of money and a good desk job! He could not find the words for which his mind groped. Bick understood well enough that he was groping for some words and sought to forestall them.

"That copy needs editing," he said, putting on his collar. "You can do that over in the Clarion office. But beat it now, quick; somebody else might get hold of Dorn. You can't put it over too quick. Beat it." He was taking up his necktie as he spoke.

After all there seemed to be no words. In a daze, Crissman started for the door. Then he remembered something and halted. "But, see here, Bick, this might get you into trouble. Cleghorn might hear of it and blame——"

But Bick cut him short with a brusque, "Don't bother about me, old man. I'm a good reporter. Nobody's going to fire me, and if anybody does I can get another job in ten minutes. Don't bother about me. Skip right along." He was adjusting his tie as he spoke.

All Crissman could say, with a choke over the words, was "You're a good fellow, Bick."

"Well, what about you?" Bick replied, aggressively. "If you hadn't crawled out from under that bed, you'd had a story for your whiskers, with my picture in it—'The victim, Bicknell Platt, aged 27.'" He pulled the tie into place and, grinning, looked a moment at the slight, slope shouldered man; then laid a hand on his shoulder. "We're friends, ain't we? Now beat it."

Crissman moved to the door and as he reached it Bick—putting on his vest—called politely, "Give my regards to your wife."

Caprice by JACK LAIT

"BUSTER THE BOOSTER" lazied languidly before the cracked mirror in the "dresser" of her furnished room, yawned, looked, smiled. And when Buster smiled it was enough to make a mirror sorry for being cracked, for Buster had the lips to smile with and the teeth to light a smile up with and eyes—oh, such eyes!

They called her Buster because she wore her yellow hair bobbed, had worn it bobbed before the days when spinsters and middle aged ladies trying to look hoydenish popularized the fashion and killed it; Buster began to wear her hair bobbed when only two kinds of girls past 15 dared to, and she was both kinds: ultra beauties who could look well even that way, and girls who had to be tied into chairs for the haircut. Buster's hair had been sheared in Geneva—Geneva, Ill., not Switzerland. In Geneva, Ill., there is a home for wayward girls, and Buster was pointed out as wayward in that home. Therefrom came the "booster" portion of the appellation, the word being slang for "lifter," which in turn is a professional term for a "grifter." "Grifter" is good English to describe one who has no respect for private property rights—i. e: a crook.

Buster the Booster, now somewhere near 20, was an accomplished counter snatcher, stealing a so-so living, and giving more than stray thought to the romance sides of life.

The acknowledged beauty of her set, she flirted and coquetted and made free and played fast and loose with the beaus of crookdom. Nifty pickpockets laid their pickings at her cute little feet; famous safeblowers stormed her with the dynamite of their affections; burglars and bunko sharps, sluggers, and steerers, grafters and grifters, bandits and prowlers, yeggs and blackmailers, vied for her favor. Whenever Buster entered one of the atmospheric resorts of the nether realm there was a buzzing and a craning of necks, to see what the toast of the submerged regions was wearing, to see what new cavalier she had hooked. Easily the best dressed female in her circle, adorned with rich spoils of her own and her suitors' handicraft, Buster was hated by the women as ardently as she was worshiped by the men.

It had so happened, the evening before, that Buster changed her mind. In this, too, she was exercising a prerogative which not even the police can shut against one of the more charming sex. In this, too, she was exercising one of those whims which had made her famous, had helped to make her desirable, had made many a happy crook miserable, without the customary notice.

For almost a week she had been seen constantly with "Duke" Westford, the noted card cheater, who had "won her out" at a dance. In underworld society there are fast rules of etiquette, and one of these is that a dame goes out with the same guy she comes in with—and that goes; the management will help enforce that dictum, usually, so that any roughhouse arising from contest over which escort has priority may be battled out on the sidewalk and not on the premises.

The Duke, however, had broken that statute (with Buster's consent and encouragement), and had taken her out of Hickey's hall, whither Charlie the Faker, the distinguished straw bailer, had conducted her. Buster's flirtation with the Duke had been scandalous, and when her new flame had whispered to her during a fox trot that she was going out with him she had merely squeezed his arm and replied, "Let's go, kid." Only one shot was fired, and that hit no one, so their exit was comparatively peaceful. But every one knew there would be an aftermath —yes, indeed there would, or the Faker would never show his head again.

Well, some days went on and nothing was done about the outrage. The Duke walked about in seeming security, and Buster walked along beside him. It was regarded as quite an "affair" between the two, and several runners up and stalking steeds quit calling up entirely, being obviously out of the running during that heat. The Duke smirked triumphantly and his sallow features wore a grin that was most tantalizing to many of his associates. This state of things prevailed for nearly a week.

Saturday night came 'round, and Saturday night was the climax of the week's amusement calendar. There was no gathering of importance scheduled, so every one took it for granted that the sport would be concentrated around midnight in the Wigwam, which was a back room on a dark side street, presided over by "Con" Kling, a former thimblerigger and swindler, who had retired from the gold brick business because of the prohibitive price of lead. In the Wigwam patrons "packed hip liquor," and those who were known to be tactful and taciturn could even get a helping in teacups from "the house."

The talent began to assemble at about 11, and kept straggling in with the advancing hour, the "play" finding its high peak shortly after 12.

Buster was still curling under her bobbed, blonde locks as the midnight hour struck, for she deemed it her privilege and most becoming to her status to arrive late. She laid down her curling iron and snapped on her newest gown, a creation stolen with her own lily hand, and, by the good fortune that attends the gifted, a perfect fit for her slender young form.

There wasn't much time to spare, for she was to be called for by taxi at 12:15 o'clock. Yes, that was the bell. She threw up a window and called down that she'd be there in a minute—and for the love o' Sweeney, would the boob chauffeur please quit hammerin' at the bell, becus this here was a respec'able buildin'?

She slipped out and down into the taxi, where, snuggling in a corner, was her escort. Of course, it was the Duke? Of course, it was not. It was "Lefty" Hammer, a middleweight pugilist, whose bare fists earned him more in compromising the differences between capital and labor and labor and labor than they ever had when they wore the padded mitts of Queensberry arbitration. Lefty sported a two carat stud and a cauliflower ear and limped a trifle where a coward's bullet had winged him in the ankle before he could courageously cave in the coward's skull with a set of "knucks," the same being brass knuckles with four rings welded together to set over the four fingers of the hand, thus sometimes referred to as "De Wolf Hopper's wedding rings." Despite Lefty's scars—perhaps because of them—he was reckoned a ladies' man, and many the damsel in the crowd which frequented the Wigwam tossed him languishing glances of significant communication.

Just when and how the tryst twixt Lefty and Buster had been arranged is of no moment in this record. Just why Buster had accepted the "invite" is, however. She did not share the general frenzy of her kind for the company of Lefty. Had she cared for him at all she could have conquered and monopolized him long before. But she had never "been out" with him and had always scorned his overtures until he had "officed" her that afternoon, in a chance meeting on a street corner. Lefty either did not know or cared not about the accepted fact that Buster belonged to the Duke. He asked her to accompany him that night to the Wigwam, and Buster, almost before she knew it, but quite knowing just why she did it, accepted.

She had not especially wearied of the Duke. All men tired her, though she never tired of men. And the Duke had become a "pest," as they all did as soon as she singled one out, demanding to know where she spent her time when out of his sight, telephoning at all hours to assure himself that she wasn't deceiving him, seeking to regulate her life beyond the boundaries where she would tolerate regulation, beseeching her to marry him, and in other ways behaving like a silly goof. Not that the Duke was any more impertinent or any more persistent than others had been—but neither was he any better; and he was beginning to be a nuisance, so Buster calculated that she would "give him the air" before he had acquired too many illusions as to rights.

So, when Lefty made his bid, it showed a promising "out," for she knew that the Duke would be over at half past midnight, and, finding her out, would come to the Wigwam, where he would discover her with Lefty. He could then "settle" with Lefty instead of haranguing her, and, whichever way it came out, she would be rid of the Duke. If he lost, he was "through," prima facie; if he won, which wasn't likely, she would dismiss him because he made her the center of a public row. She could have loved a man she loved for fighting for her, but she could "throw" a man she didn't love for the same misconduct. If the Duke failed to fight for her, he was a poltroon unworthy of a woman's affections. Any way it could "break" she held the ace. It was very clear and very simple,

Lefty put his arm about her in the taxi and kissed her, against which Buster resisted only enough to keep him from mussing her. If Lefty were to be her emancipator, she must give him something on account or he would have nothing to fight for.

Buster's entrance with Lefty was an instantaneous sensation. None of the supers and hoi polloi of the gang had been lent even a hint of this new alliance, and an alliance it must be, because a pairing off in the Wigwam of a Saturday night was official—could not be a casual and platonic teaming. Heads were drawn together after the first astonished gazings. The name of the Duke was on all lips. What had happened? Or what would happen?

The suspense was not extended to a test of endurance. The blabbing ceased suddenly as a tremor passed through the seated dozens, for the Duke had been discerned to enter, alone. He stood at the end of the room nearest to the door, peering about. Every one knew what he was seeking. All eyes guided his eyes to the choice table near the drummer of the jazz band, where sat Buster, facing the room, and Lefty beside her, his back turned to the wall.

Buster saw him the moment he entered. But she said nothing to Lefty. What could she have said? She had not discussed the Duke with him, had not confessed herself committed to any man. In truth, at that very instant, Lefty was urging her to throw aside all other aspirants and make him the sole keeper of her destinies, the sole tenant of her heart. He saw her raise her eyes to look with animated interest toward the entrance, and he turned his head to see what had attracted her. He saw only the pale face of Duke Westford, which meant nothing in his life, and he returned to his jabs and uppercuts of courtship.

He heard a cry and sensed mischief. Before he even looked he came to his feet, kicked the chair back and out of his way, and slid his trusty knucks on in his pocket. The wink of an eye could not have been completed before he was standing with his back to the wall, set for action and facing it. It was coming at him—the Duke, striding through the room and brushing against revelers, in his hand an ugly black magazine revolver. There was no panic, but the timid took shelter under tables, peeking forth to see the row. The less and more fearsome sat frozen in their chairs, leaning forward to witness a certain murder.

Kling, the landlord, pushed forward and reached the Duke before the Duke reached Lefty, and touched the gambler on the shoulder to deter him.

"Here—they ain't gonna be no gunplay in my joint," he bellowed.

The Duke shook him off, brandishing his weapon at him, without stopping his stride toward Lefty, and Kling fell back, looking hopelessly to his waiters to close in on the disturber. But a magazine revolver is a forbidding instrument, and no one interfered.

Lefty was unarmed save with his gleaming knuckles, which were no match for a long range automatic. He saw in a flash that he had only one chance, and he took it. He took it on the fly, leaping like a kangaroo at the Duke and crashing his mailed hand gainst the gamester's jaw. The metal band broke the Duke's jawbone into splinters and he sank with a moan to one knee, but as he crumpled he tightened his finger on the trigger and a bullet went through Lefty's body. The bruiser hurtled forward, prone. The cheater keeled slowly over beside him.

Buster moved with a single jerk around the angle of the table so as to get it between herself and the writhing men on the floor, for the Duke's foot was almost touching hers. Several men started toward the two fallen ones, but they stopped in their tracks, for the Duke was painfully pulling himself up on his elbow and in the other hand he held aloft his snub nosed death pump.

The observers, fascinated, made no effort to pull down his deadly arm from behind, as they might with apparent safety have done. No one knew just what he planned. The Duke wormed into a position in which he had partial balance, and leveled his weapon. A gasp, a cry, and some little yelps rose when it became plain that Buster was his mark. He was slowly and jerkily training his revolver at her. The girl had no shelter except the table. To sit as she was, with the upper half of her body protruding above the table, left her head and breast exposed. To fall suddenly to the floor would be to slip from the frying pan into the fire, for the Duke was on the floor and could shoot her under the table at his leisure. To get up and back away would be to entirely make a target of herself.

The girl blanched. In that second of agonizing fear a million thoughts fought for life in her brain. Would no one rescue her? Here was a score of men within reach of that hand that would blow death, ghastly death, into that courted body, so vibrant with life, and no one stirred a finger in her defense. She did not know which way to turn. She tried to scream, but could not. She tried to shut her eyes as the last futile measure against the excruciating terror, but the very desperation of it held her lips paralyzed. Not a fiber in the room was in motion except the forearm of Duke Westford as he unsteadily but progressively drew his bead on the girl who had "thrown him down," while on his broken, bleeding, bloodless face there was set a mingled composition of vindictive hate, torturing pain, malicious triumph.

There was a rustle at a nearby table, so light that it did not break the tension, did not disturb the hysterical fright of Buster or the diabolical determination of the Duke. But a man was crawling up from his seat. He came to half his full height, bending across his table, so that his right hand protruded past its edge and below it. In that hand was a knife, unsheathed, gleaming. He laid himself upon the table top and gave himself a shove with his feet, sliding over and toward the prostrate gambler.

A dozen people saw the move, an unexpected superclimax to the series of palpitating incidents, and they automatically shuddered and recoiled, for there is no more blood congealing sight than a shining knife in the hand of one who intends murder. Men who have looked into the black barrels of rifles, who have faced bludgeons and fought fire, will tell you that the most sickening of all emotions is to behold a cold steel bent for blood letting.

The Duke never saw. The man with the knife tobogganed to the floor, landing on his left hand for foundation. The hand crawled along, carrying with it the body that followed, until the feet passed the far edge of the table and landed sharply on the tile. At this moment the hand with the knife came up, then down with a lunge, and three inches of blade sank into the back of Duke Westford.

A stifled growl came from the throat of the gambler, a tremor shot through him. He turned limply on the left elbow, now acting as a pivot for the heavy body which had lost its power of action or direction. The right hand swung lifelessly over and bumped on his chest, where his fingers unconsciously contracted, firing the magazine revolver into the face of Charlie the Faker, the man who had stabbed him.

The smoke cleared. All three men lay still. The courage of the crowd returned. When the police came the Duke and the Faker were dead and Lefty was senseless and dying. The slugger was a corpse when the "wagon" reached the nearest crossing, and the hospital order was changed to a morgue destination.

Buster was arrested—as a witness. She was questioned and ordered to attend the inquest Monday morning. Then they released her, as she appeared neither an accomplice nor an accessory.

As she left the station Chuck Cook, one of the detectives, stopped her and chaffed her on her inconstancy, for he knew the "dope." Buster threw up her pert nose.

"Gee, if a lot o' saps lose their nut an' go slammin', shootin', an' cuttin' over me, can I help it?" she asked.

"Mebbe not," said Cook. "But them poor saps, they couldn't help it, neither. You know, Buster, you're a mighty sassy lookin' doll, you are."

"O, am I?" she rejoined, in the approved fashion of repartee.

"You bet you are. You're too good lookin' to be goin' home alone at any such hour as this, through this here kind of a neighborhood. What do you say I kind o' mosey along with you, huh?"

"Fine business—let's go, kid," said Buster.

And on the way home there sprang up an incipient understanding between Chuck Cook and Buster the Booster, which was to be further mulled over next afternoon, when he had arranged to call.

So Buster was smiling as she contemplated herself in the cracked mirror, for the world was glad, and she had a plain clothes bull for a slave.

MICE AND MEN

THE STORY THUS FAR—Having regretfully but firmly rejected Tripp Hart, an old time playmate, Merrial Houlton betakes herself to England, ostensibly to leave her father free to recover from a financial setback, but in reality to carry out certain mysterious plans having to do with her dead mother's English relatives, who did not welcome her father into the family circle when he was married, and have coldly ignored him ever since. The Beauforts—Alice and Winifred, their mother, and Hubert, an invalid brother—receive their American cousin with mixed emotions, but Merrial proceeds blithely to make friends in her own way. Things, she finds, are rather at sixes and sevens. Her own brother, Dick, who has been in England at school, turns out to be a hopeless expatriate, ashamed of his American origin, which he has kept a secret. Alice Beaufort has met him, without knowing that he is her first cousin, and has fallen in love with him. Winifred is unhappy over an affair with Kenneth Stanton, a young man who appears to be neglecting her. The pitiful plight of Hubert, the invalid, arouses Merrial to prompt action, and she enlists her father's aid in sending over an American specialist to examine the boy. Then she astonishes the Beauforts by moving, bag and baggage, over to the home of Aunt Jane Coke, another of the English relatives, poor but proud as Lucifer, and, to Miss Coke's consternation, calmly makes her kitchen the center of a flourishing neighborhood trade in quince preserve, cabling Tripp Hart meanwhile to find a purchaser for the recipe. While this venture is under way Kenneth's neglect of Winifred is explained by a letter from Gertrude Hart, Tripp's sister and a notorious flirt, telling of her engagement to young Stanton, whom she has met in Paris. Merrial is invited to spend a week-end at the ancestral home of the Rivingtons, distant connections, Lord Rivington having shown symptoms of falling in love with the girl. Here, to her astonishment, she finds Tripp Hart and his sister Gertrude in person. Tripp has come to England to answer Merrial's appeal for help in her quince preserve business, and, having nothing better to do, Gertrude has come with him.

THIRTEENTH INSTALLMENT.

Gertrude's Letter.

NEEDLESS to say, Gertrude and Merrial foregathered in the former's room, for a heart to heart talk, that night.

"I shall want you for bridesmaid, Merrial," Gertrude remarked, coolly.

Merrial sat in a big, upholstered chair, in the great bedroom, and stared at the graceful figure lying full length on a lounge, as though she feared winking might magic it back again across the ocean.

Gertrude laughed at her.

"Truly, Merrie," said she in a voice that suggested somehow the lazy rocking of a little boat, "I am not such a curiosity, even in this ancient English setting, am I?"

"Yes," said Merrial, "you are."

"Now, honey, that's a pity, too, because I've come to marry an Englishman, you know."

Merrial started up and came over to her. Gertrude lay with both hands tucked under her cheek, one slim foot dangling its tiny slipper, her hair tumbled duskily about, and her great, startling eyes entirely innocent of drowsiness.

"You are going to marry an Englishman?"

"Um-um!" Gertrude nodded, "And I want you for bridesmaid. That's why I'm telling you 'so early, so soon.' I'm making you the compliment of treating you as the proverbial worm. My engagement is not yet announced."

And Gertrude smiled up the side that was not hidden against her hand and drew a wistful breath.

"I just couldn't get on without him," said she. "I didn't mean to get caught so soon."

Merrial's heart was beating rather fast. She dropped her chin into her hand and looked hard at Gertrude.

"What's his name—your Englishman?"

Gertrude smiled again with her maddening eyes and slow, sweet lips.

"That's not announced, either," said she.

Merrial got up and went over to the window. She looked out across the brilliant moonlit spaces of terrace and lawn without a thought for their beauty. She was frightened at what she knew, and at how she must be tempted to use her knowledge—if, indeed, it concerned Winifred and Kenneth Stanton.

She came to Gertrude, and sat beside her on the lounge.

"If I'm to be your bridesmaid," she coaxed, "I guess you'll tell me the man's name, won't you?"

But Miss Tantalus shook her head, so that the candle light made streaks of gold across the floating darkness of her eyes.

"Maybe I know it already," said Merrial.

Gertrude closed her lids.

"Three guesses," said she. "It's not one of the tiresome old ones!"

Merrial's heart began to beat even harder. She locked her fingers together and took the plunge.

"Kenneth Stanton," she whispered, haltingly.

And at that Gertrude made a lithe, quick movement, and flung both arms about Merrial.

"You little, wicked witch! How did you guess?"

Merrial turned her face away from the dancing eyes. "You told me in Boston—but I hoped you'd released him."

She was profoundly miserable. She began to wish that she knew nothing; that she had kept out of the wretched tangle; that she had never tried to intrude.

Gertrude gave her a little shake.

"You're very strange," said she. "I believe you've been flirting with him yourself."

Up flew the pink banner of annoyance in Merrial's face.

"Gertrude!" she cried.

Gertrude had dropped back into her former place. She was no longer astonished and no longer smiling. There was a crimson spot in each cheek, and her eyes regarded Merrial seriously. She seemed to be meditating a perplexity; trying to decide between two possible paths of conduct. The famous tumbling lock shadeed her forehead, her lips were parted; she was as beautiful as a great, soft hearted scarlet rose.

"You've something up your sleeve, Merrie," said she.

Merrial turned her own eyes away and bit her lip.

"If you know anything about Kenneth Stanton, anything that I don't know, Merrial, I reckon you ought to tell me. Don't you think so?"

Silence!

"There's no doubt about it one way or the other," went on the rocking voice, as calmly as before. "It's a clear matter of conscience, and I never knew a girl from Boston that didn't have a conscience twice as big as her New England self. Now, Merrial, don't worry, I know Kenneth—so well, so well. He's a child's first reader, or maybe even a big letter alphabet. I reckon you don't know anything more about him than I do."

Merrial jerked up her head so that the soft, childish hair slipped farther down to her shoulders. She was looking puzzled now, and keen. She probed Gertrude with a long, clear look.

"You are not in love with Kenneth, Gertrude," she cried at last. Then, as the beautiful face did not change from its half mocking gravity, she dropped to her knees beside the lounge.

"Be merciful for once, Gertrude, dear," she begged, "and give the poor boy his liberty. Don't pretend with him."

Gertrude's lids flew wide. She drew a quick breath, and the scarlet in her cheeks deepened gloriously.

"'Merciful'? 'His liberty'?" she repeated. "But that isn't merciful. Nobody ever wants his liberty, Merrie, dear!"

"You wouldn't answer my questions," said Merrial in a new, determined tone. "And you've chosen to be provoking and mysterious. If what I say is going to hurt you——"

Gertrude's color had faded perceptibly. Suspense began to straighten her lips.

"Now you really must go on, Merrie," said she; but her voice maintained its rocking evenness.

"I met him at the Grange—our cousins the Beauforts, you know. I saw at once how unhappy he was. There is a girl there—oh, the sweetest little thing—who looked at him with such eyes. And I saw that he could hardly bear to see her, and yet that he could hardly bear to look away. And then I found out that he didn't like Americans, and I remembered that you had spoken of being engaged to a Mr. Kenneth Stanton in Paris, and I began putting two and two togther.

"And I thought," she hurried on, "that perhaps you'd been making mischief. You are a very dangerous girl, and you have those silly southern notions of expecting a man to propose at once, and of—of——"

"Don't stop, Merrie," said the voice, that was rocking a trifle unevenly now.

"Of engaging—'engaging' is no word for it, though—yourself to any number of men at once, just to throw them over when the right one comes along. And that's all very well," she sped on hotly, "when the man's a southerner and understands the game. But when he's a frank, simple fellow, with a heart as soft as—chocolate creams, and a tongue that means just every word it says—no more, no less—then it's not very well, and you should know it. I think it was like taking candy from children to—to allow Mr. Stanton to think himself an engaged man. And—to—to—to write to him the way you did."

"Did he show you my letter?"

"No," she cried, flushing vividly; "but I made him tell me how you signed yourself. Then, of course, I knew—that is," as the graceful head still kept itself turned from her, "I thought I knew."

"So you want me to release Kenneth," murmured Gertrude at last.

"I should think you want to yourself—now, don't you?"

There was another silence; then:

"Tell me more about the English girl," commanded Gertrude.

Merrial's eyes grew soft.

"She is too dear, and so big hearted and true, and——"

"What does she look like?"

Merrial thought hard.

"She looks like a very brave mouse," said she at last, at which Gertrude laughed aloud.

"Pretty?" she questioned.

"O, yes! Adorably pretty. Brown eyes, like brook water when it's especially clear over yellow sand. And with the smoothest hair, just put back into a knot, but with the cutest crinkles above her ears. And she has one of those perfect English throats; and, though her clothes are so discouraging, she's graceful—the way English women are, you know, like women in old pictures, who are never very straight, and never a bit self-conscious, and don't think beans of themselves. She's very shy, and blushes easily, and has a stammery, coo-coo voice, and the most pathetic smile."

"Stop, Merrill," broke in Gertrude. "I'll write to Mr. Stanton. You may take the letter yourself."

Merrial sprang up to kiss her.

"Then, of course, he's not the man."

But Gertrude had turned her face entirely out of sight, and her voice came in a smothered and uncertain fashion.

"I shan't tell you that," it said.

Merrial searched the beautiful, quiet face in vain when it reappeared at last. She knew Gertrude's powers of old, and did not doubt, that pride would have kept her so composed even under harder tidings. But in that case—so she comforted herself—the victory would not have been won so easily. A girl who loved Kenneth, and expected to marry him, would have asked more questions, would have insisted upon seeing Kenneth himself; would have, in short, acted as differently as possible from the girl who was already bent over her portfolio composing the difficult message.

"There, now, Merrie; will that satisfy your New England conscience?"

And Gertrude handed over a sealed envelope addressed to Kenneth Stanton.

"I'll give it him directly I get back to the Grange, and meanwhile—take it out on the rod of steel, do, dear!"

With which parting shot, Merrial whisked out of the room and lighted herself to bed.

. . . .

A shaft from the early rising sun, aimed at Merrial through the high mullioned window, opened and uncurtained before she ascended the little steps and explored the feathered depths of the monstrous four poster last night, brought her out to the dew sparkling ewe-hedged gardens of roses and lavender pinks and cherry pie, long before the rest of the Rivington household had stirred to the aroma of "early morning tea," brought to their bedsides.

But she was very sure that in her wanderings she would be discovered by Tripp, who always rose with the sun, and presently a crunching footstep on the gravel path announced him.

They greeted each other silently—Merrial's eyes a shining mirror of mere delight in the beauty of the moment; his a gravely gentle questioning of what her will with him might be. But she gave him no lead.

"Tell me about your cousins, the Beauforts, and Aunt Jane, and everything. I know almost nothing of what you've been up to, Merrie. Cables are so—uncommunicative," he grumbled.

So they wandered along together, and she told him all that had happened, even to her most important plans.

"And I want you to see Hubert soon, Tripp; Dr. Reval is to operate next Wednesday, and I think he really feels very hopeful; he seemed so, though, of course, he wouldn't say much. Hubert will get no end of good from seeing you; it will help him through it all, dear little chap!"

"Of course, I'd love to see him, and 'Aunt Jane,' and all of them. When shall it be? You see, I'm only over on a flying business visit, and I ought to go back to London today."

She turned upon him.

"Tripp; you shan't! I've not seen you at all; we've said nothing. Why, what do you mean?"

"Dear little girl—what do you mean? It won't take us long to settle up about the—the business matter."

"Why won't it take long? It might take ages! You don't know whether it's worth while buying the recipe, you don't know anything about it!"

"I'm leaving all that to the people in the office."

"No, Tripp; that's not fair. You cabled that you were coming to investigate the report yourself. I shan't let you buy it, just because you know I want to sell it."

"I didn't mean that, Merrie; not a bit. The report says it's worth buying, as I gather. And now they've got to give me the figures, and so on. It won't take long, really."

"But—but Tripp, I want it all to be strictly on—on the level. Are you going to make quince preserves over here? Why did you decide to buy the Heart-o-Fruit company?"

"Why, it's quite simple. I've gone in with some fruit ranchers, and I found that quinces would be a very suitable product; we decided to open up an English agency, for sale of our stuff on this side, so I bought the Heart-o-Fruit. Very suitable and propitious, because of the name, you see," he teased.

"Well, that's all right, but I'm not going to have you buying a pig in a poke, just because I want to sell Aunt Jane's recipe. I shall have to take you up to London and see that you're not swindled, myself. O, Tripp, you're exasperating!" She laughed at him, half in vexation, half in sheer affection.

"I'm game; let's go up from here. I've got to go back in the car, and return it to the garage. We can stay in London—Gertrude's a thoroughly effective chaperone, you know—and you can see that you don't cheat me!"

"And that is what you call 'strictly business,'" she reproached.

"Well, what can I do? It's only another case of Mohammed and the mountain, only more so. The mountain insisted on coming to Miss Mahommed, whereupon she put a string around its neck and—"

"Oh, Tripp, you'll drive me frantic!"

Tripp folded his arms, and looked down at her.

"I am ready to obey thee as thy slave—I and the other slaves of the Lamp," said he, and there was something in his deep eyes that disturbed Merrial strangely.

She put a timid, beseeching finger on his arm. "Please don't, Tripp, dear!" she whispered.

"Don't what?" he asked her.

"Look at me like that—it isn't fair."

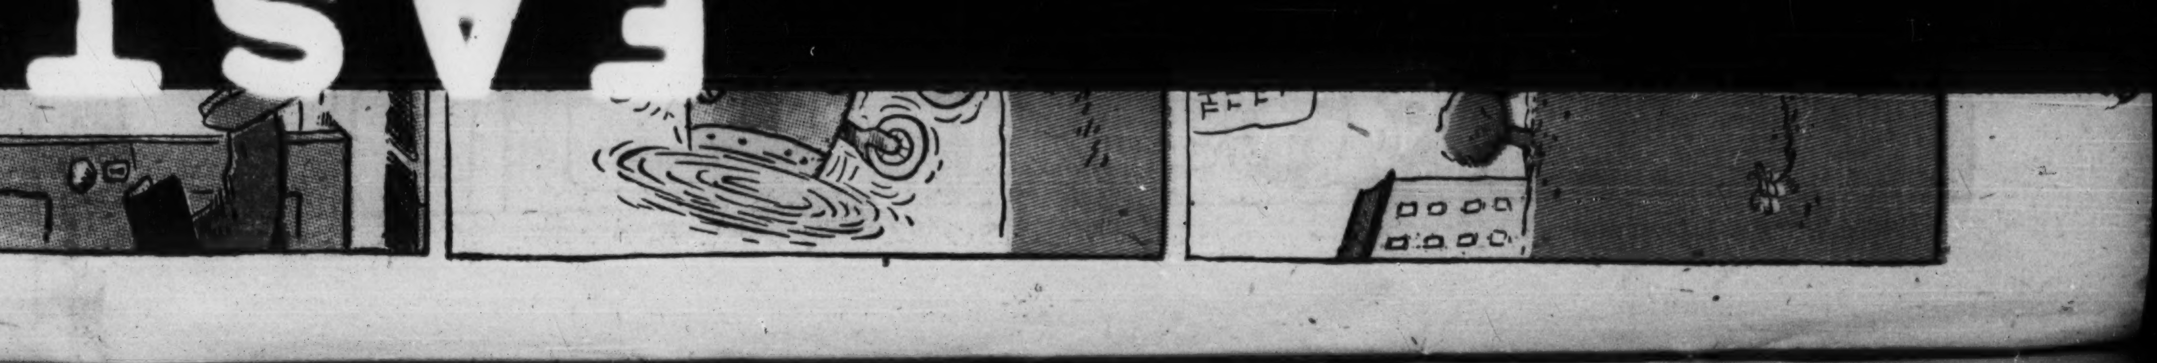
Tripp shook his head and sighed.

"Now, don't be a great goose, Tripp. What you must do is this: tomorrow—O, no; wait—I see—that will be wonderful! Lady Rivington must ask Gertrude to go back with her and stay a few days at Rivington house—where they really live, you know, near the Grange; and I'll take you to see Hubert and Aunt Margaret, and we'll stay with Aunt Jane over Sunday, and go up to London—strictly for business—for the day on Monday; and I shall be as hard as nails, on both sides, when I get to your office; remember that!"

"Well, then, that's settled; the mountain bows its humbled head to Miss Mohammed," and he made a mocking obeisance which won him a good hard shake—much to the amusement of Lord Rivington, who came up at that particular moment.

"Having trouble with your fruit company, Miss Houlton?" he chaffed. "Better have stuck to your first agent; always thought that Heart-o-Fruit concern was not to be relied on," he laughed. "How about breakfast? Never good tactics to try to strike a bargain before breakfast."

"He's not much of a bargain, however," retorted Merrial. "I have to look after all sides of it myself. No more business for me, once this is settled."



By Katherine Newlin Burt

"Amen to that!" Tripp piously ejaculated, and sprinted ahead, with many mocking turns of the head, as if to see that he was not being pursued for further chastisement.

. . . .

True to plan—Merrial's plan—three automobiles started from Rivington Old Hall on Saturday morning, two bound for Rivington house, Lady Rivington in her car and Lord Rivington with Gertrude in his roadster; the third, bound for the Grange, with Tripp at the wheel and Merrial by his side.

It was not, perhaps, just what Lord Rivington had expected; but you would never have known it by the look of him, or by the way he tucked Miss Hart in beside him with his consummate air of deferential proprietorship. Merrial smiled knowingly.

"I want to call for just a minute at the Stantons, on our way to the Grange," she said to Tripp. "I'll show you where to turn off. Gertrude has written a letter to Mr. Stanton. I think she's made it all right—I do hope so. But she's such a minx, she may have fooled me."

"She's withdrawn the candle flame from the moth?"

"She almost said so: not quite. I shall just leave a message at the Stantons' that I want to see him this afternoon about something important. Let me see, where shall it be? Of course, at Pearly Pool. Win shall drive me over, and I'll hide her away, till I'm sure it's all right—and then, if it is all right, I'll vamoose and leave them to themselves."

"Look out that Gertrude hasn't fooled you; she's a pastmaster herself in chess playing, of a kind, you know."

It was very still in Hubert's room. Dr. Unwin's preparation of the case, for Reval's operation, was a trying process to the patient. The shades were drawn so as not to disturb his much needed slumber. He had passed a bad night—one of those nights of pain and exhaustion that racked him and left him white and heavy eyed. All morning he had been as restless and irritable as such a pale, lank ghost had strength to be; but now, at last, his eyelids closed, and Winifred, who had been watching, tiptoed away, afraid even to breathe beside his chair. But she was hardly out of the room when Hubert turned his face and looked up. Finding himself alone, he opened his lips to call for madre, but the memory of her heavy eyes smote him and he decided to be quiet a little longer, so that she might rest.

There came a faint rustling sound. It was as if a glow of sunlight swept the room, and a face bent down over the boy. Arms that seemed instinct with courage closed about him. No one but Merrial gave such hopeful hugs.

"You look so pretty, Merrie," murmured Hubert, still half asleep.

"That's because I've put on my best hat for you," she smiled, kneeling beside him. "My very best of all. And," with an interesting glance over her shoulder. "I've something for you."

"Merrie!"

Hopefulness was creeping back into Hubert's face.

"Do you remember what I said once, that you might some day see a real, live cowboy yourself?"

"Sure-ly. That was the day you came back to tell me the story, wasn't it? Will you tell me another? That one was ripping. The fellow in the fire, you know."

Merrial nodded.

"Just wait," said she, mysteriously. "This is something better than a story. Hubert, there's a—real—live—cowboy outside your door now!"

Hubert's hand tightened on hers. Wave after wave of scarlet passed over his face.

"Oh-o-oh, Merrie!"

It was just a breath of unbelieving ecstasy.

No devotee ever waited a prayed for revelation so breathlessly as Hubert waited the advent of Tripp Hart. And when, a moment later, the room seemed all at once to grow small about a towering figure, the boy's face became a lump of worship. Here, at last, was an ideal in flesh and blood—a cowboy, big and bronzed and strong, whose eyes did not disdain so small an Englishman, but whose big hand and voice shot out to him as to an equal.

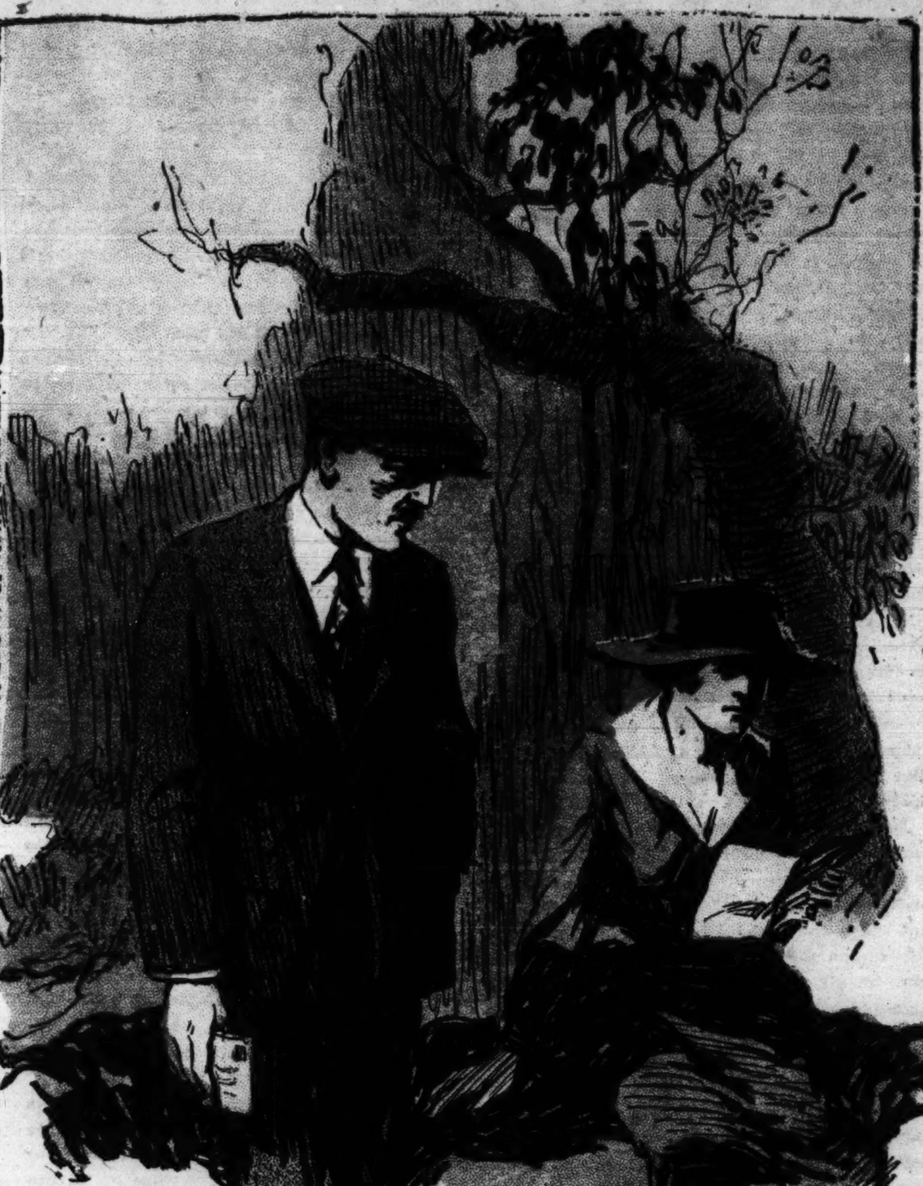
"I'm pleased to meet you, sir," said Tripp gravely.

Hubert put a quivering hand into the great one, and was surprised at the warm enveloping grip that was like velvet and like steel.

"I'm pleased to meet you," he replied, and his glowing eyes appealed to Merrial.

She flashed forward.

"You two people will have a lot to talk about," said she. "Tripp can tell you everything you want to know, Hubert. And he'd like to hear that idea of yours about the lariat. It's quite a notion, Tripp. He worked it out himself one day. And then, Tripp will explain to you why the Indians made that queer dance before the raid. He knows so much more than I do. You can't imagine."



He did not reproach her in words. He merely handed her the letter.

"Yes, I can," said Hubert quickly. "You see, Merrie, you're only a girl."

Poor Merrial! When the great gods come, the little gods must go! Meekly she dropped into her second place.

After lunch Merrial left Tripp to divide himself among Mrs. Beaufort, who basked in his reverential attention and beautifully artless consideration; and Alice, who was evidently studying him with all the interest one might bestow upon a first specimen submitted to one for proof of a new and attractive theory; and Hubert, who worshipped him as a god bringing drink from a life giving fountain.

Winifred was not to be allowed to share him with the others!

Secretly armed with Gertrude's letter, and pleading the need of a drive and a chat, Merrial decoyed her away from the rest.

"Let's drive to Pearly Pool and get back in time for tea, Win. I want a moment's peace, and I've not seen you for an age; I can't hear myself think when Tripp's got the center of the stage," she laughed.

So they took the dog-cart and jogged along, both too much occupied with their thoughts to care to talk.

And then, while Winifred was tying the horse, preparatory to their taking a stroll down a footpath to the water, Merrial darted off to the rendezvous she had appointed for Kenneth, calling back to Winifred to wait with the horse a few minutes, and that she would coo-ee for her when she was ready. Merrial reached the spot—the stepping stones to which she had dared Kenneth to come and rescue her the first day she met him—breathless, pink, and starry eyed. A glance at her watch showed her that it was before the time she had told him to be there. She beguiled her waiting with an examination of the outside of Gertrude's letter, and with memories of her first talk with Kenneth Stanton.

"He told me I was just a little odd," smiled the wood-witch mischievously to herself. "I shall have to make him take that back. And he must tell me that he likes Americans, and—and—but," relenting, "maybe I shan't tease him much. He's had an awful summer."

Looking back over her own summer with wide pupils, Merrial almost forgot her appointment. She still found it very strange that this boulder on which she sat was an English boulder, that the trees dropping their shadows lightly over her were English trees. She wondered if they had often seen her mother—her English mother!

"Oh, I am glad I came!" thought Merrial Houlton. "And I am glad I did not get discouraged. They are not really a cold, grim race—my mother's people. Even Aunt Jane! Those funny little sparkles in her eyes! I'm beginning to think, almost——"

There came an eager footstep crunching the underbrush, and Merrial, as the musing sweetness of her face was swept away by a brighter look, darted out over the stepping-stones till she stood on the tiny islet of rock.

"My reflection has been waiting for me all this time," she amused herself by fancying out loud, so that he should hear.

And not till Stanton called to her from the bank did she look up from the small nymph-face, glimmering below.

"Shall I throw this letter down to her?" Merrial asked of him, holding the white square above her head and teasing him with one of her impish smiles. "Once you refused to read a letter from—Gertrude Hart!"

The blood surged into his face. It seemed, too, as if the blue surged up into his eyes, so brilliant did they suddenly become. He thrust his hands into his pockets and looked at her without a word. She guessed how his heart was beating, and took pity, balancing back to the shore, and this time accepting gracefully his proffered hand. But, as she stood before him, she held the letter behind her back.

"Am I odd?" she asked him soberly.

Stanton emphatically shook his head.

"And do you like Americans?"

"I dote upon them," said he, and held out a beseeching hand.

She put the letter into it and watched his nervous fingers rip it open, with the impish smile upon her lips. But as she watched his face the smile went out. A panic of doubt suddenly possessed her. What was in the letter? What did Gertrude say? She remembered that Gertrude had actually promised nothing. "I will write to him. You may take the letter." That was all. She had not called the letter a message of release. And now Kenneth's face!

As she waited in fast growing dread he looked up at her haggardly.

He did not reproach her in words. He merely handed her the letter.

And Merrial read:

"My Dear Dear Kenneth: I have decided to announce the engagement very soon. Why delay any longer? The wedding is planned for September—in Baltimore, of course. I shall be so glad for you then to meet and know my friends. I have told them all what a wonderful person my Englishman is. Aren't you proud that they should hear such nice things of him? Merrial will congratulate you. For all sorts of reasons she is the proper person to hand this letter to you. I am sure you will congratulate yourself. Yours as ever.

"GERTRUDE."

Merrial looked up at last with blinking eyes. There was nothing to be said. Mechanically she held out the letter toward him. She had failed! There would be no grateful brook brown eyes to make up to her for the discomforts of her interference. And Stanton? What would he think? He would lump her in his mind with Gertrude, and all the other hateful Americans he had fancied—girls that laugh at a man, and torment and play with him for their own amusement, for the sake of gratifying an unwomanly conceit.

Oh, how she would have to blush now for that proudly remembered talk, that ride, for her "oddity," for her abominable questioning. He would think her, she could not tell what sort of meddling, forward creature. There would be no explanation, no excuse. While poor Winifred, to whom she had promised help, who had looked up at her through tears, as though her prophecy had been "beautiful upon the mountains." O, she would never be able to look Win in the face again. Gertrude was cruel—altogether cruel. She was punishing every one; Merrial, perhaps, worst of all.

Her hands were cold as she surrendered the letter, and her eyes were a dumb prayer for mercy.

But Stanton, with a fierce setting of his jaw, snatched at the paper, and would have torn it in pieces.

Suddenly, with a little cry, she held his hand. Her pupils were big.

"Stop, Mr. Stanton! There's something else inside! Oh, don't you see?"

There was, in fact, something else; a line or two dashed across the inner sheet. Merrial and Kenneth read it together:

"The engagement, by the way, is mine to—well, I'll send you a card of invitation later. Give my love to your English girl and——

"Have I punished you a little, please?"

Gertrude's letter fluttered to the ground, and there was a long silence.

"I hope," said Merrial slowly, at last, "that he is a big man with a stick!" And she sounded a ringing "Coo-ee" to summon Winifred.

But poor Kenneth was past speech. He sat on the bowlder with his face in his hands.

"Don't look like that, please, Mr. Stanton," Merrial begged him, laughing uncertainly. "I've told Win to meet me here, and I can hear her coming now. I think I shan't stay, after all, unless, perhaps, you need me?"

Kenneth had started up, and was already striding toward the slim girl in white who came wandering through the trees.

LAWN TENNIS IN MID-AIR

Some Photographic Sidelights on the Game as It Is Played by England's Newest Court Sensation.

(Photographs from The Sketch, London.)

The young woman here pictured is Miss E. Colyer, the 18-year-old English girl who has been astonishing British tennis enthusiasts by her amazing antics in tournaments at Hurlingham, Roehampton, and elsewhere. Her agility, it is said, is even greater than that of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen of France, the European woman champion. In none of the photographs, it will be noted, is Miss Colyer touching the ground; in most of them she appears to be defying the laws of gravitation.

On every scalp, scurf, dead skin and filmy accumulations are constantly forming. Scrubbing and soap never entirely remove them. The way to clean scalp and hair is by dissolving these accumulations.

The New Way Shampoo

EGGOL

Lets Your Hair "Breathe"

Cleans instantly, clears the pores, makes hair glossy soft. That's one of the secrets of luxuriant hair-growth. Makes scalp and hair cleaner than you could ever have it before. It also dissolves dandruff completely. Try it, you'll use no other. Sold at 25c a box (giving over a dozen shampoos), today at drug and department stores or sent direct on receipt of price by

~the proper oil food

IN those regions where men labor around gushing oil wells, dandruff and thin, falling hair are virtually unknown. It is a significant phenomenon which proves conclusively the rich value of petroleum as a natural oil-food for the scalp and delicate hair roots.

Petrole Hahn eliminates dandruff and nourishes the hair because it contains a scientific proportion of this natural oil-food (specially refined petroleum). It prevents a dry, scaly condition of the scalp and consequent hair ills.

Both men and women use and enjoy Petrole Hahn. You'll find it delightfully refreshing as a daily hair-dressing and like its dainty fragrance. Buy a bottle today and give new health and protection to your hair and scalp.

Never a corn

on millions of feet nowadays

Do you know that millions of people who use Blue-jay keep entirely free from corns?

If a corn appears it is ended by a touch. A Blue-jay plaster or a drop of liquid Blue-jay is applied.

The corn pain stops. Soon the whole corn loosens and comes out.

The method is scientific. It is gentle, easy, sure. Old-time harsh treatments are supplanted by it with everyone who knows it.

It is made by a world-famed laboratory, which every physician respects.

It is now applied to some 20 million corns a year. You can see that corn troubles are fast disappearing.

Then why pare corns and keep them? Why use methods which are out-of-date?

Try this new-day method. See what it does to one corn. You will never forget its quick and gentle action. Your druggist sells Blue-jay.

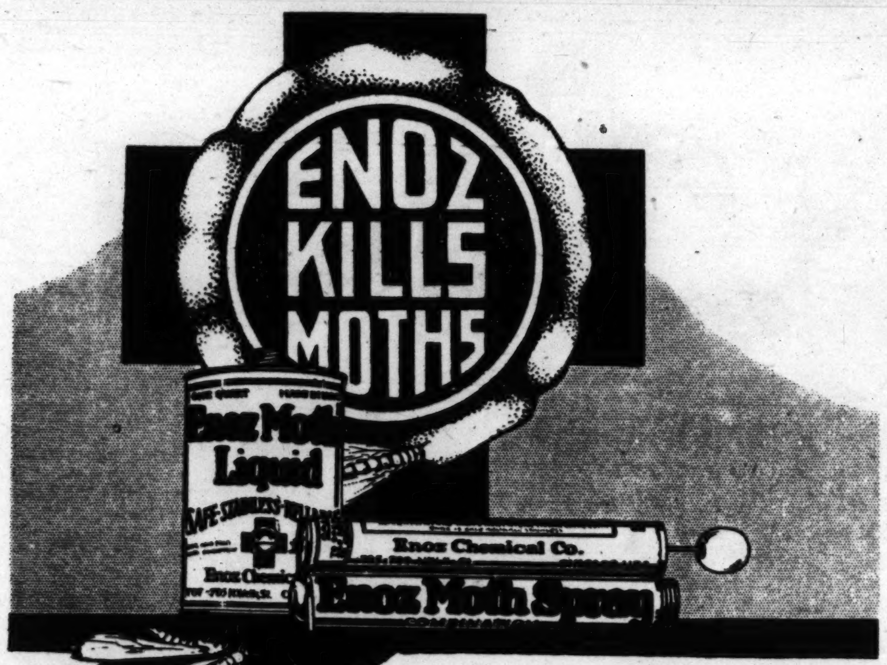
WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE was a serious question for these families of New York's lower east side who were evicted from their homes and were forced to leave their furniture on the sidewalk while they looked for other residential possibilities. The landlord is not present, but a policeman is, in case the landlord should put in an appearance.



If you have packed your woolen garments, furs, etc., away in moth balls or other so-called moth preventives, you may be sadly surprised when you want them to find that the voracious moth larvae, deposited in egg form before storing, has ruined the expensive apparel. Such a thing can't happen when you use

ENOZ
MOTH LIQUID

It instantly kills the moth, destroys eggs and larvae too. It isn't too late to protect with ENOZ. Do it today. Make sure of perfect garments when you need them later on. Stainless, harmless, economical.

War Discovery Changed Healing Methods

Now has dozens of home uses. Wonderful for cuts, skin eruptions, dandruff, infected gums, mouth-wash, etc.

The world may thank the war for the discovery of its most wonderful healing agent—the new chlorine antiseptic which American scientists invented to conquer wound infection, blood-poison and lockjaw. It succeeded where all old standard antiseptics had failed. Wounds often healed in one-fourth the usual time. Over 50,000 physicians and dentists are now using it.

The public may now have this same wonderful war antiseptic in the form of Kloria Tablets, and at low cost, as they are used by dissolving in ordinary water.

Kloria doesn't smart, is soothing, harmless and not poisonous. Yet it destroys germs more rapidly, more efficiently than any antiseptic ever known before. That is why it heals so quickly.

In tender, bleeding, shrinking gums, Kloria attacks the germ cause with amazing results. All gum soreness and bleeding usually disappear in one week. It also makes the most effective mouth-wash for preventing tooth-decay, gum infections, tonsillitis and contagious diseases.

Kloria takes the place of all old-time healing salves and antiseptics. Cuts, sores, boils and burns often heal in one-fourth the usual time. Skin eruptions and itching, eczema, dandruff, ivy poison, etc., promptly fade away. Kloria also destroys all offensive body odors instantly.

Sold by druggists or mailed for 50 cents. Money refunded if not entirely satisfied.

Package gives directions for making proper strength solutions for all uses. The liquid keeps perfectly in a bottle, ready for use.

"Gets-It"

never fails to peel them off—quickly, easily, painlessly.

A disfiguring corn on the bare foot of a bathing girl is an inexcusable blemish. Whoever continues to endure an aching corn for even five minutes has only himself to blame.

Never was pain relieved so quickly as corn pain is stopped by "GETS-IT." Just as cold water quenches thirst, so does 2 or 3 drops of "GETS-IT" bring to the tenderest corn instant relief and then makes that relief permanent by peeling the corn off completely, in one piece, root and all.

Leaning against the wall are two bloody stretchers used for carrying out bodies, and a broken rifle, evidently smashed by some terrific blow.

New colored flakes

that give lovelier colors than you have ever been able to get before

LOVELIER colors than you have ever been able to get before!

A richer, truer copenhagen for your blouse.

A lovelier pink for your underwear.

Every single color in the list more beautiful than any you have ever tried to wash into your clothes before.

Those wonderful shades that you have always wanted — now you can get them.

In this new product, Twink, shades that could never before be obtained, are now made possible. When this was accomplished the makers of Twink went to all of the leading fashion authorities who really decide the smart colors for women's clothes. From all of the different shades of pink, lavender, blue, and so on, these fashion experts showed the shade that was to be smartest this season. The shades of Twink were then made to match these colors.

See what these Twink colors mean to you.

If you have a camisole that is a faded pink, get a package of Twink, Pink or Flesh; if you have a yellowed blouse that you would like to have blue get a package of Copenhagen Twink.

You will fall in love with the flakes themselves the moment you see them—thin, glistening, brilliant colored—they dissolve instantly in boiling or very hot water, and whip up into a rich suds.

You put in your chemise, your blouse, or the children's sun-faded rompers. You swish them about for a few minutes, work the suds gently through the fabric, and rinse well in cold water.

Almost in the twinkling of an eye, your chemise is as lovely a pink as when you bought it. Your yellowed blouse is the perfect copenhagen you hoped for.

For every time the Twink colors turn out right—clear and even. There are no streaks or spots.

Each Twink color is so fast you can wash your garment several times before you need Twink it again.

Get Twink today in several of your favorite colors and follow the surprisingly easy directions that come with the package. Twink will not injure any fabrics that water alone will not harm.

Beautify your Hair with "DANDERINE"

35c a bottle! Freshen your scalp! Stop falling hair! Remove dandruff! Have lots of wavy, glossy, beautiful hair! You can!

IF YOU care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair; besides, it eradicates every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its luster, its strength, and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp, the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy, or too oily, get a bottle of Knowlton's Danderine, apply a little as directed, and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually, why not now?

Insuring comfort in summer footwear

Many new types for men and boys to choose

ALL over the country men and boys are wearing Keds this season. You will find them in town or at the seashore—on the street or at the tennis court—wherever you go for work or play.

Keds are the ideal footwear for warm weather. Their elastic rubber soles put new life in your step. Their soft, pliable fabric makes them always cool and comfortable

Keds now include models made with regular welt construction soles and firmly boxed toes—just like leather shoes. This means a shoe of style and distinction—the very shoe you have needed to wear with your white flannels or Palm Beach suit.

With these additions, Keds are now a complete line of canvas summer shoes—ranging from the easy, less formal tennis shoe to the latest and most fashionable styles of footwear. Last year millions of pairs of Keds were worn by men, women and children.

Good dealers everywhere carry Keds. Ask to see the various models—notice how wonderfully light and comfortable they are. Look for the name Keds on the sole.

For men and women	$1.50—$7.00
For children	$1.15—$4.50

On campaign tours, in his private car, Roosevelt could put himself to sleep in the midst of noise and tumult, and wake after a few moments, completely refreshed.

Photograph by Brown Br

A dynamo of human energy— Roosevelt always knew how to stop

WHEN Roosevelt was making the hardest campaign tour of his career after the Republican convention of 1912—working under conditions of unusual strain, and addressing crowds from the back platform of his train seven or eight times a day—the newspaper men traveling with him in his private car often marveled at his wonderful physical endurance.

"One secret of Roosevelt's staying power," said a newspaper friend who was with him at the time, "was his ability to relax instantly when he was tired. With people arguing campaign plans all around him, he could lean back in his chair and put himself to sleep at will."

Physicians now agree that the greatest relief for people who work under nervous or mental strain is frequent momentary relaxation.

It is a mistake to think that you can accomplish more by ceaselessly driving ahead—you will not only feel better, you will actually get through more work, if you learn to alternate your work with momentary snatches of rest.

Just as the engine of an airplane breaks down after a few months because it is constantly driven at furious racing speed, while an automobile engine lasts for years—so the human mechanism lasts longer, stays in better trim, when it is not kept going at continuous tension.

Try relaxing for a few moments at intervals throughout the day—see how much fresher you will feel—how much more productively you can work.

There are a dozen simple ways of getting this momentary relaxation.

One simple method of getting momentary relaxation

Most of us have noticed, for example, that just washing the hands is restful—that is why many people do it instinctively when they are tired. The next time you wash, use Jergens Violet Soap and see what an instant, delightful sense of refreshment and relief you will get from this simple act.

Jergens Violet Soap is especially made to refresh as well as cleanse. It contains an ingredient that is often used for soothing headache and reducing fevers. The moment you use it you will feel its almost magical quality of refreshment. Your skin will feel smooth, clean and cool.

The delicious fragrance of Jergens Violet Soap, like that of dewy, fresh violets—its purity and cool transparence—add to this wonderful effect of instant refreshment.

Use Jergens Violet Soap during a busy morning—after a trying conference—in moments of fatigue all through the day. It's a simple device—but wonderfully effective. The same qualities that refresh you when you are tired make it delightful for general use.

Jergens Violet Soap is sold wherever soap is sold—15 cents a cake.

Send 6 cents and learn its instant refreshment

For 6 cents we will send you a refreshing little cake of Jergens Violet Soap. Address The Andrew Jergens Co., 6535 Spring Grove Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.

"I was looking old—then the letter came"

"It came from one of the editors of my favorite magazine — just when I needed it most! For my skin looked gray and old—I had admitted it to her. Then she wrote me what to do."

THE letters come and come to the great Editor of an important magazine. They come from all parts of the country, because the readers know that a woman is there, sane, big brained, and full of real kindliness, who can and will help them.

And she always does. "Find the soap that agrees with your skin," she writes, "that will soothe while it cleanses."

There is no reason for letting one's skin get rough and colorless. There is no sense in letting the very life of the skin be injured by an untoned soap. Pears' is Heat-Toned by a special process which quickens and soothes the inner life of the skin. This process, Heat-Toning, makes Pears' agree with your skin — makes Pears' different from all other soaps.

Why "HEAT-TONING" makes soap agree with most skins

Up to a certain point Pears' is much the same as any other pure, carefully made soap—the same up to the point where others are ready to tint, scent and wrap for sale.

At this stage the makers of Pears' consider all soap as still "green" or raw. To make it absolutely in agreement with the most delicate skins, Pears' is then Heat-Toned by the process worked out by Andrew Pears, 131 years ago.

In the Heat-Toning retorts, Pears' mellows from its first creamy color to a dusky topaz and then to wine color. There is not a bit of artificial coloring in Pears'; its coloring is as natural as the beautiful bloom is to the rose.

What Pears' Does For You

Just so, Heat-Toning is a natural, scientific process which refines soap, taking away the harshness, and leaving it a beneficial cleansing agent that soothes the skin while it cleanses the pores. It is this toning process which makes Pears' different from all other soaps — which brings this one soap into harmony with the inner life of the skin. Use Pears' and let your skin live!

A Great WOMAN EDITOR—who receives thousands of letters from women asking how to improve their Complexions and their Hands gives this simple prescription as the "great secret"—

POOR TIRED FEET

Your success may depend upon heeding their warning

TIRED feet are Nature's danger signal. They indicate that you are putting an unnatural strain on the delicately adjusted arches which were designed to support your weight and absorb the jars of walking.

Records of one of New York's largest hospitals show that in 1890 only 2.6 per cent of the patients treated suffered from arch trouble. In 1906 the percentage had risen to 18.3 per cent. Today it is well over 30 per cent.

Nature never intended man to walk all day on hard modern floors and pavements. The result is not alone danger of arch trouble, but the over-fatigue—the loss of energy—which so many city dwellers experience.

Every step with hard leather heels or "dead" rubber heels on still harder pavements is like a hammer blow to your delicate nervous system. If you are a person of average activity, you take 8,000 steps a day, 8,000 daily shocks—that's why so many times you go home exhausted—so tired that a night's sleep cannot replenish your energy. Fatigue slows down your pace from day to day—inevitably you fall behind in the race for success.

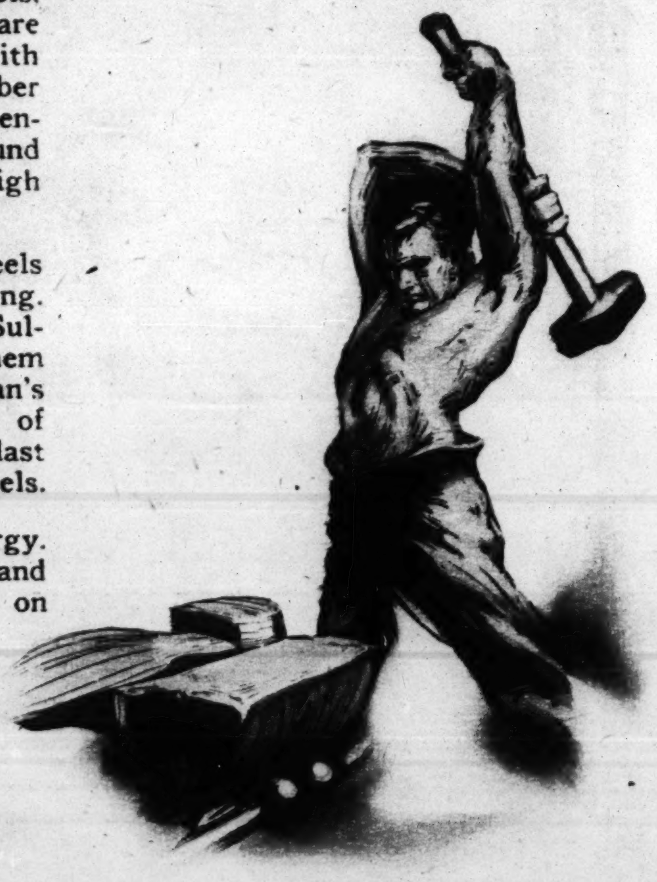
How to save your health and energy

By eliminating the shock of walking on hard pavements you can do much to prevent fatigue. O'Sullivan's Heels absorb the shocks that tire you out.

To secure the resiliency, the springiness of O'Sullivan's Heels, the highest grades of rubber are blended by a special formula. With this blend of live, springy rubber are "compounded" the best toughening agents known. The compound is then "cured" or baked under high pressure.

This is why O'Sullivan's Heels absorb the jolts and jars of walking. The same process that makes O'Sullivan's Heels resilient gives them their great durability. O'Sullivan's Heels will outlast three pairs of leather heels—they often outlast two pairs of ordinary rubber heels.

Stop pounding away your energy. Go to your shoe repairer today and have O'Sullivan's Heels put on your shoes.



With every step on hard leather heels you are pounding away your energy

Fashions Beauty Contests

The Economical Woman Spends a Silk Summer

By CORINNE LOWE

This department appears every day in The Daily Tribune.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—If there is one deep seated, abiding talent which experience cannot corrode nor disaster dim it is that of getting the wrong kind of clothes for summer. So many of us have this indestructible talent. And year after year we go on collecting clothes for our closets instead of for ourselves.

Yet it is truly surprising with how little ammunition we may bring down a whole summer of occasions. One serviceable little costume for making the short railroad trip and for the day in town; several sports skirts with a variety of blouses; an afternoon frock of either silk or cotton, and several little evening frocks—add to these the pretty, effective summer wrap, and you have a wardrobe in which the average woman may spend the next eight weeks in perfect comfort. Of course, the long vacation trip demands a more elaborate collection; but even here most of us err on the side of "too many." It's a case of shooting wild instead of shooting straight.

In the very word serviceable there exist so many pitfalls. What really is practical for summer wear? It takes a profound mind to decide this point.

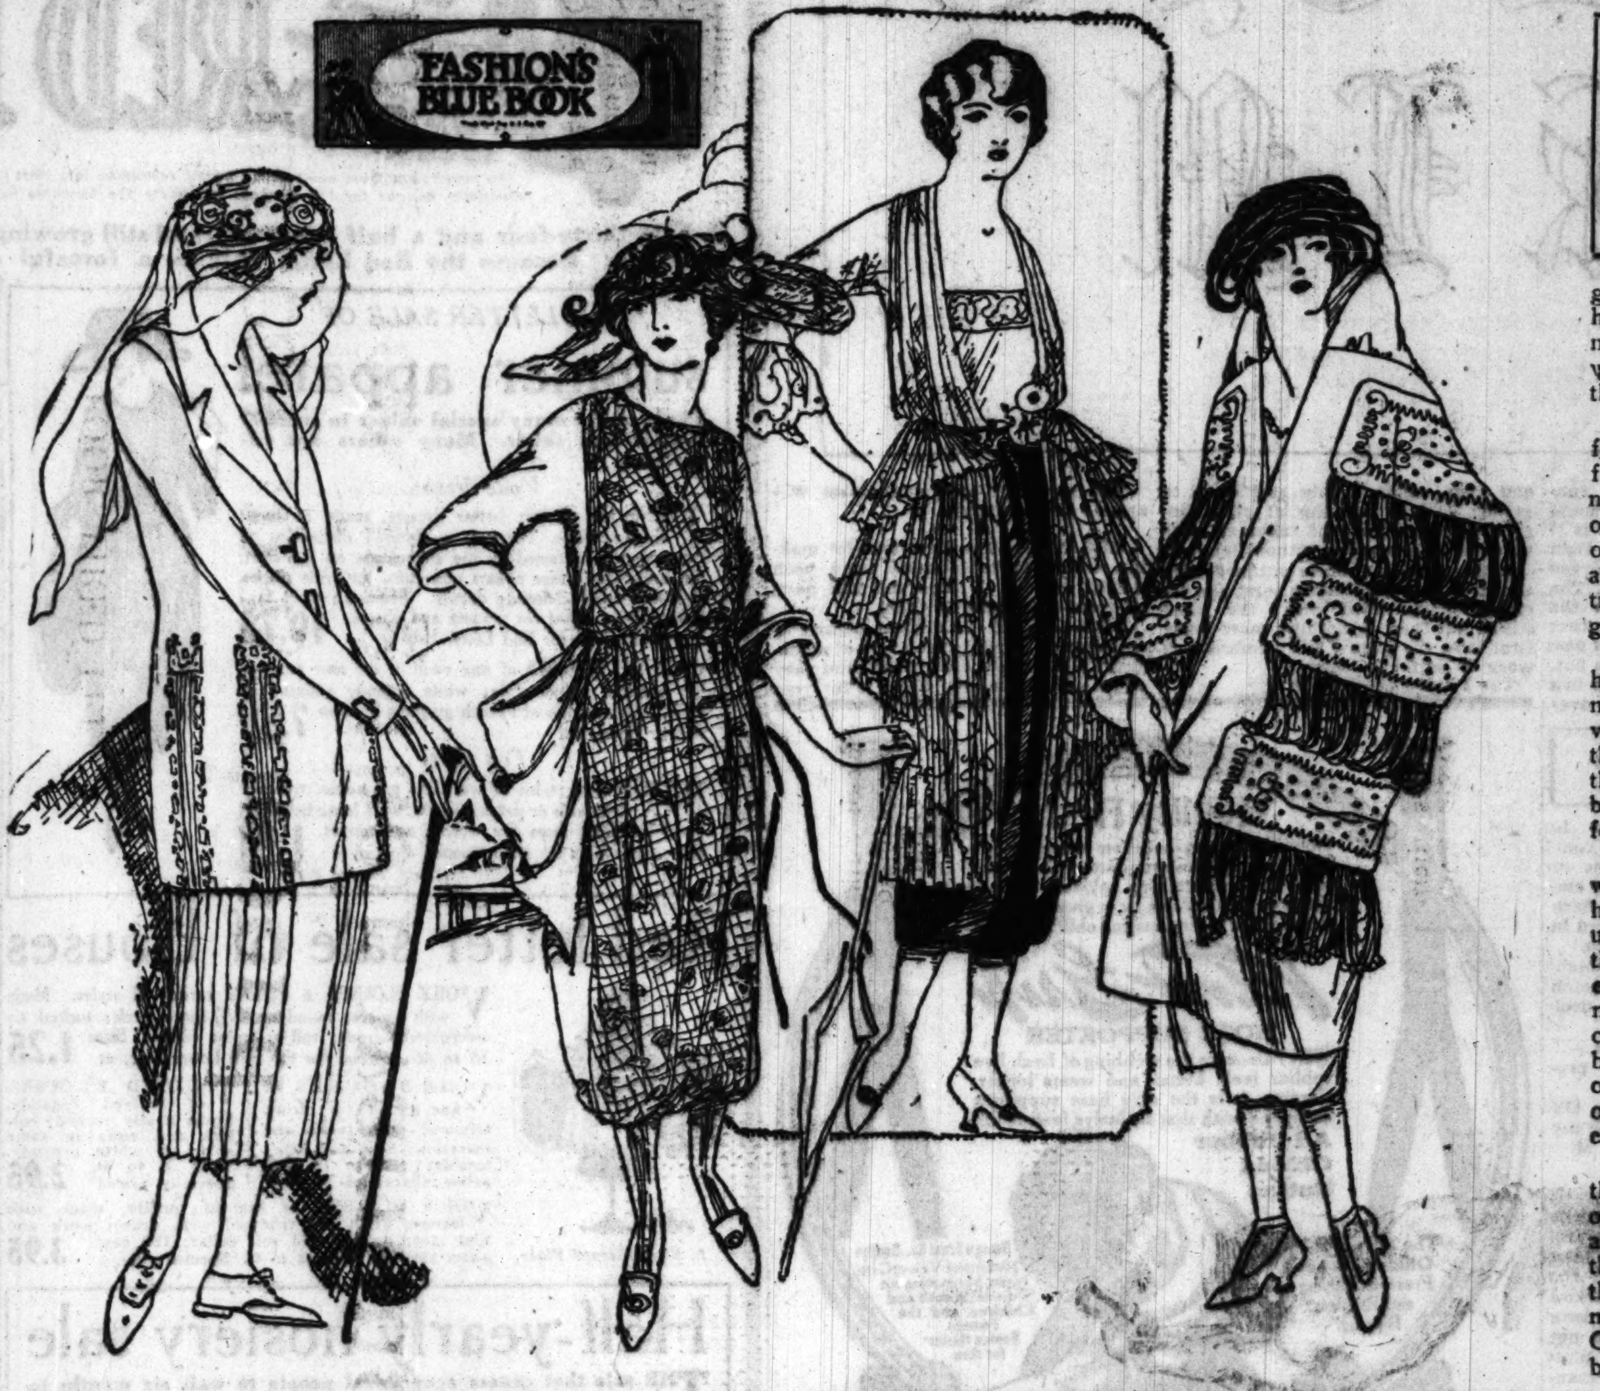
For example. Last summer I bought for trips between town and country and for city shopping a black and white foulard combined with black georgette. I always had been under the impression that foulard was serviceable. It is the custom, in fact, for fashion writers to make this blithe assertion. It is serviceable, too —but only for sitting inside a coupe or a glass case. Certainly this is true of the foulard with a white figure. For by the end of three weeks of wear my "practical" frock bore no resemblance to the clothes worn by the famous heroine of the railroad advertisement. The snowy design was discolored beyond redemption of the cleaner.

Another experiment I made one summer in this direction was a navy taffeta with long sleeves and a close fitting basque. It shed the dirt just like every well behaved taffeta, but it also shed me. It was so hot that I always speak to this day of my taffeta reducing cabinet.

For this practical frock, which is the backbone of every woman's summer wardrobe, there are three fabrics which do, however, seem to satisfy all demands of coolness and resistance to grime. One of these is the crepe de chine frock, in either tan or blue. The second is the navy georgette, and the third is the suit or frock of pongee. As the most thoroughly satisfactory I should name the suit of natural colored pongee. For not only does this give service during the short railway trip and the day in town but it may be worn all the time one is at a resort, and its skirt will do duty with any number of blouses.

As a suggestion for this suit we point to the model at the left of this page. It is of natural color pongee and is embroidered in self-color silk. The tailoring of the coat is extremely simple, but the box plaited skirt suggests a wide area of service with the separate blouse when this coat is not worn. Needless to say, a suit like this launders perfectly.

Of course, natural colored pongee or shantung is exactly like covert cloth. It demands some touch of arresting color. Very free, indeed, it is piped or embroidered in jade green or in some brilliant shade of red. Here the responsibility for color is assumed by quadrangular buttons of jade green bone and by a little turban of natural colored hemp, under the veil of which you see wool flowers of the same fashionable tint.



Another snare of summer is the gingham frock. This properly is only for the idle rich and the busy poor, for it never looks its best except when freshly laundered, and it is surprising how often it has to go to interview the tub. In addition, a smart gingham frock is fundamentally expensive. Consequently if you really want to go about summer in a practical manner you will select for morning a black and white striped cotton voile, than which there is nothing more serviceable in the way of tub frock. However, tub frocks of all sorts are more or less a luxury. Many women nowadays spend their mornings exclusively in the skirt and blouse.

STARTING at the left, we have a pongee suit in natural color embroidered in self-color and trimmed with jade green buttons. Next, an afternoon frock of brown taffeta and brown net bears in its narrow velvet ribbon the touch of orange generally found with this autumnal tint. Third, an evening dress of black satin, cream net, and cream lace, with pastel flowers at the girdle. Last, a cape of beige taffeta embroidered in gold thread and combined with black Chantilly.

There is nowadays such a butterfly swarm of cotton frocks for afternoon wear that it is hard to turn one's back on these floaty organdies; these soft, appealing batistes. Yet these, like the ginghams and the other tub frocks for morning wear, necessitate a tremendous amount of either dry or wet cleaning. Hence the woman who wants to be economical is turning more for afternoon wear to the sort of frock pictured second from the left.

This is a brown taffeta made up with brown net, and, as a relief from the straight line of front and back panels, is offered the bouffancy of the taffeta sides. Passing under the brown net a very narrow velvet ribbon of vivid orange tint fortifies the present theory that almost every brown frock nowadays should "get an orange with its food." The hat worn with this one of the fashionable broad brimmed ones of tulle—this, of course, in brown, with trimming of brown ostrich plumes tipped with orange, blue, and green.

Brown, like the spoiled child, is certainly staying up until all hours. Nothing is smarter, in fact, than the brown or black evening frock. Even the dancing gown has succumbed to the universal passion, "I want to be a nut browne mayde." However, these little brown dancing frocks certainly contrive to look anything but somber. Usually they are of taffeta combined with brown tulle, yet often orange tulle or orange ribbons are employed for the sake of festivity.

In the dancing frock there is a tendency to deck the decolletage with more material. Many of them are made with round, rather high necks and cap sleeves. Even those which are sleeveless come up much more severely about the neck. The tendency away from the almost barbarous decolletes of the winter is observed in the evening frock second from the right. This frock made of cream net, cream lace, and black stain is an excellent suggestion for the country house dinner. A particularly effective feature is formed by the cascading movement of the lace side panels. Another point of difference occurs in the irregular opening of the black satin skirt over its cream net underskirt. The sleeves, it will be noted, are elbow length.

Many of the evening skirts of midsummer are two favorites of the spring. One of these is the "petal" skirt, made up generally of several kinds of material of several different shades in pointed and overlaping tunics. Very often four or five skirts go to make the perfection of these flowerlike frocks. The "petal" skirt is for the lissome exclusively, and so is its rival, held over from several months ago. This is the skirt made up of looped draperies which Cheruit brought out and which, contrary to all predictions, has become so popular that it is echoed even in bathing suits.

The skirt made up of outstanding loops is sustained even in wraps where one often finds long loops of chiffon or silk making the silhouette. Of wraps of all sorts there is no end. At the right we show a new mode which may be used for either afternoon or evening wear. Made of taffeta in beige tint, it is combined with black Chantilly and embroidered in gold thread.

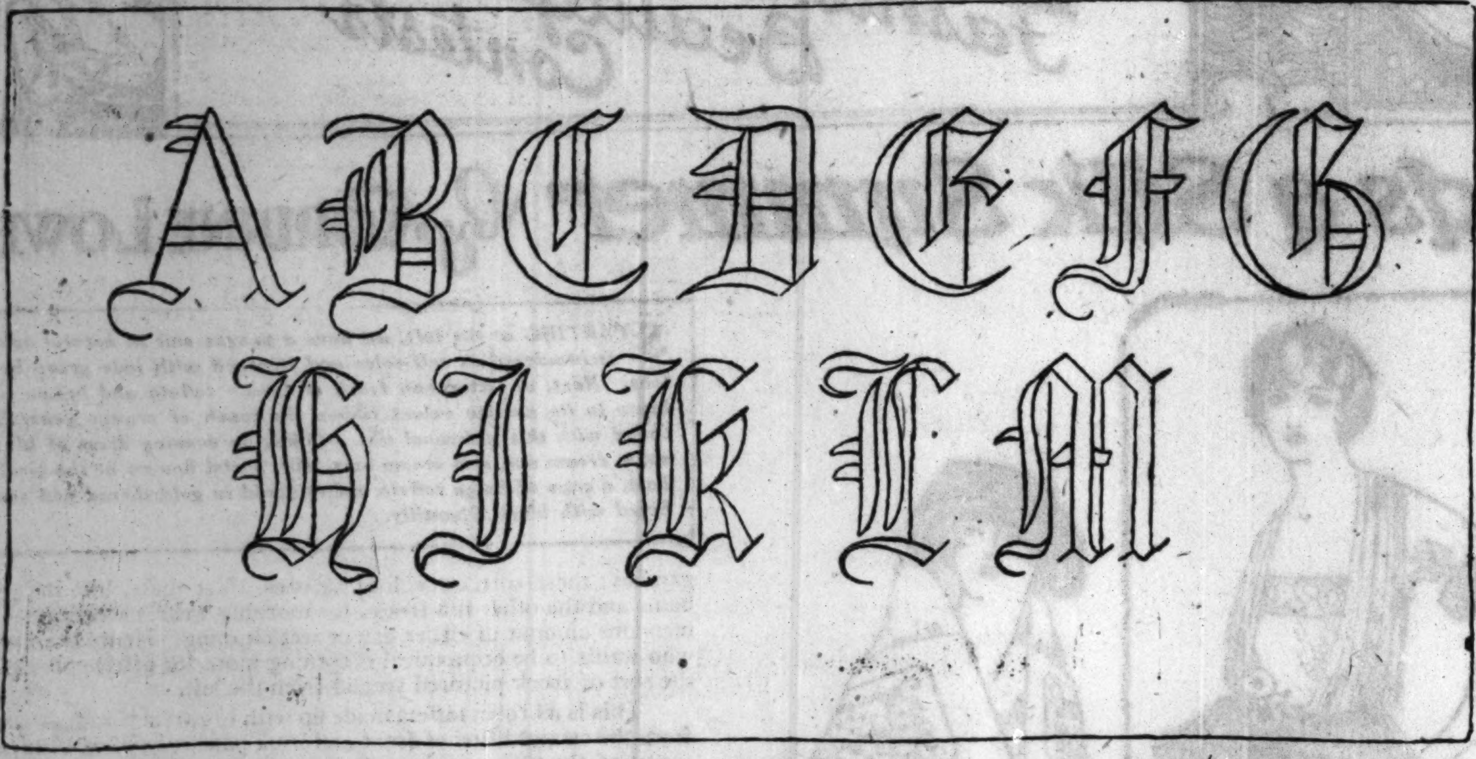
PRACTICAL AND FANCY NEEDLEWORK

By Clotilde



Questions on sewing will be answered if a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Clotilde, Chicago Sunday Tribune.

The old English is probably the most popular of all letters shown, judging by the constant requests for it.

Initial letters should be first outlined in a close, even running stitch, then the spaces filled in with a chain or other padding stitch. Where a running stitch is used the stitch should be longer on the upper side, and it is always heavier in the center than toward the edges, thus giving a curved or rounded surface when finished. The padding stitches must all be on the right side, having the stitches that come to the wrong side as small as possible, sa as to keep the wrong side flat.

The embroidering should be done in a frame, and the stitch is a simple over and over, taken evenly and close together, always running at right angles to the padding and taken as close together as is possible without lapping.

Letters are sometimes outlined with the over and over stitch, and the inclosed spaces filled with the seed stitch, but there is nothing more beautiful than the plain "laid" embroidery work if perfectly done.

The I and J are the same.

The last half of the alphabet will appear next Sunday.

MRS. M. S.: The directions for making crocheted table mats have been mailed to you. I hope you will have no trouble in making them.

MRS. I. O. F.: You might inquire at department stores for the sort of monogram you wish to have made, and they will no doubt be able to do it for you.

My Most Embarrassing Moment

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Sunday Tribune. Please write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

Laughed Too Hard.

Some friends and I were sitting on the back platform of an observation car, and we were all enjoying a good joke, when suddenly the chair on which

I was sitting broke to pieces—I weigh 211 pounds. You can imagine how I felt when I looked up and saw everyone convulsed with laughter. F. M.

Just Brought Herself.

It was my first day in school and the teacher was calling the roll. I didn't know what this meant but was conscious of the fact that each pupil answered "present" after his or her name was called. The teacher called my name. I hesitated. She called it again. I hesitated some more, but finally blurted out, "I left my present at home," amid the roar of the entire school. J. W. D.

One Good Reason.

It was my first visit to a farm and, as everything was new to me, I asked innumerable questions.

What struck me particularly was the enormous amount of work there was to do, and I said, "Do you ever get through working?"

"We never will if you don't soon get through asking questions," was the reply. E. S.

A Diplomatic Secretary.

Some years ago I was private secretary to a well known man, and occasionally I lunched with the family. It was in the height of the season, and a large week-end party was being entertained. I found it necessary to stay to lunch. The converstion turned to golf. My employer pronounced the word "golf"; his wife, "gof." This started a not unusual wrangle between the two, and the guests took sides. Then, as a native of Scotland, the birthplace of the great game, I was appealed to by my hostess to settle the dispute, and more than one beamed in complete enjoyment of the predicament in which I found myself; for, if I complied, I was bound to offend one or the other. It was indeed my most embarrassing moment. Then in a flash came an inspiration, and I breathed in relief, for I saw a means of escape.

"As you appeal to me as a Scotchman, you will accept the usual Scotch pronunciation of the word as decisive?" I asked.

"Yes, yes," they both answered.

"Well, then, in Scotland we pronounce it 'gowf.'"

And so the incident passed in the midst of hearty laughter, in which my host and hostess both joined. O. M.

News to Him.

When I was a freshman in college I was in the psychology class of a professor who was a confirmed bachelor and not altogether popular with the student body. One day, when the class had gathered and, although it was long past the hour, the professor had not arrived, I arose, walked to the platform, and announced in a serious manner that our instructor had eloped the evening before with a girl on the library staff, and would not return that semester. Just as I finished speaking I turned, and saw in the doorway—the professor. H. E. A.

MORE FLOWER LORE

By Doris Blake

LILY.—The lily is the most sacred flower of the kingdom because Christ alluded to it with these words: "Consider the lilies, how they grow. They toil not, neither do they spin; yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

Plant an Easter lily bulb and with it the name of your lover written on a small piece of paper. The growth of the lily indicates your lover's faithfulness.

Once upon a time there lived a knight who more devout than learned and could remember no more than two words of the Latin prayer that was to be offered to the Holy Mother. These words were "Ave Maria," and in these words he continually addressed his prayer to Heaven. When the good man died, the grave was no sooner closed than there sprang up a plant of "fleur de lis" [the lily flower] displaying on every flower in golden letters the words, "Ave Maria." On opening his grave it was found the root of the plant rested on his lips.

If you pluck the speckled red lily, you will get freckles.

The Chinese hold the lily in great reverence, believing one in the house has power to drive away evil spirits.

In Italy it is said if a lily is presented to the bride, she will have strength to resist temptation and grow strong and vigorous in the chaste love of her husband.

Purity and sweetness is the message a gift of white lilies carries, but yellow lilies mean falsehood and gaiety.

LILY OF THE VALLEY—The lily of the valley grew from the bloody combat of St. Leonard with the dragon.

LOTUS—The lotus flower in Japan is an emblem of good luck. The pure white lotus is the royal flower of Siam. To the Buddhists and ancient Egyptians the lotus blossom was the most fortunate flower to wear.

MAGNOLIA—It is said the owl in its wisdom comes every spring, when the buds of the magnolia tree are bursting, and addresses the tree: "Hold fast. If you speak now you will lose your influence for a whole year." The tree heeds not the warning, but opens its petals and speaks its perfume boldly out to the air and for another year has no more perfume.

MARIGOLD—Marigolds, it is said, owe their existence to the life blood of the Indians slain in Mexico by the Spaniards. They have great power to strengthen and comfort the heart.

MIGNONETTE—Give a maid a mignonette and her maiden heart you will surely get.

MORNING GLORIES—If morning glories grow in your garden without your planting them you will be and are dearly beloved.

NARCISSUS—There once lived a youth who was so wondrously beautiful as to excite the admiration of all who saw him. One day he wandered along the banks of a clear running stream and caught a glimpse of his lovely face and thereupon fell madly in love with himself. So infatuated was he that he could not be induced to move from the spot, and he gazed at his image until he starved to death. From the ashes of his beautiful but vain body there sprang up the lovely flower, thus erecting a lasting monument to man's vanity. Narcissus, the son of Cephisus, was the young man's name.

OLEANDER—A young man fell into the water and was drowned while he was trying to get a blossom of that plant for his lady love. She cried out in agony, "O. Leander!" The name clung to the shrub.

PANSY—If you want pansies to flourish, plant them in a heart shaped bed.

The lines on the pansy leaf foretell destiny: Four lines, hope; five, happiness; leaning toward the left, a life of trouble; toward the right, the reverse; six lines, constancy; seven, an early wedding; nine, a changing heart; ten, great riches.

PEONY—The peony is regarded as a luck bringer, as it blossoms freely and has beautiful green leaves.

PONCIANA—In the West Indies the beautiful ponciana is considered unlucky.

POPPY—Following the plowing of the field of Waterloo after the Duke of Wellington's victory, the remarkable phenomenon of red poppies was seen and were believed to have come from the blood of the troops slain in that battle.

The oriental poppy is the flower believed to be chosen by the sun god as they hold up their flaming cups to receive his benediction.

SHAMROCK—Dip shamrock in a glass of wine on St. Patrick's day and you will have good luck all year.

The four leaved shamrock when found should not be shown to any one if its power should be retained.

SNAPDRAGON — Snapdragon will protect one from deceit. Secretly worn it has power to make fascinating the wearer.

SUNFLOWER—Cull a sunflower at sunset and you will get your wish.

To a Mexican the sunflower is the best of luck.

The sunflower is said to be enamored of the sun because it turns its face toward it. As Thomas Moor says:

"The sunflower turns on her god when he sets
The same look which she wore when he rose."

SWEET PEA—In France it is the flower of good omen for the bride.

THISTLE—Why the Scotch choose the thistle for their emblem is an interesting narrative. Although it was thought unwarriorlike to attack the enemy at night, the Danes were creeping up on a Scotch camp when one of the soldiers set his farefoot on a thistle; he gave a cry which aroused the Scotch, and they defeated the Danes with terrible slaughter.

TULIP—In Holland the tulip is the lucky flower; to get a rare plant amazing sacrifices have been known to be made. No family is too poor to possess one plant.

VERBENA—Verbena is the flower of Venus and is supposed to give the power of procreation, and make a person very attractive to the other sex.

WATER LILY—The water lily is the one sinless flower. All flowers have souls and all but this one have fallen. It sits in judgment on its sisters at the gate of Paradise.

How to Pull Taffy.

We lived in Kentucky and father had twelve big mules. One day, as we children were in the back yard pulling hanks of molasses candy that mammy had made for us, I happened to look in the barn and saw that row of solemn mules watching us. "Let's give them some taffy," I shouted. Although I was the youngest, my brother and sister followed my lead always, so we soon had a chunk of taffy in each mule's mouth. It stuck first to one jaw and then the other, and as they opened and shut those huge mouths trying to get the sticky stuff off their teeth we laughed until we were nearly sick. We then flew to the house, bringing parents and guests, among whom was the governor of our state, who doubled up with mirth when he saw the long row of working mule jaws, declaring it the funniest thing he had ever seen. J. B. M.

Not Properly Grateful.

When I was a tall lad of 12 I dressed in my big sister's clothes, false curly bangs, and big, floppy hat, and met her bashful, near-sighted beau in the shady grape arbor. I could talk just like sis, and I greeted him with a hug and kiss, which evidently was just what he needed, as he proposed right away. I always considered that I brought about their marriage, but, strange to say, neither one seemed to appreciate my effort. J. M. V.

The General's Fall.

During the civil war my small brother and I were much interested in the union generals, especially those of the cavalry.

It was our task to ride the horses to a nearby creek for water, and on such occasions I was always "Gen. Kirkpatrick."

Thrashing was just over, and back of the barn was a large, new straw stack. Upon our return one day from a trip to the creek we took an extra ride back of the barn. I decided to ride old Jule up the straw stack, and with the remark, "Here goes Gen. Kirkpatrick making a charge," I started up the stack.

I don't know how the old mare made it, but she did, and I hung on. Just as we reached the top the stack gave way, and we rolled over and over down the side. When we reached the bottom I ran toward the house with a real cavalry yell. My father, a soldier, was home on a furlough, and when he heard the story Gen. Kirkpatrick met a second disaster, for pa knew how to wield the birch. C. W. F.

WATER AS A BEAUTIFIER

By Antoinette Donnelly

What's your beauty ill? Too fat? Too thin? Shy on hair? Oily hair, oily skin, freckles, pimples, or blackheads? Flat chested or flat footed? Write to me. I have a tonic, a diet, or a set of exercises for what ails you and you're welcome to them and to all the advice I can give you. If you wish a personal reply send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, the Chicago Sunday Tribune.

WATER is the world's greatest beautifier. It is the world's greatest health giver.

"Water, internally, externally, and eternally" is the best health and beauty motto there is.

Most people feel perfectly acquainted with the preachings of the external use of water. Not so many, however, are familiar with its internal need.

Medical Man's Opinion.

"The life processes produce poisons as by-products. Were it not for the liver, which destroys many poisons, and the kidneys, bowels, and skin, which eliminate poisons, we would speedily die. In fact, as it is, we almost always do die of poisons! The only real exception is when we are killed by physical violence. When germs kill us it is chiefly by the poisons which they generate. Poison, therefore, is the main factor in causing old age and death not directly due to injury."

The foregoing paragraph is the expression of a medical man. It will be seen at once how important it is to eliminate as thoroughly and promptly as possible such poisons as are unavoidably introduced into the body. The kidneys are the chief organs for this elimination work, and water is the chief agent for the elimination.

Nothing Takes Place of Water.

Every portion of your body, even the bones, to be kept in health require a constant supply of fresh water. Coffee, soda water, tea, or other drinks do not take the place of pure water. The blood needs a continuous supply of water, and if it does not get its required quota otherwise it will absorb water from the colon, or other tissues, thereby receiving poisons as well, leaving the bowels dry and constipated.

The bowels must be emptied every day. Three-quarters of the complexion ills, the dulled eyes, the lusterless hair, and poor digestion are due to neglect in this regard. Bad breath, odorous skin are other disagreeable results of too little water consumed.

You have to drink enough water, therefore, to keep your organs flushed and clear of accumulated material.

Invaluable in Reducing.

No, drinking water will not make you fat. On the contrary, it is invaluable in reducing, because it carries off the tissue that is broken down by diet and exercise. But it unquestionably will keep the bowels clean, give a good flow to the blood, and tone up the whole system.

If you have been one of those without taste for water, while otherwise living under hygienic conditions, you may find, as many others similarly negligent, a remarkable increase in health and energy by attending systematically to this simple but important need.

Seven Glasses Daily.

How much should you drink? From six to eight glasses. One glass every morning before breakfast, one at each meal, and one in the forenoon and one in the afternoon and before retiring is a good rule. It is a silly, ungrounded old tale about water drinking at meals being harmful. It is not, unless you use it to wash down chunks of food without chewing. Of course, if you do that, it is harmful. But you know food railroaded into the stomach that way is going to cause you trouble, and you have too good sense to be found guilty.

When the stomach is empty between meals is the most beneficial time to take the water cure for constipation. Of course, one may overdo as well as underdo in this prohibition drinking. Some faddists have advocated ten to sixteen glasses daily, but that overworks the kidneys and overburdens stomach and heart.

Helps the Skin.

Another important reason for water drinking is that you know at certain times girls will have more or less of an odor from their skins and breath. It is noticeable in those with the most cleanly habits. Perfume will only make matters worse. These odors are due to acids and chemical matter which exist in the natural secretions of the body—the perspiration, breath, and other secretions. Now, the less water in the system the more these odors will be detected.

"It is the lack of plenty of water that causes the skin to give forth odors," says Dr. William Lee Howard. "If you have exercised to the point of profuse perspiration and have not drunk plenty of water, no amount of bathing will prevent an odor coming from the skin. If you are going out to a dance or any place where you will be in a warm room you will not be able to disguise the chemical odors coming from the skin. But if you have filled your system with water two or three hours before going out your skin will have a delicious, natural odor."

D. D.: FOR THE MILD SUFFERER from perspiration odor there is the simple remedy of adding common baking soda to the water and dusting boric acid over the affected parts. But for the average sufferer the aluminum chloride preparation is the most satisfactory. A 25 per cent solution in distilled water, dabbed gently on and allowed to remain until dry will cause a rapid amelioriation of the trouble. Three applications a week and then one application a week to ward off recurrence. If your skin is extremely tender you may prevent irritation by diluting the above by first splashing water on the part before applying the aluminum chloride.

MRS. V. S.: WHAT TO DO FOR that o'erhanging basket of fat which the corset supports? Will you exercise? Then send me stamped and addressed envelope for an illustrated and plainly descriptive set of movements which will do the work in a comparatively short time.

* *

JAKE: POWDERED SULPHUR applied to a jumping soft corn for three days or a week will take the jump out and the corn along with it. Dusted between the toes, it prevents soft corns. You better get a pair of roomier shoes, Jake, while you are in the corn remedying business.

Doris Blake's Answers to Love Problems.

This department appears every day in The Daily Tribune.

Have you a perplexing love affair in which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Doris Blake, care the Sunday Tribune. If you wish a personal reply please send a stamped, addressed envelope.

Try It.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am writing to you for advice in behalf of a dear friend of mine. She is 19 and some time ago went with a young man whom she loved dearly. For some reason or other they quarreled and in that way drifted apart. They are not friendly toward each other now, and when they meet they greet each other and pass on. When this girl goes out with our crowd she always seems moody. Her thoughts seem to be occupied with her old sweetheart, and she no longer cares to meet young men and women and does not care whether or not we are jolly; she was full of fun herself before this quarrel. I would like to know what I can do to make my friend more happy. Do you think it advisable to bring on a reconciliation or should I mind my own business about the whole matter?

"A. F. N."

It might be that you could make the both of them happy by bringing about a reconciliation. I should try it if I were you. At any rate, it may effect the cure in the girl's manner if she is made to understand the young man is entirely through, if that turns out to be the case.

Proud of Them.

"Dear Miss Blake: I once had a very good girl friend, who lived in the same house as I. After she had moved away I sent her several personal letters. Later on I learned that she had shown them to her friends, which makes me feel very bad about it. I would like to ask her why she showed them, but I think she would feel hurt. Do you think that I should tell her? Was it right of her do do that?

"Charles."

Perhaps there was nothing in the letters that the girl felt she should keep secret. It might be that she was very proud to show them. Letters are such fun to get, you know. I don't think I would say anything to her about it.

Be Nice to Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 19, and am in love with a young man who doesn't show me the attention I desire. How will I win his affection?

"AMELIA."

You could be just a little bit nicer to him than any of the other girls. But you must not let him suspect he is under surveillance, so to speak. Dress yourself your very prettiest, be genuine in your manner—and then, if he does not respond, some other nice young man may find in you the girl of his dreams.

He Is Not.

"Dear Miss Blake: Will you kindly advise me, whether my husband is any relation to my sister's husband, they not being related by birth?

"Mrs. J. D."

His sister-in-law's husband is the answer. No relation whatever.

Bright Sayings of the Children

There was no school that day, and Charlie was having a good time playing marbles. "Pick a nice bouquet for your teacher and send a little note saying you're sorry she is sick," advised his mother. Charlie dutifully picked the bouquet, and this is the note he sent: "Dear Teacher: I am sorry you are sick, but if you will stay sick tomorrow I will pick you a bigger bunch of flowers." J. H.

Betty, coming out of the mysterious room where mamma and the new brother were, answered the question, "What do you think of the baby?" with "I've seen lots of better looking ones." X.

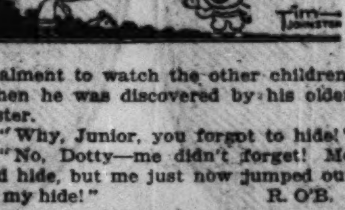
Junior was being initiated into the mysteries of hide and seek. In his excitement he had left his place of concealment to watch the other children, when he was discovered by his older sister.



"Why, Junior, you forgot to hide!"

"No, Dotty—me didn't forget! Me did hide, but me just now jumped out of my hide!" R. O'B.

Johnny ran into the house one day much distressed because the hot sun had wilted his garden. He announced the condition of things by saying: "O, auntie, my garden has fainted." K. M. W.

Roy's mother gave him a quarter to get some candy, and she told him to let George, his older brother, get it for him.

"I don't want to," said Roy.

"Why not?" asked his mother.

"Well," replied Roy, "he might get hungry on the way back." S. K.

Dickie had been playing with some older boys and had evidently heard some of them cursing. The next day he was playing around and when something went wrong he said, "Damn it." My sister, hearing him, said, "Dickie." He turned around all as if nothing had happened and said, "Did I said darn it?" L. B.

REAL LOVE STORIES

FATHER VS. CUPID.

Do you know a real love story—one that is stranger than fiction? It is the idea that is wanted. No attention will be paid to literary style. The Tribune will pay $5 for every story published. No manuscripts returned. Address Doris Blake, The Sunday Tribune, Chicago.

Rosie's mother was our washwoman and it was through her that I learned of her daughter's romance.

They were Italians, and little, dark haired, vivid Rosie was the prettiest girl in the Italian quarter, which is, as you might imagine, saying much. Rosie liked the boys, but didn't want to marry.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

However, when she was 17 her father declared that he wasn't going to have any old maids in his family, and forthwith engaged her to a man of his choice. Unfortunately, Rosie had by this time met the man of her choice, so what with being torn between love and obedience, she was in way of being a fairly uncomfortable girl. Her father did not take well to her idea of a husband, so the customs of the old country being planted deep within her, she resigned herself to his will. The rejected lover threatened both murder and sudden death, but it appears his love for Rosie was so strong he spared her every annoyance.

In due time the couple applied for a license to wed. And here it was that Rosie's good fairy took things into her own hands. The two young people were first cousins, and in this particular state first cousins are not allowed to wed. They went home in strangely different moods, and reported their failure.

It occurred to neither of the young folks, nor to their parents, that there are other states and other laws not so drastic. So the attempted insult to Dan Cupid was foiled. Rosie suggested that this being her wedding day, she ought to get married, and produced her young man to back her up. Her father capitulated, and they were married. At the date of this writing they are living happily.

Far from Everything.

"I am interested in a young boy whose opportunities for education or amusement are few, as he lives in the mountains, 150 miles from a railroad, and ten miles from the nearest neighbor. If any one has discarded any stringed musical instrument, or illustrated magazines, or anything that a boy of 12 could put to good use, it would be greatly appreciated, and I would see that he gets it. He has no school advantages, except as he leaves his home a few months at a time. Ill health urged them to the mountains in the southwest. Climate has helped some, but it deprives the child of practically all advantages, as they have not the means to provide these under the circumstances. "A. O. M."

An Elusive Book.

"Have seen so many different requests and satisfied readers that I venture to approach you in the hope that I may be fortunate enough to secure a book which I have tried to buy everywhere. The book I desire is written by Robert Ames Bennet, the title of which is 'Into the Primitive.' I will be glad to get it regardless of how old or torn it may be. I wish you continued success. E. M. P."

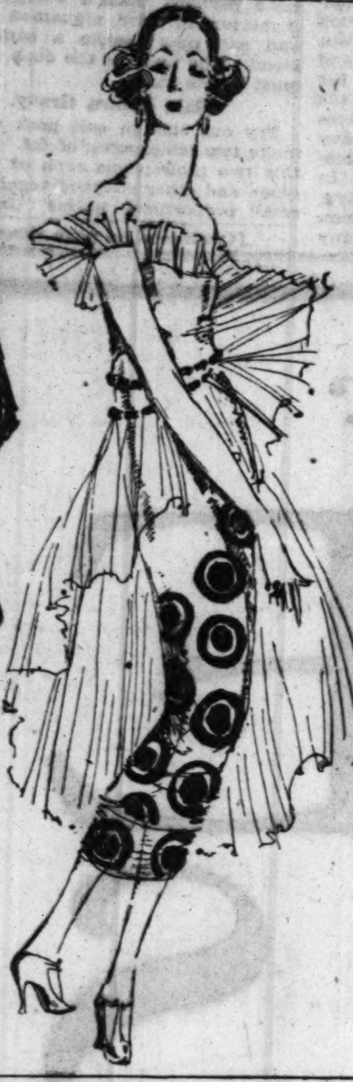
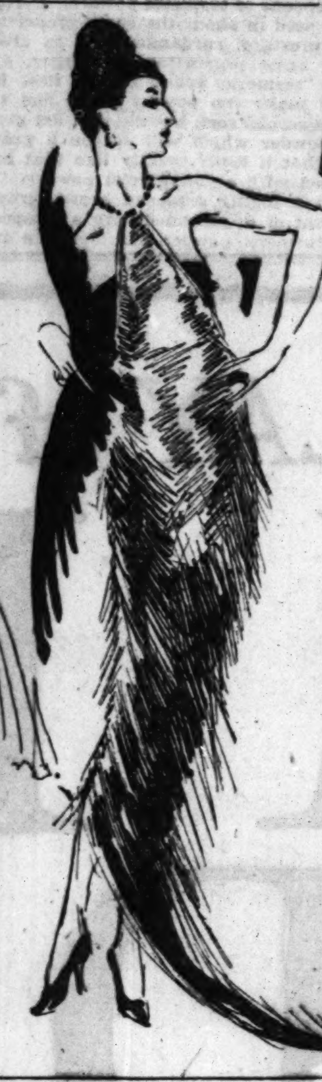
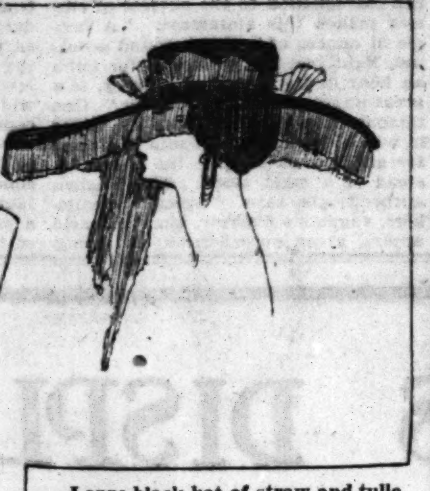
Accordion plaited widow's robe of black crêpe de chine.



Dress of cloth of silver with ruche and overskirt of plaited tulle.



Evening gown of silver tissue over black satin.



Large black hat of straw and tulle.

A ROBE OF CONQUEST.

By Mary Brush Williams.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS. — [Special Correspondence.]—This is one of the French ideas of a widow. An American man gave a hasty glance at the sketch and demanded: "Is it a bathing suit?" I thought he was trying to be funny, until he said he had not noticed the umbrella.

The sketch, however, is reproduced from life, and represents a widow, bona fide. People in France go into mourning on the slightest provocation. A friend of mine when I saw her last was serving her time for the sister-in-law of her mother-in-law, and for these remote relationships they swathe themselves in black. As for a widow, she spares no expense in the extent and intensity of the blackness, and gets the full value, artistically, out of this very suitable metier for a background.

The widow of the sketch does not hesitate to combine it with a little white at the points where black is likely to do the most harm, and white a good deal of good in the matter of reinforcing one's complexion. A band of white outlines the deep V of the throat, and the high water line of the extremely short sleeves. The skirt is entirely accordion plaited, and is set with a band of white a few centimeters from the bottom.

Just after my crusading in America for a shorter skirt, rumor is abroad that it may get a centimeter longer in France. I do not believe it will, for the simple reason that the dressmaker can put forth long skirts until they have used up all their material, but they cannot get a French girl into them. There is a rumor also that skirts are going to get wider round the bottom—that we shall drop the straight, almost hobbled line of the skirt under the flaring tunic. An actress appeared in a skirt wide and full the other evening, and she is so often the harbinger of things to come.

If this is the case, the girl of the second sketch has not heard a word about it. Her skirt is very narrow, indeed, and short. But isn't it a novel and winsome costume? It is of silver cloth, embroidered in motifs of black velvet, put on in spirals, which ascend from the hem on the right to a point on the left just below the waistline. A ruche of plaited tulle starts at the right shoulder and follows the neckline of the low corsage to the left shoulder, where it widens slightly and takes a downward course to the waistline, at which point it has apparently broken way from the designer and flared out into an overskirt, albeit a very irregular one.

The third sketch represents an evening gown of silver tissue over black satin. Need I say that the gown is not designed for a debutante? It is a worldly looking affair, and very effective, with all of the chic of French art contained in its thin, straight lines. At the waist on either side, straight ostrich feathers have been appliqued in lines, growing longer and thicker as they follow the precipitous descent down the steep, uncurved length of the narrow skirt, which ceases at quite an altitude on the right side, and flows into a train out over the left ankle. The point of the décolletage is held by a necklace of onyx and diamonds, and this time the V is inverted, the point of it coming up under the chin.

The English and the Americans are the ones who by disposition seem to take to large hats. The French are much more abstemious in the matter of size. But just by way of demonstrating that they can handle the situation and grapple with a large hat when they wish to, they have constructed the one shown herewith.

It is of black straw, with a black plaited drop curtain that falls over the edge and screens the eyes. A very clever thing to do, that—to screen the eyes—it helps to make one look mysterious and alluring. The same plaited material forms a ruche around the crown. A deep V shaped slash is made on the right side of the crown in order to permit a lot more of this soft tulle to fall near the face and give an effect of softness to the toilette.

A MINGLING OF GEORGIAN AND AMERICAN COLONIAL

A MODEL FURNISHED HOUSE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—One of the pleasantest days I have had in New York has been spent in going through a model house, called the Belmaison, planned and furnished by one of the largest department stores in the country.

It is not just merely a series of rooms uniform in size and palpably furnished up as a sales display, but it is convincingly a beautiful house—full of charm and dignity, all in perfect order and harmony. The inspiration of a woman decorator who is in charge of the department, a young and pretty woman, too, has been carried out by a staff of capable assistants, and the result finds immediate response in the eyes of every visiting home maker who has a passion for beautiful environment. The whole scheme is lovely beyond words, and each room is enviably copyworthy.

The dominant type of furniture is eighteenth century English, with which we are all familiar, intermingled, however, with other types. The dining room, for example, is eighteenth century Italian—and many Italian pieces find their way into the living room.

The architectural features of the rooms are lovely. In the big open hallway is an exquisite mantel in Adam design, done in white and in green veined marble with the original old steel and brass grate. The walls are ivory colored, the woodwork white and floor covering mole colored. Hanging above the mantel is a characteristic old portrait of "one of our ancestors" in powdered wig. The formality of the room is relieved by the inviting comfort of three great upholstered arm chairs which are drawn up vis-à-vis before the fireplace. They are "tied" in the composition by a generous Chinese rug, laid between them over the mole carpet, as a color note in the scheme. The chairs are covered with slip covers of gay flowered chintz. Doesn't it sound pleasing and chatty and afternoon-tea-like?

Little period objects add interest to the room. There are English prints and mirrors, and Chinese porcelains, and a rare Italian eighteenth century chandelier made of old red and white glass.

At the end of the hall is an English living room paneled in walnut. The draperies and several chairs are in

How We Retain 100% Flavor

When you brew coffee, the aroma fills the air. That's the good flavor escaping.

When Dyer's Pork and Beans are prepared we stop that evaporation by sealing the beans in the can. We imprison those captivating flavors that make good foods better by finally cooking them into the food sealed-in the can you get from your grocer.

Thus, every essence of flavor and goodness is cooked into Dyer's Pork and Beans. None of the goodness gets away. It's sealed-in. It's all there—confined in the food. Isn't that the kind you want to serve at your table?

Ask your grocer if he has them.

GRAVIES AND CURRIES.

THAT nation which is the most devoted to gravies has done the most to degrade them. The process of degradation has n general come through the use of made sauces and spicy powders like curry, and by the use of a bottled coloring called browning, or with a few variations of it called kitchen bouquet. These latter liquids may be no more than burned sugar dissolved in water and salted. They improve in no way the flavor of an insipid thickened meat stock.

A palatable brown in gravies is only secured by long cooking, preferably of a flour or starch thickened meat stock, "perfumed" with the essence of vegetables cooked into it in the making of it. But it is not necessary to cook this mixture for twelve or twenty-four hours, as accomplished chefs do, only to spoil the gravy—to my mind—in the end and by addition of a spoonful of a more or less overpowering table sauce.

But we might cook our gravies at least an hour, and by so doing get a palatable product for macaroni, for plain rice, or to be served quite by itself in the mode of the moment, so sparing meat. This mode of the moment, for the rolly peas and the sprawly gravy, is to serve them in little fiber cups set on the dinner plate. A tablespoon looks bigger in that fashion, and two tablespoons look like half a pint If space was not precious, it would be pleasant to quote from several of the Dickens volumes on the delights of generous portions of gravy.

Meat Juice Foundation.

Some cooks who stir up a quick gravy in the dripping pan forget that they have as a foundation reduced and browned meat juices, and often browned and roasted flour as well, for it is quite a common thing to rub flour into a piece of meat before putting it to roast. So they stir in a little more flour—to take up the fat they have not poured off—dash in some boiling water, and after a few minutes serve up a more or less palatable gravy. The long cooked or browned elements in it are so condensed that they will stand considerable diluting. But if the roast has been burned there is no hopes of getting a good gravy from what should be the good things in the pan. The roast itself will be half spoiled when burned, but the gravy is wholly so.

Instead of plain boiling water some good home cooks have ready a liquid for diluting the essences in the pan, one which has been seasoned with a vegetable stock or essence. This may be made in the oven while the roast is cooking. Cut up celery, the coarser parts or leaves; chopped onion and carrots; or whatever vegetable bunch the cook has or fancies, cover with water, and their virtues then distilled in the oven may be transferred to the gravy of the roast.

Secret of Fine Sauces.

But we can make gravies of similar sorts without roasting meat. No end of gravies may be made with a meat stock, preferably one well seasoned. If you study the books of the masters in gravy and meat sauce making you will find that the supposable secret of the making of a fine sauce is the long cooking of these with their thickenings. Of course this cooking is not merely the putting of the gravy on the stove and leaving it there, as you can a meat stock in the making. There are certain nice attentions that are indispensable.

Notice a part of what it says in the recipe for a brown sauce by a master. He has put together large proportions of brown meat stock and a roux or thicking, and says then: "Put the saucepan on an open fire and stir the sauce with a spatula or whisk, and do not leave it until it begins to boil. Then remove the spatula and put the saucepan on the corner of the fire, letting it lean slightly to one side with the help of a wedge, so that the boiling may take place at only one point, and that the inert principles thrown out by the sauce during despumation may accumulate high up on the saucepan, whence they can be easily removed as they collect. It is advisable during despumation to change saucepans twice or three times, straining every time, and adding brown stock to replace what has evaporated."

By despumation he means the cooking of the sauce or gravy to a velvetlike and shining stuff, in which cooking anything not smooth will be thrown more or less to one side. If left to cook slowly the starch in the gravy will form a thin film, a pretty thing of itself, like gossamer, but not good for the sauce, so we must stir it often enough to keep this from forming. The master says we must also stir the sauce while cooling, for the same reason, or in his words: "it is poured into a wide tureen, and must be kept in motion until quite cool, lest a skin should form on its surface."

Why cool? Gravies, or, more technically, "sauces," are to be eaten hot. They are cooked and cooled for the reason that the chef makes these in large quantities and keeps them on hand, to be heated up and varied at will. One of the ways of varying them is to add a little curry powder. The chef also has other collections of spices, simple to put together and each suitable for some special variety of meat.

Various Curry Dishes.

But it is less necessary to prepare a thick brown gravy for a curry sauce, since curry sauce, like Creole sauce, may be prepared rather quickly, and be palatable, while it may be a dead or unlively thing made of a thick long cooked sauce.

The English have a thousand recipes for that Indian relish called curry. It is a hot weather dish from a hot country. Rice is its invariable accompaniment. They make their curry powder as we may, if we have on hand a goodly supply of spices. The most famous curry powder of commerce is put out by the most widely known of English vinegar and jam makers, and is not always obtainable in this country.

One would get endlessly involved in even beginning to tell how various the curried things may be. Curried prawns are a famous English dish. Any meat scraps may be made to go a long way in a curry sauce or gravy.

The simplest or first American curry was chicken fricassee or a thickened chicken gravy with one teaspoon of curry powder per pint of gravy, the whole served in a border of rice. Today, when rice costs about three times what granulated hominy does, we may bake a sheet of hominy bread and serve our curry with that. It may seem a more agreeable combination than the rice, certainly more agreeable than a poorly boiled rice.

Simple Curry Sauce.

When we have no long cooked gravy to warm up and season with curry powder, we make our curry sauce as follows: Gently cook two tablespoons of chopped onion in two tablespoons of fat [dripping pork fat, butter, or a butter substitute]. Sift one-half teaspoon of curry powder with two tablespoons of flour, and stir this into the mixture of onion and fat until perfectly smooth. Add one cup of fine flavored meat stock, stir and cook until well thickened and the flour is cooked. A little cream may be added to it, or some people will like lemon juice. I do not. Raisins may be cooked in it or a sour apple cut in bits. An English introduction to the subject of curries makes this statement: "A couple of ounces of a sweet, sound cocoanut, lightly grated or stewed for quite an hour in the gravy of a curry, is a great improvement to its flavor." One famous American cook uses the water in which desiccated cocoanut is cooked for an hour or two for the curry, instead of a meat stock. The English authority also says: "Spinach, cucumbers, vegetable marrow, tomatoes, acid apples, green gooseberries, and tamarinds may all, in their season, be added with very good effect to curries of different kinds."

Home Made Curry Powder.

Two teaspoons of black pepper, two teaspoons of cayenne pepper, four scant teaspoons of cinnamon, four scant teaspoons of mustard, four scant teaspoons of ginger, two teaspoons of salt, one teaspoon of allspice, one teaspoon of cloves, fourteen scantly level teaspoons of turmeric powder. Coriander seed in about the same proportion as mustard, cardamon seed in about the same proportion as pepper, and less turmeric added to the first list will make the powder more like the commercial sort, but the first list gives a powder which will season a gravy so that it looks exactly like that seasoned with a commercial powder. In fact a highly seasoned brown gravy, a pint of it, seasoned with a teaspoon of turmeric powder will look like any curry sauce, and be a curry sauce nearly enough for most tastes. The English criticize their own turmeric powders to the effect that turmeric and cayenne pepper drown the other spices.

Spices for Gravies.

Out of the mixture of spices for a curry powder one can make up a seasoning for brown gravies by leaving out the turmeric, which turns everything a yellow green, more to their own taste perhaps than a curry powder. A mixture of clove, cinnamon, pepper, and salt may make a satisfactory blend. The taste of the cook or eater must decide that.

Plain Brown Gravy.

Try out enough salt pork diced to make two tablespoons of fat. Cook in this two tablespoons each of chopped onion and other chopped vegetables in small proportions, unless the meat stock has been well seasoned with vegetables. Stir into the mixture four tablespoons of flour and stir and cook it till lightly brown. Add two cups of meat stock, stir and cook until it has thickened; strain and put back to cook for an hour, gently stirring often so as to keep a film from forming. Add salt if necessary, and serve with almost any meat, or keep to warm up and serve as it is, or seasoned with spices or curry powder. Mushrooms are a favorite addition.

THE TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

Tomato Sauce.

Make a tomato sauce like a plain brown gravy, using one-half as much tomato as meat stock. It may be started with butter or dripping, or two fats instead of that of pork. It should be strained more carefully even than the brown gravy, but is not as likely to need additional seasoning to tone it up. When cooked for an hour with stirrings it is ready for boiled and lightly buttered macaroni or spaghetti. A well flavored meat stock with the tomato and the long cooking of the thickened mixture is necessary for a smooth, perfectly blended sauce. In quick cooking neither the thickening or the ingredients can be worked into smoothness which we call a perfect [illegible].

Meat Stock for Gravies.

A soup bone with some small portion of meat, cooked with a quart of water per pound of meat, put on cold at the start, and cooked slowly for twelve hours, is really needed for a fine gravy stock, especially one that shall have the qualities that are only procured by using a meat stock that will jelly when cold. To my mind, the primary requisite of a good stock, one that will be worth working with for fine effects, is that the meat and bone shall be immaculately clean before it is put to cook. Peel off or chop off skin that is like the fell of the mutton, though it is hard to do so. Beef fell collects grime, but even when clean gives anything but a dainty flavor when cooked. Take it off. The hotel cook does not do so always, therefore his long cooked and elaborately seasoned gravies look much better than they taste. A dirt flavor will not be drowned.

Hominy Bread.

Cook one cup of granulated hominy in two cups of water for an hour, add to it four tablespoons of corn meal, four tablespoons of shortening, one-half teaspoon of salt, one-half teaspoon of baking powder, two-thirds cup of milk, or enough to make a batter that will pour into a well greased shallow pan. Bake for thirty-five minutes in a rather hot oven that will brown it. Serve in place of rice or other bread with a curry sauce or gravy. An egg may be added, but it is simple and good without it.

Business Girls

By Loretta King

Miss King will be glad to help business girls solve their problems. If you want a personal answer send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Miss Loretta King, The Sunday Tribune, Chicago.

EMPLOYER'S LACK OF COURTESY.

I AM giving below a letter from a business girl on a subject to which I believe, most business girls are inclined to attach an exaggerated importance. But even though we don't agree entirely with the writer, she has treated the subject in an interesting manner and deserves attention:

"My Dear Miss King: I wonder whether it would be entirely out of place in your column to express my opinion with reference to the extreme lack of courtesy on the part of some business men toward their women employés? I am one of three girls associated for six years with a young business man (the head of a department) who, even from the very first, was entirely ignorant of the courtesies which a business girl appreciates. I am going to enumerate a few of the so-called discourtesies which have so annoyed us:

"The man of whom I speak scarcely, if ever, raises his hat to the women employés in his office upon entering or leaving.

"He smokes while he dictates, holding his cigar tightly in his mouth the while, blowing his smoke in our direction, and frequently turns his head in such a way as to render hearing difficult.

"He is guilty of picking his teeth in the office after lunch, even while he is dictating.

"When it is necessary for one of the stenographers to accompany him to conferences and meetings to take down the proceeding he passes through the door first, oftentimes leaving it to slam in her face, steps first into the elevator, and when passing along the street, always walks a distance of a half to a foot ahead of her—nine times out of ten on the inside of the sidewalk—and is entirely indifferent as to whether she is with him or several yards behind in crossing the street.

"He is quick to find fault, slow to praise.

"In spite of the a[illegible] he is considerate when any of the girls are ill, and none of us has ever had to ask for an increase in salary—he always sees to that. Still, it seems to me a man who shows these small courtesies to his women employés is going to have their respect, loyalty and coöperation.

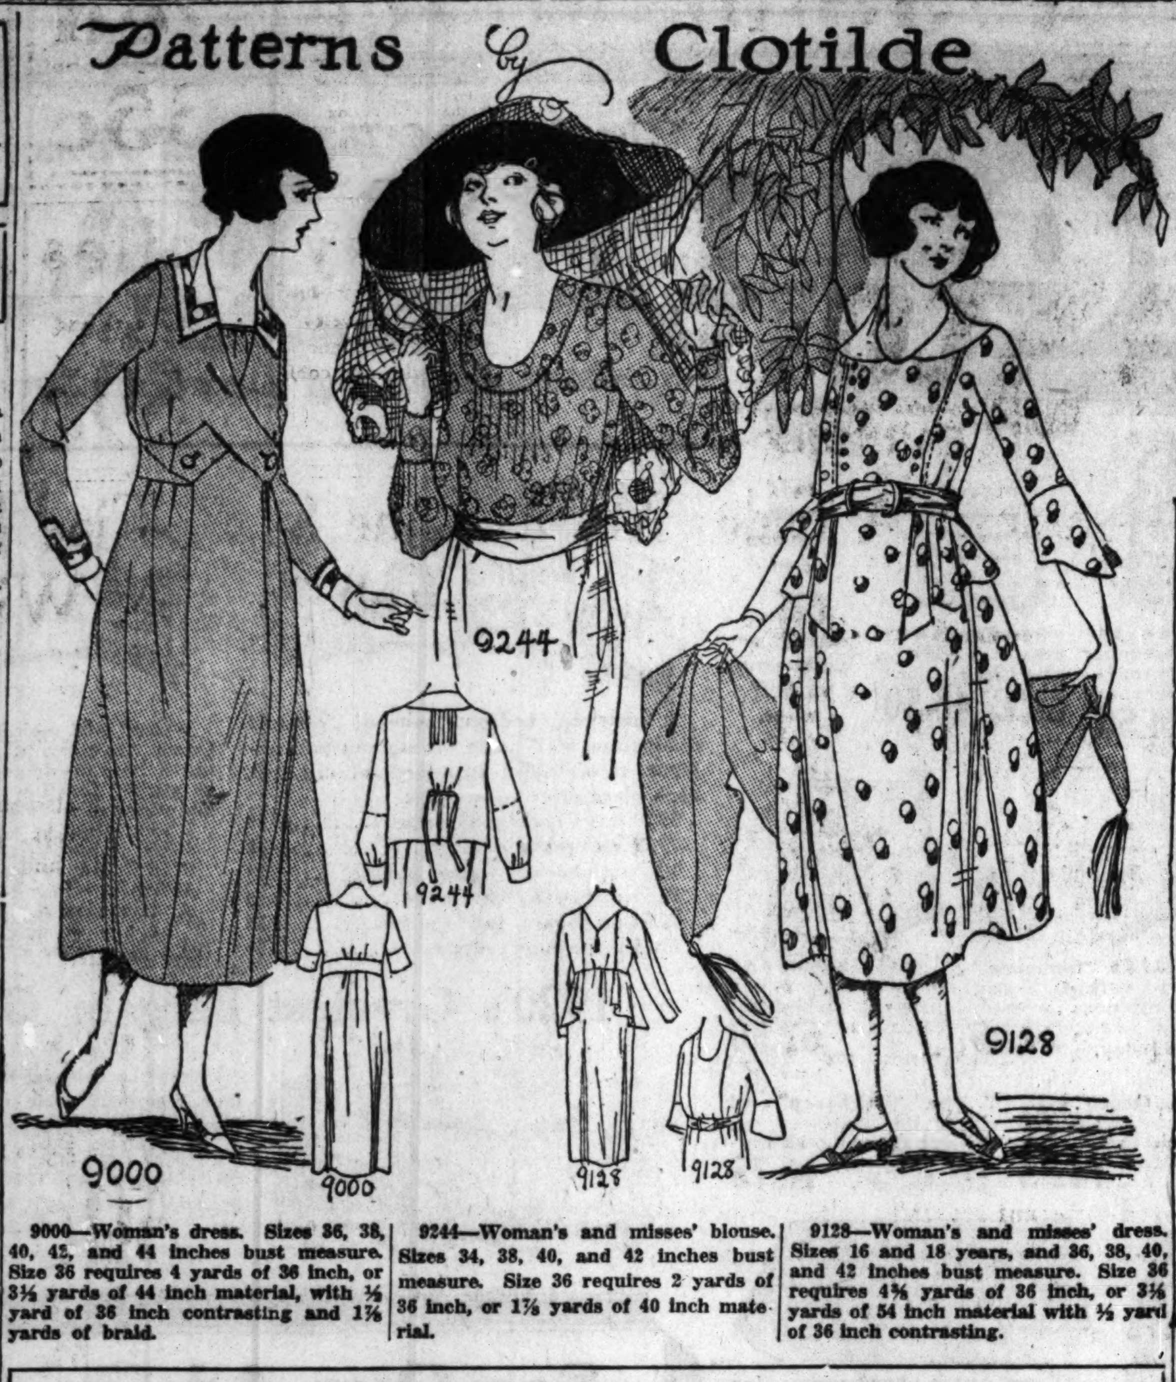
"The president of the company with which we are connected is observant of all of the courtesies which our employer lacks, and has commanded respect, and admiration, because he has been known to raise his hat even to the little girl who stamps the mail. However, all of us rather hesitate to seek other positions because our salaries are good, our work pleasant and our hours of the best.

"So far as we can observe from her presence here in the office, the man of whom we speak is just as discourteous to his wife in these small attentions.

"What is your opinion?

"A Business Girl."

As far as her personal success is concerned it ought to make little difference to a business girl whether or not her employer treats her with the superficial courtesies and polite attentions prescribed by the social code. Of course all women like to be the recipients of such attentions from men, but the lack of them on the part of an employer is not a sufficient reason for a business girl to consider changing her position, especially when all other conditions seem to be ideal as in the above case. The man's wife is entitled to a grievance because of his ignorance or carelessness, but to my way of thinking the girls in the office are making "much ado about nothing."



9000—Woman's dress. Sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 36 inch, or 3½ yards of 44 inch material, with ½ yard of 36 inch contrasting and 1⅞ yards of braid.

9244—Woman's and misses' blouse. Sizes 34, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2 yards of 36 inch, or 1⅞ yards of 40 inch material.

9128—Woman's and misses' dress. Sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4⅜ yards of 36 inch, or 3⅛ yards of 54 inch material with ½ yard of 36 inch contrasting.

HOW TO USE THE PATTERNS

A DRESS which will be becoming to any slight figure is shown in No. 9128 The gatherd peplum on the sides of the skirt will give that bouffant effect there that is so becoming to slender figures.

The skirt is cut in two places, but is straight and gathered at the waist. Be sure to apply your own length measures to the skirt before cutting, as scarcely two persons will have the same length measures. These skirts that are finished with a plain hem look best if the hem is a wide one. After the seams are finished and the hem put in, the skirt should be laid on a table and folded down the middle of the front and back. Pin the skirt together around the bottom and measure the front, side and back lengths from the bottom up. Then connect these points with a straight line, gather on this line, and try on before doing any cutting. If the lengths are correctly taken, no altering will be needed.

The dress can be embroiderd, scalloped, trimmed with narrow plaited ruffles, or more simply finished, and it is a good design for any material. The pattern gives clear directions about putting together, and there should be no trouble; but it is always a wise precaution to apply your own measures before cutting into the cloth.

No. 9000 is a pretty model for stout or slender figures and would be ideal for warm weather made of foulard. This is such a satisfactory material for summer, as it shakes the dust, and is cool and doesn't wrikle easily. Blue with white dots is always lovely, and where the surplice fronts button at the waist line, there could be rather large silver buttons, and with white organdie cuffs and collar there would be no need for any further trimming.

The surplice fronts where they extend into tabs should be nicely lined with the silk, and the lining can be hemmed separately across the top where it ends. It will not be necessary to catch it to the outside there, as the hemming down the sides to the outside will hold it in place. The skirt is cut in four gores, and measures 1¾ yards at the bottom.

No. 9244 is a pattern for a blouse that many women and girls will want to add to the pretty things that go towards their summer's outfit. One of those stunning flowered georgettes, or maybe some convention design would need no trimming beyond the tiny tucks, and the setting of the seams together with hemstitching. Of course, if a plain material is chosen there are many ways to enhance its beauty in handwork of some kind. The blouse is intended to fasten on the shoulders, but the seams will have to be put together at the armhole for about one inch, so as to give a firm place to put the sleeves in. The work on a blouse of this kind cannot be too well done, and add that to beautiful material and you will have a wonderful blouse.

The Home Harmonious

chintz with a flowered pattern on a dull reddish brown ground. Undercurtains are of ivory colored silk mull. A pair of brown mahogany console tables have above them, flat against the wall, a pair of large, oblong prints. Among the accessories are two beautiful Wedgwood urns. An old secretary—the most important piece in the room—is attributed to Duncan Phyfe. The carpet, entirely covering the floor, is of dark red-brown velvet. Very wonderful are the lighting fixtures of carved and gilded wood, strung with red and white crystal.

Still more gorgeous is the pine living room, so distinctly Georgian in character. The woodwork of the room has been stained a light neutral gray, combining charmingly with the blue-green taffeta curtains and the accidental bits of yellow. Very unusual are the fixed decorations, the mantel of carved wood, the chandeliers of Italian carved and silvered wood.

The brilliant blue-green of the taffeta curtains is repeated in the black and blue-green damask covering of the spacious Stanford White sofa. Two velvet arm chairs flank the fireplace, having small tables beside them and foot stools before them. The little foot stools are covered with cross-stitch embroidery. An antique William and Mary cabinet with double arched top is of biscuit colored walnut veneer. On the wall space opposite the fireplace a decorative painting, unframed, has been mounted flatly into a panel space. It pictures a "storm at sea." At either side of it is an old English sconce, holding a pair of candles backed with shaped and engraved mirrors. Against the wall beneath the painting a lovely Hepplewhite sofa, covered with blue-green watered silk brocaded with white and old red flowers, is centered between two old English stands. On the latter is a pair of Chinese lamps with blue-gray silk lamp shades. A huge, closely patterned oriental carpet almost covers the floor.

What could be more suitable for the decorating of a country house (which every one nowadays aspires to have) than the delightfully reproduced Martha Washington and George Washington bedroom and sitting room. In the Martha Washington room are a number of copies of good old pieces. There is a grandfather clock in green lacquer, with quaint posies painted on it; an over-mantel painting showing some fine architectural suggestions; a mingling of Georgian and American colonial furniture; and so on. The almost white walls are laid off in panels by means of narrow, rounded moldings. The mantel is white marble, and in front of it is a hand made rug done in cross stitch in brilliant colored worsted mixed with a good deal of black. Two very ladylike little arm chairs, drawn conversationally close, are of the type known as spoon-backed, and these are covered in yellow and cream striped brocade. Two small pairs of pictures in little white frames are of old French frigates. A little table, with a lamp on it, stands beside one chair, and convenient to the other is a tiny pie crust table holding a wee tea service of lusterware in morning glory blue. Very naïve are the green and cream checked silk curtains with magenta colored valances and tie-backs.

The George Washington room is a trifle more severe in its dignity. The walls and mantel are similar to those just described. The regulation four-poster bed in antique mahogany has a most interesting cover. It is made of white muslin, carefully hand quilted and further elaborated with a scattering of bright colored flowers embroidered in silk thread. The flowers selected are tulips and roses and forget-me-nots and iris and fuchias and bleeding-hearts. Two goodly fireside chairs are upholstered in blue chintz. Somewhere on the wall there is an exquisite trumeau. I remember, too, a marvelous fire screen in old English needlework, and an Aubusson rug in soft rose and blue and brown scrolls of flowers.

Other rooms just as splendid will be described later.

"Lura Vanity Is Durable, Dainty and Convenient"

AT last—good powder and good rouge in a better box! A dainty little metal box that won't break or come to pieces. Although no bigger than a silver dollar, the LURA Combination Vanity contains powder, rouge, two soft, fluffy little puffs, and a mirror.

The cover fits snugly, but slips off readily when you want it off. Being in compact form, the powder does not sift over your gloves, and you can rub just as much of it on to the puff as you require.

The Removable Powder Case Is a New Feature

Of course the rouge in this little Vanity will long outlast the powder. But you can renew the powder. Push up on the mirror in the bottom of the box and the powder case slips out. When you have inserted a new powder compact your little Vanity is as good as the day you bought it. A powder compact and fresh puff costs only 25 cents.

You can examine this beautiful little purse accessory at drug and department stores. If you do not find it, order from us direct, sending 50 cents in stamps or money order.

You Can Still Win a $25.00 Cash Prize

How do you like today's headline? It won the $25.00 cash prize last week, written by Mrs. Edythe Johnson, 6501½ N. Ashland Ave., Chicago. Whether or not you have submitted a headline in this great contest, you still have opportunity to do so. You can win $25.00 as easily as did Mrs. Johnson.

Try this subject for our advertisement to be run in this space on Sunday, August 1st.

The Economy of the Combination Vanity

This dainty little box with powder, rouge, two puffs and a mirror sells for only 50 cents. This is economy in first cost. The rouge is so concentrated and lasting you need only a touch once or twice a day. This means further saving. When the powder is gone, and it naturally will be before the rouge, just push up on mirror which slips the empty powder case out so you can put in a new compact of powder and make the box as good as new. Refills with new puff are only 25 cents each.

With these points in mind, write us a headline of seven words or less. You do not have to purchase anything. Duplicate prizes will be awarded to those submitting winning headlines exactly the same. Your headline suggestion must be in our offices before noon, July 24. Mail to the Advertising Dept., Ideal Laboratories Co., 533 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Miss Kain will represent Miss Vistar Gaines, the Negro belle, and Mr. Fox will play Florian Slappey, the swell colored man-about-town.

Eugene Walter, at the behest of Arthur Hammerstein, is treating the perturbed Irish in a play called "Sinn Fein." That same manager announces "The Marriage Not," by A. B. Patterson, who is said to have found his inspiration for it in the breakfast habits of Miss Fannie Hurst. Also Mr. Hammerstein will endeavor to subjugate Miss Frances White, now a Greenwich Villager at the Studebaker, in a thing named "Jimmie"—a task in which he will have the assistance of Ben Welch and Roger Imhoff, lately of the burlesques.

The Rev. Mr. Dixon's "A Man of the People" is said to illustrate the life of Lincoln from youth to the Presidency and to involve in that illustration "a love story of minor but nevertheless distinct interest." Howard Hall, whose father was "an acquaintance of the President" when he lived in Springfield, is to have the title rôle. He is well known as an actor, playwright, and motion-picture continuity writer." The play will have its first performance at the Princess next Sunday night.

"Spanish Love," with a record of four years in Spain and seven months in Paris under the title "Aux Jardine de Murcie," is about ready for American presentation. Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart has collaborated with Avery Hopwood in adapting it, tempering, as is her custom when associated with Mr. Hopwood, his passion for audacity. Gus Weinburg is the only performer announced so far as a member of the cast.

Grant Mitchell has changed the name of his new play by A. E. Thomas from "Home Again" to "The Champion." Sam H. Harris, Mr. Mitchell's manager, announced another new comedy last week—"The Rag-o'-Tag Man," by Sidney Toler, an actor.

Messrs. Comstock and Gest have hired all the players for the Hattons' new drama, "The Checkerboard." They are José Ruben, Donald McDonald, Norrel Keedwell, William Williams, Fred Tiden, Miriam Sears, Dorothy Tierney, Kate Mayhew, Edna Von Bulow, Zola Talma, William Eville, and John Mackenzie.

H. H. Frazee, proprietor of several amusements, including a Boston baseball club, has acquired the Harris theater in New York and has renamed it the Frazee. Mr. Frazee will send forth two companies to play "My Lady Friends" next season, with Jack Norworth and Carlyle Blackwell (the movie man) in the rôle acted by the late Clifton Crawford.

On a post card from Stratford-on-Avon Miss Peggy O'Neill writes: "Greetings from the Bard's home town. 'Tis so quaint. I'm here getting the atmosphere, eh, wot!"

Tom Lewis, who used to play the stewed unknown in "Little Johnny Jones," is coming back from the pictures in a musical show entitled "Maid to Love."

Equaling in many ways the migrations of the old fashioned circus colonies will be the transcontinental tour of "Chu Chin Chow," which will journey from Quebec to the Pacific coast by way of Canada, beginning Aug. 12. There will be seventy-five people in the company who will travel in a special train of twelve cars. There will be two additional cars to accommodate the camels, donkeys, zebus, and other animals used in the production. Marjorie Wood, who has played the leading rôle of Zahrat for the last two seasons, will head the cast. When she completes the season of "Chu Chin Chow" in California she will come back to New York to appear in another Comstock-Gest work.

According to Variety's Baltimore correspondent, "The Poppy God," which opened at the Auditorium in Baltimore in the latter part of June, has made something of a sensation. The story is that a stock company which has been occupying the Auditorium for some time was under contract to put on "The Poppy God" some time before it closed its season, but, not estimating the play as of much value, waited until the last week of its contemplated tenancy of the house. The play was an immediate hit, says the report, and is now holding the company at the Auditorium with prices doubled. The authors of the work are Thomas Grant Springer, Leon Gordon, and Leroy Clemons. Edna Hibbard has the leading rôle.

After a lengthy absence Miss May Robson bids fair to return to urban places some time next season. For a year or more Miss Robson has been appearing on the road in a dramatization of Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Tish" stories, but the play was not considered of metropolitan caliber. Now, however, Miss Robson has a play by Alan Dale, "Nobody's Fool" by name. It will open out of town on Aug. 23.

Shuberts Now on Century Roof

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Around the edge of the Century theater roof—the edge that overlooks Central park—there is a railing, and outside the railing boxes of ferns and ivy. If it were not for the plants, you could, on a dark night, stand back a few feet from the railing and imagine yourself on shipboard with a black sea around you dotted with innumerable yachts carrying lights at their mastheads.

Inside the railing there is a double row of tables at which, by paying a couvert charge of $1.10, you are privileged to dine any time twixt 6:30 in the evening, and, say, 2 next morning. Separated from this double row of tables on the "deck" by a glass partition there is an oval shaped dancing floor, and on the other side of the dancing floor is the auditorium of the new Century roof theater. In place of the usual orchestra seats, however, tables have been placed in the auditorium, and there is a short runway jutting out into the room on which and down which the chorus ladies may prance.

The deck section and the dancing floor are the promenade proper of the

"HIGH AND DIZZY."

Produced by Pathé. Directed by Hal Roach. Featuring Harold Lloyd.

By Mae Tinée.

LISTEN, you Chaplin fans!

The evidence is pretty conclusive that Charlie has forgotten all about you. It seems he should care whether or not he ever makes another picture, doesn't it? Well, if that's the case, here's something for you to think about.

Harold Lloyd, in "High and Dizzy," I think, is just as funny as Chaplin ever was. He's cleverer than Chaplin often is, and in this picture offers you something new in thrills, which is more than a Chaplin comedy has done for a good long time.

I went into a theater the other day to see the feature picture—got there too early, and had to sit through the comedy, something I usually abominate doing. This time, however, it was different. I found myself entertained every minute, laughing half the time, and with my hair rising on end the other half. And how the rest of the audience enjoyed it! They shrieked with laughter—just the way they used to do at the Chaplin pictures—and during the hair raising parts of the comedy there were sighs, squeals, and all the other peculiar sounds human beings make when they think something terrible is just about to happen and they're about to see it.

I may be all wrong about "High and Dizzy," but I think I'm all right. I think it's clever comedy despite the fact that the state of inebriation is responsible for all the excitement in it. It seems to me that everybody in the cast is good.

Harold Lloyd, who is one of the few comedians who doesn't try to imitate the Chaplin walk and gets along without pie-throwing episodes or revolting and sickenings happenings at sea and elsewhere, to one person's way of thinking, is in a class by himself.

If you aren't of the same opinion after seeing "High and Dizzy"—well, let's be friends, just the same.

Since we've been speaking of Charlie Chaplin, somebody who ought to know says that the reason we don't see more of the Charlie Chaplin comedies is that Mr. Chaplin is tied to his own apron strings. In other words, he owns the factory, or half a factory, or three-quarters of a factory, or stock in a factory that manufactures a certain kind of ladies' aprons, and they do say that Charlie is all tied up in his new enterprise.

A PATRON: You might write to Mae Murray in care of Famous Players, 485 Fifth avenue, New York city.

H. H. G.: I agree with you that good pictures like "The Miracle Man" should not be taken away before everybody in town has had a chance to see them. Thanks for your lovely, friendly letter.

J. R. V.: If you want to go in vaudeville you'd better write to the dramatic editor about it. As to the movies—stamped and self-addressed envelope, please, for my expert advice.

RUTH A.: I'm awfully sorry to hear that Mr. McKee has been ill. Sleeping sickness, you say? I do hope he recovers.

BILL W.: What if the subtitle did say "racked with love and jealousy," when he acted like he had chills and fever? Ain't you ever ben in love, Bill? Poor Bill!

Shuberts Present Midnight Revue on Century Roof

new "Century Promenade," which was opened last week. The couvert charge before referred to, which is really the cost of a ticket of admission to the restaurant, permits the holder to stroll at will around the rear of the auditorium, or to dance, or to stand back and catch as much of the entertainment as he can, during both the 9 o'clock and the midnight shows. But if he prefers to be a regular guy and sit inside the auditorium at one of the tables flanking the stage and the runway, his couvert charge ranges from $3 to $5, depending on location and likewise on the length of time he purposes to spend there.

The Century Promenade is the Messrs. Shubert's answer to the statement frequently made that the one time New theater cannot be made to pay. A dozen or more hopeful managers have tried it. Once there was a children's theater established on this same roof, with a W. K. Vanderbilt bank roll back of it and the indorsement of all the Morgans and Kahns in town. And yet it failed. Again the Messrs. Billingham and Ziegfeld, as shrewd showmen as any, took it over, redecorated it extravagantly, sent to Florida for a couple of real palms to give it character when they renamed it the "Cocoanut Grove," peopled it with the most famous show girls they could engage, and attempted here to duplicate the success of the other Ziegfeld midnight show downtown. But still the people would not come.

Then along came Morris Gest to have a try at it. He, too, did another of the midnight revues, and rather successfully for a time. But still it was a costly enterprise and eventually this, too, fell through. And now the Shuberts will see what they can do. They have spent something more than $100,000 in rebuilding the roof, and they have the same hope the others had of giving a sufficiently generous and novel entertainment to attract the crowds away from the Times square section.

Certainly they have been generous enough. At a special showing of "The Midnight Rounders," which is the bill that is to begin some time near midnight and "run till closing," on Sunday night the entertainment began at 8:30 and was still active at 11:30, with but one intermission. If this is continued after the regular opening most of the local bed haters will be riding home with the milkmen.

The costuming is elaborate, one ballet number staged by Cleveland Bronner and company being as elaborate and as colorful as any that has been given on the larger stages, and there are principals galore, mostly dancers. Harry Kelly and Lew Hearn take care of the comedy, Kelly being especially successful; Walter Woolf of the "Florodora" cast is the principal singer, and there is a long list of Terpsichorean sisters. The costuming is scant, and there are alternating displays of bare knees and bare spines. Its new attractions as an open air restaurant and the quality of its extensive entertainment should solve the problem of the Century.

Will Morrissey and Elizabeth Brice who returned a year ago from the war zone and staged a revue of war time entertainment in France, have begun their second season with a musical revue called "Buzzin' Around," in honor of Miss Brice, who has long been popular as a singer of "buzzin'" songs. It is lacking in particular novelty, but is a lively summer entertainment brightened here and there by a bit of travesty and occasional shafts of the Morrissey humor, which has some claim to originality and is much enjoyed by the sophisticated Broadway crowd. One of the burlettas pictures the Barrymores, Lionel, Ethel, and John, at home, each of them extolling the virtues of the others and the boys intimating that when the time comes either or both of them will show the world the greatest of living "Hamlets."

Three Favorites On at Ravinia; Repeat 'Butterfly'

By Charles H. Gabriel, Jr.

So popular was the Ravinia performance of "Madam Butterfly" last night, with Mme. Easton in the title rôle, that Mr. Eckstein has decided to repeat the performance next Saturday night, this time with Miss Edith Mason in the leading rôle.

A number of other exceptional performances are scheduled for the coming week. There will be a performance of "Carmen" on Wednesday night, with Alice Gentle, who last year scored so emphatic a success in the part. Miss Mason will sing the part of Micaelas and Morgan Kingston will appear as Don Jose, Renato Zanelli as Escamillo, and Margery Maxwell and Mary Kent as Frasquita and Mercedes. Richard Hageman will conduct.

This will be the first performance of Bizet's work this season and will give another opportunity to the chorus which has been one of the attractions of Ravinia performances.

Revival of "Mignon."

Ambrose Thomas' "Mignon" will be given a revival at the park Friday night. Miss Gentle will sing the title rôle, with Consuelo Escobar as Philine, Charles Hackett as Wilhelm Meister, Leon Rothier in another of his splendid impersonations of dignified old age, and Giordano Paltrinieri as the young Shakespearean actor. Hageman will conduct.

For the third time this season Miss Easton will on next Sunday night appear as a coloratura soprano when she essays Violetta Valery in Verdi's "Traviata," a part which calls for cascading fireworks in the first act and direct, moving beautiful lyric singing thereafter. She has heretofore appeared in similar rôles in "Aida," "Trovatore," "Madam Butterfly," and "Faust."

The popularity of the children's concerts on Thursdays is unabated. Mr. and Mrs. Marx Oberndorfer know how to awaken the interest of the youngsters in music that would otherwise not appeal to them. Albert Ulrich conducts the orchestra on these afternoons.

Concerts Well Attended.

The Monday night concerts by the orchestra are awakening more and more interest as the patrons come to realize that the music they buy out Orchestra hall to hear during the regular seasons of the organization, though most of the time failing to get seats, may be heard at Ravinia amid surroundings more nearly ideal. Tomorrow night Miss Ethel Wakefield, formerly a member of the Boston Grand Opera company, will be the vocal soloist, the first of the season.

A number of important novelties are being prepared. Mr. Eckstein announces that among others, "L'Elisir d'Amore," "L'Amore dei Tre Re," "La Navarraise," "The Secret of Suzanne," "Don Pasquale," "Zaza," and "Martha" are in prospect, and will appear on the programs within the next few weeks. Chicago Choristers Greeted with Big Ovation in Sweden

Fullerton L. Waldo, music critic of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, crossed the Atlantic with the members of the Swedish Choral club of Chicago and heard their first performance at Gothenburg, Sweden. "Their success was so remarkable," he writes The Tribune, "that I thought Chicago and America should hear of it, and I told their president, Charles S. Peterson, that as a labor of love I meant to send you the story. Here it is."

By Fullerton L. Waldo.

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, June 25.—The Swedish Choral club of Chicago, ninety strong, gave a performance tonight at the Concert hall that was received with almost unprecedented enthusiasm.

The concert was held on the evening of the arrival of the singers, after a voyage of more than ten days' duration, part of it in rough weather and with resultant illness among the devoted band of pilgrims. The boat was a day late and not until it docked was the announcement made that the concert would be held that evening.

Nevertheless, the large and beautiful concert hall was crowded to the doors, and there was almost a riot at the ticket window among the late comers eager to appraise the vocal performance of the Americans and compare it with their own exacting standards.

The Swedish-American singers, though still on their sea legs, were on their mettle, too, and gave their very best to the occasion and to the audience of 2,000 persons. Your correspondent, in twelve years of concert reviewing in America, has never beheld so spontaneous and vociferous a reception as that accorded, all evening long, to the musicians from Chicago.

On the day following the Morning Post, a staid and conservative Gothenburg journal, devoted four columns in its ten pages to the proceedings of the evening before, and Gothenburg is not a country town, but the second city of Sweden.

The concert began with a welcome sung by the local male chorus from a post at the rear of the hall. The answer by the Chicagoans was Edgar Nelson's stirring "Halsping till Svenje" sung (like most of the rest of the program) without accompaniment. The applause that followed was thunderous and all doubt as to the attitude of the audience was at once dispelled. The fifteenth century "Alla Trinita" found the vocalists still were secure and at ease, and Palestinias "Adwamus Te" brought out the particular excellence of the contralto division of the chorus. The exquisite antiphonal effects of Orlando di Lasso's delicate "Echo-song" were so skillfully projected that the hearers would not be appeased till the song was given a second time.

Gustaf Holmquist, with a fine authority and a sincerity that enforced the appeal sang Söderman's virile "Kung Heimer och Aslög" and had to yield to the importunate clamor for an encore. Sindling's "Land of Illusion" was followed by Grieg's "In the Boat," both sung by the women's voices, the second of the songs leading to another encore.

Söderman's "Jungfrun" was another lyric that had to be done again. In fact, the repetitions were so numerous that they almost doubled the program Two other choruses by Söderman led by Peterson Berger's charming "Juninatt" and "Varsang." He is a composer of the day of whom Sweden is greatly enamored.

After the intermission ballads of Burleigh ("Deep River"), De Lamarter, Pinsuti, Macfarren, Parker ("Union and Liberty"), and others gave proof of the extraordinary versatility and the technical facility of the singers. The delightful humor of Burns' "The De'il's Awa" in Mr. De Lamarter's graceful and spirited setting was not lost on the hearers, for the program book supplied a translation of every English text.

Miss Edna Swanson ver Haar was rightly called by the Morning Post next day the bright particular "planet" of the occasion. After her "My Heart at Try Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah," well accompanied by Harry T. Carlson, the audience not merely applauded to the echo but pounded the floor. Her beauty and the fire and feeling of her delivery carried all before her.

When the announced program was over a basket of flowers was presented to the leader, Edgar Nelson. The applause lasted so long that it suggested the Republican convention, and finally, after one of the Swedish national hymns had been sung and then "America," to the applause was added a reverberant din of stamping on the floor, followed by a "Chautauqua salute" of fluttering handkerchiefs.

Throughout the evening a breathlessly reverential silence during the singing was quite as eloquent of the pleasure of the audience as the many audible tokens of approval. A Scandinavian audience is notoriously difficult to stampede, and this gathering was representative of the most refined and critical portion of the "intelligentsia" of Sweden.

To Director Edgar Nelson should go an overflowing meed of thanks and praise for the result of his unflagging labors. He is a man of modesty equal to his capabilities, and those who saw him in action commended his evident earnestness of purpose and his sedulous avoidance of the "spotlight" for himself, to the greater good of the music.

The chorus sang up to his leadership with an inspiriting loyalty. The men showed none of the halting diffidence or the shaming and agonizing tenorial inadequacy common to amateur choirs; the women sang with naturalness and ease of unlimited and self-sacrificial rehearsal.

More than a casual ascription of credit should go to President Charles S. Peterson, who travels with the singers, and out of his own means will make up the deficit inevitable to so costly an undertaking of musical patriotism. It is his public spirit that has made possible the extraordinary crusade, which means a great deal not alone to the cause of choral music but to a more intimate international comprehension.

The case of Lucy Gray—

Lucy was explaining her experience to a group of girls.

"When I was 18 years old," she said seriously, "my father died.

"I had to go to work, but I didn't know what to do. I had just graduated from high school, and I had to have something quick. I simply couldn't afford to spend six months or a year learning shorthand or bookkeeping and I didn't know a thing about business.

"One night mother looked up from her newspaper: 'Lucy, dear,' she said suddenly, 'why don't you take up filing? It seems to me the work should be interesting and I hear the salaries are good.'

"Well, to cut a long story short, I took a course at the Illinois School of Filing. I graduated in 30 days and immediately secured a position paying $20 a week. I shall never forget how proud I was to get that first week's salary—the first money I had ever earned.

"That was a little over a year ago. Since then I have received two raises and today I am in charge of the Filing Department.

"The work is awfully pleasant. Best of all it is extremely interesting. I meet nice people—I come in contact with the big men in the business.

"And I am just starting. Some day soon I am going to be getting a good bit more than I do now.

"There is a great future for most girls who take up filing. I certainly advise any girl who wants to better her position to see Miss Gladys C. Bridges, the principal of the Illinois School of Filing. She will be glad to talk to you."

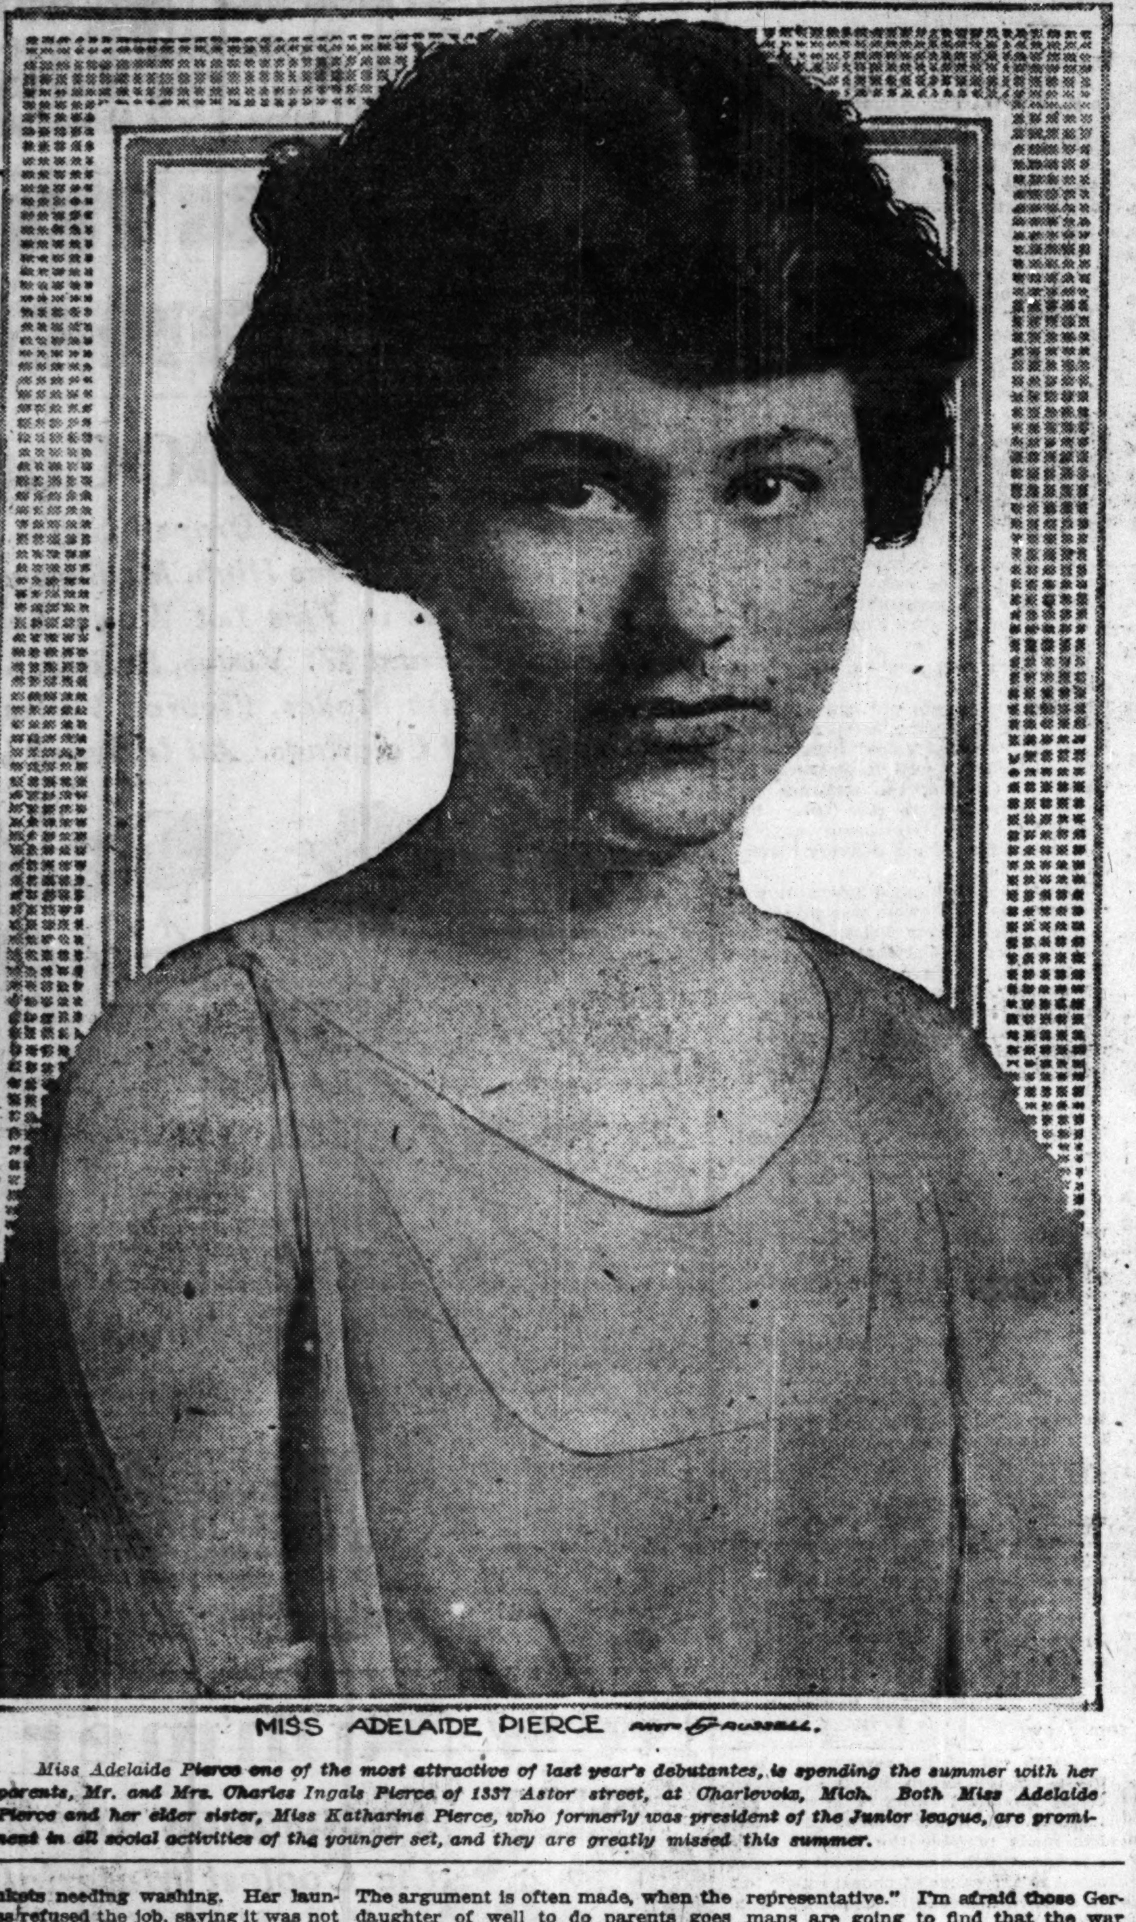
NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY



MISS ADELAIDE PIERCE — Russell.

Miss Adelaide Pierce one of the most attractive of last year's debutantes, is spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ingals Pierce of 1337 Astor street, at Charlevoix, Mich. Both Miss Adelaide Pierce and her elder sister, Miss Katharine Pierce, who formerly was president of the Junior league, are prominent in all social activities of the younger set, and they are greatly missed this summer.

Watching Sunrise Might Cure That Morning Grouch

By Mme. X.

SUMMER is at the top of the divide. In a few days it will start down the western slope. It's a month since the days began to grow shorter. Already the broad band of crimson sky that heralds the sun in the morning as about to rise out of the lake is noticeably later each dawn. It's a pity more of us don't have the chance to watch that most beautiful moment of the day. There is something wrong with a system of living wherein the matutinal riser is commiserated by his fellow man and considers himself abused by fate.

Just why the average man should feel proud, as he undeniably does, of his early morning grouch it is hard to understand. But he most certainly cultivates and displays this sentiment. It is possibly a relic of those old times when it was the custom for men to soak themselves nightly with alcohol, which naturally made the morning waking a thing of horror. This is illustrated by the famous response of the Boston man about town to a greeting from an acquaintance who, meeting him crossing the common, said cheerily, "How are you feeling this morning?"

"Like the devil, as any gentleman should at this time o' day."

An amiable state of mind, whose tradition continues even now, long after the customs that generated it have decayed and disappeared.

Monday Morning Gloom.

Nowhere do you see this ill begotten offspring of other times in finer form than on the railway station platform of a fashionable suburb early on a Monday morning, when the prosperous, well dressed residents of the community are waiting for the fast train to pull in with the opulent roar it always has. There is an aspect of chill indifference, auster, of preoccupation, on almost every countenance, an air of speak to me at your peril, which makes the usually friendly wary and aloof.

Of that famous host and patron of belle-lettres, Lord Holland, it used to be said that he always came down to breakfast looking as if he had just heard a piece of good news.

Often a whole day is tinctured by that early morning impression. A radiant greeting sheds its warmth far down the day's path. At no moment of the twenty-four hours are we so sensitive to impressions as at that first contact with the outer world. Perhaps, at some future date, when we understand psychology better, it may be part of the policy of the state, which will then own and run the street railways, to select the conductors for their cheerful, pleasant manner, so that the working world may start on its day of toil with a smile.

"Piffle!" say you? Perhaps, but the piffle of one generation is sometimes the policy of the next. Look at the manners used today toward domestic labor as contrasted with those of even our immediate ancestors.

Proposed New Club.

What appears to be a step in the right direction toward the solution of one of life's most difficult problems is the proposed new club now being discussed by residents in and near Lake Forest. While the idea is by no means a new one, it has not been tried in just this form hereabouts. The founders of this latest comer among clubs are planning to buy a good sized tract of land on Green Bay road south of the Vernon Booth place, and to build there a collection of cottages, with a central clubhouse, where members will take their meals. The especial innovation included in the enterprise is that if memebrs prefer to have meals served in their cottages there will b a most up to date equipment for this purpose, which will include two or three delivery motors designed to land the eatables as hot or as cold as the heart of the most exacting epicure could desire. Well trained waiters and maids will also be provided.

George E. Marcy is prime mover in the scheme, which has already met a hearty response from various people to whom the problem of running a house in the country seems to be growing increasingly difficult. To be assured delicious food and perfect service among attractive surroundings seems a glimpse into an earthly elysium to many a housekepeer. With a blithe hope, all three of these desirables are promised the members. In fact, they are led to expect something akin to that famous hostelry at Santa Barbara, Cal., El Mirasol, where so many Chicagoans delight to forget life's dull, daily cares.

The proposition has so far materialized that a committee of three architects, Benjamin Marshall, Howard Shaw, and Arthur Heun, is said to be in charge of the plans, and the club is promised to be in running order by next summer. Among those who have already decided to go into the scheme and become cottagers are Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson, and Mrs. George Nichols. Altogether eight families are engaged to start the club on its career, while many others are drifting toward this easy, if probably expensive, solution of summer's difficulties.

Killing the Goose.

If they don't look out those who follow the present high priced profession of domestic service may find that they have killed the goose that lays the golden egg. After all, these rather costly employés are not serving a class ennervated by generations of luxury and traditions of service, but one composed of people who made their own money and are now enjoying the fruits of their own abilities, talents, and self-denials—qualities which not only enable them now to command the labor of others, but also to dispense with it if it should seem advisable to do so.

The underlying independence of this fundamentally self-reliant class is proven by the readiness with which the softly reared daughters accept the doing of their own housework when they are married, if it becomes necessary to do so. Many a girl, brought up in a luxurious home, takes, like a duck to water, to simple domestic tasks in her own menage. Modern inventions have made this form of labor simple in comparison to what it was in the days of coal cookstoves, and before vacuum cleaners and gas or electric washing machines had solved some of the hard work of a home.

A well known woman in Hubbard Woods returned from a camping expedition with a dozen or so of woolen blankets needing washing. Her laundress refused the job, saying it was not to her liking. Was the lady in question daunted? Not so that you would notice it. Summoning her son to her aid, the two set the washing machine going and in an hour or so all the blankets were hung, dripping, on the line and the laundress was looking for another place.

More Foreign Travel.

The drift Europeward continues. In a few weeks the Howard Shaws and their daughter, Miss Sylvia Shaw, sail for France, where, after traveling aroundfor a few weeks, they will halt at Paris and arrange for an abiding place for Miss Shaw and Miss Janet Pauling, who goes with the Shaws. The two young women plan a winter of study in Paris, the former to work at her sculpture, for which she has already shown such unusual talent, while the latter is entered for a course at the famous Sorbonne. As they are both among the most popular girls in Chicago society, they will be much missed next winter in the wounger set.

The young girl of the day seems to find it impossible to reconcile herself to the rôle once assigned to her by her parents and other guardians, that of occupying herself with doing nothing at home while waiting for the desirable mate. This attitude causes dismay and every kind of antagonism on the part of the same flouted elders. Denied this outlet for energy, the young person is apt either to kick over the traces, or to become a nervous invalid. The argument is often made, when the daughter of well to do parents goes into a paying job, that she is taking the bread out of the mouth of some poor girl. This might be true in another time than the present, but at the moment there are more jobs than there are people to fill them, so the ambitious young person of the day is justified in claiming the inalienable birthright of all Americans, the right to work how, when, and where she sees fit and for the only real measure of worth, money.

Suffrage Convention at Geneva.

News comes drifting from over the ocean in letters from friends traveling in the new Europe which they are exploring. Most of these travelers feed the flames of fading animosity by an early visit to the devastated regions of France. They send back picture postals to feed the subsiding flames of the friends they left at home, and then they go their way, the way of the Paris dressmaker, milliner, restaurant, theater, and other pleasing distraction with cheerful spirits.

One correspondent gives us a glimpse, a rather unexpected scene, it must be confessed, of the international suffrage convention, which met in Geneva in June.

"It seemed to be in the hands of the Germans," she writes, "they were so prominent and took everything for granted, even speaking in German without an interpreter. And four of them were allowed to speak before our delegates or Lady Astor, who was sent by the English government as official representative." I'm afraid those Germans are going to find that the war didn't end Nov. 11, 1918.

At the preceding international suffrage convention, which met in Budapest in 1912, the speeches were carefully translated by itnerpreters into the three most prominent languages—English, French, and German—a process so tedious that probably it was considered better to omit the practice this time, which may account for part of the criticized June program, through not for the questioned precedence, so dear to the heart of many who care for form.

Except for Mrs. Catt, president of the International Suffrage association, the American delegation included no orator (or is it "oratrice"?) of distinction, says the same writer, and, as she presided, Mrs. Catt's only speech was the address of welcome. The address made by the renowned Lady Astor she describes as being charming, but obvious. "One could not quarrel with her lovely voice and enunciation and delightful gayety and seriousness of an engaging child." It is hard to picture these qualities as being the most salient attributes of a women clever enough to secure her own election as first woman member of the English parliament, isn't it?

On Matters Literary.

Are you a Cabellite? That is, are you an admirer of that somewhat newly arrived genius, James Branch Cabell? Not to be so argues you as not up to the moment in matters literary. A few months ago, where two or three were gathered and conversation flagged, one could always start it up by whispering to his other neighbor, "Have you read 'Jurgen'?" That was Cabell's real introduction to many readers. Its literary quality was rather submerged in its salacious taint. Our first acquaintance with this writer was more fortunate, as it was by "The Cream of the Jest," a work of mysterious quality and fascination, wherein the author opens many strange windows. Read it if you would have your summer days and nights lifted from the banal and obvious of the average summer novel.

It is with great regret that we have here to record the coming departure of Col. and Mrs. Dorey, of Gen. Wood's staff. The colonel is ordered to report at the war college in Washington for the course of study which every officer in the service has to take once in so often in order to keep up with modern tactics. Both of the Doreys have made a warm place for themselves in Chicago society, and are among the most popular army folk that have ever been stationed here. He was terribly wounded during the war by the explosion of a shell. It is one of the miracles of modern surgery that he is back again in active service. I rather think that army people are pretty happy when duty calls them to and keeps them at Washington. The army is, so to speak, on its native heath there.

Great Lakes Commandants.

We have always been fortunate in the type of naval officers appointed to command the Great Lakes Naval Training station. Admiral Fullam, Capt. Moffett, and Admiral Bassett all left memories of interesting, strong personalities and were social assets from the point of view of the Chicago hostess. Mrs. Fullam, Mrs. Moffett, and Mrs. Bassett also made charming traditions of hospitality as they presided in turn in the attractive house allotted to the station commandant.

The latest comers there, Capt. and Mrs. Weisbaugh, give every promise to continue the traditions established by their predecessors. Capt. Weisbaugh was one of Secretary Daniels' aids before being detailed for service here.

NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

Joint Missionary Conference Opens at Lake Geneva

By the Rev. Frederick L. Gratiot.

INDICATIONS are that the 550 limit of the missionary education conference at Lake Geneva this week will be reached before the conference begins. This is usually one of the most popular of the Chicago district summer meetings. It will be held from July 23 to Aug. 2. It is interdenominational and is under the auspices of the interchurch world movement.

Among the subjects this year are "The Near East," discussed by Mihran T. Kalaidjian; "The Church and the Community," by the Rev. Frank O. Beck; "The Bible and Missions," by J. R. Denyes; "The Missionary Message of the Bible," by the Rev. Francis C. Stifler; "Shepherds of Aintab," by the Rev. Carl D. Case, and "A Better World," by the Rev. Ernest Bourner Allen.

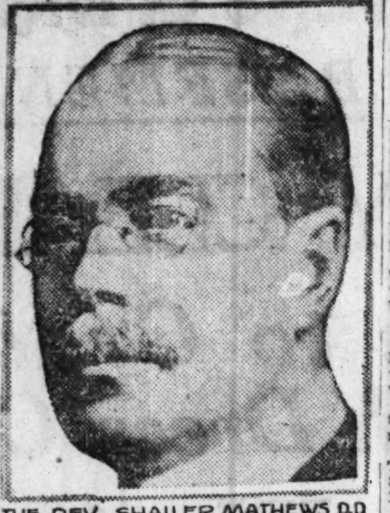
Howard R. Gold will hold conferences on "The Christian Spirit in Industrial Relations," and Mrs. E. H. Silverthorn and Miss Helen Willcox on "Missionary Societies" and "Dramatics and Missions." A series of conferences on graded instruction in missions will also be held by various leaders.

An open parliament from 11:15 to 12:15 daily will discuss such questions as "The Use of Pictures and Picture Stories," "Dramatics," "The Program of the Missionary Education Department," "The Interchurch World Movement," "Religious Education," etc.

The afternoons will be given over to sports and other recreations. Those who attend usually combine a vacation with study for the improvement of their work in the churches. Application for enrollment should be sent to the Rev. R. C. Dobson, executive secretary, 19 South La Salle street.

A successful novena will be completed today at St. Cyril's church, 6413 Dante avenue, in charge of the Carmelite fathers. The scapular novena began on July 9 and has been largely attended every day. The last service will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the papal blessing will be given. The closing lecture will be by the Rev. John J. Sigstein of St. Bernard's hospital.

Others who have lectured are the Rev. M. F. D. Collins of Galveston, Tex.; the Rev. Daniel F. Forstell, C. S. B., Assumption college, Sandwich, Ont.; the Rev. Albert L. Fletcher, Little Rock college, Little Rock, Ark.; the Rev. E. J. Delehanty, O. C. C.; the Rev. Ignatius J. McDonald, O. C. C., and the Rev. A. M. Reilly, O. C. C., pastor of St. Cyril's.



THE REV. SHAILER MATHEWS D.D

THE REV. CLELAND B. McAFEE D.D.

The Rev. Shailer Mathews, D. D., dean of the divinity school of the University of Chicago, and the Rev. Cleland B. McAfee, D. D., professor in the McCormick Theological seminary, will be among the speakers at the missionary education conference which begins this week at Lake Geneva. The conference is under the auspices of the interchurch world movement. It will be held from July 23 to Aug. 2.

The Rev. W. E. Clawson will be installed as pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, Kilbourn avenue and Van Buren street, next Sunday morning at 10:45 o'clock. The Rev. J. F. Seibert, D. D., president of the Illinois synod, will perform the act of installation. The Rev. G. H. Gerberding and Dr. Seibert will deliver addresses and the service will be conducted by the Rev. P. J. Gerberding, a former pastor of St. Matthews. Mr. Clawson becomes pastor of his home church.

With the meeting of the committee on conservation and advance of the Methodist Episcopal church, which is to be held at the Edgewater Beach hotel Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of this week, there will be put into operation an important piece of church legislation. The general conference of the Methodist church at its recent meeting created a council of benevolent boards which has for its work the correlating of all the various programs for the different boards and presenting it to the church as one unified program. At the meeting of that council at Atlantic City a few weeks ago the headquarters were established in Chicago. This will move to Chicago all the offices of the Methodist centenary, which have heretofore been in New York, and locates them more centrally for the entire church.

The committee of conservation and advance, which is the smaller body of the larger board and is representative of all the benevolent boards, will hold its first meeting at the Edgewater Beach hotel this week. At that time the executive secretary and treasurer will be elected as the executive officers to head up the work of organization. The policies and programs to be launched will be thoroughly discussed and decided upon and the location of the offices will be settled.

Among the prominent Methodists of the city who are members of the committee are Bishop Thomas Nicholson, who is chairman of the committee of conservation and advance; Dr. C. E. Guthrie, executive secretary of the Epworth league; and George W. Dixon.

Slams of Life

By J. P. McEVOY

"YOU TELL 'EM."

About the time I feel the world
  Is jelling to repose
Some cuckoo leaves his keeper flat
  And brings us added woes,
And brings a new insipid phrase
  All saturate with pain.
I touch upon, in these few words,
  The latest rank refrain:

Exhibit "A."

You tell 'em, egg, you're bad.
You tell 'em, tabby, you go out nights.
You tell 'em, corset, you've been around the women.

"I'll tell the world" was bad enough,
  "I'll say it is" was worse,
But they were tres benificent
  Compared to this new curse.
The days of "I should worry," too,
  And "O, you kid!" were brie,
But persona au gratin is
  This new monstrosity:

As You Can See, Exhibit "B."

You tell 'em, town clock, you're on the square.
You tell 'em, gold fish, you've been around the globe.
You tell 'em, heel, you're all run down.

You hear the flappers cooing it,
  With sundry "O, my dears!"
The lobby cooties peddle it
  Into your aching ears,
Upon the beach and on the "L,"
  The sidewalks and the sea,
O, could this chalice, too, but pass,
  The difference to me:

Exhibit "C."

You tell 'em, appendicitis, you're on the right side.
You tell 'em, rouge, my lips stick.
You tell 'em, bee, you know how to sting 'em.

Adolphus Hotel Rates Reduced

THE RATES ON NEARLY FOUR HUNDRED ROOMS HAVE BEEN REDUCED 30 Pct.
THE ADOLPHUS HOTEL shows interesting figures in connection with their reduction in room tariff.

The advance in the cost of commodities used in Hotel operation have steadily advanced since 1916 until an increase of 100 to 500 per cent has been reached and up to the present time the same high prices prevail, while with the 30 PER CENT CUT on rooms practically the PRE-WAR RATES are again in effect.

THIS CUT IN RATES at a time when the price on all commodities this hotel uses is steadily climbing, is made without sound business reason but in the hope that it will blaze the trail and cause a reduction in prices generally. Witness the statement below:

A FEW PRICE ADVANCES SINCE 1916

Blankets	210 Per Cent	China	168 Per Cent	Sugar	500 Per Cent
Bed Sheets	375 Per Cent	Carpets	300 Per Cent	Potatoes	300 Per Cent
Face Towels	110 Per Cent	Table Cloths	310 Per Cent	Milk	180 Per Cent
Bath Towels	275 Per Cent	Napkins	310 Per Cent	Butter	135 Per Cent

In January, 1916, pay roll for that one month was $12,000.00
In January, 1920, pay roll for that one month was $36,000.00

In 1916 Fuel Oil cost .68 per barrel
In 1920 Fuel Oil cost 3.65 per barrel

wnstate Delegation Proposes Effective Patrol System

BY E. E. PIERSON.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., July 17.—[Special.]—Good roads boosters of central Illinois are collecting data from neighboring states will be incorporated into a pro- amendment to the road laws of and which will be presented to next session of the Illinois legislature, backed by the most influential that has ever asked a favor of lawmakers. The Illinoisans are cially enthusiastic over the meth in vogue in Wisconsin, and will mend some of the features of the in the northern state.

of these is known as the patrol em. Every few miles is termed a ion, and this territory is placed in ge of one man, who is held responsible for the condition of the highway which he is assigned. He is supplied with a small tractor and grading machine and inspects his section daily. are filled, the bridges and culverts given careful attention, and constant effort is expended in keeping the highway in first class condition twelve months out of the year. Where the travel is heavy the sections are short, in the counties where the traffic not so great additional miles are Just enough road is allotted to patrolman to allow him to keep section always in first class shape safe for travelers who are unfamiliar with it. Rivalry between the pa- is stimulated and each strives make a better record for efficiency his neighbor.

With the Wisconsin system there is certainty regarding the condition roads and whether or not they be given proper attention. The responsibility for neglect can always be d. Motorists are invited to make of any defects in the roads, and such are given prompt attention. It is believed that Illinois can adopt this patrol system without excessively adding to the cost of maintaining the highways, and the legislature will be asked to approve the recommendation.

Wisconsin also has a uniform standard of detouring signs, and these are furnished every highway commissioner in the state. Whenever a road is closed for traffic detour signs are posted and a substitute route, giving the number of the trunk line recommended, is posted conspicuously. Illinois is sadly lame in its detouring system, and usually motorists do not know that a road is blocked until they reach the obstruction, forcing a return and waste of time.

The motoring public of Illinois has become aroused as never before to the slipshod and obsolete methods of road maintenance in this state, and is demanding that the progressive system of Wisconsin be substituted. Wisconsin is credited with leading all of the western states in the construction of permanent roads and maintaining the dirt roads.

MY FUNNIEST MOTORING EXPERIENCE

Every one who has taken the road in a motor car has some story to tell. What is your best one? The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published in "My Funniest Motoring Experience." Write as briefly as possible, on one side of the paper only, and address Funniest Motoring Experience, The Sunday Tribune, Chicago.

In the Spring.

When the society bug starts working young men are prone to lose sleep. That was my trouble one night when, after having taken a fair maiden home from a dance, I headed toward the garage. A long freight train crawling along blocked me at the first crossing, and I settled back to wait for it to snake itself by. The next thing I remember was a heavy hand pawing my shoulder. I started up in alarm, to find no trace of the train, the sun pushing up in the east, and the milkman grinning at me from the running board. I paid him a dollar hush money, but it did little good, for my engine had been running all the time, and it was too good a story to keep. K. A. L.

A Serenade.

He was my brother, and therefore believed himself privileged to speak right out in meeting when we suddenly stuck in the mud somewhere between Sterling and Chicago on the darkest and rainiest night I can remember. He exhausted his entire vocabulary in wading through the mud to read a sign post—simply spilled language all over the place. After it was all over a sweet voice came through the night.

"If you'll take the left hand road a mile you will come out on the hard road again," it said.

Dead silence for a moment, and then a flash of lightning revealed a woman in white leaning from a window of a house unexpectedly close by. We made the rest of the trip in strained silence. T. M. F.

Heavy Traffic.

They seldom crowd the roads in northern Minnesota, but on our last tour, when we headed into a tamarack swamp and had to take our top off because of the low hanging trees, we did feel a trifle uncertain about the route.

"Do many cars travel this road?" we asked some children who happened along.

"O, yes," came the proud reply; "lots of 'em. One came last year and one this year, an' now you're here, too!" K. H. M.

Break State Record.

Records from the secretary of state's office, on June 15, show in Illinois up to that date, 435,689 pleasure car licenses, 54,389 trucks, 5,723 dealers, 7,630 motorcycles, 177 tractors, with total fees of $5,240,258.71.

The total number of truck and passenger car registrations for all of last year was 478,614. For less than half a year, the 1920 registrations of trucks and passenger cars is 490,078—a gain of 11,464.

The total amount of money collected in 1919 was $3,262,176.57, as against $5,240,258.71 for the six months of 1920.

Good Roads Plank Secure in Both Party Platforms

REGARDLESS of which party wins out in the presidential election this fall, American motorists can rest assured that highway development will be continued. In their platforms, both the Republican and Democratic parties have placed themselves flatly on record as favering liberal federal appropriations to assist in good road work.

The Democratic plank adopted at the San Francisco convention said in part: "Improved roads are of vital importance not only to commerce and industry, but also to agriculture and rural life. We favor a continuance of the present federal aid plan under existing federal and state agencies, amended so as to include as one of the elements in determining the ratio in which the several states shall be entitled to share in the fund, the area of any public lands therein."

This definite action of both parties, says the travel and transport bureau of the B. F. Goodrich company, proves conclusively that motor transportation has been recognized as a definite factor in the nation's economic fabric and that everything will be done to utilize its value to the utmost.

1920 Salon.

Announcement is made of the date of the Automobile Salon of 1920. It will open on the evening of Nov 14 in the ballroom of the Commodore hotel, New York city, the main room, east and west wings and the foyer all being used, and will continue through the evening of Nov. 21.

The Experienced Motorist's Car

Many men prominent in automotive and allied industries have chosen the Marmon 34 as the car they prefer to drive. That is generally known. And their choice of the Marmon constitutes most convincing evidence of its superiority.

But apart from these technical experts, veteran motorists show a decided preference for the Marmon. Men who have owned cars ever since there were cars—whose experience harks back to the days of the two-cylinder motor and the "back door" tonneau—these men are now, in a surprising number of instances, Marmon owners.

Come in and let us go over with you some of the reasons for their preference for the Marmon.

Hoosier Leaders Ask Equalization of Highway Taxes

Motorists Believe All Road Users Should Bear Expense

TROUBLES of the motorists in connection with roads and taxes were argued pro and con in lively fashion at the fourth annual meeting of the Hoosier State Automobile association, held in Indianapolis. A 4 mill levy for the highway commission was urged by the association instead of a smaller levy and 100 per cent increase in auto license fees, as urged by L. H. Wright, director of the state highway commission, who served notice that Gov. Goodrich would refuse to sign a tax levy appropriation for the highway commission without the increase in auto license fees.

It was pointed out by the automobile men that there are now two federal taxes on automobiles, a premium tax in the form of an annual license fee which is only about 10 cents on the horse power lower than the average for the United States, and in addition to all this a personal property tax to county and state is paid on all automobiles, the same as on other classes of property. Contrasted with this all other users of the highways pay but a personal property tax. This includes, according to A. G. Lupton of Hartford City, president of the association, six horses to each automobile, as many steel tired vehicles as there are automobiles, and the thousands of log wagons, tractors, and thrashing machines that mutilate roads and break through bridges.

Neither is farm property or other property along improved state highways made to pay anything other than the property tax, and as further evidence of the unfairness of the desire to place the bulk of the burden on the passenger automobile, it was cited that the larger percentage of insanity is from the rural districts because of isolation.

Good roads mean relief from isolation and determine to a large extent the opportunities that people in the country have to secure entertainment, education, and market their produce economically.

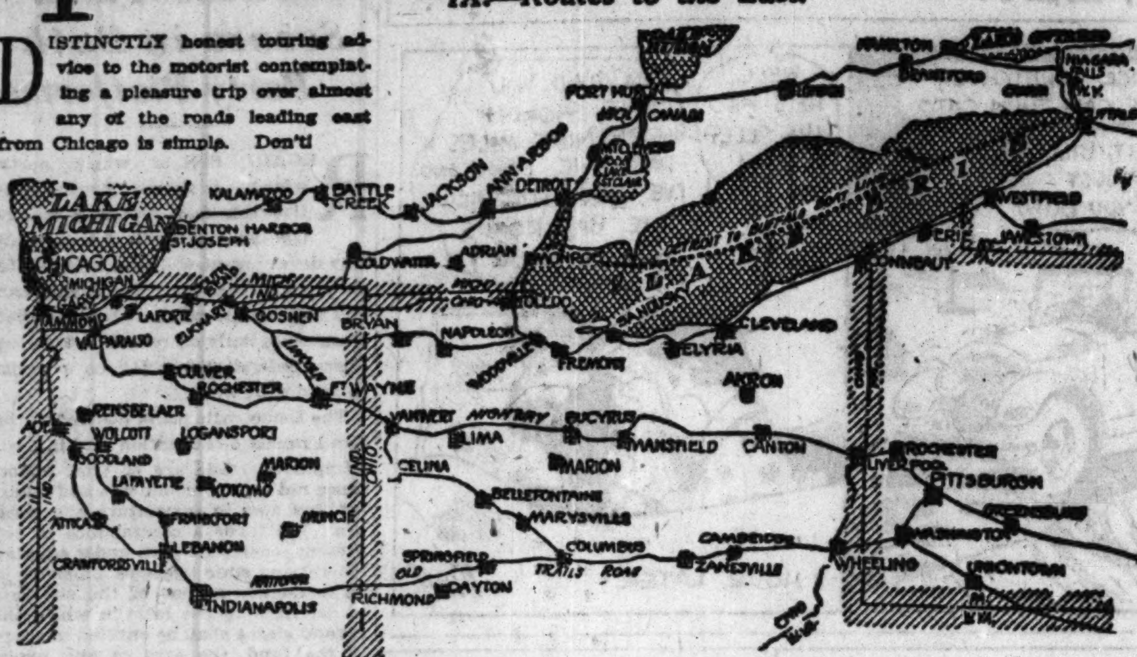
The sentiment of the automobile representatives was that the benefits of roads are general to cities, towns, and country alike, and that the cost of construction should be paid for out of a general tax levy for the most part, and that automobile license fees should be used for maintenance purposes only. The entire matter was referred to the executive committee.

An amendment to the county unit law has already been submitted to take care of the preliminary costs of building highways under this law, and the matter of whether or not a bill should be prepared amending the tax law so that the tax board would have no authority to approve county and township road bond issues except upon petition was referred to the legislative committee.

Tribune Tours

IX.—Routes to the East.

DISTINCTLY honest touring advice to the motorist contemplating a pleasure trip over almost any of the roads leading east from Chicago is simple. Don't!



Of course, that territory is far too important to be disposed of in any such arbitrary fashion, so the next best plan is to select the option which offers the least undesirable mileage and to take the bumps as they come.

By far the best this year between Chicago, New York, and intermediate points southeast is the National Old Trails road, which runs straight from Indianapolis through southern Ohio to Pittsburgh. It is worth going south to Indianapolis to find, or it may be picked up by taking the route through Valparaiso, Rochester, Fort Wayne and Bellefontaine over slightly rougher roads. The best route to Indianapolis now follows the Adeway to Goodland, then south to Attica, southeast to Crawfordsville, and east to Lebanon, picking up the main travel into the Hoosier center.

On the Cleveland route roads through northern Indiana and Ohio are badly worn, and heavy traffic overbalances the constant repairing which they are undergoing. The Lincoln highway east is also badly worn through Indiana and Ohio, with numerous detours because of repair work and paving. It is still the popular direct route to New York for drivers who like to follow a marked trail.

The Detroit route is both popular and safe. It is a good plan to ship across the lake from Chicago and follow the Grand Rapids-Lansing road to avoid the heavy travel going around the end of the lake via Kalamazoo, and the road weary driver may, if he cares to, take ship from Detroit to Buffalo. A good route through Canada this year leads north from Detroit, turning east to London at Port Huron.

Gossip of the Auto Trade

Dan T. Vriesema, one of Chicago's veteran distributers, has been made general manager of the Chicago branch of the Nash Sales company to succeed J. G. Roberts. The latter will leave Chicago soon for Philadelphia, where he will have an equal interest in the Nash branch with W. V. Faunce. Announcement of the organization changes was made last week by George P. Miller, president of the Nash Sales company.

This year's record breaking advance in new car orders is featured by the general demand for closed cars to be used in the summer season, according to C. B. Amorous, Locomobile distributer.

Louis Geyler, Chicago Dort distributer, says that the growing utility of small cars of every sort of motor service is gaining the general recognition of the buying public.

During the latest coal shortage and rail tie-up the Duplex Truck company overcame its industrial handicap by utilizing eight four wheel drive trucks to operate all of its plant machinery. In furnishing factory power the trucks not only kept every employé on the job, but also completed their own factory tests.

Cedar Lake, Ind., and Palos Park are the objectives today for the cross-counrty runs of the Chicago Motor club and Illinois Automobile club. Drivers under the C. M. C. banner will invade Hoosierdom, while those of the I. A. C. head for the beautiful grounds of the Chicago Sharpshooters' association. Both clubs expect scores of cars to report for the day's outing.

Capitalization of the Commonwealth Motors company has been increased from $400,000 to $6,000,000, according to announcement made by company officials. The new incorporation is under the laws of Delaware. Sixty thousand shares of the new stock are to be issued.

Construction of the building additions to the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company plant in Akron will increase its size 20 per cent and cost, with new equipment and machinery, in excess of $10,000,000.

Master Builder.

Julius Cæsar conquered the known world and made every nation pay tribute to him as the master of Rome. He lived about two thousand years ago, but there is a road in England and Scotland 500 miles long which Cæsar built—and it is a better road today than the best roads in the United States with a very few exceptions. There are other roads like that which Cæsar built in Italy and in other places.

Motordom's Stars Gravitating to Elgin Road Race

ENTRIES for the Elgin automobile road race are now being received by the Chicago Motor club, which, with the Elgin Automobile Road Race association, will stage the A. A. A. championship affair on the Elgin course August 14.

The first nomination received by Director Root came from R. C. ["Cliff"] Durant, who will drive his new Chevrolet special, said to be the handsomest racing car ever turned out.

Three of the Duesenberg team have been entered by Fred S. Duesenberg, as stated in a telegram to the club. Tommy Milton, Jimmy Murphy and Eddie O'Donnel will all be at Elgin and will pilot eight-cylindered Duesenberg specials.

It was Murphy who took major honors at the opening of the Los Angeles speedway and piled to his credit the first of the championship points.

Milton and Murphy, it will be remembered, ran a neck and neck race in the 500 mile race at Indianapolis, and all but came in one-two. Milton was the star at Uniontown and again on July 5 at the Tacoma speedway, while Eddie O'Donnel has been well up in the money.

Nobody doubts that the Duesies will go away with a goodly share of the $15,000 offered in prizes and the honors which accrue to the victor.

A Leader.

Motorists who visit Bowling Green Ky., find it, considering its moderate size, one of the most interesting spots in the state. It is the center of one of the largest horse markets in Kentucky and claims to be the greatest strawberry growing country in the United States. Fifteen thousand pickers were employed in gathering last year's crop, which sold for almost a million dollars. Near by are quarries from which is mined a most peculiar type of stone, much sought after and highly valued by modern builders. The stone, which is dark and far from handsome in its mined state, bleaches to pure white after having been installed in buildings.—Automobile Blue Book.

The Experts Say - - -

An ingenious method of soldering aluminum is as follows: Drill the surface of the aluminum with as many small holes as possible at a slight angle. Drive in brass plugs that are a tight fit and smooth off the pegs even with the surface. The surface should next be cleaned thoroughly and paste solder be applied with a hot soldering iron, after which the two surfaces are put together, heated, and treated exactly as copper or brass.

When the car owner fails to fill a certain grease cup it may well be that the absence of lubricant at this point may cause a breakdown at a most inopportune time. It is essential that all grease cups should be filled regularly. It is a good plan, in carrying out this maintenance operation, to fill each grease cup and then clean it thoroughly outside. In this way, when the final inspection is made, a dirty grease cup is a gentle reminder that here is an empty cup.

The electrolyte or liquid which covers the plate of the storage battery is composed of twelve parts distilled water and one part sulphuric acid. In mixing the solution be careful to pour your acid into the water slowly. Never pour the water into the acid, as this will cause explosion.

A self-contained electric hand lamp of the kind that is commonly carried by watchmen is invaluable in emergencies about the motor car. If the lighting system fails entirely when the car is on the road at night trouble, lamp, and all else are gone together. Unless there is a light with a separate source of supply on the car the driver must work in the dark or by matches. Long distance motorists make a practice of carrying an oil lantern for just this reason.

It is possible to get increased amperage from partly run down dry cells by crowding down the material near the carbon element with a small piece of wood and a hammer. This loosens the obstructing material from around the carbon and permits free chemical action. The asphaltum on top of the cell may be sealed again by application of a little heat.

The Old Flavor still there

Old Brew is just as delicious today as it ever was. Many who have been drinking it for twenty years or more say that it is better than ever.

This is due to the fact that we brew it today just as we have been for thirty years past, save that after fermentation is completed we now reduce the alcohol content to comply with the law.

Our process of reducing the alcohol, which has been developed by our own brew masters, brings out the rich fragrance of the brew. It has always been the claim of master brewers that the alcohol content of beers in the old days had very little to do with their flavor. Indeed, many of the finest beers formerly imported were actually the lowest in alcohol content.

The secret is in the extract from which it is brewed, and Old Brew is brewed today by the same old process, from the same fine grains, Yakima hops and rich barley malt which we have always used. Fermentation is secured with our own special yeast and then we reduce the alcohol content to comply with the law.

Before bottling Old Brew is aged in wood for months until it is mellow and smooth, sparkling and vitalizing as golden autumn sunshine.

Order a case at our risk. Phone the brewery, LINCOLN 4906, and our driver will call.

low and Careful Best Speed When You Buy New Car

pert Outlines Point Involved in Good Investment

BY HIGH SPEED.

WHEN the average American business man makes an investment involving anywhere from $1,000 to $5,000 he care- investigates the matter from all and calls in expert advice on h he can depend if any phase of subject seems to be a little beyond personal experience. When that supposedly hard headed business purposes to invest a similar unt of money in a motor car he erally walks down automobile row buys the vehicle that catches his y, matches his wife's new furs, meets some equally unessential con- n. Only the fact that all modern erican cars are reasonably good vents the average buyer from being g every time he plumps down his ney. We shall try to indicate some the points that should always be idered in buying a car.

The question of price generally set- itself automatically. The buyer ows about what figure he can afford pay. His first step should be to a list of all cars in the price class which he is interested. From these can narrow down his search and e a reasonable definite list of elig- , for closer scrutiny.

To be a satisfactory buy a car must manufactured by a well established pany which will remain in busi- . If the concern making a car the vehicle becomes an orphan, which it is difficult to obtain parts. sure that the manufacturer is sol- established in business.

t the dealer should be scrutin- Has he facilities for making quick ? Is his service efficient? Is ble to give his customers replace- s or broken parts without undue ? All this is going to be vitally rtant during the later life of the car, and the dealer's status is established by a few inquiries among owners of the make of he sells.

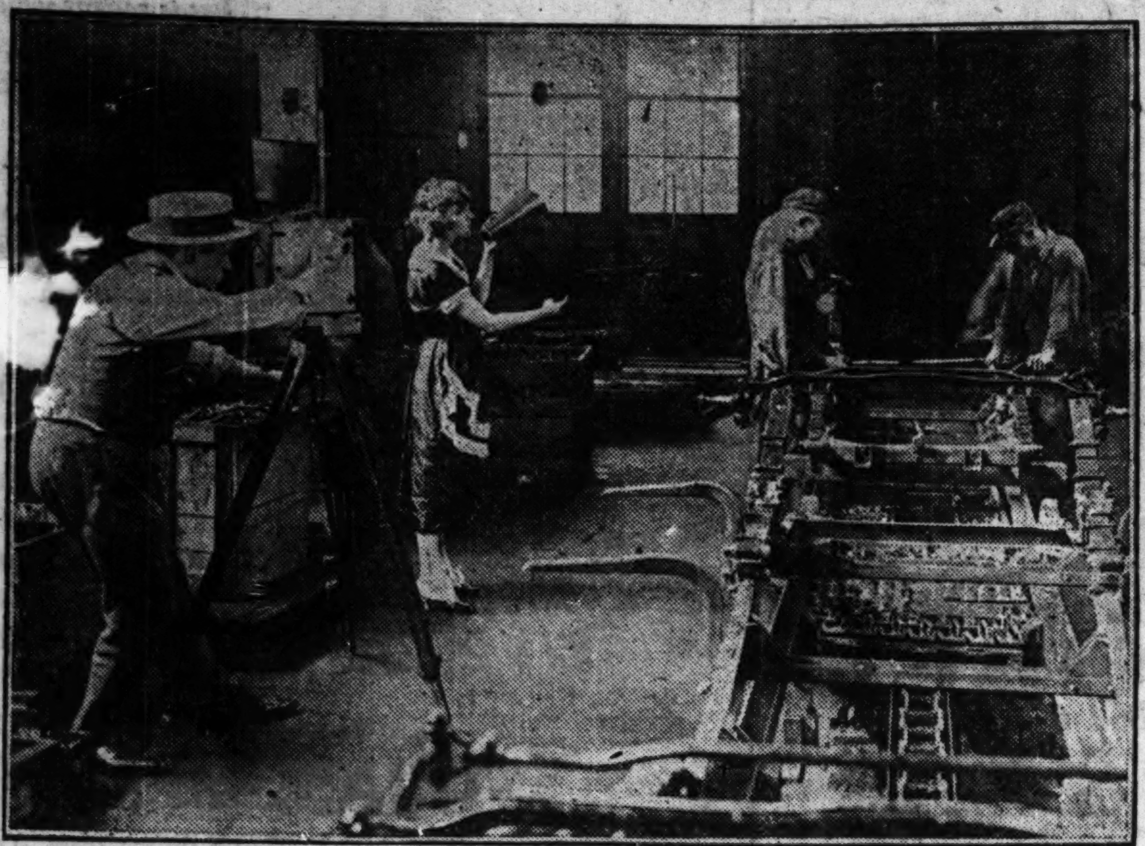
e to face with the car itself, the thing for the intending purchaser is the size of the vehicle that best serve his needs. Common will rule here. The prospect certainly be careful to try the all of them, to see that they perfectly comfortable. A long man in a car with skimpy leg in for much discomfort. If buyer is to do the driving he sure that the pedal and other are placed within reasonable for his physical limitations.

Having examined the external quali- of the car, the buyer should proceed with an investigation of mechanical efficiency. And right we should emphasize the desira- of the intending buyer securing help of some qualified expert on integrity he can rely to help him h the mechanical merits of the vehicle under consideration. Of course, if the prospect is qualified to decide for himself through past experience he will need no outside experience.

First as to the performance desired in the average man's motor car. To begin with local conditions will somewhat govern this factor. If the car is to be used in a hilly country, it must have plenty of superfluous power. And no matter where it is to be used it should have a modest turn of speed, good acceleration, and flexibility. This latter qualification means that it must be able to throttle down to a slow speed while in high gear and must also be able to travel fast.

And now we come to the vitally important matters that lurk under the hood. It should be ascertained that all the parts, particularly those that are certain to need cleaning or adjustment, are easily accessible. Are the oil and grease cups easily reached for adjustment and refilling? Can the differential housing be reached to drain, flush, and refill it at intervals when this is necesary?

Getting down to the more technical details of the mechanism, it should be ascertained that the car under consideration embodies parts that are big enough for the work they are called upon to perform. This applies to gears, bearings, shafts, and similar parts. Obviously, determination of these is beyond the average car buyer, especially if it is his first car. Inquire about among owners of the car in your neighborhood. See if there is general or frequent complaint of a certain failure or breakage. If there is, you may put it down that the vehicle has a structural weakness.



ANTI-STRIKE MEASURES—A certain Chicago automobile manufacturer and a certain Chicago theatrical manager wrought some "close harmony" coöperation recently in producing a new automobile industrial film. With Daisy De Witt as production director they found new cars fairly leaping from the hands of workmen in the big factory.

Industrial Heads Issue Official Credit Warning

THE following bulletin has been sent out by the Motor and Accessory Manufacturers' association to its entire membership, comprising more than 300 representative manufacturers of parts, tires, motors, accessories, and equipment for the automotive industry:

"As we understand it, the plan of federal reserve banks in the future in connection with extended credits will be to bring about such an orderly retreat as to cause as little hardship as possible on legitimate industry, but with the view to discouraging in every possible way unhealthy speculation on the exchanges of the country and decreasing or eliminating loans for speculation and to discourage loans by member banks where the purpose is to create artificial shortages of materials by storage of things needed in the open market.

"The directors of the federal reserve bank have the power to limit the volume and character of loans which in their judgment may be safely and reasonably made to any member bank. They are free to decline to discount any paper which in their judgment does not constitute a desirable investment.

"It is the view of the board, however, that while federal reserve banks may properly undertake to discriminate between essential and nonessential loans, nevertheless that discrimination might much better be made at the source by the member banks themselves.

"Leading bankers of New York, Chicago, and St. Louis have recently stated that the credit situation as a whole is getting better; that it is time for curtailing expansion of business and for a serious consideration of credits generally. There is no apparent indication of any feeling on the part of the bankers recently interviewed that the automobile industry should be discriminated against in any way. In the general deflation of credit, however, the automobile industry must expect to receive the same treatment and undergo the same hardships as other industries of similar importance."

No use talking, at the speed leather is going up it will soon be cheaper to buy a motor car than to walk!—American Motorist.

Tourist Records Broken by Rush to Yellowstone

TRAVEL in the Yellowstone National park, always the best barometer of vacation travel in the west, gives every promise of making 1920 the best tourist season on record.

It is a significant fact, too, that most of the visitors to Yellowstone this year have been no casual "flitters," hurriedly scanning the wonders of this park, then hastening home on a return ticket, but are tourists in the broadest sense of the term, making the grand circle of the west and learning the wonders of their country as never before.

Persons entering Yellowstone from the north at Gardiner, Mont., and from the west at West Yellowstone, Mont., in almost all cases have been around by Los Angeles, then up to San Francisco, Portland, and Seattle, perhaps into Glacier National park, and intervening cities. They go out to Salt Lake City and Denver. Visitors coming in from the east by way of Cody already have seen Denver, Colorado Springs, Rocky Mountain National park, and the Wyoming cities, and continue their journey to the Pacific coast. Travel from the south through Jackson Hole and Snake River valley has been restricted by road trouble, but a few veteran motorists have made the journey, finding ample compensation in the beautiful scenery of the Tetons, which soon will be made a part of the "Greater Yellowstone."

Beginning slowly, travel in the park picked up quickly and soon passed last year's figures. Through July 6, when the gates had been open officially for less than three weeks, 11,702 persons had entered Yellowstone, compared with 10,079 last year. The number of motor vehicles admitted was exactly the same, but the season's daily average was showing a steady growth. The total number of automobiles admitted through July 6 was 1,736.

Grease Cup Filler.

This filler is made from a short piece of rubber tubing, one end of which is fastened over a grease cup shank, of a size to fit the various cups on the chassis, and the other over a grease gun nozzle. To fill the grease cup all that must be done is to screw the cup on the shank and force grease into it. By so filling the cups the threads remain free from grease, thereby permitting them to be easily replaced.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS by HIGH SPEED

Will you please let me know a direct road to St. Louis, Mo.? How are the roads? W. J. B., Chicago.

Go southwest through Joliet, Morris, Dwight, Pontiac, Chenoa, Normal, Bloomington, Lincoln, Springfield, Glenarm, Litchfield, Staunton, Edwardsville, Collinsville, and East St. Louis to St. Louis. In leaving Chicago, the best way at present is to go west on Washington boulevard and Madison street to Desplaines avenue, south on Desplaines through Riverside to Lyons, there getting off the Plainfield road to Joliet. Road conditions depend very largely on the weather. The roads are dirt most of the way, and consequently are all right when dry, but rather poor going after a shower.

What do you think of a device installed on the dash that tells how much gasoline is being used? I thought one using the basic design of a water meter would work out nicely. The gasoline from the main tank would always flow through this, so that the driver could tell how much he had used by reading the dash meter. T. S. D.

There are such devices on the market and many more have been designed. They can be made to tell the fuel consumption and, in connection with the speedometer readings, tell the mileage per gallon.

I would appreciate it if you will publish the best route to Appleton, Wis., from here.—L. A., Chicago.

Go north in Sheridan road through Evanston, Wilmette, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Waukegan, Zion City, Kenosha (Wis.), Racine, South Milwaukee, Milwaukee, Menominee Falls, Addison, Theresa, Byron, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah, and Menasha to Appleton. This route follows the Yellowstone trail, and is so marked.

Can you give me any information as to how the roads are between Chicago and Cincinnati? I was thinking of driving down there provided the trip may be accomplished with reasonable comfort.—D. W. M., Lyons, Ill.

Yes, roads averaging good, may be found between here and Cincinnati. Follow The Tribune route to Indianapolis, published May 23. From Indianapolis drive southeast through Rushville, Andersonville, Brookville, Harrison, O., and Miami to Cincinnati.

Kindly give me the best route from Kankakee to Mammoth cave, Kentucky, by way of Louisville.—Mrs. H. B., Kankakee, Ill.

Go east through Momence to Lake Village, Ind. Turn south through Morocco and Ade to Goodland, and east through Remington to Wolcott. Continue south through Lafayette, Frankort, Lebanon, Indianapolis, Franklin, Columbus, Seymour, Salem, New Albany, Louisville (Ky.), Dripping Springs, Elizabethtown, and Mumfordville to Cave City. Turn west to Mammoth cave. The route via Louisville, as here outlined, is the best.

ASTRONOMY

LIGHT AND DARKNESS.

CRISS-CROSSING space are the shadows of worlds. Some objects in the heavens shine, and by their radiance light the scene so we may see a little of the furtive swarms that circle ceaselessly back and forth. Of all the members in the solar system, only the sun gives light. Blot out the sun and our family of worlds would move forever through a space of darkness and of utter gloom, lit only by the steely star points set unreadable distances away.

The moon, the earth, and all the planets give no radiance of their own, but owe whatever brilliancy they have to the sunshine they receive. When light falls on their faces it is day, and in the shadows it is dark. The face turned from the sun is always black. We call it night. True night is shadow.

Out in space, where no objects lie to cast their shadoys, there can never be distinction between night and day. The sky, up, down, to right and left, and all around us like a great encircling shell, is studded with the constellations, all bright and gleaming as in the darkest midnight gloom, while at one point upon the shell the sun is flaming white, its brilliant corona far flung, its air all gleaming bright and red.

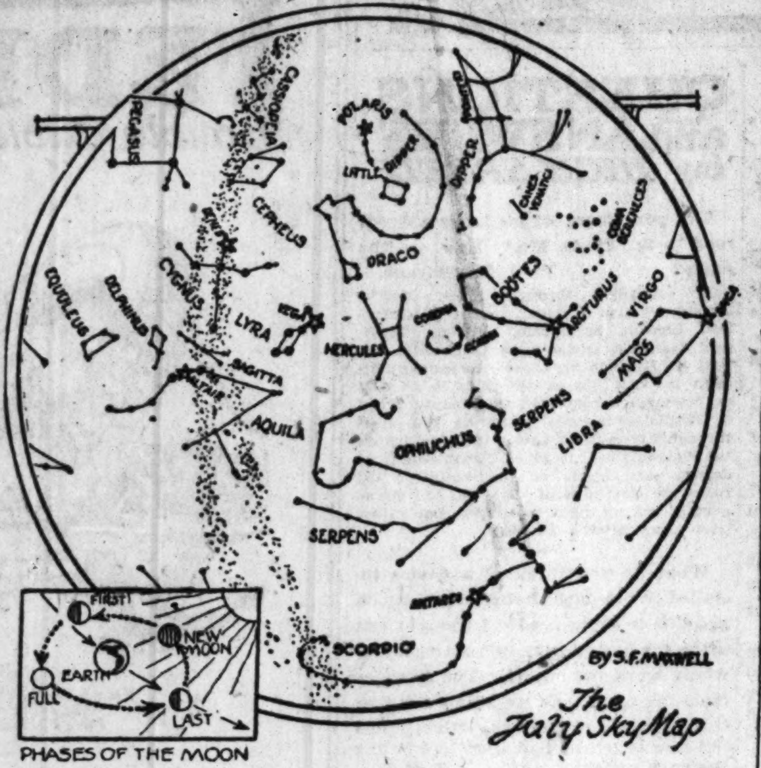
Go near the sun and the great globe swells in size until its volume fills a quarter, or a third, or even half of all the sky, but unless we enter the corona itself the heavens on the other hand are still unchanged and stygian black. Or, leave the sun, and it will shrink from small to smaller till it grows as starlike as the rest and is but one in the great swarm which fills the whole celestial vault. No matter how we go, this way or that, out in the void of space each star pours down its day, but none of them, nor all, can serve to drive away the enwrapping gloom.

But stand on any world and, as it spins you through its shadow and into light again, you will find there true night and day. Now if you watch this sphere while standing on some neighbor world the changes of day and night upon its surface are very plain to see.



PHASES OF THE MOON

We call these changing aspects phases, and we choose the moon because our satellite is the most convenient planet that we have to watch.

The phases of the moon: As the moon comes creeping farther eastward every night we first observe her as a thin hair crescent in the west, her two horns always turned outward. She is then between us and the sun, her shadow is toward us, and she is dark save for the rim of daylight showing on her nearer edge. She moves along her orbit, and in seven days she is at first quarter. Then half the side we see is day and half is night. At full moon we are between her and the sun, and in consequence we see her entire daylit face. At old moon she goes between us and the light, and on the following day emerges in the west as a new moon again.

The shadows of all the planets are long, narrow cones of darkness. They are invisible in the main because, save in the cases of Jupiter and Saturn, there seldom are any objects to be eclipsed by them and make their presence visible. The earth has a shadow 857,000 miles long. The moon, being so much smaller than we are, can boast of one only 232,000 miles in length—enough, we find, to reach the earth at favored times. When either the earth or the moon touches the shadow of the other an eclipse results.

Cushion
Truck Tires

More truck tire problems in more lines of business are answered by Firestone Cushion Tires than by any other type of tire.

They have all the cushioning power needed for proper protection to your load and truck. They have the wearing strength of regular solid equipment that means the maximum mileage.

12% to 27% More Rubber

Firestone Cushion Tires have a much greater bulk of material. That is one reason why they ride easier. It is obvious, too, that this means longer wear. The extra wide tread provides approximately 15% to 20% more area of road contact—giving firmer traction under all conditions.

300% More Efficient in Heat Radiation

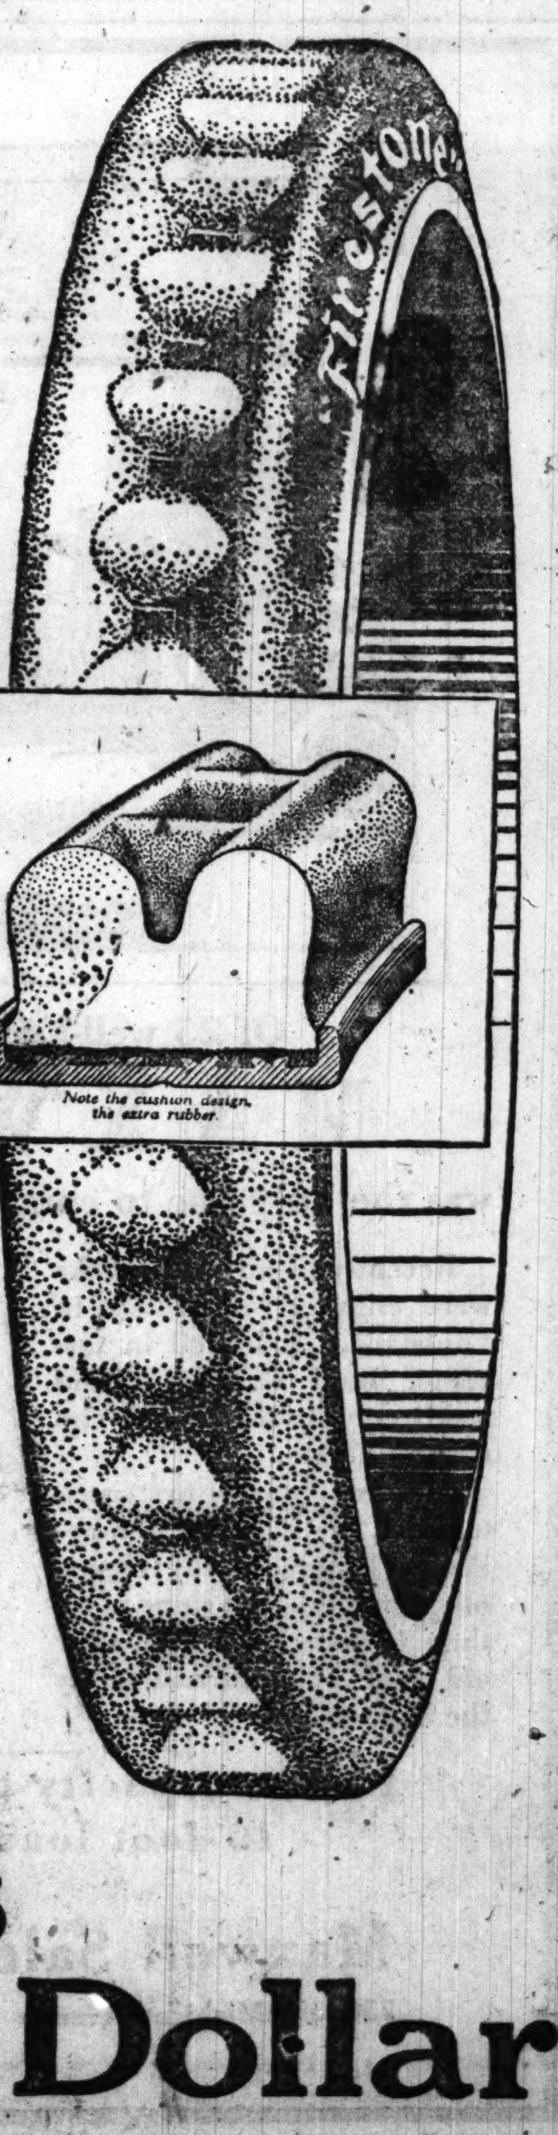
Overheating is a common danger to truck tire equipment. But Firestone engineers have evolved this shape that lessens the strain through a different flexing of the rubber.

Any Truck Immediately Equipped

Firestone Cushion Tires are built to fit any S. A. E. base. No wheel changes necessary. The nearest Firestone truck tire dealer can apply them to your units without delay or added expense.

If you want resiliency plus extra-long wear, and if you want the practical economy of most miles per dollar, put on Firestone Cushion Tires.

Firestone Cushion Tires in all sizes from 32x3 to 40x14.



Note the cushion design, the extra rubber.

ART

Striking Canvas by Josep Israels in Butler Group

By Eleanor Jewett.

Chill the fingers from the sea,
Winding close a fisher's shroud,
From the salt tears of the foam,
From the gray tears of the cloud—
Tell, chill fingers from the sea,
Was my fisherman too proud?

Hungry voices from the sea
Where the sullen waters toss,
On the rocks, Gethsemane,
Watchers by a fisher's cross—
May my lad come home to me—
God! Must there be always loss?

Broken bodies on the shore,
Broken bodies—beads of dew
Pearl the shining grass beside them,
Sea gulls circle into view.
So you took your vengeance, Neptune?
What did my man do to you?

BY all odds the most impressive picture among the paintings from the E. B. Butler loan collection, hung in gallery 26 in the east wing of the Art institute, is that by Josef Israels showing the interior of a fisherman's cottage. It is impressive not so much on any one technical count as because of the atmosphere of delayed tragedy which welds the sea, the sun, the cottage, and the waiting figures of women and child into one inseverable whole.

The tragedy waits on the head of a distant man, but the shadow of it lies heavy on the visible persons. The child hesitates in dread, with his spoon raised to his mouth; the old mother stands by the door, her handkerchief head bowed, her arms crossed on her breast, stolidly, sternly, waiting; the young wife and mother sits on the door sill, her elbow on her knee and her chin resting on her hand, looking far out over the sea, waiting; the sun shines through gray shadows upon the cottage walls and shifts the checkers of its earlier morning pattern on the floor; the sea moans and swells beyond the brown sands, lifting green, clenched fists to the sky and showing its teeth in white ruas of foam over the further stretches; both sun and sea are waiting—waiting for the thunder signal from the lowering clouds which will announce to the shivering, tremulous world that the storm has come.

Then woe to the fishing boat on the raging deep. Woe to the fisherman with his heart left behind him in the cottage on the shore. Woe to the women who hold his heart. The tragedy shall have been accomplished.

There are a number of excellent paintings in this collection. "The Ducal Palace, Venice," by Henri Le Sidoner, is a stippled canvas as beautiful as though an opal were split through its heart and the two lengths spread wide to catch and reflect the golden beams from low swung, yellow lamps. The palace is a place of veiled music and shimmering white marble with golden lights clustering near the water where it leans to whisper old tales to the canal that ripples in the starlight, bathing the feet of the building it loves.

"A Silver Morning" by George Inness is another misty snatch of May from the brush of the best loved of our landscape painters. A little pale blue stream slides between beds of pale green reeds. A man is fishing close to one bank. There are trees and a white cottage peeping through in the background. But the smell of the spring is what matters. The tricky, pungent, elusive, irresistible savor of spring softens the grass, fuzzes the harsh outlines of the trees, ties the fleecy sky to the still earth and makes the cottage and the fisherman necessary parts in the development of the greatest joke Nature ever plays on that harsh fellow, Jack Frost.

A landscape, with absolutely different qualities demanding appreciation is that by William Wendt, which gives us the west with its high, blue sky, bluer mountains, and yellow sloping plains. The stunted trees grouped here and there are like weary outposts of a company that fails in all but warning of its coming.

The canvas next to this is also a message from the west. Victor Higgins shows an interesting study of an Indian. It is interesting from the point of view of color and of expression. Mr. Higgins' work is too well known to need added description here. He knows these New Mexican subjects of his so well that he never fails in the exactness of his portrayal of them, and we, who follow his work, know through him these same subjects so well that were he to deviate a trifle from the straight road he has accustomed us to, I fear we should all stop him and say, "O no—you painted it that way the last time"—much in the fashion that a small child takes to insure the faithful recital-exact each time a long suffering parent tries to vary the history of Cinderella or the Three Bears.

A March landscape by Gardner Symons gives us the trees just struggling into leaf, the ground, rock strewn, just putting forth its first blades of grass.

A winter scene by Birge Harrison is good—so good that it makes the adjective pale in effect. The picture is a night scene. Through the deep white drifts the broken road and few stamped footprints lie blue shadowed in the faint light from the early evening stars. The houses are banked high with snow and the roofs are buried under a glistening mantle. A cheery glow shines from the windows. A single light beckoning from across the bay that lies beyond the snowdrifts points the solitude which stretches between.

Paul Dougherty shows a mood of threatened storm of about the same time in its breaking as that suggested in Israel's fisher cottage group. But here there is no human element introduced. The gray sea rolls in heavily, crashing in vast white breakers on the black rocks of the coast. A black sky lowers overhead. Through one open space in the turbulent clouds a stream of bright sunlight plays on the breakers. The effect is startling, terrifying—good.

* * *

W. M. Wendt has a marine. A deep blue, soft swelling, smiling sea rounds its way into shore where the low heaving waves break in infinitesimal tears of foam on the red rocks.

The towering wave painted at its height by Woodbury gives another mood of the sea which can, unlike the fabled panther, change its spots when it listeth.

Josef Israels, who is a master in the painting of peasants, has a canvas showing two of these earthfolk with scythes over their shoulders, tramping to work through a sleeping world, while the night just begins to break its gray clutch on the sky, and the sun shoots tentative flames of color across the dark east. The effect of the painting is of darkness, loneliness, mysticism—excellence.

Among the other pictures are paintings by Frank W. Benson, Fritz Thaulow, Weislenbruch, Bock, and Sir Frederick Leighton.

Paintings from the international exhibit held at Pittsburgh are to be shown in the east wing as soon as they can be hung after their arrival. They were expected this last week, but shipping complications delayed them.

An exhibit of boxes, labels, and cartons of artistic design is being held by the Alliance of Art and Industry in the Art institute at the far end of the east wing. The value of such an exhibit is, I should say, doubtful. Anything that works for a closer union of art with trade is good, but all art is not good art, and in various of the specimens shown in this exhibit of union, I question the goodness of art.

Costly as the Special Steels are in a
their use is rewarded in many ways

The statement often has been made that pound for pound the steels in a Maxwell equal those in any car built, regardless of price.

Those who sell steels to motor car manufacturers know how true this is.

To the layman it may seem far fetched, but if he will stop to consider the returns the makers of the Maxwell receive he will see the wisdom of this policy.

1. Such steels give extra strength and thus repairs are infrequent.

2. Such steels enable light weight construction, which means more miles per dollar than with most other cars.

3. The engine is not overloaded with useless weight and thus provides more horse power per pound of car weight, which means added snap in driving.

4. Tires are not burdened with superfluous pounds with obvious results.

Such virtues win many new friends each day for Maxwell, and therein are the makers of Maxwell rewarded.

For this automatically increases sales and lowers cost of manufacture as well as of marketing.

Hence the extra cost of such high priced materials is offset by the reduction in other costs.

That such a policy is convincing with the American public is evidenced by a growth in six years from 5,000 Maxwells a year to 100,000.

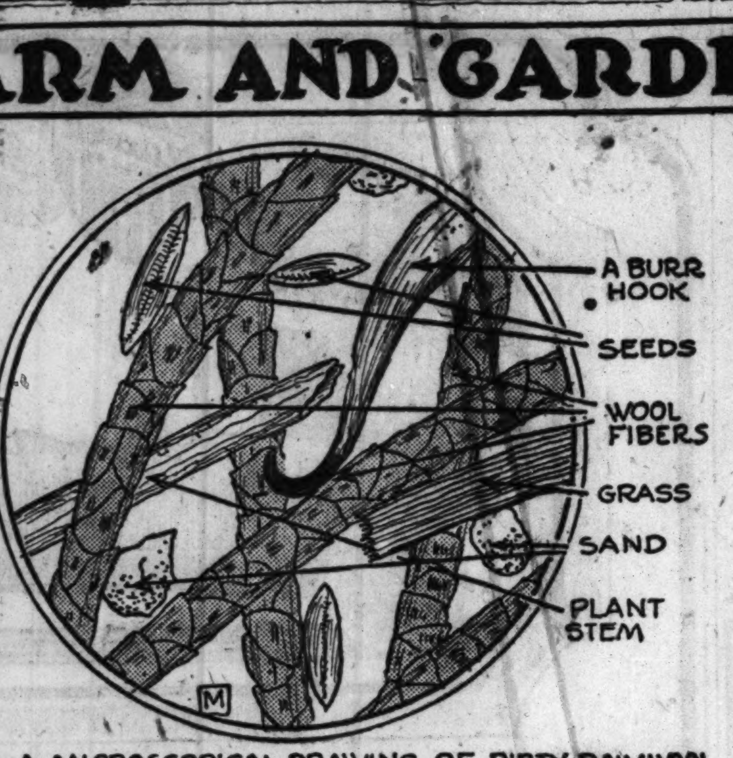
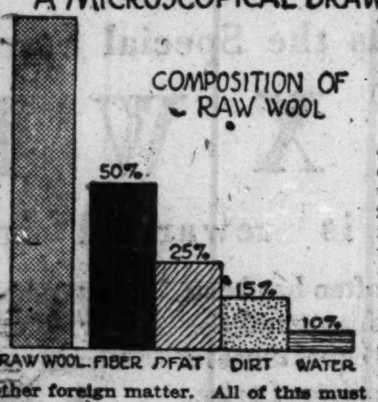
FARM AND GARDEN

Following Fleece from Sheep's Back to Your New Suit

By Frank Ridgway.



A MICROSCOPICAL DRAWING OF DIRTY RAW WOOl



SINCE woolen manufacture first emerged from the hearthstones of American homes in colonial days, scouring wool by machinery has been one of the important stations along the road from wool to cloth. The United States boasts of approximately 60,000,000 sheep, an annual production of 250,000,000 pounds of wool, and every fleece is washed or scoured thoroughly before it is woven into the cloth from which your suit of clothes is made.

In the days of the old fashioned spinning wheel and loom, washing wool in tubs, made from vinegar barrels sawed half in two, was a common scene on the average farm, but today this tedious job has been crowded back into the corner of industry where the general public knows little or nothing about it. Wool growers themselves are not familiar with what happens to the fleece from the time it leaves the sheep's back until it is returned to them a few months later in the shape of a coat, a pair of trousers, and a vest.

Scouring Causes Shrinkage.

"I have heard a great deal about wool shrinkage," remarked a grower who recently visited one of Chicago's wool scouring plants, "but I never knew until now that it takes seven pounds of grease wool as it comes from the sheep's back to make a suit of clothes like this one I have on." He had just been told that approximately one-half the weight of wool was lost in the process of scouring—removing grease, dirt, and other foreign matter.

"As a rule it takes about three and a half pounds of grease wool to make a suit, and the amount of grease wool will depend upon the amount of shrinkage involved in scouring," explained W. C. Coffee, professor of sheep husbandry, University of Illinois. "For example, some wools are very light in shrinkage, losing not more than 44 per cent, while others will run as high as 80 per cent. If wool shrinks 50 per cent in scouring, then it would take as much as seven pounds to make a suit."

Preparing for the Spinners.

Wool is placed on the market in the greasy state. It often contains, in addition to grease and fine dirt, burrs, straw, hay, chaff, manure, grass and weed seeds, sand, paint, and various other foreign matter. All of this must be removed before it is ready for the spinners. It is the foreign matter and wool grease that constitute the shrinkage. This varies considerably with the different kinds of fleeces, and no exact figures are obtainable. The average shrinkage may be roughly estimated to consist of about 25 per cent wool grease, 15 per cent vegetable matter and dirt, and 10 per cent moisture, assuming that wool fiber is 50 per cent.

When the wool arrives at the mills or scouring plants, the first process consists of sorting it into different grades, one fleece being often separated into six different qualities. As soon as this is done it is ready to be cleaned or scoured.

Different Cleansing Processes.

Wool scouring is in reality a "wash day" on a large scale. The condition of the fleece will determine the different cleansing processes the wool is taken through. To remove the grease and dirt it is passd through a succession of huge tubs or vats of the scouring machinery. The tubs are filled with warm, soft water containing textile soap.

After passing the wool through a duster where 15 to 20 per cent of the dust is knocked out, it is dropped into the tubs and washed. It is kept moving through the tubs by means of automatic rakes, passing the wool through wringers, where the water is squeezed out as it goes from one tub to another. It is carried from vat to vat until finally it emerges at the other end relieved of the animal grease and dirt. From the last tub it goes through the drying machine, where most of the moisture is removed. It is then ready for the carding process.

The work of removing grease and fine particles of dirt is a fairly simple matter, but the whole process of cleaning wool becomes more complicated when it comes to getting rid of burrs and similar vegetable matter. Modern methods are much improved over the old way of combing and picking foreign matter out of the fleece by hand. If the wool contains burrs and similar vegetable matter it is run through the burr picker. Much, but not all, of the material is taken out in this way. The weeds and chaff left in the wool are removed by a simple chemical process. The wool is dipped into a bath containing about a 10 per cent solution of sulphuric acid, saturating the vegetable matter. It is then run through a centrifugal extractor, where the acid is practically all removed. It is dried with hot air.

Removing the Charcoal.

The action of the heat as the wool passes through the dryer changes the vegetable matter into charcoal, which is easily crushed and broken into fine particles when run through rollers. The charcoal is taken out as the wool passes through the duster on its way to the scouring tubs where it is washed and dried in the usual way. Here the acid is neutralized. The acid weakens the wool fibers slightly, but its use is justified because the wool would otherwise be wasted. Stained tags remain discolored. Even where the wool is scoured in water at a temperature of 120 degrees Fahrenheit the stain is not removed.

Dust that comes from the wool is collected and sent back to the farm, where it is used as fertilizer. Wool grease is another byproduct of the scouring plants. The water used in the scouring process is saved, and the wool grease or fat is extracted by means of a large cream separator. This "recovered grease," "brown grease," that comes from the sheep's wool, when purified and mixed with a small amount of water, is known as lanolin, which is the basis of ointments. It is used extensively in this country in making face creams.

During the war the government took over the entire output in the United States. Lanolin was employed on the battle fronts to counteract the dangerous effects of Germans' mustard gas on the skin. Owing to its soothing property and the ease with which it penetrates the skin lanolin is valued highly in making facial preparations, and it is sometimes mixed with such substances as vaseline.

Foreign Matter Easily Detected.

Much of the wool shrinkage could be prevented if fleece growers realized the importance of handling sheep so their coats would be kept clean. Too many make the mistake of turning their flocks into fields where burrs grow in abundance or allow the sheep to run under feed racks where the fleeces are filled with weed seeds and chaff. There are some who sell their annual clip with the burrs rolled up in the center of the fleece, and the sale is made with the grower's apologies or with the thought that the buyer is paying them a good price for weeds mixed in with the wool.

But the farmer is usually the one who suffers, for the buyer is, in most cases, skilled in handling such fleeces and can readily detect foreign matter. No matter how much the grower gets a pound for his wool the true value is based on the number of pounds of clean or scoured wool. The buyer knows all of the steps from the grower to the mill and deducts for shrinkage and handling—he doesn't buy weeds and other foreign matter. Of course, the foreign matter goes with the fleece, but the proper alowance is made.

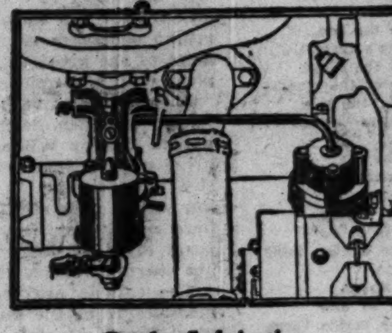
SAXON

Duplex engineering

—double oil control for double work



Duplex Lubrication —another Saxon advantage

Motor speed and motor work are two distinct functions—double duties forced upon every motor.

Saxon does both efficiently, because it has two oil-controls operating within the motor. In addition to the conventional control, which supplies oil only according to motor speed, Saxon also has a patented automatic vacuum control, which supplies oil according to actual work—regardless of motor speed.

Saxon

This is the scientific principle of Duplex Engineering (for Duplex means double) as applied to Saxon's motor. This double control enables Saxon to meet every lubrication demand. It avoids under-lubrication when the motor is pulling through deep sand at slow speed and over-lubrication when the motor is skimming along the boulevard at high speed.

Every vital factor of the Saxon motor, every important feature of the chassis is Duplex. When you see these patented features in our showroom, and hear them explained, you will realize why Saxon is two years ahead of present standards.

Upon request we will gladly send you "Brass Tacks," an interesting and informative booklet containing the story of Duplex Engineering

Fun at him—but he's the boy

No more BENT radius rods

No more BROKEN crank cases

CAR STEERS EASY, HOLDS THE ROAD

SMOOTH SPEED ON ROUGH ROADS, SAFE AND EASY

FITS ANY FORD—INSTALLED IN THIRTY MINUTES

WARREN Radius Rod Cushion for FORDS

$10.00

Money Back If Not Satisfied

Every Ford Owner, Dealer, Mechanic appreciates this great device at sight. They can see at once what it will do and how it will eliminate every possibility of a broken crank case or a bent radius rod.

• But what they don't know until they've ridden in a Ford equipped with the WARREN RADIUS ROD CUSHION is what a surprising difference this simple device makes in the Ford's riding qualities.

It makes the car ride like velvet over the roughest roads—eliminates vibration—and all because it cushions a part that is subjected to constant road shocks. But this isn't all that the WARREN RADIUS ROD CUSHION accomplishes.

Auxiliary Radius Rods—Extra Motor Supports Now Unnecessary

It takes away the need for cumbersome rattling devices that are designed to reinforce. It makes the car steer easily and safely and hug the road like a big, low-hung, high-priced car.

A ride of a block will absolutely convince you that these claims are cold facts. It has already convinced hundreds of others in the short time that this great device has been on the market. See what these dealers, who know cars, and mechanics say. Then read what enthusiastic owners have written in of their own free will.

Read What These Dealers Say

Saves Other Accessories

"We find it is not necessary to install Shock Absorbers, Stabilizers, or Auxiliary Radius Rods. This device absorbs all forward shocks and prevents the wheels from locking, it also holds the wheels in the center of the road. This device will be of great service to any Ford owner and we will be very glad to recommend it at any time."

Smooths Rough Roads

"Great improvement in driving over rough pavement and chuck holes, inasmuch as it seems to absorb all the shock received by the front system, which shocks were very noticeable before the installation of your article. I believe this article would be a great asset to any user of Ford cars or trucks in the way of saving crank case trouble."

Great Results Obtained

"We have tried your radius rod cushion and are pleased to say that we are greatly satisfied with the results obtained. It is just the accessory for eliminating all forward shocks, and reduces motor vibration."

Saves Wear and Breakage

"After thoroughly trying out your radius rod cushion I find that my car takes the bumps and rough roads much better and there is no question in my mind but what it will eliminate breaking of crank arms. It will also be a great saving on the wear and tear of front system, as a large number of spindle arm and body bushings wear but very rapidly, due to severe jolts. I firmly believe a Ford owner would not hesitate in having one of these cushions installed on his car if he knew what a money and time saver it would be."

Read What These Ford Owners Say

Gives It Hard Test

"I want you to know how well pleased I am with the Radius Rod Cushion purchased of you. In trying it out I ran the front wheels over a curb six inches high (twenty-eight times with no damage to any part of the car.) The car rides better on any kind of a road, good or bad. The Radius Rod Cushion intercepts all road shocks, making the car drive with the same ease and smoothness that attends the driving of heavier and more costly cars.

"Yours very truly, JAMES E. LANTZ,

"Foreman of Bureau of Engineering, City of Chicago."

One of the Best

"The writer had an installation made some time ago of your Radius Rod Cushion for Fords. It might be of interest to you to know that I believe this to be one of the best appliances that was ever attached to Ford motor car. It is surprising what little concussion one receives in driving over severely rough roads with this attachment. There is no doubt in my mind but what there will be no further broken crank cases or crank case hangers, if this cushion is applied. Wishing you success, I am Very truly yours, BARRETT VARNISH CO., R. R. Brown."

Concrete Facts from Truck Owner

"We have had one of your Radius Rod Cushions on our Ford Truck for the past month, and the driver has just given me a report of its operation, which we are glad to submit for your information. Shortly before installing the Radius Rod Cushion, we were put to an expense of $42.50 replacement of broken crank case, which was due to the excessive thrust from front axle to the crank case. The driver also reported bent Radius Rods at different times. Since the Radius Rod Cushion was installed, there is a very noticeable difference in the riding and handling of the truck. In driving over bumpy roads, railroad crossings, etc., the usual vibration through steering column is reduced to a minimum and the truck steers much easier. We believe you have a device that will entirely do away with cracked crank cases, bent radius rods, etc. We might add that we took off the auxiliary radius rod when we attached your Cushion.

"Yours truly, UP-TO-DATE MACHINE WORKS, Joe Martino, Pres."

Smooth as a Packard

"Just a word with reference to what the writer thinks of your Radius Rod Cushion for Ford cars. Great covers the situation in a word. Wouldn't be without one as long as I drive a 'John Henry.' A Packard has nothing on my boat for smooth running minus all usual front jolts one has to contend with on a Ford minus your Radius Rod Cushion. Your respectfully, MORRIS S. SILVER."

Biggest $10 Worth

"I want to say that the Radius Rod Cushion which I bought from you is one of the best things I have ever seen worked out on a Ford. This is the fifth Ford car I have had and I honestly believe that any Ford owner's best investment and the first he should make for his car, is to buy one of these Radius Rod Cushions; as it is the biggest ten dollars' worth he will ever get. I thank you for your work in making the driving easier, more comfortable and greatly lessening the chance of breakage.

"Very truly yours, CHARLES BORRESEN, Illustration Studios."

A Mileage Test

"I have given my Ford Sedan about four thousand miles riding since installing your Radius Rod Cushion, and I want to say that money could not buy this cushion if I could not replace it. It certainly makes a Packard out of a Ford so far as riding is concerned. In going over bumpy roads I do not experience that vibration through the steering wheel that I formerly did, and am quite sure that I will never have any more trouble from bent Radius Rods or broken crank cases. I will be glad to show and recommend this cushion to all of my friends.

"Yours truly, R. C. SCHULTZ, American Security Credit Co."

Gillette

Buy one Gillette Tire—two—three or a set.

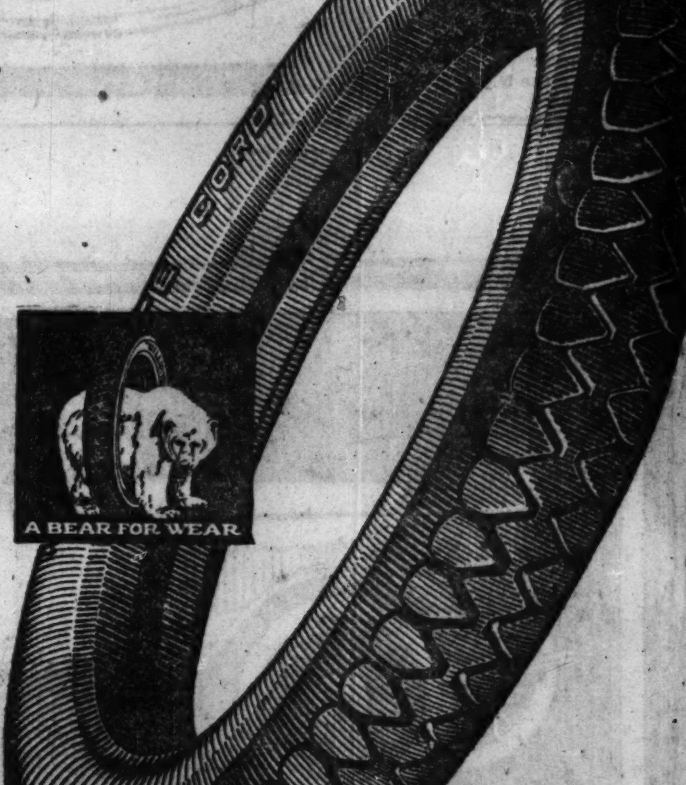
You will get maximum mileage at minimum cost from every one of them.

—buy a thousand Gillette Tires—or a thousand sets. You will get the same thing. Most in mileage for your money.

You don't have to trust to luck. It's never a case of a good tire or two—then a bad one. Every Gillette is the best a tire can be made. There is but one standard of quality—the finest. There is but one length of service—the longest.

That's what brought world fame to Gillette Tires before they had been on the market twelve months.

Customers were soon numbered by hundreds of thousands. They obtained better service and more of it than ever before. They come back. Rebought. Obtained the same kind of service. The result was—the second year sale of Gillette Tires was greater than the second year sale of any other tire ever produced.



The most phenominal sales record ever made—due absolutely to the greatest mileage for the greatest number of users.

That is the strongest guarantee ever "written" for tire quality. It assures as nothing else can—that in every Gillette Tire you ever buy you will secure satisfactory mileage. There's "even" excellence—uniformity of quality—and mileage that can be had only through the exclusive Gillette Chilled Rubber Process—an advanced method of manufacture that toughens rubber as iron is toughened when changed to steel. There's unparalleled road resistance—absolute dependability—little or no tread or fabric separation. No deterioration due to weather conditions—nothing but wear quality. Always your money's worth in mileage. Try them out. Put a couple on your car now. See how much longer they wear—better they serve. And how much you save in cost per mile. All sizes. Cord—fabric and non-skid. Gillette Rubber Co., Eau Claire, Wis.

EXCLUSIVE PARLOR FURNITURE.

At our manufacturing plant we have a fine selection of exclusive parlor furniture in overstuffed and cane suites. Our work is of the highest grade as we employ skilled workmen who have had 25 years of experience in manufacturing high grade parlor furniture.

When you buy from us you buy direct from the manufacturer, eliminating the retailer's profit, which means a saving of over half to you. We are selling high grade overstuffed sets in velour, tapestry, and mohair at less than half price.

3 piece overstuffed pillow arm suite, covered with a webline blue mohair velour, sold everywhere not less than $750; we are offering this week as a sacrifice less than factory cost, $290.00.

We also have a large assortment of cane suites in overstuffed odd chairs and rockers covered in tapestry, as low as $45.00.

A small deposit will hold goods for future delivery at our warehouse.

Our factory is located only twenty minutes from the loop, away from the high rent district. We are 1½ blocks south of Diversey-pkwy.

PIERCE ARROW ROADSTER

Late model 6-38, series 4, pronounced by those who know as the best model ever turned out by the Pierce-Arrow factory.

A Pierce-Arrow roadster is a rare offering—this one having been specially built. It answers the demand for a swift, snappy production—a truly individual car.

Long, low, rakish lines, deep leather seats for two passengers. Folding rear compartment affords luggage space and a comfortable seat for two extra passengers; natural wood wheels with new cord tires.

All these give to the eye the promise that is more than realized when the car is swung into the roadway and given its head on the way to the golf club or some important business engagement.

This wonderful car has been used so little that in its original finish it presents the appearance of new. Mechanically it functions so perfectly and quietly that you are unmindful of its action.

1920 Roamer Sport

Brand new. One of the prettiest Roamer cars in Chicago [which is saying a great deal for "America's smartest car"].

Tan body, fenders, upholstery and top. White wire wheels. The blending of colors in this beautiful car shows the touch of an artist.

Continental motor, 5 new Firestone cord tires, tonneau windshield, bumper, spot light, clock, cut out, motormeter, etc.

Driven just enough to take away that stiffness usually found in a carefully made car.

By acting quickly you can not only obtain immediate delivery of this very scarce model, but we can save you some money.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

MADISON STREET TO HAVE 1,400 SEAT THEATER

Part of New $2,000,000 Morrison Annex.

BY AL CHASE.

At last Madison street is going to have a summer chilled, winter warmed, and all the time well ventilated movie theater, with 1,400 wide, comfortable seats, with space enough between rows to permit getting in and out without breaking the legs of those already seated. It'll be the new Rose theater and will occupy most of the main and mezzanine floors of the new $2,000,000 third section of the Morrison hotel, plans for which have been drawn by Architects Holabird & Roche. The decorations and lighting effects will be unusually elaborate.

Instead of the usual few cubic feet of vitiated air allotted to the film fan by some managers each patron of the new Rose will be allowed 35,000 cubic feet of fresh air every sixty seconds — chilled in summer to around 69 degrees, according to A. P. Roemer, chief engineer of the Morrison hotel.

Food Handling Made Easy.

The new theater will be about forty-seven feet wide and around 140 feet deep. It will supplant the Alcazar—a small movie and one of the oldest on Madison street—and the present Rose, which occupies the old Edelweiss cafe. The entire new hotel section will front sixty-seven feet on Madison street and is 190 feet deep.

Some other features of the new section of the Morrison will be a complete and elaborate Turkish bath establishment in the basement, together with a large barber shop, and in the subbasement one of the most compact and comprehensive food receiving and storage plants of any hotel in the world. There will be separate good sized refrigerated rooms for fish, fruit, poultry, vegetables, milk and cream, butter and eggs, and fruits. A large room in the center will be the headquarters of the storekeeper, and from it he will deliver foods as called for by the kitchens.

Two Floors for Servants.

Two complete floors will be used for servants' quarters. They will have their private lounge, dining rooms, a cafeteria, reading room, and other conveniences. Floors B and third will be used for the hotel help other than the kitchen and restaurant men and women, who live outside.

A ladies' entrance to the hotel from Madison street, long needed, according to President Harry Moir of the hotel company, now will be possible with the building of the third section. In addition to the Rose theater lobby and the women's entrance, there will be two shops on the main floor.

500 Guest Rooms.

About 500 guest rooms will be on the upper floors, giving the hotel a total of 1,500 rooms. Each floor, of course, will be cut through to the present building. Eventually it is planned to connect the upper floors of the Hartford building with the new addition and convert offices into about 200 more rooms. Still later, of course, the Hartford will be wrecked to make way for a twenty-one story addition, but before that is done an annex will be built on Clark street.

When all the contemplated additions are built, the Morrison, now the largest hotel west of New York, will be the largest in the world—unless some one else builds faster.

LELAND AVENUE BOOSTERS BUSY

In line with the movement now under way to boost Leland avenue as one of the leading business thoroughfares of the Wilson-Sheridan district comes the announcement by H. W. Croxton, who has just purchased two apartment properties on that street, that he will convert them into hotels with stores on the first floor.

He purchased from Joseph Hodek the building at 925-27 Leland, 54x125, at a reported $35,000, and will have this remodeled into a thirty-six room hotel. This is about 400 feet east of Sheridan road.

From the estate of Roswell Miller, former chairman of the board of directors of the St. Paul railroad, he bought the 143x62 at the southeast corner of Leland and Kenmore, and will have it remodeled into a sixty-five room hotel with five stores fronting on Leland, at a cost of around $35,000. Nielsen & Schneider are preparing plans. A. G. Schneider, formerly of Whiteside & Wentworth, and now with Charles E. Bates & Co., was broker.

Ravenswood Evangelical Plans $100,000 Church

Preliminary to erecting a $100,000 church edifice, the Ravenswood Evangelical church, now at Mohawk street and Garfield avenue, has bought 100x120 at the northeast corner of Hoyne and Pensacola avenues, and will build a $48,000 structure this summer. Later it will be used for Sunday school purposes and the main auditorium will be built. Fred W. Thompson is architect. The church site was bought from Emil Kroll for $11,000. The Rev. Alfred E. Meyer is pastor.

Above is the $500,000 nine story office building to be erected at 458-68 South State street, by William V. Kelley, from plans by George C. Nimmons & Co. The upper floors will house several board of education bureaus. There will be high class shops on the first floor. Work will begin at once.

JANITOR'S SUITE FURROWS BROW OF CHURCH ARCHITECT

Janitors may possibly have some of the worries that the rest of us ordinary mortals suffer with, but the rent problem isn't one of 'em. In the plans for the new two story $70,000 parish house for the Ravenswood Methodist Episcopal church, at the northeast corner of Hermitage and Sunnyside avenues, William C. Jones has furrowed his architectural brow more over the four rooms to be occupied by the church janitor than any other part of the building. His lordship has very thoroughly seen to it that his quarters aren't by any chance left out.

In addition to his four room apartment there will be a 40x70 gymnasium, with a stage and a balcony and a 20 foot ceiling; twenty-five class rooms for Sunday school use; several parlors, and a kitchen. The building will be 54x129 and work will start on it at once. It will be just north of the main church edifice and connected with it.

Later on a memorial hall and parsonage is planned for the lot just east of the church, which already has been purchased. It is expected that this will care for public gatherings now to be held in the new gymnasium.

Mortgage Bankers' Club Elects More Officers

The following officers were elected at the meeting of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' club last week at the Union League club: First vice president, E. H. Seeman of E. G. Pauling & Co.; second vice president, Edgar Greenebaum, in charge of real estate loan department of Greenebaum Sons Bank and Trust company; secretary, W. J. Hoppe, in charge of real estate loan department of Union Trust company. Other officers were elected at the recent annual meeting.

An executive committee was appointed made up as follows: C. W. Hoff, W. J. Moore, Francis Lackner, A. W. Stanmeyer, and Byron Kanaley.

The next meeting of the club is scheduled for early in the fall.

Plan Big Garage and Motor Salesroom in Edgewater

One of the largest garages and motor salesrooms on the north side is planned by George Spies of Spies Bros., jewelers, in Broadway, 150 feet, west front, 100 feet north of Balmoral. One hundred feet of the frontage is 150 feet deep and fifty feet of it is 232 feet deep.

It will be known as the Broadmoor garage, and will be ready for use in September. Mr. Spies has leased it to a corporation for a term of ten years at a net rental of $14,000. William L. Wallen & Sons have negotiated a building loan of $85,000 for Mr. Spies with the Mid-West Real Estate Mortgage Bond company at 7 per cent, eight years.

John B. Livingston Takes Title to Pugh Properties

The Pugh Terminal properties of Lundin & Co. were transferred by master in chancery procedings on July 2 to John B. Livingston for $800,000, the transfer being filed yesterday. Mr. Livingston bid in the properties on Feb. 11, 1919. The term of redemption recently expired and the title was formally transferred to him. The last addition of what is now called the North Pier Terminal warehouse was recently finished, at a cost of around $500,000. The entire warehouse is claimed to be the largest of its kind in the world.

Italian Society Plans Theater and Clubhouse

The Circolo Filodrammatico Etruria, an Italian society, has purchased the southeast corner of South Fifty-first avenue and West Fourteenth street from Giulio Pagni for $18,000 and expects to remodel the building into a modern theater and clubhouse. Frank J. Petru was broker.

A HUMDINGER!

That's what the stag outing of the Chicago Real Estate board to Michigan City next Thursday on the good ship Florida, is going to be, according to predictions of the house committee, with "nine hours of joy, rest and recreation."

The fun begins when the Florida leaves the dock at Michigan avenue at 10 a. m. sharp. There'll be three hours on the lake going; three hours of climbing sand dunes, cards, swimming, baseball and other sports, and a scrumptous shore dinner furnished by a Chicago catering company, and then at 4 p. m. the Florida will start for home, getting here around 7 p. m. if the schedule goes according to Louis B. Beardslee, James B. Kaine and Frank G. Saida.

Secretary Herbert A. Cole is busy making reservations. If you're interested in statistics the cost will be 44½ cents per hour—or four berries for everything. Better call up Central 2904 and get a reservation.

CHICAGOANS ARE PRIZE WINNERS

Second and fourth places in the architectural prize competition to determine the architect for the proposed $5,000,000 Milwaukee county hospital were won by Chicago firms.

Richard E. Schmidt, Garden & Martin of this city were awarded the second prize of $1,500. Fourth place and a prize of $1,000 were awarded to Clare C. Hosmer and William H. Furst, associated architects, also from Chicago.

Van Ryn & De Gelleke of Milwaukee won the first prize of $5,000. Erich Gugler of New York was third, and Robert Messmer of the near-beer city was fifth. There were fifteen contestants.

Work Begun on $150,000 Ravenswood Postoffice

Work is now under way on the new Ravenswood postoffice station at 2311-19 Lawrence avenue, lot 100x122. The total cost of land, building, and equipment is estimated at around $150,000, and will be finished by Oct. 1, according to W. Scott Armstrong, consulting engineer and architect. The building has been leased to the government for twenty years at a gross annual rental of $16,600. The net annual income will be $13,500. The Madison and Kedzie State bank has underwritten a $75,000 bond issue on the property, seven and one-half years at 6 per cent.

RECORD REAL ESTATE BOND SALES.

Walter J. Greenebaum, cashier of Greenebaum Sons Bank and Trust company, reports that the sale of first mortgage real estate bonds during the first part of July has exceeded all previous records for a similar period.

SOUTH STATE ST. TO GET $500,000 OFFICE BUILDING

Result of Improvement Body's Campaign.

A modern fireproof nine story office building to cost over half a million dollars is to be built at once at 458-68 South State street, between Van Buren and Harrison streets, on a lot fronting 75 feet on State and 100 feet deep to the alley.

This modest announcement comes from the offices of the South State Street Improvement association, via Leo Heller, executive secretary of the organization, glowing with enthusiastic predictions of what it will mean for the district south of Van Buren along State, for long years the home of honky tonks, the suggestive postal card shop, the noisy shooting gallery, the hobo flop, the lurid burlesque theater, and other questionable establishments.

Calls It Entering Wedge.

"It's the entering wedge of big business which will rejuvenate the street," said Mr. Heller. "All the big property owners long ago agreed to bar questionable tenants, but only a few have erected better buildings for better tenants.

"Now William V. Kelley has had plans drawn by George C. Nimmons & Co., architects, and work will start at once. The board of education is to occupy all the floors above the first for the use of the bureaus of the educational department now at the Jones school. The street floor will be rented to high grade shops."

"Mr. Kelley is what I would call a successful optimist," said Clark C. Wright of George C. Nimmons & Co. "If he has faith in property he owns he backs it up with improvements and usually influences his neighbors into the same enthusiastic regard for their property."

Will House School Bureaus.

Some of the school activities to be housed in the new Kelley building will be the bureau of compulsory education, employment certificate bureau, vocational guidance bureau, and the bureau of child study. Part of the building will be used for a continuation school. There also will be a museum for exhibiting work of the pupils in the Chicago public schools.

The South State Street Improvement association comprises practically 100 per cent of the owners of the property between Jackson boulevard and Polk street and many owners down to Twenty-sixth street. Philetus W. Gates is president. Mr. Kelley was formerly president.

FORD ROOFING MOVES OFFICES FROM ST. LOUIS

Chicago is to get the executive offices of the Ford Roofing Products company, now in St. Louis, within a few days, and probably within a year a million dollar plant will be built in this city.

The company, which has factories in Vandalia, Ill., and York, Pa., and a paper mill at Clinton, Ia., will occupy office space in the Conway building. According to Edward R. Litsinger, member of the board of review and the vice president and treasurer of the company, the Ford concern has just increased its capital from $1,000,000 to $3,500,000. It is now enlarging its Chicago warehouse space, but will not build its new plant here until building conditions improve.

J. W. Ford, president of the company, is to move from St. Louis and occupy the twelve room stone residence at 1505 North Dearborn parkway, which he bought from Harvey S. Austrian, through Harold Bradley & Co., for $29,000.

Rush Work on Chicago's 2 Biggest Hotel Projects

Chicago's two biggest hotel projects now under way—the Drake and the Chicago Beach Annex—are both up to the roof. At the Drake, designed by Marshall & Fox, concrete work is up to the top on both wings with forms up for the roof, and plastering up to the third floor. Work started more than a year ago, but difficulty in getting materials delayed things considerably last year.

Concrete work on the roof of the Beach Annex has been poured and brick work is up to the eleventh floor, with plastering up to the sixth. According to George C. Nimmons & Co., architects, the hotel may be finished by Oct. 1. Work began last November.
